SCISSORINCTUMS.

—Compulsory education is asked for by several counties of West Virginia.

—It is claimed that drawing is successfully taught in the public schools of Cleveland.

—The fellow who asked for a lock of his girl's hair was informed that "it costs money, hair does."

—The third husband of a fascinating woman spent his last breath in imploring her not to marry till after the funeral.

—An "experienced" coquette once said to a young man who touched her foot under the table: "Please don't; my heart is old and my boots are new."

—A negro woman in Pitt county, N. C., recently gave birth to triplets; the first was white, the second mullato, and third black. This all comes from Civil Rights.

—"If women are ever allowed to vote what do you suppose will be the fashion for voting dresses?" asked a fashionable Brooklyn girl of her dressmaker the other day.

—"Now let us talk of your business affairs," said a sharp Connecticut girl to a young fellow after he had proposed marriage to her in a long address filled with expressions of passionate love.

—A young lady in Indiana got up at midnight, foddered the cows, split some wood, and got the water on to wash before she awoke. That's the kind of a girl for a man to marry. She'd go out some night and hoe two acres of potatoes.

—One of Brigham Young's wives told him the other day that when she heard that the Sultan of Turkey had 700 wives, she felt mortified to think that her husband had allowed an outlandish foreigner to beat him so badly in that line. There is wifely pride for you.

—Pudding time is precious time.—Mamma: "Do you like this pudding, Frankey?" (No answer.) "You should say, 'yes, mamma, dear.'" Little Frankey (who is three and a half years old): "But you told me yes'day I shouldn't talk when eating; 'sides dis is too good to lose time over."

—The Ohio State Journal tells of a village clergyman who, visiting a parishioner suffering from a lingering disease, expressed to his wife a hope that she sometimes spoke to him of the future. "I do indeed, sir," was the reply. "Often and often I wakes him in the night and says: 'John, John, you little think of the torture as is prepared for you.'"

—Yesterday morning a policeman was called in to quell a family disturbance on Seventh street and, as he looked at the broken furniture, ruined stove, and bleeding man and wife, he asked of the man, "Do you have these spells often?" "Well, no," answered the man; "my wife's health is so poor that she will only strike back occasionally."

—A lady who had been teaching her little four-year-old boy the elements of arithmetic was astounded by his running and propounding the following problem: "Mamma, if you had three butterflies, and each butterfly had a bug in his ear, how many butterflies would you have?" The mother is still at work on the problem.

—"That's a very fine dog you've got there, my lad," said an appreciative old gentleman to a pensive-looking urchin, who was dragging after him a reluctant Scotch terrier with a rope about his neck. "You bet. He's a werry nice dorg, he is. I calls him 'Celsior." "Ah, Excelsior—you must have been reading Longfellow?" "Never heard of the feller afore. I calls him 'Celsior 'cause he allers pints his tail up."

—Scene, New York. Little girl, four years old, playing about the room, suddenly breaks out with: "Mamma, did you ever fall in love?" "Yes." "Whom, did you ever fall in love with?" "With your father, my dear." "Well, did papa ever fall in love?" "Yes." "Who did he fall in love with?" "With me, I suppose." "Well, how did you both get out?" Before the mother has had time to solve this conundrum, the little interrogator solves it for herself: "O! I guess I know. You took papa by the hand and papa took you by the hand and you helped each other out."

Mince Pies.

Five pounds lean beef, three pounds suet, or two and a half pounds, as you like; two pounds raisins, two pounds currants, one pound of citron, three or four pounds of sugar to taste, quart of good brandy, spice and lemon juice to taste.

The above is to keep on hand awhile and as you make the pies add chopped apples say two medium sized ones to a pie.

HEALTH! BEAUTY!!

STRONG AND PURE RICH BLOOD—INCREASE OF FLESH AND WEIGHT—CLEAR SKIN AND BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION SECURED TO ALL.

DR. RADWAY'S Sarsaparillian Resolvent

HAS MADE THE MOST ASTONISHING CURES SO QUICK, SO RAPID ARE THE CHANGES THE BODY UNDERGOES, UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF THIS TRULY WONDERFUL MEDICINE, THAT

Every Day an Increase in Weight is Seen and Felt.

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphilis, Consumption, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the System, Sore Eyes, Strumous Discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss or Sperm, and all wastes of the life principle are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.

If the patient, daily becoming reduced by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, succeeds in arresting these wastes, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure.

Not only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excel all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional and Skin Diseases; but it is the only positive cure for

Kidney and Bladder Complaints, Urinary and Womb diseases, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brick dust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like white silk, or there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and white bone-dust deposits, and when there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the small of the back and along the loins. Tumor of 12 Years Growth Cured by Radway's Ready Resolvent.

BEVERLY, MASS., July 18, 1869.

DR. RADWAY:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried everything that was recommended; but nothing helped me I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief; and there is not a sign of a tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter and happier than I have for twelve years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the bowels, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

MEDICAL.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS!

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete polume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any interior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

Terms.

One Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE one year, the Chromo and the Art Union.

$6 00 per Annum, in Advance.

(No charge for postage.)

Specimen Copies of THE ALDINE, 50 Cents.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtainable only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rates; cash for subscriptions must be sent to the publishers direct, or handed to the local canvasser, without responsibility to the publishers, except in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the fac-simile signature of James Sutton, President.

Canvassers Wanted.

Any person wishing to act permanently as a local canvasser will receive full and prompt information by applying to

THE DRUNKARD'S WIFE.

BY FRANCIS S. SMITH.

I am dying, Willie, dying,
Death's dew is on my brow
Come closer—let me gaze on you,
For you are sober now.
Your eyes beam kindly on me—
Your voice is soft and low—
And your presence brings to light again
The blessed long ago.

I'm thinking of the happy time
Ere you and I were wed,
When daily blessings seemed to fall
Like incense on my head—
When great joy filled my bosom,
And my step was light and free,
And you, a bright eyed, fearless boy,
Were all the world to me.

Oh, how I loved you, Willie!
And I love you darling, yet—
Your kindness in that golden time
I never can forget.
And I do not mean to chide you,
When a backward view I cast;
And shudder at the gulf between
The present and the past.

Forgive me, Willie darling,
If my words have caused you pain—
I will not call up memories
Of the long ago again.
But I must speak of the present,
For I have that to say
Which I would have you think of,
When I am snatched away.

Our little boy, oh, Willie,
He is pure and stainless now—
There is no shade of crimes or vice
Upon this baby brow—
His heart is free from bitterness—
His soul as pure as snow—
Oh, Willie, in the years to come
See that you keep him so.

You have sworn upon the Bible
That you will near again taste
The poison that has ruined us
And made our life a waste.
If you keep that solemn covenant
As long as life shall last,
Our boy is safe, and God will grant
Forgiveness for the past.

Come closer to me, darling,
Let me fold you to my breast,
Ere the shadows close around me
And I sink to dreamless rest.
Oh, the weary, weary hours,
And the bitter, bitter pain,
Are lifted from my bosom,
And all is peace again.

I am dying, Willie, dying,
But for me all pain is o'er;
And I'll look for you my darling
When I reach the golden shore.
God will'd that I should perish
To save you and your boy,
And so I go to seek his presence
With an eager, eager joy.

TERRIBLE BUTCHERY.

A Cerro Gordo Man Murdered in Nevada.

[From The Reese River Reveille, May 10.]

The greatest excitement prevailed in town, this morning, over the announcement of a fearful tragedy which was enacted some time this morning at the Silver Age Ranch, on Big Creek, about ten miles from Austin.

The ranch is the property of Geo. F. Dinsmore, by whom a portion was leased to two Italians, named Luigi Bordaraco and Napoine Guiseppi, who were engaged in the cultivation of vegetables thereon. The house on the ranch was occupied by these two and James McCreery, wood teamster, and John Beal—commonly called Jack Bell—who acted as a sort of an overseer for Mr. Dinsmore.

Early this morning, Guiseppi rode into town bringing word of the tragedy which had been enacted during the night, and as little is yet known of the affair beyond what is related by him, we deem it best to give his story. He says that during the greater part of yesterday he was out in the hills hunting horses, and when he returned he found the other three men drunk and quarreling. He remonstrated with his partner, Bordaraco, who making threatening gestures, threatened to kill him. Being, as he says, in fear of his life and knowing Bordaraco to be a dangerous man, he took his blankets and retreated to the sagebrush, where he made his bed. McCreery and Bodaraco had been (or were) shaking dice, and Guiseppi says the noise and quarreling continued until about two o'clock in the morning.

At daylight, he arose, and going to the house discovered Beal lying on the floor, dead, and McCreery alive, but with his skull crushed in and unconscious, while the floor was covered with pools of blood and spattered with brains. Bodaraco was nowhere to be seen, and Guiseppe mounted a horse and rode to town to give word of the bloody affair.

Dr. Wixom was summoned and at once departed for the scene, being soon after followed by Mr. Dinsmore, Sheriff Emery, Marshall Day and Mr. Dreyfuss, the Coroner. From Dreyfuss, who returned from the scene of the tragedy at about 3 o'clock this afternoon, we learn that on the arrival of the party at the ranch, a fearful scene was presented. In the middle of the floor of the front room of the house, lay the two men, Beal dead, with the skull crushed in behind the left ear, lying in a pool of blood and his blood oozing from the wound, and McCreery lying on his side, weltering in his blood, still breathing but totally unconscious. The back of his skull was crushed in, and Dr. Wixom extracted pieces of the bone as large as a fifty-cent piece, and gave it as his opinion that the man's recovery was impossible.

Guiseppe is a man of about five feet, five inches in height, with the dark skin and piercing black eyes common to his race, and his face, when in repose, has a quiet and rather pleasant look. Luigi Bodaraco, the fleeing murderer, is described as a diminutive man not weighing over 110 pounds, but is said to be a vicious and desperate man, it being stated that he stabbed two men in Virginia City some time ago. It seems incredible that a small man, such as he is described to be, could overpower two large, strong men, such as Beal and McCreery, even with the aid of an axe. In the case of McCreery we might form the hypothesis that he was so overpowered by drink as to render him an easy victim; but those who knew Beal intimately state that he was a quiet man, who never drank liquor. If the facts are as stated by Guiseppe, and he himself had no hand in the affair, it is supposable that McCreery was attacked first and overpowered, and Beal coming to his assistance was then attacked and killed by the infuriated murderer.

McCreery is well known in town, having for some time been engaged in driving a wood team. He is said to be not a bad man, but addicted to drink and quarrelsome under its influence. Beal was a man advanced in years, of a quiet and peaceable disposition and not given to drink. He came here from Cerro Gordo, where he has mining interests, and since his arrival has been in the employ of Mr. George F. Dinsmore.

Jack Rabbit.

[From The Weekly Rescue.]

While my friend Clyde and myself were out in the hills back of the Golden Gate Park last week, a jack rabbit came along and stopped to look at us.

"If I had thought to bring my revolver along we should have jack on toast for our breakfast to-morrow," I remarked.

"Not without my consent," he replied.

"What reason can you give for not consenting?"

"A rea[illegible] saved my life, and I have not kill[illegible] since, and never will kill one a[illegible]"

"How did he manage to save your life?"

"Three years ago I was living in Montana. A shelter had just been built, and it created a demand for silver rock. I owned an interest in a lead th t had been sunk some thirty feet. Thinking that the time had come to make it available, I concluded to go there and get some ore, and have it tested. I did so, and reached the plac just in time to take shelter in the mine from a terrible hail storm. I lighted my candle, went to the bottom, and went to work. I had not been there more than five minutes, when I heard a noise that sounded like a cannon. The rock over my head shook, and in a moment the shaft behind me caved. You can imagine my feelings better than I can describe them, when I found myself buried alive. I tremble even at this distant day when I think of that moment. The roof of the shaft was rocks, and when they came down they did not pack so tight but what air came through. There was nothing I could do to release myself. I knew that if relief did not come from the outside I must perish. No one knew I had gone there. A road ran past the mouth of the shaft, but it was not traveled much, and I was not likely to attract attention by calling; nevertheless, I shouted at intervals all day. The following morning I commenced calling again; and all day, and whenever I thought I heard a sound, I shouted.

When night came again all hopes of being released had abandoned me. One thing added great bitterness to my sufferings. I owed quite a large sum of money and should my fate remain unknown, my name would be stigmatized.

I will not dwell upon the agonies I endured; I am sorry I cannot forget them.

The morning of the fourth day of my imprisonment, I heard something crawl into my grave. I lighted my candle and saw a rabbit. There was only one aperture large enough to admit him; I closed it to prevent escape. I saw in him food to appease my hunger, and my hand was raised to kill him, when a thought occurred to me that prevented the blow from descending. I had two fish lines; their united length would reach to the road. I took off my shirt, tore it into strings, tied them together, and on the fish line. I wore a long gold watch-chain. I tied it on to the part that would cross the road. I then cut several leaves from my diary, wrote on them my condition, and tied them on to that part of the line that would be outside. I then tied my shirt around Jack's neck and let him out. He soon reached the end of the line, and I knew by the way he was pulling that he was making desperate efforts to escape. Soon the struggling stopped, and knowing gnawing to be Jack's chief accomplishment, I thought he cut himself loose. About three hours afterward I felt the line pulled, then some one called; I tried to answer, but the hoarse noise I made died in the cavern. I then pulled the line to show I was not dead.

All grew still again, and I knew the men had gone for assistance. Then came the sound of voices; I pulled in the line and it brought me food. It took all the men who worked in the shaft nine hours to reach me.

A very large pine tree that stood near the shaft had been my misfortune. It had been dead a number of years, and the storm had blown it over. The terrible blow it struck the ground had caused the cave.

Jack had wound the line around a bush, and tied himself so short, that he was imprisoned outside as securely as I had been inside. He was taken to town, put in a large cage, and supplied with all the rabbit delicacies the market afforded. He, however, did not thrive, and the boys, believing that he 'pined in thought,' voted to set him free. He was taken back to his old girdling ground and liberated.

He not only saved my life, but became benefactor of all rabbits in the neighborhood—the miners refraining from shooting any, fearing it might be him."

The War Cloud in Europe.

[From The San Francisco Alta.]

The London Telegraph says the situation in Continental Europe "wears the gravest aspect," and common rumor attribute the to meeting of the three Emperors at Berlin great significance, but in what direction is not yet made public. Even the most ignorant can see that peace is far from secure. Those armies numbering in the aggregate more than 5,000,000 men, constantly ready for service at an hour's notice, supplied with the best weapons of destruction, and maintained at a cost of about $2,000,000,000 annually, are not kept for empty show. Those fortresses which are rising on the soil of Germany, France and Russia—those navies which are being built in the various dockyards of all the great powers—they are not regarded as mere ornaments. They are conclusive proofs that no nation is ready to trust its neighbor. Each relies for its safety on its own means of resistance. Fortunate are we that the late civil war did not divide our country into two nearly equal, hostile and distrustful nations, and compel each to maintain a standing army of 300,000 men for defence.

While peace is far from secure, it is at the same time evidently far less insecure than it was a hundred years ago. The influences which caused war in previous centuries, have either disappeared or they have been greatly weakened of late. Among these the first was despotism. The monarchs who owed no responsibility to any one for the abuse of their power, who suffered none of the worst inconveniences of defeat, and who gained most of the glory in case of success, frequently engaged in war for trivolous, personal or family motives. Whims, insults, dynastic quarrels—matters in whice the nation felt no interst, and that would have had no influence on prudent statesmen—led them to engage in hostilities which did not end until millions were sacrificed. One of the greatest wars of history—that of the Spanish Succession from 1701 to 1715, in which France was reduced to the verge of ruin—though she had no interest in the quarrel—was of this class. Europe was afflicted with three wars of succession in the eighteenth century.

Religious intolerance, which next to despotism has been the main cause of war in Christendom—has greatly declined. The idea of helping the cause of righteousness by fire and sword, by slaughter, desolation, and all the horrid crimes that follow in the track of war and are inseparable from it, has fallen into discredit. Not two hundred years have elapsed since the Turks were compelled to abandon the siege of Vienna, and not until forty years later did they discover that they must abandon the hope of gaining any more territory in Europe by the sword. The bigots who slaughtered the Albigenses, the Hussites, and the Huguenots, who attempted to establish the Spanish inquisition permanently in Holland and England, and filled Europe with bloodshed from 1530 to 1648, have fallen under the curse of history and civilization. The spirit of the persecutors is not dead yet and it may again flare up before it finally dies out.

Bad News.

Reports from portions of Missouri, Minnesota, Kansas and Nebraska state that the grasshoppers are already devastating the country of every green thing, and that the farmers are greatly discouraged. The pests seem to be young—at least they are very small—ranging from the size of a flea to that of a common house fly. But their destructive powers appear quite as great as those of the full-grown insect. Gentlemen who have recently been on a tour of southwest Missouri say the grasshoppers are devouring everything green in that section. People are panic stricken, and cattle and horses are dying by hundreds of starvation. They can find nothing to eat, not even in the woods, as the grasshoppers have eaten the buds and leaves from the trees. In Minnesota, an investigation by a reporter of The St. Paul Press, sent out especially for the purpose, shows that, so far only a portion of four counties are troubled with the pests; but deposits of eggs are found in other sections, and serious damage to the crops is feared.

Valuable Medical Work.

We have received a copy of "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," just completed, and published by R. V. Pierce, M. D., the famous physician of Buffalo, New York. It is a work of nearly 900 pages, neatly bound, and contains a vast amount of information highly important and valuable to the afflicted or those who desire to study their own health and guard against any of the diseases to which the human frame is liable. Nearly all diseases are discribed, analyzed, their symptoms and causes explained, and proper domestic treatment suggested. The book is placed within the reach of all, as in order to reciprocate the many favors bestowed upon him by a generous public, the author offers his book at a price ($1 50) little exceeding the cost of publication. Our readers can obtain this practical and valuable work by addressing the author.

Silver Coin.

Washington advices say the rapid increase of silver coinage within a short time causes some Treasury officers to think that the Secretary will begin paying out silver in lieu of fractional currency December next. It is estimated that by the last of June (the end of the present fi-cal year) there will be about six million dollars in silver coin in the Treasury, and that by the 1st of September there will be fully ten millions. With this amount it is believed that he can safely begin to put into operation the law authorizing silver coin to be paid out and fractional currency withdrawn.

Terrible Shipwreck.

The steamship Schiller from New York to Hamburgh, struck a rock near the Scilly Islands, on the 7th instant and became a total wreck, with a most fearful loss of life. Three hundred and eleven men, women and children were drowned, among the rest, Captain Thomas, the commander, a navigator of great experience and ability. A dense fog had prevailed for four days, during which the ship had got about a half a mile out of her course. Only fifteen passengers, and with the crew a total of 40 persons, were saved.

Tolls.

In view of the operations of United States troops now and to be in active service in this county, we think it proper to call the attention of toll road men to what Sections 2814, 2879, California Political Code, have to say about the matter of exacting tolls:

The following persons, are exempt from payment of toll on wagon, turnpike, or plank roads:

Troops in actual service of the United States.

Any person attending a military parade is exempt from the payment of tolls, over toll bridges.

Registration of Voters.

Parties desiring to have their names placed on the Great Register of the county, either by certificate from another county or as an original entry, must make affidavit before some Justice, Notary, or other official authorized to administer oaths, of his age, place of residence, occupation place of birth, etc., and forward the same to the County Clerk. If the affidavit is not made, the name will not be registered.

Montezuma.

From a private letter received by a gentleman in this town, we learn that active preparations are being made in San Francisco to start up the reduction works at Motezuma.—[Borax Miner, May 15.

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE.

As many of our readers are painfully aware, a number of Mexican bandits in scattered bands have, for the last two months or more, been outraging travelers and isolated settlers, all through the southern portion of the county. Though, so far, but one murder is known to have been committed by the robbers, yet they have caused a great deal of suffering to individuals, and in the aggregate have committed robberies to the extent of several thousand dollars. All this is bad enough, and of itself is quite sufficient to justify a general and determined effort on the part of officers and citizens to put an instantaneous stop to such outrages. But bad as it is, if permitted to go on in this way, the inevitable result will be that the robber band will receive accessions by attracting to its ranks the most desperate cut-throats to be found in the whole country; murders may become more frequent than simple robberies have been heretofore. The bold and successful operations of the late Vasquez band has shown these outlaws what can be done, and without question, there are scores of desperadoes in these lower counties who feel it a laudable ambition to emulate the deeds of that infamous gang. So far, the operations of such in this county have been of a very desultory character, showing the lack of perfect organization and leadership, such as distinguished the Chavez gang. But it will not be long till some competent scoundrel will step to the front, gather in hand these scattered bands, and have both the will and power not only to rob and murder travelers, but levy tribute and murder even in our towns. Already these little bands of twos and threes have created a terror on travel as to nearly amount to an embargo, and in this way have caused a manifest damage to the general interests of the county.

Besides this it is a disgrace to us as a people to sit supinely down and make no effort worthy of the name to check these oft recurring outrages and insults. Our every interest demands that something be done to at once bring these pests to justice or drive them off the road. Are they to continue to rob and outrage and threaten the lives of our best citizens with such astonishing impunity? If so, there will soon be no limit to their undertakings.

It is obvious the civil officers cannot, unaided by the citizens generally, do anything whatever toward bringing these villains to justice. It requires a strong, and well equipped force, to take the field and keep it, not for one day or two days, but perhaps for weeks. All this costs money, and there are but very few of our citizens able to stand the expenditure of so much time and money, and risk their lives besides, just as an individual duty to the public. But there are plenty willing and able to do effective field service even without pay, provided they can be equipped without too much expense to themselves. There are plenty of others willing and anxious to contribute liberally in money and otherwise toward fitting out such a party. Among several others, who, we know, will do their part in this way and every other they can, we can mention John and Scott Broder, the former of whom will give $200 and more if necessary for the purpose, while the latter, we think, would do about as effective field service as anybody. All that is necessary to insure an absolute stop to these bandit outrages is for some energetic man to take the work in hand of organizing a party and to call on a few of our citizens for the necessary pecuniary aid. We are confident it only needs the right man to lead out and the thing can be done just as easy and far better now than to await the news of a shocking murder or two and additional outrages to stir the insulted community to effective action. A company of U S. cavalry will soon be here to scout the wide expanse occupied by the bandits, but it is highly important that a good force of citizens should co-operate with them; otherwise the chances are the relief will be but temporary. We have good reason to believe the stage companies and Wells, Fargo,& Co., will assist materially in this matter. As before stated it only requires some energetic man to lead out. We have such men here, perfectly competent in every way, if they will only step out. Now is the time for them to do it.

Michigan.

The Republican majority in Michigan at the recent election was over 22,000. The two Republican candidates for Regents of the State University, S. S Walker and Benj. M. Cutcheon, received a majority of 22,836 and 19,162, respectively, over S. T. Douglass and Peter White, Democratic nominees.

The Colonels.

"Colonels" B. D. Wilson and J. J. Warner are candidates for Congress from this district. The Judges and Generals haven't been heard from yet.

From Lida Valley.

Correspondence of the Austin Reveille.

LIDA VALLEY, May 3d, 1875.

After a suspension of two months, the mill at this place is again in motion, now under the supervision of B. F. Higgs, who in conjunction with Travis and Pitman, has possession and control of the Page property. Under the new regime ore is being worked at $35 per ton—the product paid in bullion, or gold notes, at the lowest rate of discount on the bullion, at the option of the miner. Under the new administration confidence after two severe shocks, by former proprietors, is fully restored. A new impetus is given to every branch of business, especially so in mining and prospecting. Since the present parties have taken charge of the mill, new and promising mines have been discovered. The latest is by Len Martin, who has at a depth of 20 feet a well defined ledge two feet thick, from which we saw three certificates of assay that showed $1,154 50, $1,408 37 and $1,699 68 per ton. The mine is now under lease to parties who seem confident of making a handsome stake very speedily. A. W. Simonson has a large amount of ore on the dump of the Sapphire that will work from $500 to $1,000 per ton. The Brown's Hope, Cinderella and Lida Hill are each being worked and are looking well. The Death Valley is showing splendidly, with 300 tons of ore on the dump. The mines have never looked so promising as at present. Thirty-five miles west, in the Pine mountains, active preparations are in progress for the erection of furnaces for reducing the base metals at or near Deep Springs. Forty men are at work building a road from Deep Springs to the mines seven miles. At Sylvania, 15 miles from Lida, W. F. Kincaid has made a success of smelting the base metals of that district. OLD LECHERY AHEAD.

A special Salt Lake dispatch to The San Francisco Chronicle, dated May 10, says:

In the third District Court this morning, Chief Justice Lowe set aside the order and writ of attachment made by ex-Chief Justice McKean some time since, commanding Brigham Young to pay Ann Eliza Young's attorneys' fees and alimony pedente lite. The ruling is elaborate and sets forth that alimony could not be awarded unless a valid marriage was either first admitted by the parties or proved. The defendant had alleged in his answer that the marriage in question was a bigamous one, and the allegation not being denied, must be taken as true. Three thousand dollars attorneys' fees, and five hundred alimony has already been paid Ninety-five hundred dollars being due and unpaid.

We are truly sorry to hear this. We have been reading Madame Stenhouse's interesting expose of Mormon iniquities lately, and though their particular religious tenents, save in the matter of polygamy may be as good as those of other denominational, ignorant fanatics, the proof she arrays of the scoundrelism of the leaders is so conclusive as to force the hope that every lecherous bigamist among them may be forcibly brought to the stool of repentance. Of all the bad characters pictured out that of Brigham Young is the worst. She proves him a grasping, parsimonious, murderous, lecherous old thief and tyrant to that extent that the hangman's rope could not afford the smallest share of proper retribution. She shows his most vulnerable trait to be his miserable greed; hence the pity that Ann Eliza and the scores of other woman held by him and his kind in worse than plantation slavery, should have failed in this effort to obtain their rights and inflict this pecuniary punishment he so richly desrves, and so fearfully dreads.

"Chavez is Coming!"

Some little excitement was created last night by a report, brought in by the pony rider, that a man who had come into Tait's Station, down the canyon, stated that twelve or fifteen Mexicans were encamped at the Hot Springs, some two and a half miles north of the mouth of this canyon. Sheriff Moore, being in town, he and his Deputy, Ball, were consulted, but they did not deem that there was foundation enough to the report to warrant taking any steps to go after them. It would be a good-sized feather in the caps of Panaminters to capture the Chavez or any other band of bandits operating in this vicinity.—[Panamint News, May 13.

Railroads in Los Angeles County.

Los Angeles dates of the 13th say:

Five miles of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad, between this city and Santa Monica, are ready for the ties and iron, which will be here in a short time.

The Main street railroad is completed and awaits its cars, which are expected on Saturday.

Work on the San Fernando tunnel is going ahead as rapidly as possible.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company are preparing to lay over 100 miles of track east of Spadra this Summer.

Josiah.

The Emigrant Aid Bureau Committee still have the case of Josiah Earl under consideration. They give out semi officially that they don't find anything very bad about him, and say further that if they don't see their way clearly to carry the Bureau to advantage they will abandon the plan altogether.—[S. F. Chronicle, May 18.

—Do dogs ever bark their shins?

St. Nicholas for May.

There is fun enough in the May number of the St. Nicholas to keep the children laughing till the next number comes out—if the children are as jolly as we take them to be. First of all is Rose Terry's poem of "Poll Tadpole," which has a very seasonable flavor at this time of the metamorphosis of everything in general and of tadpoles in particular. Almost any one would laugh at the picture of "Poll," taken as he was lying at ease in his puddle, not dreaming that he would soon become a "discontinued baby-frog."

Then there is the picture by Church, full of his artist's humor. A more graphic expression of the comic effect of a new-comer's entrance has rarely been penciled. The stranger is scanned as closely by his fellow-prisoners as a new boy at a boarding-school.

In the poetry "Poor Puck," the humor even goes over into Fairyland, and our admiration of Puck's audacity in trangression is equaled by our respect for Queen Mab's tactics and her clever way of punishing the trespasser.

And, as if this was not enough, the "Very Little Folks" have their share too—a story, illustrated with five pictures, which, if the baby sees them first, will carry the laugh all around the circle to grandpa.

Last, but not least, is Jack-in-the-Pulpit, who is always funny.

But St. Nicholas knows how to be serious too; and no girls' story could be sweeter than Susan Coolidge's delightful May-day narrative of "Queen Blossom," with its beautiful illustration by Fredericks. The three illustrated stories by Rebecca Harding Davis, Elsie Gorham, and the author of "Rutledge" will interest everybody, and the practical articles will well repay all who read them, especially the two entitled "About Heraldry" and "The Feast of Flags," the illustrations of which are novelties. But we cannot name all the good things; we only envy the children the monthly happiness of such a magazine.

The Hospital Contract.

"M. D," in a letter to The Panamint News of the 18th, animadverts pretty strongly on the action of the Board of Supervisors in regard to their course in the letting of the County Hospital contract to a doctor, who, as is claimed is not a medical graduate. Our understanding of the law is that it imperatively requires that the hospital shall be in the charge of such a graduate. Dr. Gelcich, the contractor, claims to be such, and at one time, the possessor of a diploma, but which was lost. We should think that it is the duty of the Board to have satisfactory proof of this fact, or security that the hospital, no matter who the contractor might be, should be in charge of a physician who could produce his diploma. Those were the conditions under which the award was made to the contractor last year, and may be so for the present. If not it is clear the Board have strained their authority considerably. We will say this for Dr. Gelcich, however, that while we know nothing as to whether his report is technically correct or otherwise, or anything about his diploma, we have it, that he takes excellent care of his patients, and has been quite successful in their treatment and we believe will do his whole duty to all coming under his charge. But the letter of the law requires that the hospital should be in the charge of a medical graduate. It does not follow as a matter of course that the contractor should be a graduate himself, but makes it his duty to secure the services of one.

Need for Action.

It is an established fact that several heavily armed parties of Mexicans have lately been seen coming into this county from the south, and though it is possible their intents may be all legitimate and honest enough, the peculiar conditions existing here at this time give cause for suspicion. It is a matter of the greatest importance to the Mexican population of this county that these outlaws be effectually suppressed. There are many Americans and others who will not be at all nice in their discriminations as to the guilt or innocence of Mexicans they may meet here and there, and it is quite possible the innocent may have to suffer for the acts of the guilty, if the latter are allowed to continue their outrages. Altogether, it behooves all classes of our population to take some active measures to put a lasting check on those outlaws. This is of quite as much interest to those of the Mexican nationality as the American.

General News.

W. C. Ralston has sold his half interest in the Palace Hotel, to be the largest and most magnificient caravansary in the world, to Wm. Sharon, receiving therefor the sum of $1,750,000.

A destructive fire occured at Eberhardt, Nevada, May 12. Another about the same time destroyed a block of buildings in Napa City, this State.

Another plot for the assassination of Bismarck has just been foiled by the arrest of the principal conspirator. The plot this time included the death of Emperor William.

Twenty-four States are Democratic and eleven Republican, as represented by their delegations in the next Congress.

Thirteen thousand passengers arrived in San Francisco by steamer and rail during April. This is the largest number arriving in any one month during the history of the city.

To Miners.

We are in receipt of a copy of a publication just issued to supply a decided want on the part of miners and others, who should, for their own protection, be fully advised of the provisions of the mining laws.

It contains the U. S. Mining Laws and Regulations thereunder, together with the forms required under the Act of May 10th, 1872, in relation to locations, etc. These forms are official, having been adopted by the land office. The necessity has been felt of a compilation in a cheap form of the laws of the United States relating to mining, such as this pamphlet furnishes. All the information most needful to the miner will be found in its pages, and it is placed at a price—50 cents, postage free—which makes it accessible to all. Those desiring copies can address Dewey & Co., Publishers Mining and Scientific Press, 224 Sansome street, San Francisco.

The Stock Exchange.

Last week we received the, typographically speaking, magnificent heading of a new paper to be started in San Francisco, called The Stock Exchange. It is to be devoted to finance, mining and real estate interests and reports, and no doubt will be a valuable publication. But we can judge better of that when we see a copy of the paper itself. And by the way, The Stock Herald, The Post, and one or two valuable San Francisco papers have at different times, per letter, requested an exchange with this little INDEPENDENT. We are always happy to comply whether the proffered exchaege promises anything of advantage or otherwise, and in the instances referred to sent papers regularly for several months, but up to this writing, have seen "nary a" copy in return. We have quit that one-sided system of exchange.

Quits.

Richard Hudnut, Esq, the excessively able, amiable and truthful editor of The Kern County Courier, now publishes his valedictory and retires from the journalistic field. We don't know his object but presume it is to give his brain the rest it so much needed. However, we don't want to say unkind things of a contemptible enemy when he is down or out of the fight, and so bid him adieu. An unnamed citizen of Bakersfield has purchased The Courier material but for what purpose we are not advised.

MARRIED.

At Lone Pine, April 27, by Hon. J. A. Hannah, County Judge, JOHN H. DODGE to MRS. CHARLOTTE VINCENTILLI.

One would think from the ancient date of the above that John wished to "Dodge" the public announcement of this little matter altogether, but the fault was not his, but only an accident, we are told. Well, we never believed John would Dodge an issue of any sort.

At Olancha, this county, May 13, by Hon. J. A. Hannah, County Judge, THOMAS PASSMORE to MISS M. WALKER.

Well, well, when a forty niner has been fortunate enough to escape unscathed the thousand and one dangers of pioneer life, only to at last get himself noosed in this way, it affords food for serious reflection, and gives much hope for many an old chaw-bacon, not yet among the things that were.

Attended to Business Anyhow.

The stage for the south was about ready to start Wednesday morning when the fire broke out. Post master Rowley had not yet completed making up its mail when he had to move his traps out in a hurry—gathering up his mail bags and things he moved across the street a little ways, and while the fire was licking up his store and goods, finished making up his mail and started Dow off very nearly on time; all of which shows that Rowley is not going to let little extraneous matters, involving personal pecuniary ruin, to interfere with his official obligations. We will remark here that this Postoffice is of sufficient importance or does business enough to entitle it to a little more consideration than the Department has accorded it in the way of appropriations for boxes, etc. Rowley has always paid for everything of the kind out of his own pocket, amounting to over $250. He will now have to pay out nearly as much more to repair damages to these things, caused by the fire. Uncle Sam ought to foot this bill.

The Eclipse Mine.

Captain Eudey, Superintendent of the Eclipse mining property, is now engaged in a thorough relay of the tramway track, which is now to extend clear to the dump of the mine. When in use originally it only reached to the first of the hills and was in bad shape generally. As the Captain is determined to have everything in shape to insure the most rapid and economical handling of the ores, which are to be had in vast quantities but not at all of a high grade, it will be several months before he starts up the mill. But when it does start we are satisfied something good will come of it.

The Cavalry.

Co. "I," 1st U. S. Cavalry, Capt. C. C. Carr, commanding, was ordered, under date of May 10th, to proceed from Camp Halleck, Nev., by rail to Reno and thence to march by way of Camp Independence, to the Panamint and Coso region to look after the recent disturbances. It is understood that their first supplies will be drawn from Camp Independence and that they will make temporary camps in the disturbed district. Dr. Steele comes as the medical officer of the detachment.

A Chance for Dairy Help.

A man and wife (American), now in Stockton, are desirous of procuring a permanent situation as butter makers and charge of dairy business generally, wishing to make this county their home. We are not in position to give any further information as to capabilities, etc., but our services are at the command of parties desiring such help, if they choose to address us in reference to this application.

Salt Wells Mystery.

Under this head The Borax Miner details at length a supposed attempt to rob the Wadsworth express. It seems that two vagabonds demanded food of the Chinaman cook at Salt Wells station, the family being absent, and then knocked down the Chinaman and proceeded to dig a hole in which to bury him, but he succeeded in escaping and gave the alarm. It remains a mystery what the real intentions were.

Will Remain Neutral.

We hear that the Indians in the vicinity of Cerro Gordo have decided not to take stock either with the whites or the Mexican bandits, notwithstanding one of their number came to his death at the hands of the latter. It is said both parties have solicited their aid.

Ready for Business.

Our old pioneer barber W. H. Huff. having saved from the fire tools and things sufficient to go ahead with, has reopened his barber shop on Wapelhorst's corner.

Will Re-open.

H. Levy, of the Brewery saloon and barber shop wishes us to say that he will recontinue business in both branches in a few days.

The Post Office.

Postmaster Rowley and his office is to be found in Receiver May's office, May's building, where he will hold forth till further notice.

Bandit Shot and Killed.

From Mr. T. F. A. Connelly, just up from Caliente we have the following particulars of the killing of one of these Mexican bandits, at Prewetts station, Chimney Meadows, Friday or Saturday last. A man employed about the ranch, Prewett being absent at the time, saw two Mexicans approaching the house, both heavily armed. This man went to the house, got Prewett's Henry rifle and waited for the nearer approach of the Mexicans. He hailed them three or four times, and ordered them not to come nearer, or he would fire. They paid no attention to his commands, coming straight for him, until he raised his rifle to his shoulder at which they halted and started to turn about. He fired one shot but missed, then a second which took effect in the hip of one of the horses, and a third which struck the rider of the wounded horse. By this time, the Mexicans were retreating at full speed, but did not go far until the wounded man fell off. Some little time after, Prewett got home, and with the man who did the shooting but whose name we have not learned, went to the wounded Mexican who was yet alive. The wounded horse standing by, proved to be Scott Broder's mare, which had been taken from him two days before, as stated in our last issue. The Mexican said his name was Beltran, and that his companion had gone to Darwin to procure assistance for him. He was quite young, and no doubt his real name is Guerro instead of Beltran. He soon after died. Upon him was found Bart McGee's watch, a memorandum book containing the names of a number of persons, McGee's among the rest, whom they had robbed and tied up, three revolvers and a sixteen-shooter. Prewett sent off for more help, and for two nights subsequently watched the dead body waiting the return of his companion and the expected assistance from Darwin, and intended to maintain the watch for a time longer, or until the robbers did come. The one who escaped, supposed to be Cruz Lopez, rode a large, fine sorrel horse. Broder's mare will probably recover from her wound.

Habeas Corpused.

Jas. Robertson, by attorneys Bennett & Gregg, appeared before Judge Hannah of the County Court, last Tuesday, demanding his release on habeas corpus. It appearing that the prisoner had been in custody for nine days and no witnesses having appeared against him; and further, that, as his examination was now postponed beyond the time allowed by law, the Court had no choice but order his release, which was done. The following morning Robertson started on his return to Panamint. He was arrested at that place and taken befor Justice Smith on a charge of an assault with a deadly weapon. The prisoner made oath that he did not believe he could receive justice in that Court, so Justice Smith sent the case to the adjoining township of Darwin. Arriving at Darwin no Justice of the Peace was found, nor none yet at Lone Pine, so he was brought on to this place appearing last Saturday before Justice Schalten. The prosecution had no witnesses present, but was allowed six days to procure them. The law says a prisoner cannot be held on a charge longer than two days at a time, nor more than six in all without a preliminary examination on a criminal charge, and hence the virtue of the writ of habeas corpus in this instance.

A Horse Thief and Scoundrel.

One Chas. Wheeler lately played Jones, Spaulding & Co., ranchers near Fish Springs, one of the meanest tricks we have had occasion to chronicle for a long time. About a month since this Wheeler applied to Jones, for employment. As he appeared to be trustworthy, Jones gave him the charge of the dairy ranch in the foot hills. For the first two weeks Wheeler seemed to be doing very well in his charge, and was not again visited by either of the parties for two weeks prior to the discovery of what a scoundrel he was. Through information received from a third party who had dropped in at the dairy ranch, Jones became aware of the fact that the place was deserted, and on going there, found an insolent note from this sneak thief Wheeler, stating that he was leaving, etc. Further investigation revealed the fact that the sneak thief had not only abandoned the cows for two weeks past, so that they were nearly ruined, but had stripped the house of everything down even to a roll of butter cloth, stolen a pack saddle, Henry rifle and two horses and had decamped for parts unknown.

Gets the Beans.

As yet the only Post contract finally awarded, so far as we have heard, is the contract to furnish the beans. Harris & Rhine get this and will accumulate considerable wealth out of it, may be. Their bid was six cents and the probable number of beans necessary to keep the boys going for a year will weigh well on to six hundred pounds. Some other proposals for the commissary articles are to be re-opened in the hope of lower bids.

Bullion, Etc.

Agent Cowles, of Cartago, informs us that the bullion shipments from that point now only amounts to one team every other day. Belshaw's furnace is running steadily, but of itself cannot furnish the requisite 400 bars a day to keep teams running as heretofore.

On a Scout.

Captain Macgowan left Cerro Gordo some time last week, and with his detachment went on a scout toward Panamint. He is expected to return to the Post with his command within a day or two.

Changed Hands.

J. N. Newlon has bought Brown's, late the McMurry, store at Big Pine, and is to continue the business.

FIRE!

The most destructive fire that has yet occurred in this town, notwithstanding the desperate chances it has always taken, broke out in H. Levy's dwelling, back of his saloon, about half past 9 Wednesday morning. When the alarm was first given the entire roof was in a blaze, which, in a very few minutes communicated to the saloon, a larger building but a few feet in front. By this time the whole town was on the ground, moving out goods from that and the neighboring buildings and fighting the flames by every means at hand. As it happened not a drop of water was running in any of the ditches through the place at that particular time, and it was nearly an hour before it could be got down from the creek, nearly a mile above. Meantime the only dependence for water was the wells in the vicinity, the nearest being full a hundred yards distant. At the start there was scarce a breath of wind, but soon it sprung up quite fresh from the south and with no adequate means to contend with the raging flames, it was obvious Rowley's store, containing the Postoffice, and a large amount of goods, were doomed. The efforts of all were directed towards saving the goods and Postoffice material, which work was continued as long as possible, and to a good purpose. Previous to this, however, by means of long ropes and numerous strong arms the greater portion of the Brewery saloon, but a few feet south of Rowley's, had been torn down. The same plan was then adopted with Rowley's building, but being a strong frame, lined with adobes and hard finished, the work of tearing down was slow and effective of but little good. Next north of that and almost touching, was Huff's barber shop and north of that, with an interval of about twelve feet, was May's large building, comprising the large saloon occupied by Mairs and Connelly, and the United States Land Office in two rooms. The breeze was now sweeping smoke and fire in the direction of this building, and it was certain that if that immense amount of dry material took fire there was scarcely a shadow of a chance to save any part of the town on either side of the main street to the north. That is, nearly everything in the place, Court House, stores, hotels and other business places, would have been destroyed. Aside from that May's building itself was valuable and very near the sum total of his possessions, so that extraordinary efforts were made, and successfully, to save it. The barber shop, heavy with adobe lining, was torn out by pieces and dragged into the the street. But the intense heat from its debris which was soon in flames, and from the post office, began to scorch the side and wide expanse of shingle roof on May's building, and yet not a drop of water to be obtained, except by the bucketful from the distant wells. It was a most desperate prospect. But as brave and willing hands as ever fought fire, were there and determined to save it. They would rush into that furnace between the buildings, and kept a sheet of water, though procured a bucket at a time, pouring off the crackling side of the building. On the roof were a few on whom rested the responsibility of wetting not less than a hundred incipent fires in the shingles, and for which purpose all the water had to be carried up a long ladder, a bucket at a time. The smoke and heat from the burning buildings, the wind now blowing the strongest, was almost unbearable but the boys stood to their posts—and saved that building and the town. Towards the last and just in time to be of vital importance, Gus. Stecker had succeeded in getting the water in the ditches alongside, so there was no scarcity of that necessary element.

Bennett & Gregg's law office stood about 50 feet south of the building which first took fire, was smoking from the heat and, as we have reason to believe, owed its escape to the efforts of a few in keeping its roof and sides thoroughly and constantly wet. The wind, however, was blowing in the favor of this building.

Harris & Rhine's large store directly opposite May's building was similarly protected, but would hardly have escaped had the last named got into a blaze.

About the time the fire had been brought pretty well under control the piazza in front of Rothschilds & Co's store, over a hundred yards to the north, took fire in the shingles, but by virtue of the hose from a force pump, that danger was soon suppressed.

The flying embers communicated flame several times in the yards of the Pioneer Stables, still further to the north, as they also did to the roof and through an open grating to goods or some sacking in Wood's store, nearly opposite Rothschilds. Fortunately, however, there were watchful eyes at all these points, and no damage worth mentioning accrued.

When so many did all in their power, and to such good purpose, it would be invidious to single out but a few for mention, and as we cannot name all, we will only say that the boys on the roof and at the side of May's building earned the highest credit for their persistence and effective work. Mrs. Robinson worked throughout like a Trojan in procuring water and saving goods, and was the last person in Rowley's store, the roof falling in but a moment after she had left it.

Rowley is the heaviest loser, but we are glad to say, is not ruined. A large portion of his goods, including some from the cellar were saved, but all told, after allowing for a $1,500 insurance on the building, he is out about $3,500. He saved all the valuables and nearly everything belonging to the post office proper. His policy is in the London and Liverpool and Globe.

Levy and Wood lose mostly cellar goods for the Brewery Saloon, some $800. Mrs. Levy saved the most of her household goods, but is still loser a number of things of considerable value in the aggregate.

W. H. Huff saved most of his barber shop furniture, but of fixtures belonging to the shop and small articles together, he is out about $75. The building belonged to P. Reddy, and was worth about $300.

The Brewery Saloon buildings belonged to John Broder, and were worth somewhere about $1,500. No insurance.

May, Connolly and Mairs are considerably loser by damage in removing furniture, glassware, billiard table, etc., out of their saloon, in all possibly $500.

The total loss will foot up about $6,500 above insurance, which, all the circumstances considered, was getting off remarkably cheap.

From Panamint.

Judge J. M. Murphy, just in from Panamint, tells us that "the Company" are now working about 280 men, and have employment for more if they could get them. They have sent to San Francisco for stone masons to erect two Stetefeldt furnaces. Several mills by different companies are to be built, and the general prospect is very encouraging, but we cannot, at this late hour, give specifications. An unfortunate man, but whose name we did not learn, died a horrible death just before the Judge left. It was from the effects of virus received while doctoring a diseased jack some time previously, which, despite the best medical attention, finally caused his death, the flesh literally dropping from the bones. It is feared that both Drs. Bicknell and Wells have become innoculated with the dreadful poison.

Jennings, W. C.; Capt. A. B. Macgowan, P. W. C. T. Lodge meets Wednesday evenings at the Masonic Hall.

The Broder Furnace.

The machinery for the above furnace is expected here some time the coming week. We hear that it is the most complete furnace outfit of the kind that has been sent out of San Francisco The engine has power enough for a sixty-ton cupola. The whole, including mining tools and appliances, weighs 86,000 pounds, and the entire cost of putting it in operation will not fall far if any short of $40,000. We very much hope it will prove Pine Mountain District, for which it is intended, a grand success.

In Arizona.

J. L. Darrah writes from Fort Yuma to a friend here that he has lately visited some mines at Pine Mountain, Arizona, which yield the richest silver he ever saw, that from the famous Mono mine of Utah not excepted These mines are new discoveries. Of the country in general Darrah thinks Arizona, both as a farming and mining country will lead the world one of these days.

Fire at Panamint.

The same day of the fire in this place, a building in the center of Panamint took fire and was destroyed, but who it was, or how much the loss, we cannot say. It adjoined T. F. A. Connelly's saloon building, which make's something of a coincidence in Connelly's favor, that day—a similar narrow escape occurring to his saloon property here.

James Armstrong.

Mr. T. F. A. Connelly is in receipt of letter from Mrs. E. Armstrong, Lassen county, asking for information of her young son, James Armstrong, aged 15, who started to this county with one Pat. O'Shea, who had a band of sheep. Any one knowing anything of this boy will confer a great favor on his mother by informing her of the fact.

Important News.

A dispatch, dated San Francisco, May 17, from P. Reddy, to his brother John here, is in these words: "We have won in the San Felipe." This means, of course, that the Supreme Court has granted a new trial in the San Felipe-Union suit.

Rewarded.

H. M. Isaacs headed and raised a snug purse of a hundred dollars or over, and quietly slipped it into the hands of Mr. P. the one who so well merited it for his exertions on the roof of May's building during the fire.

De Murska's Alphabet.

The Brashear News, in its edition of March 6th, does up the Hungarian songstress in the following unique style. A correspondent says:

"I have heard Murska. She is splendid. I am no musician, but I know sweet sounds when I hear them, and Murska can make them, sure. This wonderful songstress is a native of Tipperary, in Hungary, and though the prop of the family, she would not stay at home, and in leaving went on the stage.

"Her voice is wonderful. She runs up and down the scale with an agility that is astonishing, turning figurative flip-flops on every bar, tearing the thermometer to way above 212, and sliding down again so far below zero that one feels chilled to the bone.

"The way she attacks and holds her A, you would B delighted to see C. It is D-vine and so E-sy. F she only knew how to G her voice around a little more, H person present would have been delighted as I. J-birds are nothing to her, K's all 'L couldn't beat her. U must see her. V-nus was not more beautiful. She will W up and throw you into X-tasy. 'A word to the Y's,' etc."

Gen. Joe Lane.

Who does not remembesr General Joe. Lane? We had supposed he was dead long ago, but a correspondent of The Salem Statesman has brought him out of his retirement. It seems that the old man is living very quietly in a beautiful little valley about 15 miles from Roseburg in Oregon. He is keeping "bachelor's hall," his sons and daughters being all well married, and notwithstanding he is seventy odd years old, he can still use his favorite weapon of exercise—the ax—and force daylight through a big log in as lively style as ever. The correspondent of the above named paper remarks that the old man's indomitable soul and stalwart form refuse to bow under the heavy burden of years, and he strides about the foot-hills of the Cascades like a gigantic and imperishable Genius of the Border. He is probably the only man of his renown and station in the world who cooks dinner for his friendly visitors. Reading this narrative of his resurrection we are reminded of an incident in Gen. Lane's career, exhibitative of the fact that in early life, he was not blessed with the advantages accorded to most young men now-a-days. He ran on the ticket with Breckenridge, for Vice-President and was overwhelmed with grief at the result, so much so that when the election was over he sent the following telegram to a friend at Washington, "Me and Breck is defeated but jod's will be done!"—[Owyhee Avalanche.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

GREAT WEALTH OF THE INYO MINES.

Report of H. Eudey, Mining Engineer.

The following letter and report of Henry Eudey, Mining Engineer, in reference to the wealth of the Inyo mines generally, and the character of the Ventura mine in particular, will be read with pleasure by persons interested in the development of the mineral resources of our State:

ECLIPSE MINE, May 7th, 1875.

Nathan Rhine, Esq.—DEAR SIR: In presenting you a copy of my Report on the Ventura Silver and Copper Lode, permit me in explanation to remark that my motive in addressing it to Governor Downey was of twofold intent: first, to make him acquainted as an individual with the positive value of many of the mines of Inyo county; second, that as one of the leading citizens of Los Angeles, and instrumental in procuring the charter for building the railroad to Independence, I conceived it would strengthen the hands of himself and associates to be made thoroughly acquainted with the wealth of this portion of California, and with the consequent guarantee it offered for the road to be self-supporting; but I hesitate not to go a step beyond, and say that the immense mineral wealth belonging to the great backbone of the Sierra Nevada Mountains presents to the observant and thinking miner evidence too patent to be ignored that the railroad must become an indubitable success; nor is it coquetting with the credulity of any one knowing this region in asseverating that it will rank amongst the foremost institutions in the State, and the equal in time of such roads as the Virginia and Truckee or the mineral railroads of Pennsylvania, than which there are no better paying concerns of the kind for investors to be found in the United States.

Having used the term "backbone" in common with the Sierras, I deem it of sufficient interest to this subject to remark, that the mines of Inyo and Mono counties have that near proximity to the grand geological division existing in those great chains that bespeak much favor for them at the hands of capitalists. It surely sir, has not escaped your own observation that while gold is the prevailing product proceeding down the Western water shed, silver is the prevailing one of the Eastern slope of the same mountains; and its analogy continues to adjacent spurs or parallel ranges, for most of the argentiferous deposits yet developed are thus found; in support of this theory, I will cite the Comstock and Cerro Gordo Lodes, etc., etc.: but to advance reasons for this geological phenomena would take me into purely hypothetical realms that might engender belief unfavorable to those indestructible facts before mentioned; suffice it to us physical workers to accept nature's gifts as we at present understand them, trusting to time and chemistry, the indispensable coadjutor of geology, to account for the phenomena.

Upon reflection, I recall the stipulation expressed to you as to making the report public, agreeing with you that no danger will be incurred; to the contrary, we should as citizens, seek all the proper avenues to acquaint the people of our mineral wealth, because there is sufficient for all votaries of mining; the great chain from Washoe to this place, is comparatively a sealed book, only at spots have attempts been made to unlock its treasures; let us hope the key is being forged to do so in the construction of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad.

Yours, truly,

HY. EUDEY.

REPORT ON THE VENTURA SILVER AND COPPER LODE.

INDEPENDENCE, INYO Co., May 7, 1875.

Governor Downey, Los Angeles, Cal.—DEAR SIR: My acquaintance with the property herein described originated by seeing some large rocks of the carbonate of copper deposited by the road side, when on a journey of inspection to the Eclipse mine. These rocks were each as large as a fair-sized wheelbarrow, and had been dumped by teamsters employed to haul the same to a neighboring stamp mill with a view to reduction for precious metals. Having considerable experience in copper mining, their size and quality impressed me favorably, and I formed the resolution to visit the lode from whence they were taken, in the interim directing my inquiries to persons knowing the circumstances of their deposit by the road. I learned they were the product from a lode located in the Inyo Range, in the year 1863, on which occasion quite a mining stir was created through the discovery of this particular lode, and others of similar metaliferous character in close proximity; but stamp mills and furnaces being almost strangers to the valley, or at least of this portion of it, coupled with its isolation, and the base metal character of the ores, it was deemed impracticable in that day to utilize such products; but the march of time has developed very astounding results from the Inyo Range, with equally impracticable products also discovered about that period, for the Cerro Gordo mines now rank with the most productive regions of silver and lead in the world; in addition to which there now looms up such familiar names as Coso, Panamint and others; while to the north of Independence, on the same and parallel ranges, are the White Mountain mines, and still further north the mines of Benton, Hot Springs, Columbus; to the east, the mines of Alida Valley, Waucoba, etc., those districts being quite notable for their lodes of high grade base metal ores, though free milling ores are not unfrequently met with. Events are rapidly determining that the Inyo Range and connecting spurs can show more metaliferous lodes, and for a greater consecutive length than probably any other mountain chain on the continent, a fact (if yet incipient) that ignorance or prejudice can neither destroy or weaken, because these discoveries are at least 200 miles in length already.

Connecting and lucidly presenting facts of material interest is a labor that almost justifies self-esteem; but I invoke the judgment of miners, merchants and capitalists, to ponder well the magnitude of these discoveries, and their paramount value to this favored section of California, by asking where, to the same extent, do similar inducements present themselves for equal realization of wealth? To the seaboard towns, I would suggest these immense discoveries should be a subject of earnest consideration for the mercantile business of this valley is destined ere long, to make of one of them "a city like unto one set on a hill which cannot be hid." Prudence in most things may be commendable, but there are exceptional cases; to the hesitating merchant in particular, whose mercantile prosperity depends largely on the ramifications he makes with a great interior trade, already initiated, but which may be diverted from his doors by simple vacillation of mind, because he does not at the start see cent per cent on his investment, the consideration of this subject, just now, is all important. It being a politic axiom, "in time of peace to prepare for war," so it must be self-evident to those interested in the opening of such a future to this fortunate land of mineral wealth that, to command this trade, their efforts must be unceasing!

Having digressed somewhat from my subject, I beg to say in apology that the duty of an inhabitant of this valley becomes a pleasure in directing the attention of those outside to its capabilities as well as to its necessities; for while a railroad may in its infancy be an unprofitable investment, the general good it diffuses predicts in return from us an increase of business traffic beyond conception of the most sanguine.

Again, taking up the subject proper, the lode of the Ventura Silver and Copper Mining Company, I found on my visit to it in the month of November, 1875, that perfect silence reigned around, and was it not for the discovery of a stake upon which was written, "Surveyed by an United States Deputy Surveyor, April 15th, 1871," no other evidence could be deduced that the foot of man had visited the same for many a previous year. The excavations on it consisted of some surface cutting, in all about 30 feet or so together, with a surface tunnel driven 15 feet; at the foot of the mountain in which the lode outcrops are the remains of some adobe cabins, now razed to the ground. To whom they belonged I am not informed, but it is presumable they were erected by parties working some of the mines. Some trifling outlay in labor had been also expended in making a road to the mine for the purpose of removing the ore. These constitute the total of expenditures then visible.

To convey an adequate conception of this lode as it impressed me on first sight is simply beyond the power of mind to declare. Here are riches in abundance, but no one presumptuous enough to gather them; a perfect golconda that will not at present buy one a breakfast, and so this inestimable wealth lies securely intact. As magician's wand ne'er could have placed a spell so deep, because, forsooth, man has forgotten to bow to wealth. Pronounce, however, one single compound word, RAILROAD, to it and the mystery of its past slumber dissipates itself with as much alacrity, as its new born life will yield labor to hundreds of sturdy laborers in its now dormant foothills.

Judge, sir, the anxiety of my thoughts when at the last sitting of Congress it postponed the re-location of abandoned and unworked claims from June 10th, 1874, to January 1st, current year. Impatiently I watched and waited, and now the bars are let down. This sleeping wonder, that none so poor would do it honor, known on the old mining records as the "Green Monster," has become transformed in name and ownership; for on the first of January I had the superlative honor and satisfaction to plant stakes thereon for the highest limit in feet the new Congressional law allows, 1,500 feet in length by 300 feet on each side of the vein's course, having subsequently placed the same on the county records, and have done the requisite amount of labor expenditure by erecting a frame building, remaking roads, and more thoroughly determining the vein's true course by sinking surface shafts.

The significant term, "Green Monster," used by the original locators, suggests a great lode of carbonate ore, and such it most truly is to an extent remarkably wonderful, it being 25 feet wide in places, to its size and strength of metal. The color matter of the ore makes it distinguishable for a distance of two miles off. To approximate with any certainty as to its capacity for yielding ore, miners will readily understand it must be immense; 50 tons per day force of twenty pick and gad miners, and the requisite laborers to tram the ore to the dump-pile will be conceded by any practical working miner seeing the lode. Before coming possessed of it by location I selected only the average samples of the lode for analysis, forwarding the same to Dr. Isidor Waby, an analytic chemist of Exchange Place, New York, who returned me the values at 27½ per cent. copper, and $23 per ton crude ore in silver. Such ore would be worth in England to-day $110 per ton. On the surface of the lode broken by the late scratching operations enumerated in the description, and the natural disintegration of such an exposed surface of ore, there must be broken ore worth $5,000, which might be selected and barrelled at an expense probably of $200.

It is obvious with cheap rates of transportation to the sea coast this monster lode will give immense returns when properly developed by tunnels. With the natural facilities for starting, which cannot be excelled, as the lode runs directly through the hill at right angles, probably 100 tons of ore per day would be no exaggerated estimate of its yield. It is easy of access—so much so that wagons may drive to the dump-piles. Its distance from Independence being about seven miles, makes transportation to that place by teams of small moment on the railroad reaching there. The wealth of this mine becomes a realization, provided the railroad transportation is available. As it now stands, it is questionable if large margins for profit exist to attempt transportation by teams to Los Angeles; but the near or remote future will see this property developed, beyond a question, and whoever controls it when a railroad passes through the valley, will be possessors of one of the most valuable properties on this continent.

Its geological characteristics are, according to accepted theories of the best mining experience, unexceptionable, the ore occurring at the junction of limestone and granite, and to express an opinion as to the creation of so much ore, it is a simple verification of practical science to observe that, to the united elements composing those strata is due to the remarkable presence of this great bonanza. I cannot divest my mind, however, of the opinion that the lode must be seen at deeper points to disgorge its richer products, because it is in consonance with such geological strata to find silver ores associated with copper carbonates.

I have the honor to remain, dear sir, your obedient servant,

HENRY EUDEY.

THE WHISKY FRAUDS.

Secretary Bristow's exposure of the great whisky frauds has created the most intense excitement and consternation, not only among the guilty parties, but in the ranks of the politicians. The latter have, it appears been so much overcome that they have charged somebody—not clearly stated whom—with the most sinister intentions, and have alleged that the whisky revelations form "part of a stupendous secret political scheme." It is not at all clear what this scheme is. Commissioner Douglass has been dismissed, but in the light of these discoveries, the anti-administration people cannot now claim that it was to make a place for some administrations favorite. On the contrary it tends to prove that the administration is determined not only to put a stop to these gigantic swindles but to bring the swindlers themselves to justice, and though it is not charged that Douglass was a party in interest with the swindlers, yet his subordinates were hand and glove with them, and he was too blind or too inefficient to even try to interpose the slightest check. But not so with Secretary Bristow. He has certainly shown himself to be the right man in the right place, and an honest, resolute, sensible officer of whom the people may well feel proud. He has had to work in the face of obstacles such as would have utterly discouraged any ordinary cabinet officer, or anybody else. He could not rely upon scarce a single one of his subordinates, for they were soon discovered to be in full partnership with the thieves, and had been for the last four years. So general was the corruption found to be that it was necessary to confine all knowledge of the proceedings to the Solicitor of the Treasury and one clerk, and all the correspondence involved had to be withheld from the files of the department, while even in telegraphing a cypher had to be employed. So nicely had the division of profits come to be adjusted that towards the last a regular scale was adopted, the revenue officers receiving forty per cent, and the whisky men sixty per cent, the latter also paying the Government gaugers, storekeepers and bookkeepers.

The Eastern Extension.

The Borax Miner of the 22d, congratulates the people of Southern Nevada upon the flattering prospects of the early realization of their high hopes of railroad communication, now that it is almost a certainty that the Union Pacific is going to join hands with Los Angeles and Independence road. If our earnest desire would affect the object, our neighbors up that way would have the road to their doors before they were many months older. The only fear that we have that they will not get it from this direction is the possible chance that the line may be deflected to a more southerly route. Still, it is no part of the present plan to run easterly from any point south of this place, the terminus fixed by law; once here, the line is bound to be northerly and quite close to Columbus and through a region which will afford an immense business for any railroad.

Notable Death.

John C. Breckenridge, once one of the most noted men of the day, died at Lexington, Kentucky, on the 24th instant at the age of 54 years. For some years he suffered from ill health and has not appeared prominently before the public. Twenty years ago he had a splendid future before him, at thirty-five holding the second office in the gift of the people of the whole country, enjoying immense popularity The turn of events and the result of the war were against him, he has passed away scarcely causing a ripple on the public mind, another instance of the uncertainly of political greatness and popularity.

Spanish Protestants ask for Relief.

The German Government has received a memorial from the Protestant clergy of Spain, complaining that liberty of worship is threatened. Similar memorials have been forwarded to other Protestant powers in Europe and to the United States. The memorial asks the intercession of the Protestant powers in behalf of those who, once priests, embraced the reformed religion, and married while the republic was in existence, as by a recent decree such marriages have been declared null and void.

—The sad announcement comes from Brooklyn that Beecher is very weary with his long trial and would gladly resign in favor of some other defendant.

HOME POLITICS.

In another column will be found some earnest remarks addressed directly to the Republicans of Inyo, but applicable to all in the State. We hope this appeal may have sufficient effect to induce Inyo Republicans to try to shake off the feeling of doubt and uncertainty, not to say disgust, with which so many of them seem to be so greatly afflicted about these times. Look at our Inyo Democrats and all other Democrats wherever they may be caught Notwithstanding the immense weight of sin under which their party labors and is answerable for, where is the man among them bowed down with contrition and anxious to give up the fight? He isn't to be found; on the contrary he is more feverishly desirous of voting his regular, unscratched rooster ticket than if it was the identical bird which saved the eyes of this Great Republic instead of having tried to scratch them out. If he is ashamed of anything he is no less ready to maintain his party if not its every leader. He is yet buckling on his political armor and is not at all dismayed.

The Republicans have enough to be ashamed of, too, but nothing to compare with the others. They will have nothing to be ashamed of if they will gird themselves up and go into this fight determined to win. It is only a matter of incidental bad leadership in the past to be corrected, but a question of good or bad leadership in the future as to failure or success. In any event, particularly with regard to county affairs, there is everything to gain and nothing to lose by the Republicans putting themselves in the best possible fighting trim. We apply this remark to Republicans especially, not so much if at all from party preference, as in the conviction that the Democratic party is already too well in hand to stand in need of further inducements to organize. Our position is this: That when any party is left to feel that the whole matter of filling county offices is fully in its own hands, the work is practically accomplished in the nominating convention. In that case, and as a rule, these conventions are too easily manipulated for selfish, personal ends to afford any guarantee for the subservance of the best interests of the public at large. In such cases, as everybody knows, these conventions are little else than a mart for barter and sale between individuals. The public wish cuts scarce a shadow of a figure in the real choice of officers, when the predominating party has little or no opposition. When there is but little or no opposition to fear the predominating party itself is certain to be imposed upon by unscrupulous tricksters, who, in these conventions, almost invariably sell out or crowd the modest and deserving to the wall, trusting to party fealty to tide them, unfitness and all, safely into the desired official haven of pap and stealings. Such men, and not its objectionable principles, is what has thrown the Republican party of this coast into its present comatose state, from which it will not soon recover unless the doctors who meet in consultation at Sacramento on the 10th of June decide on very heroic treatment. In fact a change of doctors is imperatively required. It may not die entirely, but it is bound to drag out a miserable existence, strong as its constitution is, so long as the Gorham-Boruck treatment is continued. But it is not that we want to get at just now.

We want the Inyo Republicans to shake off their lethargy, which we hope is more apparent than real, and put the strongest possible ticket in the field without regard to State politics at all. As before stated there is everything to gain and nothing to lose. If unfit candidates are put up they will quite surely be beaten, which will be no loss or subject for regret, whereas, if superior men are put up it will take fully as good to beat them, which certainly promises a material gain over what we are likely to obtain in the aggregate if the other party is permitted to start on the track in the belief they are going simply to walk over it. Party fealty, though less so now than formerly, is much more reliable in Democratic than Republican ranks, and more likely to accept indifferent men that the party integrity may be maintained, but at the same time, as our past county elections prove, Inyo Democrats will sometimes kick out of party traces when they find a better man for a county office among the opposition. That is why it is important they should have a strong ticket opposed to them. If it don't keep scrubs entirely out of the race on both sides it at least gives a better assurance such will not take the heat and coin at the end. It doubles the number to choose from, and gives a wholesome check on jockeying conventions. That is really all there is in party politics narrowed down to county affairs simply. Save in the little matter of party pride in the heat of contest, scarcely a man can be found who cares two cents whether our county officials are of this party or that. It does not make a particle of difference in county affairs, which are of the first consideration with all good citizens not strictly politicians. And even with those, not personally interested, there is not enough in the prestige of victory, as affecting State or National politics, to induce the majority to take a bad or an indifferent county officer when they can find a better one in the ranks of the opposition.

If the Republicans of this county will take hold without the least regard to the distractions threatening the unity of their party throughout the State, and bring out a good ticket, they will elect their own ticket in whole or in part, or compel their Democratic brethern to name equally as good. Such a move is surely the best guarantee this county can have for efficient officers, and in that belief and desire we offer these remarks, and give place now to so much that may be taken as partisan in character. Though both proprietors of this paper are of the Republican faith, and as individuals may now and then give their Democratic friends a dig in the ribs, there is nothing further from our wish or intention than to make THE INDEPENDENT a partisan journal in any respect, and most assuredly not with reference to county officials. If we have anything to say in these columns for or against any candidate it will not be because he is of this shade of politics or the other. Although we admit the importance of every one fulfilling his political duties according to the lights before him, there is too much in their partisan aspects foreign to our tastes to allow us to attempt their discussion except when it becomes something of a compulsory duty—a contingency not likely to occur with us this season.

Questions Answered.

[From The Los Angeles Herald, May 21.

A prominent San Francisco financier writes to The Herald for information concerning the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad. He says he is interested in the mines of Coso and Panamint, but that parties with whom he is negotiation for the sale of these mines do not believe that our railroad will extend sufficiently far into the interior to enhance and facilitate mining operations in that locality. They believe it probable that the road will be built out forty or fifty miles from Los Angeles, and there stop and wait for bids from the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. In answer to our correspondent, we will say that we have every reason to believe that the gentlemen who are investing in the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad are acting in good faith and intend to build the road, not only from Santa Monica to Independence, but to extend it Eastward from the Point-of Rocks to a junction with the Utah Central, a distance of only 490 miles, thus giving us a continuous railroad from Los Angeles to the Western terminus of the Union Pacific. The through connection is now under consideration, and meets, we are informed, the approval of Senator Jones and other capitalists associated with him. The building of the road from this city to Independence, we regard as a certainty. The citizens of this county have subscribed the amount—$300,000—asked by the incorporators, and every part of the work is moving forward The route has been surveyed and the road located a greater portion of the distance between Santa Monica and the Eastern end of Cajon Pass. The heaviest portion of the road between this city and the water is now completed. A great deal of heavy grading has been done in the vicinity of Cajon Pass, and work on the tunnel in that Pass has been crowded as rapidly as possible. The piles for some seven or eight hundred feet of the wharf at Santa Monica are already driven and the structure is growing out into the water as fast as men and steam can build it. Senator Jones has given orders to have the wharf done by the last of June Ties and iron sufficient to complete the road from Santa Monica some distance east of this city are now en route and will arrive in a few weeks. Chief Engineer Crawford has just returned to this city from the East, where he has purchased locomotives and rolling stock for the road. These are the facts, and we offer them in evidence that the road will be built from Santa Monica to Independence. We cannot, of course, offer anything to allay the fear expressed that the road will ultimately pass to the control of other parties, nor is the probability of its doing so a matter for grave consideration. The road, once built, will be operated by some one, and this is all that is necessary to insure the development and prosperity of the country.

Indians Shun Blood.

The bloody clothes of Beal and McCreery, the two murdered men, and the mattress on which their corpses were laid in the City Hall, were offered to a number of Indians yesterday; but, notwithstanding their well-known fondness for cast-off clothing, they shrank from them in horror, refusing to touch them. Finally, the Indian who bosses the street cleaning consented to remove them for four bits; but he would not touch them himself, but sub-let the contract to an Indian boy, giving two bits. The boy dragged the articles to the foot of the grade, followed by a crowd of squaws, fascinated with the sight of the blood with which the articles were besmeared It is the common impression that Indians make no more account of human blood than they do of that of a wild animal, but their action in this case refutes such a supposition.—[Austin Reveille.

Daily Savings.

On the subject of daily savings, much has been said and written, yet we feel that this matter cannot be referred to too often. We therefore reproduce the following from The Banker and Depositor:

One of the good results of the savings bank sytem, is the habit of economy which it teaches. A little saved every day soon becomes a large amount, when deposited at interest in a savings bank In fact, but few people are aware of the results to be accomplished in a series of years by the habit of saving a small amount each day putting it to interest. Most persons spend these small amounts on unnecessary and useless luxuries; and, because each amount is small, they fail to take any particular notice of it and utterly fail to estimate the aggregate of such spendings during the course of life. In this way many a man spends a fortune without knowing it; and in this way, too, the poor are kept poor. Most people in this country who enjoy an average degree of health, and who are industrious, earn, at least, a small surplus beyond their necessary expenses; and, if they would save the surplus, and put it to interest, they would find in the end a much larger accumulation than they had anticipated. Thousands of them would have a competency if living to old age, instead of being dependent on the charity of others.

The following table shows what would be the result at the end of fifty years, by saving a certain amount each day, and putting it at interest at the low rate of six per cent:

Daily Saving.	The Result.
One cent	$ 950 00
Ten cents	9,504 00
Twenty cents	19,008 00
Thirty cents	28,512 00
Forty cents	38,016 00
Fifty cents	47,520 00
Sixty cents	57,024 00
Seventy cents	66,528 00
Eighty cents	76,032 00
Ninety cents	85,537 00
One dollar	95,041 00
Five dollars	475,203 00

At the average rate of interest paid by our California savings banks, these sums would be nearly doubled. This table is worthy of careful study. It conveys a very important lesson to everybody, and especially to the young men of the present age. How many of them spend no less than fifty cents or a dollar day for cigars, or some unnecessary luxury. And older men, laboring men, and servant girls, spend annually amounts which, if saved up for a series of years, would make them a fortune.

The fact is, the miseries, poverty, beggary and want that prevail among men, especially in this country, spring very largely from their prodigality. They manage to consume as they go along, all their income, whether from business or wages; and, hence, they are always poor, thousands of them never being worth enough to pay their funeral charges A great many fortunes that might have been saved are lost in this way. If the entire body of society were to act on their principle, it would be in the state of permanent pauperism, consuming as it goes along all the products of its industry, and, hence, living from hand to mouth. The only reason why this is not true of all is that a portion of the people do not consume all they earn or produce; and hence, they have a surplus, which goes to make up the aggregate of the general wealth.

Assault and Battery.

Wednesday, P. Perasich, who has been appointed administrator of the estate of his brother, entered the building known as the French Restaurant, for the purpose of appraising the property on the inside, consisting of bottles of liquors, tables, etc. While this was going on, Messrs. Tonsley & Mersich, who claim to have a lease on the building, and to have purchased the stock, objected, when, it is alleged, Perasich shoved or put them out. A complaint was entered against Perasich for assault and battery, but after an examination he was discharged. And now comes the plaintiff and enters another complaint against the said Perasich, for misdemeanor, in that the said defendant forcibly ejected the said plaintiffs from the said premises unlawfully and by force. His Honor, Judge Smith, at once issued an order that the defendant enter into a bond of $500 to keep the peace, which we believe he gave soon after.—[Panamint News, May 22.

Columbus Items.

During the past week we have noticed Mr. George Storey busily engaged in cleaning up and putting things to rights about his mill, in all of which he was assisted by two noble red men from the White Mountains, who condescended to assist their white brother in consideration of certain silver coins and orders for "hogga-die" issued by the pale-face aforesaid, and all of which were duly honored at the kitchen door of the Symposiac. We hope these movements portend something which will result in the starting of the mill. The Columbus mill and mines, and wood ranches and roads, constitute a property by far too valuable to lie idle.

We learn from good authority that the Northern Belle Company have shipped thus far during the month of May bullion to the value of $60,000, and that about $12,000 more will be ready for to-morrow night's express. The entire shipments from the Northern Belle for the current month will press close upon $100,000.

From a friend who visited the Northern Belle to-day, we learn that the mine is looking splendid. The new ore body, or rather the lower level, struck in the tunnel, is proving richer and better every day, and is producing better ore than the levels above. Everything about the mine is working smoothly under the new management.—[Borax Miner, May 22.

AN ADDRESS.

[COMMUNICADED.]

To the Republicans of Inyo county: At the present, when the time is at hand to pay serious attention to our political duties, we hear a great many complaints about the frauds perpetrated in political circles and the incapacity of office-holders, and many citizens, if called upon to exert their political rights, answer that they are disgusted with politics in general and office-holders in particular. We differ with them in their views on that point, for we think, that not the office-holders are to be held responsible, but that the primary cause of the evil is to be found in this indifference of themselves. It is with a community as with some business firms—if they choose incompetent persons to act as their agents, the public will not hold the agents responsible, but all blame will be attached to the firm itself, and people will say that they ought to have chosen good and capable men to transact their business. Is there any difference between a private business firm and its agents and a community and its elected officers? The law imposes the duty and the privilege on them to select their own servants for the public good, and if they should find that they were mistaken in their officer, it offers them the remedy by making county officers eligible every two years. And as a business firm, if it wants to prosper, will discharge unfaithful agents and employ better ones to take their place, so a community ought to profit by their experience, go to work and hunt up better men to transact the affairs of the public For this reason it was made a law in the Republics of Sparta and Athens in their most glorious and prosperous days, that every citizen must belong to some political party. To sit still and fold our hands in our lap, to sigh and say: "What is the use—we are disgusted with politics and office-holders," will never do in a Republic—but let us organize, be it in convention or en masse—let us come to a definite conclusion and try to remedy matters by selecting men of undisputed honesty and capacity to act as our agents; men who will command the respect of every party and who have the interest of the county at heart, and the future will become brighter.

And as the Republicans showed themselves in the dark days of the late war masters of the situation and elected men who saved the commonwealth, so are we satished now, that we have men in our ranks at the present moment who will, if elected, not shrink to do their duty, but will show themselves worthy of the trust confided in them. Let us therefore be active and organize; pick out those men and fill our offices with them, and we may well hope that a brighter dawn will follow the clouded sky of our political horizon, and having these sentiments in view, the Republican meeting for next Monday, May 31st, was called and we expect of the Republicans of Inyo county, to give it a full attendance and to do their whole duty.

Mrs. Lincoln, widow of the late President, as been adjudged insane, and has been consigned to a private asylum at Batavia, Illinois. It has been known by Mrs. Lincoln's family and friends for several years past that her mind was unsettled to a degree, which fully warranted her being called insane; but a natural reluctance to take any steps which would make the fact known to the general public, has heretofore influenced them against retraining her in any way of her liberty, or putting her under medical treatment for her mind. Recently, however, her condition has been so much worse that it became absolutely necessary that something should be done for the unfortunate lady.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞Our Only Terms: CASH, IN ADVANCE Paper invariably discontinued upon expiration of term of subscription.☜

Co. D's. Scout.

Capt. Macgowan and his detachment of Co. D. arrived at the Post last Sunday after their 25 days' scout, south and east of Cerro Gordo. The command was at Cerro Gordo some ten days and more. During the whole of that time, owing to the liberality of the citizens generally, and of V. Beaudry and the Water Company in particular, every necessary required by the command, individually and collectively, was supplied to them free of cost. Indeed, Mr. Beaudry gave them not only carte blanche for wood, water and "grub," but for almost anything any member of the command required at the stores. It was certainly a very liberal arrangement. The Captain furthermore says that from all Mexicans, at their houses, and wherever he met them, his command was received with not only due respect but unmistakeable kindness and hospitality, and he does not hesitate to say that he thinks it decidedly unjust to hold that portion of our population, responsible as a class, for the wrong doings of a few of their number—and in this there is not a doubt but he is right, although there can be but little question that some, perhaps quite as often through fear or force of circumstances as from sympathy, have shown a disposition to screen the outlaws if not to encourage them in their high handed operations. There is one fact in connection with the operations of the military in this scout we are sorry to have to note. That is that notwithstanding the courtesies they received from all classes, and nothwithstanding the large promises of extensive citizen co-operation in the field, not a citizen co operator put in an appearance anywhere. The command spent some time at Old Coso and vicinity, and one result of the expedition is the conviction that it is all a myth about the bandits maintaining a ranch of stolen stock out in that section anywhere. Citizens can, as well as heretofore, get their stock, whenever they want to go after them. Another result is that it is settled there is no grounds for apprehending trouble from Indians on the east side of the Inyo Range. From Salt Valley southerly to Coso it does not appear that the whole number of "buck" exceeds twenty-two, and they are as docile as sheep.

An Inyo Lawyer's Tribulations.

This story comes to us, though in rather an equivocal manner, as a "true fact" of recent occurrence in a certain locality in this county: A young man became violently anxious to have a mother-in law, "with all that name implies." But he first submitted the matter to the "old man" as to whether he might have his fair daughter. "Well, I reckon so," was the reply; "if the gal says yes, it's all right." Next, the momentous question was propounded, sans ceremonie, to the adored Doxy Ann. The adored said "no," with some little emphasis. A second appeal, differently worded, produced a precisely similar result, and this extra, to wit: The adored, quite vehemently, battered him over the head with a long-handled spade. Seeing there was an error somewhere he retired to his lonely home to cypher it out. All night long till after break of day he cogitated and wrestled with dismal thoughts and doubts, finally comforting himself in the conviction that the intended mother-in-law could fix it up. To her he went. With a few certain conditions, the old lady admitted she would love to have him for a son-in-law. Without further inquiry as to the conditions, the loving swain went somewhere, got passably drunk and a buggy team and returned to the dwelling of his heart's delight, determined to tote her off or bleed. By this time the male parient had taken new counsel with himself, and concluded it would be the proper thing to run that amorous swain clean off the ranch—and he did with more celerity than politeness. This little circumstance furnished the loving young man abundance of food for reflection, but whether it has extinguished the flame that was consuming his viscera is one of many things we don't know.

Scarlet Fever.

It was hoped this dread disease had disappeared from this section, but in the sudden death of one little one in this place, an universal pet and favorite, we have the sorrowful proof that our hopes were not well founded. Other little ones have recently been attacked by this disease or something very similar, among them a young member of THE INDEPENDENT family, but we are happy to state, without serious results.

Successful Surgery.

Martin Cahill, one of the garrison at the Post, is about again after having undergone quite a delicate operation a few weeks ago. He had been suffering from anearism of the artery of the shoulder. April 30 Dr. White, Post Surgeon, successfully tied the sub-clavian artery, causing the tumor to commence to disappear at once, and now the patient appears as well and hearty as ever.

To Appoint Delegates.

The Democratic County Central Committee, let those interested remember, meet in this place next Thursday to select three delegates to the State Convention to be held on the 29th of the same month. The Republicans meet for a similar purpose next Monday; two delegates to be selected for the Convention which takes place on the 10th.

Lecturing.

P. B. Randolph, author and traveler, delivered a couple of lectures here this week. Not having been present we cannot undertake an account of his discourse further than to say that it was listened to with much interest. It was interspersed with anecdotes of travel, the topic being the immortality of the soul as viewed from a spiritualistic stand point. The lecturer is a good talker, and is a man of note as an author, traveler and politician. For some time past he has been at Bishop Creek, and during a lecture made use of some remark giving such offense as to cause him to receive a foolishly threatening letter. One of his friends wrote out a statement of the facts for publication in this paper. Mr. Randolph brought this letter to this place, and entrusted it, so he informs us, to a little girl who said she would place it in the Postoffice. This she did not do, nor has it ever came to hand. If the writer will be kind enough to again forward us a statement of the facts we would be pleased to give it place. As it is, not understanding the particulars of the case, we do not feel justified in attempting any account of it. In another column will be found a card from Mr. Randolph in which an allusion is made to this occurrence, aside from which he returns warm thanks for the universally kind and respectful treatment he has received from every one in this valley with whom he has come in contact. He goes from here to Los Angeles, thence to his native place, Toledo, Ohio, whence he proposes to issue a book having special reference to the mineralogy and geological peculiarities of this region.

Darwin.

Prospects at Darwin are brightening very much. Hoffman & Co. are working three shifts on the Christmas Gift and Lucky Jim, work goes steadily ahead on the Defiance, the line of the tunnel now showing over 80 feet of solid ore, and still a third ledge to be tapped. At the same time work is being actively pushed on numerous other mines, and in every case, so far as we have heard, with truly astonishingly satisfactory results. Among the later developed mines is one called the Independence, located near the Christmas Gift. This shows five and a half feet of high grade carbonates, averaging over $400 to the ton, with no appreciable amount of waste in any portion of the ledge, opened in numerous places for a space of 600 feet. Some Mexicans in the southern portion of the district are about to start up two furnaces, one of a capacity of two tons of bullion per day, the other somewhat lighter. It is also considered a settled fact that the Coso Company will have a large furnace running in a very few weeks. This company are purchasing other mines and are preparing for a very thorough and extensive business. We have not the least doubt in the world but that Darwin will sooner or later, be the leading lead bullion producing district on the coast.

"Show 'em to Us!"

Not long since, so the story goes, four well armed robber hunters sallied forth in the direction of Darwin to gather the scalps of a few "buffalo gnats." Marching valiently along they came on to a lonely wayfarer who seemed to have had trouble with his donkey, whose cargo was scattered about on the ground. "Have you seen any of them d—d greaser robbers? They are the fellers we are after," they fiercely remarked to the man in trouble. "Yes, gentle*men*, I have seen 'em. They just now went through me, and that's how this jackasses' pack got slung around this 'ere way. Ef yer want to ketch the black skunks, there they are, right in sight, not a mile away," said the man in trouble eagerly and exultingly as he pointed out two horsemen just ahead. "Yer don't mean it!" said the blood thirstiest scalp hunter, "Pack up your jackass, quick, and we'll stay and protect yer." And they staid with the man in trouble till his slow going donkey ambled safely into town. Those fierce scalp hunters were good hearted men after all, but we really haven't the least idea in the world who they were, which is their loss if they hoped for a place in the high annals of newspaper fame.

Only Two.

By putting this, that and the other together, and accepting the story of good Mexican citizens as true, the reported big gang of bandits becomes whittled down to two hombres just and no mas. How this may be, we, of course, have no means of judging except from current stories. But as a matter of fact, it does not satisfactorily appear, that more than that number have been identified in any of the late outrages, and the description given of the two tends to show them identical in all. One of them has been represented as a boy about twenty; the other, a middle aged man, both well known throughout the country as Jose Guerro, lately shot, and Cruz Lopez. Last week the story was, there was not less then twenty of the bandits and more coming. This week the story, fully as plausible, is that there was but two at any time, and now one of those is dead. "It's a quien sabe case."

School Census.

School Trustees throughout the county are hereby reminded that, according to subdivision 16, Section 1617, School Law, they are required to appoint Census Marshals for their respective districts, and have the census taken and returned to County Superintendent on or before 1st of July.

We learn that C. & M. Cohn, Lone Pine, have now one of the finest and largest assortments of general merchandise to be found in the county. See their new advertisement, or what is better, go and see their goods.

Excited.

Owing to the various rumors and uncertainties connected with the killing of the alleged Mexican robber at Chimney Meadows, the Mexican population of Lone Pine and Cerro Gordo became excited, and for a time it was feared considerable trouble might grow out of it, particularly as divers American barroom braves were loud in their denunciations of the whole Mexican race, their foolish bravado inducing the Mexicans generally to believe they would have to combine for self-protection. Quite a party of Mexicans prepared themselves to go to the scene of the killing, and determine for themselves whether or not the dead Mexican was really Guerro, known to be a robber, or Beltran, as he asserted himself to be just before his demise. As Beltran is a man of respectability, if found shot the conclusion would at once have been that he had simply been murdered. The fact that the authoroties had taken no steps to investigate the matter tended to greatly inflame feeling. Had such an investigation settled the fact that the deceased was one of the robbers, and that it was true about the stolen articles having been found upon his body, all feeling in regard to the uncertain manner of his taking off would have been allayed. While this state of affairs was at its hight at Lone Pine, Captain Macgowen and his command arrived there. Through his advice a meeting of both Americans and Mexicans was called to consider some plan to restore better feeling. The attendance was quite large and it was decided to appoint a committee of safety to take general supervision of matters, to whom all complaints were to be referred, and to do what they could to promote a better understanding between the two classes. The committee was to be composed of six, three Americans and three Mexicans, the latter to choose the representatives of the former, and vice versa. The Mexicans chose Dr. Gelcich, A. C. Harvey and C. D. Begole, and the Americans selected Juan Meza, Jesus Corrasco and Ignacio Preciado as such joint committee. At the special request of the Americans, Juan Meza, who has the respect and confidence of everybody, was named the chairman. A similar arrangement had been previously made at Cerro Gordo, the committee consisting of F. Hermosillo, a popular man among both Americans and Mexicans, F. Alday, J. Carillo, W. L. Hunter, A. Leide and W. R. Johnson, selected in the same manner as the Lone Pine committee, and like that, every member standing high in the mutual esteem of both nationalities. The selection of these committees, notwithstanding the uncertain nature of their duties, seems to have had an excellent effect. The Mexicans are determined to do all in their power to put a stop to the outlawry chargeable in justice to but a very few of their people, while on the other hand, the Americans will see that the innocent shall not be held responsible for the wrong doings of the guilty. We are not advised as to what action was taken in reference to the deceased robber, but presume a joint effort has been made to determine his identity. If it was Guerro, about which there can hardly be a doubt, it will be voted all right on both sides. If not an investigation will be demanded, and should have been long before this. But here we will state, that when Coroner Wayland, early last week, was informed of the killing and attending circumstances, he proposed at once to proceed to the ground and hold a proper inquest, but being told on satisfactory authority that the scene of killing was a number of miles in Kern county, as it undoubtedly is, he considered it beyond his jurisdiction, and that is why nothing was done by the Inyo authorities. It is very nearly one hundred miles from here to where the body was found. We hope, and are inclined to think, we have heard the last of these highway outrages.

Sudden Death.

Last Monday morning, H. Warnerfield, a highly respected citizen of Bishop Creek, was found dead in the field some 200 yards from Mr. McClaren's house. An inquest was held, and after a post mortem examination by Dr, Middleton, it was decided that a tumor about the heart was the immediate cause of death. The deceased had spent the previous evening in visiting at McClaren's, appearing quite as well as usual. Soon after starting for his own house he fell under the fatal attack, but nothing was known of this until the following morning when an Indian reported him lying dead as found. Deceased was about 40 years of age, a native of Germany, and we believe, leaves no family.

Narrow Escape.

A few days since a party of young folks from Big Pine went on a pleasure excursion down to Owen's River, a couple of miles distant. While there, two of the gents, whose names we have not learned, and Miss Dora McMurry got into a small boat and started across to the other shore. When about the middle of the stream the boat filled with water, and all the occupants had the narrowest possible chance for their lives, Miss Dora having about gasped her last when she was finally rescued by some one from the shore.

The San Felipe Mining Suit.

We expected to have received the report of the Supreme Court decision in the above named suit in time to give at least a synopsis of it for this issue, but up to the present nothing of the kind has come to hand.

The Ball Opens.

See those political announcements. We shall reserve all comments on candidates until after nominations, but will say that officers a good deal worse can be had than either of these now before the public.

Pine Mountain, Lida and Around.

MESSRS. EDS:—Over the Inyo, or White Mountain Range, again dawns the star of excitement and prosperity.

PINE MOUNTAIN

Has assumed a permanency, and beyond a reasonable doubt, will be a success. How can it be otherwise, with such a man as John Broder, at the helm; the vim, and snap with which he pushes things forward, most fully assures one at first glance. The road up the canyon is receiving the finishing touches, and can well be pronounced, "very good" by its maker. About 75 men are at work in the camp and by the end of July, things generally will be "paying."

"PIKE PIPER."

Just how Mr. Piper got the name "Pike," we are not prepared to say. He has not exactly the dialect of a Pikeist, neither the habits, although he has a "powerful site," of "go-a-head-ativeness" and a "right smart sprinkle" of foresight, and his wife is as "pert a little gal" as you would see in ten days march. Well, "Pike" sees a prospect of selling "truck," so his batallion of Piutes are turning over ground and planting "spuds too fast."

PIGEON RIVER STATION

Never looked more promising than now, The new style, dry-water, gas power, saw mill, is in successful operation, cutting lumber for the flumes of the placer mines at Tule Canyon, which is being worked upon paying principles. I believe Mr. Black the proprietor of the mill, has a contract to cut a large bill of flume lumber for Mr. Murphy, the proprietor of Pigeon River station; this station is one of the best on the line, and all it lacks is the sweet smiles and gentle voice, of the "tother" half; but the generous host is always prepared to accommodate the hungry traveler, with as good an article of "Murphy," as the country affords.

LIDA VALLEY

Is looking up sharply, as will be seen by your Lida correspondent in last issue. The only wonder to me is, that its rich ores, and abundance of it, don't attract the attention of some good company, who will take hold and work the mines profitably. George Hearst is about starting up the Montezuma mill, in fact men are already at work upon the mill and in the mines. George knows his biz and will succeed. Come, George, and take a look at Lida; you may see something worth looking after.

JOTTING.

May 24th, 1875.

Reveille.

By the Tybo stage last night we have glowing reports from Reveille District. The Reveille mill, it seems, is even surpassing the expectations of the company. Eighteen bars of fine bullion have already been shipped from a twelve days run on Gila ore, the bars averaging over $1,000 each. Only part of the machinery has been in operation, owing to the insufficiency of quicksilver, which will shortly be remedied. The castings for which the company have been waiting, are now on hand, and the mill will very soon be able to run to its full capacity.—[Belmont Couriur, May 15.

Incendiarism.

The incendiaries have apparently started out to destroy Los Angeles. No less than four fires on the night of 22d, three of which clearly the work of incendiaries. In one of these one firm, Dotter & Bradley lost some $24,000. The general loss was not heavy, owing to the timely discovery of the several fires.

A CARD.

In leaving Owens Valley, I desire to express my most grateful and heartfelt thanks to all with whom I had the happiness to become acquainted. Never in all my life in any land or community, have I ever met a nobler or more generous people than these of Bishop Creek, Round Valley and Independence; nor a more full and generous hospitality. I met offence in but one instance, and I fully exhonorate all the people of the above localities from all attempts at intimidation, believing as I do that they are wholly uncapable of first inviting a man to speak, and then threatening his life because he did so. It is too small a business for such men, nor do I believe they ever authorized or suggested violence. P. B. RANDOLPH.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

The House We Live In—In other words, our bodies—are held on repairing leases. We must prop and sustain them when they exhibit signs of weakness and decay, or they will inevitably break down. In DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS, a matchless compound of newly discovered medicinal herbs, peculiar to the Pacific region, the debilitated, the bilious, the rheumatic, the consumptive will find the most genial tonic and restorative ever offered to the suffering invalid. It contains no alcohol, and consequently leaves no sting behind. n25tf4

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

Saturday, May 29, ...1875.

Ex-Senator Nye.

Referring to the illness of this unfortunate man, The Gold Hill News remarks:

There are hundreds of citizens in this portion of Nevada who, differing widely from him in politics, yet learned to admire his splendid social qualities and the brightness of his intellect. And there are others who, during the dark days of the war, when rebellion against law was frequent and sometimes successful for a period, and when traitors assumed the garb of patriots, and under the plea of State love, and State allegiance endeavored to tear down a government not only mightier but more necessary to free institutions than any State's existence, remember how his voice rolled out over the heads of multitudes commanding them to loyal service, entreating them to faithful action and warning faltering citizens of the danger of weak-kneed allegiance. We have heard his voice in trembling accents plead for the rights of suffering humanity as represented by a race down-trodden, or raised in dire denunciation of those who sought to build upon a prostrate race an empire in the South, and can hardly realize the sadness of the change which now overshadows and will doubtless darken his few remaining days. Let us hope that, if surely there be no hope that in this life the veil which lies between his reason and unreason will again be lifted, those days which sever him from the hereafter may be mercifully shortened; that the end may soon come and the dimmed intellect now hampered by physical infirmities emerge therefrom into perpetual freedom.

Mutton Stew.

Take such scraps of mutton or lamb as are not fit for chops or cutlets. Just cover with water. Add a little onion and parsley, and season with salt and red and black pepper. Boil two eggs hard, or if making a good sized stew use more. Mash or grate the yolks fine, and stir them into a tablespoonful of butter and the same amount of browned flour. Stir into the stew just before dishing. Let it boil up once after adding this, and serve as soon as it thickens.

Information Wanted.

Mr. F. M. Huston, lately from Iowa, is in Visalia endeavoring to learn the whereabouts of his father, Franklin Huston, who, when last heard of was in Panamint. Said person is of short stature, standing about five feet four inches. Any information in regard to him will be gratefully received at The Times office. Neighboring county papers will please copy.—[Tulare Times.

Starch.

Coffee starch for black and dark brown calicoes, percales and muslins; also for grass cloths and Hollands:—Mix two tablespoonful of the best starch into a paste with cold water. Stir it into one pint of boiling coffee well settled. Boil ten minutes. Stir a few times with a sperm or wax candle. Strain through a cloth and use.

—A poor, shriveled up, weakly-looking Storey county husband habitually complained to his buxom wife of being cold. "Well, my dear," said she the other night, "I'll have to get some eggs and set a hen on you!" He is now visiting at his uncle's.—[Lyon County Times.

—The coming insane asylum keeper to visitor: "Do you mean that man with his head bowed, his eyes cast down, and his lips moving? Oh, yes; he was spelled down too; but he keeps right on practising just the same; I believe his word is 'syzygy.'"

HEALTH! BEAUTY!!

STRONG AND PURE RICH BLOOD—INCREASE OF FLESH AND WEIGHT—CLEAR SKIN AND BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION SECURED TO ALL.

DR. RADWAY'S Sarsaparillian Resolvent

HAS MADE THE MOST ASTONISHING CURES SO QUICK, SO RAPID ARE THE CHANGES THE BODY UNDERGOES, UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF THIS TRULY WONDERFUL MEDICINE, THAT

Every Day an Increase in Weight is Seen and Felt.

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine and other fluids and juices of the system, the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphilis, Consumption, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the system, Sore Eyes, Strumous Discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm, and all wastes of the life principle are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.

If the patient, daily becoming reduced by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, succeeds in arresting these wastes, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure.

Not only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excel all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional and Skin Diseases; but it is the only positive cure for

Kidney and Bladder Complaints, Urinary and Womb diseases, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brick dust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like white of an egg, or threads like white silk, or there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and white bone-dust deposits, and when there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the small of the back and along the loins. Tumor of 12 Years Growth Cured by Radway's Ready Resolvent.

BEVERLY, Mass., July 18, 1869.

DR. RADWAY:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried everything that was recommended; but nothing helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief; and there is not a sign of a tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter and happier than I have for twelve years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the bowels, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS!

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art, so soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any interior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

Terms.

One Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE one year, the Chromo and the Art Union.

$6 00 per Annum, in Advance.

(No charge for postage.)

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtainable only by subscription. SHERIFF'S NOTICE OF SALE.

WHEREAS, UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF a decree or judgment of foreclosure rendered by the District Court of the 16th Judicial District, in and for the county of Inyo, on the 7th day of May, A. D. 1875, in a certain cause therein pending wherein P. P. Gerrish was plaintiff, and J. F. Yager was defendant, it was among other things ordered, adjudged and decreed that sale should be made by the Sheriff of Inyo county in the manner prescribed by law for the sale of real estate, of all and singular, the property therein described, that is to say: All that certain lot, piece or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in the town of Panamint, Inyo county, California, being twenty-five feet front on South line of Main street, in the town of Panamint, county of Inyo, State of California, by a depth southerly of a like width to South street in said town of Panamint, and lying west of and adjoining the lot of Wm. Hamilton, to pay the sum of seventeen hundred and seventy-seven 05-100 ($1,777 05-100) dollars U. S. gold coin and the costs and expenses of sale, of which decree a copy duly certified under the seal of said Court has been delivered to me.

Now, therefore, I hereby give notice that on the 7th day of June, A. D. 1875, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., in front of the Court House door, in the town of Independence, county of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the said property at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash in hand, in gold coin of the United states.

J. J. MOORE,
Sheriff of Inyo county.

Sheriff's Office, Inyo county, Cal., May 13th, 1875. n256t4

ELECTION PRECINCTS ESTABLISHED.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, THAT TOWNSHIP No. 6 of Inyo county, already established, bounded as follows: Commencing to the north at the U. S. Township line between U. S. Townships No. 17 and 18, and extending therefrom to the southerly boundary line of Inyo county, and bounded on the west and east by the boundary lines of said Inyo county; be, and hereby is divided into Election Precincts as follows, to wit:

Mars and Mercury on the Frontier.

[From The New York Tribune.]

We all admit that war is barbarous, and that familiarity with scenes of slaughter must deaden some of the finer sensibilities of men. But there must be something far more degrading than war in the service of our Indian Department, or we should not see the contrast which is daily and hourly presented on the frontier between the behavior of the army and that of the Indian agents of the Government, in their dealings with the aborigines and the pioneers in the Western wildernesses. It should be remembered that the army has little to do with the Indians, except to keep them in bounds and to punish them when they transgress. The soldier's aspect to them is always stern and serious; while on the other hand, the trader and the agent are gentle and gracious ideals; from them come flour and beef and whisky, bibles and rifles, soft greetings and gunpowder, candy and compliments—everything calculated to make the Indian good and happy. But in spite of all this, the Indians trust the soldier as implicitly as they fear him, and they regard the civilians with whom they deal, from whom they get everything they want to gratify their vices or to support life, who form their only medium of communication with the Great Father at Washington, with an intensity of hatred and contempt which are but dimly expressed in those occasional outbursts of savage eloquence with which Red Cloud, and Spotted Tail, and others have from time to time startled the readers of newspapers.

The simple explanation of the matter is that the army is well nigh the only refuge of mere decent honesty on the frontier. Though almost his sole duty is to kill Indians, or be killed by them, the word of an officer of the army is worth more to any savage chieftain than the oath of any civilian representative of the Government. It requires no especial subtlety to see why this is so. There is a tradition of honor and honesty among the officers of the regular service which nothing but malice will deny. You may explain it in any way you choose, but it cannot be explained away. Many of them are far from saintly in various aspects, but you will scarcely ever find one of them who is not as safe as piece of machinery in the Mint in all matters affecting the public money. One reason of this undoubtedly is that the service is so rigidly systematized that stealing is very difficult, and generation after generation of soldiers, recognizing this fact, have grown up honest, and go through no struggle of temptation when intrusted with large amounts of funds. In this they have an immense advantage over the unfortunate dependents of the Indian Ring. They hold their places from thieves; they are appointed often because they are known to have India-rubber consciences; they work in a system which affords only encouragement to gross knavery. We have recently shown in these columns how easy it is for the agents and traders to steal about half of what they pretend to issue. We have no right to be astonished at the result. The Commissioner of Indian Affairs plaintively admitted the other day that he could not get honest and capable Indian Agents for $1,500 a year. But the Government gets officers for very little more, who are both honest and capable, because they serve with traditions of honor behind them, and under circumstances where it would be infinitely harder to commit frauds without detection than to do their duty without reward.

The soldier has another useful instinct which the civilian official lacks; he is accustomed to obey orders whether they are pleasant or not. When Col. Henry was ordered last Winter to comb the Black Hills for miners, he made no question, but started off in the artic desolation to do what he was told, paying the penalty in horrible suffering and loss of life and limb among his command. This Spring the order was renewed to Capt. Mix, and he, more fortunate, rode a month or so through the trackless, snowy wastes, found the miners' stockade, and brought every man into camp. Suppose Mr. Delano had been intrusted with this business—how would it have been done? A Ring would have formed by instantaneous nebular development, "my son John" and his friends would have arranged matters among themselves, the local rings of Wyoming would have been conciliated, and before the expedition ended, which of course would not have been until pleasant weather, the title to the choicest bits of land in the territory would have been held in itching palms, and not an order emanating from the Government would have been executed. When the soldier receives an order, his first and last thought is to execute it. When one of the Indian Ring receives an order, he begins nimbly to calculate what there is in it, and whether he can make more money by disregarding it altogether than he can by pretending to obey it. If the soldier fails, he is court martialed and ruined. If the Ring man is caught and denounced, he is too often vindicated by his chief; and if he is not, he is allowed to keep all he has stolen.

All Night on Mount Shasta.

A. F. Rogers, United States Surveyor, and Jerome Fay as guide, ascended Shasta Butte on Wednesday, April 28th. They experienced no difficulty in going up or down. On Thursday, April 29th, Professor Muir, accompanied by Mr. Fay, made the ascent and experienced no trouble whatever in getting up. They remained on the top of the Butte till 3 o'clock, when they determined to make the descent, as it had already commenced storming. They did not get more than 400 feet from the top until the storm raged so furious that it was almost impossible for them to keep their footing. They were liable to be blown into eternity at every moment; not only that, but the storm was so violent they could not see where they were going, so they retraced their steps back to the summit. There they both lay down with their feet buried in the hot mud on the edge of the spring, which is very hot, and remained there during the night. Fay did not even have his coat with him. The roaring thunders all around and far below them were terrific all night. When day broke they found themselves literally blistered all over. As soon as possible they, wet and cold, started to make the descent. Just before they got to the camping ground they met Mr. Sisson, who had started out to their rescue. He met them just at the nick of time, as Mr. Muir was so badly frost-bitten they had to haul him down some quarter of a mile on canvas. Fay was slightly frozen, but is doing well. Rogers and Muir started below on the 24 instant. Mr. Muir is not seriously frozen but will have pretty sore feet for some time to come. The object for making the ascent at this time was to see if a monument could not be built on the summit. Mr Rogers thinks the project quite feasible, and eight chances out of ten it will be put up. Mr. Fay informs us that the monument will be 30 feet high and from 12 to 14 feet wide at the base. Sisson informs us that he has taken the contract to pack the material to the summit. There will be from two to three hundred pounds of it.—[Yreka Union.

Kern County Seat Injunction.

As we go to press we learn at the Recorder's office that an injunction order has been signed by Judge Reed. Its commands cover all the requests of the Plaintiffs. The bond given is in the sum of $8,000, and is signed by J. J. Murphy, Geo. D. Buffum, Victor Amy, J. W. Blackbourne and E. E. Calhoun. Each justifies in the sum of $2,000 over and above all liabilities and all property exempt from execution. The bondsmen are made of three residents of the railroad town of Sumner—Mr. Calhoun, who is acting as attorney for the Railroad Company at Tehachepi, and the merchant at Havilah who was given a lot by the Railroad Company in the town of Sumner where he has erected the only brick building. If anything more is needed to give complexion to the matter we are no judges of color. The order of the Court, made without notice, together with the small amount of the bond, $8,000 excites universal surprise, and subjects his Honor to the repetition on all sides of his former loud declarations of hostility to Bakersfield, and to comment upon his still retaining the only property he has in the county at Havilah, and uniting with the few remaining citizens in concocting and advancing the present disreputable scheme.—[Bakersfield Californian.

A Great Discovery about Light.

Prof. William Crookes has made one of the greatest discoveries in relation to the action of light which has come before the world since spectrum analysis was first made known. He has demonstrated that direct mechanical effect can be produced by light when luminous rays are allowed to fall upon one end of a most delicately balanced lever arm suspended in vacuo; the contrary has hitherto been assumed. This great discovery fraught with unknown uses to society, may be fairly claimed as having been given to the world through Spiritualism. In endeavoring to obtain instrumental evidence of the existence of the assumed psychic force, and to test mediumistic power by causing it to move a few grains in a glass vacuum tube, he discoved a motion produced by an unknown cause, but finally traced to radiant heat, and, in working further at the new discovery, Mr. Crookes has been able to make fresh revelations to the world relating to light.—[From The Spiritual Scientist.

Cooling the Thermometer.

One Winter's day a boy thought he'd play a trick on the pretty school-mistress, and make her think the room was fearfully cold. So he put his face close to the thermometer, under pretense of seeing where the mercury stood, and then very slyly blew upon it as hard as he could. Then he went to his seat, pretending to shiver, as if he felt very cold. The school-mistress, seeing him shiver, instantly walked to the where the thermometer hung.

"What does this mean?" she exclaimed. "The mercury stands at 92°. Open the windows!"

The boy stared, as well he might. He hadn't cooled the thermometer at all, but had sent the mercury up to more than Summer heat.

"Very queer," thought he. "When I want to cool my porridge, I blow it. Why don't the same thing cool a thermometer, I'd like to know?"

So should Jack like to know. Who can tell him?—[From Jack-in-the-Pulpit, St. Nicholas.

Graduated.

A boy in Williamstown, Mass., became a man in this way: While hoeing corn one afternoon he turned to his father, who was working with him, and said: "What time is it, father?" "Half past 2," replied the senior farmer. Throwing down his hoe, the son graduated from his farmer life with this remark: "Twenty-one years ago, father, at half past 2 in the afternoon, I was born; you can do your own hoeing after this!"

"Come into the garden, Maud,
With a brickbat and a stone;
Here's the biggest cat you ever sawed,
Gnawing a chicken bone;
Run like the mischief, Maud,
I'm here with the beast alone!"

—A widow, being cautioned by her minister about flirting, said she knew it was wrong for maidens and wives to flirt, but the Bible was her authority. It said "widow's mite." She was flirting awfully at last accounts.

IMPORTANT LAND DECISIONS.

Copp's Western Land Owner, for May, contains a full list of the various decisions recently rendered by the Secretary of the Interior establishing the following principles: Questions of fact and extent of conflict between two mineral lodes cannot be decided by the Department, but must be left to the Courts; therefore in all cases where a mining patent is issued for claim A, conflicting with another claim B, previously patented, the excepting clause in the last issued patent will read as follows: "Excepting from this conveyance surface ground conveyed to said B company by its patent, dated ——, and also excepting from this conveyance so much of the B lode, if any there be, as was legally conveyed to the said B company by its aforesaid patent."

In regard to soldiers' homesteads Secretary Delano decides that a soldier is entitled to 160 acres of land under the Homestead law of June 8, 1862, provided his original entry of less than 160 acres was made prior to the passage of said Act, as an adjoining farm or as a homestead entry. This reverses the decision of the General Land Office dated December 10, 1874.

Commissioner Burdett decides on a case coming up from California, that officers and soldiers while in the regular army are not entitled to the benefits of the Homestead Act of June 8, 1872.

Commissioner Burdett also decides that the second section of the Act of March 3, 1873, gives to the executor, administrator or one of the heirs the absolute right to complete the necessary proceedings for the acquisition of title in case of a deceased pre-emption claimant, and it does not devolve upon the Land Department the duty of inquiring if there are any heirs; but if there are any it casts the title distributively upon each by including him in the general provisions.

Praying Against the Grasshoppers.

The Governor of Missouri has issued his Proclamation calling upon the people to observe Thursday, June 3d, as a day of fasting and prayer, in that they may obtain Divine protection from a threatened grasshopper pestilence. Intelligence reaches him from all directions that there is danger that all the crops will be destroyed, as in Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa last year. The Governor is confident that nothing short of the interposition of Providence will save the crop, and hence his Proclamation.

Constitutional Convention.

The last Legislature passed an Act requesting the voters of California to vote "For the Convention" or "Against the Convention," at the general election in September next, and if a majority of all who vote for members of the Legislature shall be for it, a law must be passed next Winter calling a Convention to revise the Constitution of the State. The members will be chosen at a special election in 1876, and the new Constitution will be submitted to popular vote, perhaps not till 1877.

Sherman's Memoirs.

General Sherman's Memoirs are creating a decided sensation among the army officers, whose record on the late war he is said to have criticised with great freedom and considerable severity. Montgomery Blair is out in a letter defending his brother, General Frank P. Blair, against Sherman's aspersions and attacking Sherman himself. It is stated that Sherman has been offered $60,000 by the Appletons for the copyright of his book.

The Opinion Granting a New Trial.

The opinion of the Supreme Court in the San Felipe Union mining suit is in the following words: "Irrespective of other points made by the appellant, and which need not now be considered, we are of an opinion that the Court below erred in instructing the jury that the agreement of August 4th, 1870, was sufficient in point of law to divest the interest of De la Mere and vest the same in plaintiff so as to enable the plaintiff to recover that interest in this action." The remittitur was ordered to be issued forthwith, and a copy of the same from which the above is taken is now on file in the County Clerk's office.

Scarlet Fever.

Great alarm exists in various portions of the State of Nevada on account of the prevalence of malignant scarlet fever. As yet, however, but few fatal cases have occurred.

EXPEDITIONS TO SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

It is understood that a portion of one division of Lieut. Wheeler's expedition will operate this year in Southern California, including portions of the coast range and the Sierra Nevada, extending westward as far as Death valley. In addition to general geographical pursuits by Lieut. Wheeler during the last five years, he has been directed to make a special examination and survey with a view to determine the practicabilty of diverting the water of the Colorado of the West for irrigating and other purposes. He will also send a small party to co-operate with a similar one sent out by the Smithsonian Institute to make archæological researches and collections in Santa Catalina islands.

A party will also leave the University of California about the 10th of June on an exploring expedition to Yosemite, Death valley, Mt. Whitney, etc. Prof Joseph Le Conte will head the party, which will consist of five or six of the Professors and students. The party will go on horseback, and will be provided with arms, pack horses and complete outfits. The collections made in the different departments will be sent to the University museum. The interior of the State, and especially the higher mountainous regions, possesses features of great interest to the scientific student. To geologists perhaps no place in the United States offers greater inducements for research and examinations; and to collectors of objects of scientific interest here is a magnificent field open.

St. Nicholas For June.

This splendid publication opens with one of the most charming frontispieces that have yet appeared in the magazine, illustrating a fanciful poem by Rachel Pomeroy, about a little giant-girl, who is certainly unlike any other of her race with whom we are acquainted.

Stories of adventure have by this time come to be a fixed fact with the boys who read St. Nicholas, and they will fully appreciate the interesting account of the manner in which a "First Trout" was caught, the article telling them just "How to Camp Out at the Beach," and a certain crisis in the story of "The Young Surveyor." As for the girls, they will testify that there is no lack of enjoyment for them when they have read the chapters of "Eight Cousins," "The Story for the Bird-defenders," "Christinchen's Answer," "Among the Lilies," and many other good things too numerous to mention

Italy and the Pope.

Just when the Pope has celebrated his eighty-third birth day he suffers another rebuke in the suspension of a Roman newspaper for publishing his address to the German pilgrims. This act is harsh, but it is also an indication that the Italian Government is not disposed to give Germany any ground for complaint that might disturb the peace of Europe.

Byrd Wilson Again.

This unmitigated scoundrel is still making himself conspicuous as a swindler, as may be seen from the subjoined taken from The Rescue of May 27th. We will remark here that this swindler is not a Good Templar, having been expelled from the order some time ago. Darrah, the gentleman whom he is personating, is a gentleman in every respect:

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20th.

A few days ago a man representing himself to be a Mr. Darrah, a surveyor from Independence, Inyo county, and a nephew of an Episcopal clergyman well and favorably known in this State, came on board the ship St. Paul, and expressed a desire to go as passenger to Paita. He expected a remittance from Independence, called several times on board, said he was a Good Templar and an Odd Fellow, and as his remittance was a day late, he suggested to the second mate and carpenter of the ship during the absence of the captain a small loan, saying if the latter was on board he could borrow any amount To make it short, he swindled them out of $27, an overcoat, and a clean shirt for Sunday. He did not come on board to go to Paita. It is hoped this scoundrel will be looked out for. His trade is that of a professional bilk and thief. He may be a Good Templar; if so, they will be on their guard.

A. D. W.

A Scaly Girl.

The Milwaukee News says: There was a young girl at the Police station recently, not over 16, with a prepossessing face and good figure, whose limbs were covered with scales about the size of, and similar in appearance to, the scales of a fish. Medical gentlemen who have examined her say that she presents the most extraordinary case of malformation on record. The scales have the chamelion-like function of changing their color. The scales on her arm, while the writer was present, changed twice from a pale amber color to a blood red and back again. They do not overlie each other, as in the case of fish or repitiles, but appear to be imbodied in the flesh in a sort of mosaic work, and in the color changes the transformation does not take place at once in all the imbricated plates, but varies, some turning red, while others retain the amber color which seems to be the primary hue.

From Carson to Independence.

Our dispatches yesterday, from Los Angeles were jubilant over the prospects of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad, and it is reasonable to believe that the greater portion of the road will be built during the present year. That will bring railroad connection within a few miles of two hundred miles from Carson City. That link ought to be speedily filled. Fifteen hundred dollars per day receipts would pay twenty per cent, per annum on the cost of the road; assuming that it would not cost over fifteen thousand dollars per mile. The road would skirt one of the finest timber regions on the continent; it would command the trade of the flourshing mining district of Columbus, and the swiftly-opening districts in Esmerlda and Mono Counties. There are borax and salt marshes on the road, and its southern terminus would connect with a road which would place Los Angeles and the seashore within twenty-four hours of Virginia City in winter, and Lake Tahoe within a day's reach of the tourists of Southern California in summer. The Big Trees and Yosemite would be from different points on the road, but a day's ride distant, and the grain and fruit of Southern California could be landed in Carson as cheaply as it now is in San Francisco. The building of the road would insure the building of great reduction works at Carson or Reno, for much of the ore in the South can be more profitably shipped and mixed with other ores than to be worked separately. We have left Aurora out of this count, when the prospects now are that the trade of that town alone will, before three years, justify the building of a road to it. It is the best little route for a railroad on the coast.—[Virginia Enterprise.

A Visit to the County Seat.

[COMMUNICATED.]

We left Panamint at midnight, in charge of Charlie Haines, booked for Independence. The romantic sights of Surprise Canyon were veiled to our gaze, save where the coach lights disclosed a dangerous place for an upset which always created a spasmodical effort on our part to preserve the equilibrium of the wagon by leaning closely to the up-hill side—it is my candid opinion that our presence of mind saved the necks of the party and the thanks of the said others were tendered us by the frequent passing of a cherished bottle. Across Panamint valley led the smooth and level road into Shepherd's canyon, where we routed out Jake Ottenheimer and took "sherry and egg in our'n." Shortly after sunrise we reached that villainous compost of sand and flies, known as the Junction. No house at this station with cheery bar to greet the weary traveler, so Charlie told us we could lie down in the hay and snooze until the up stage came to take us on to our destination. A cup of villainous black coffee was given us by the hostler, and as the flies mired themselves in it so thickly we found it more convenient drinking with the aid of a fork. Junction flies were about as interesting to us as a female conversation at the front door is to the coach flunkey. At last our stage hove in sight loaded with grasshopper sufferers from Kansas, bound for the fertile borders of Owens Lake to find rest where no inducement exists for the little winged infidels to follow them. On we went through sand and cactus flats and about 11 o'clock reached the new town of Darwin, where but little activity now exists, and where we were informed that stage passengers eat breakfast at the next station, twelve miles beyond. As it was long past any reasonable breakfast hour, we decided to forego that healthy exercise for the day and take dinner at the first opportunity. Our disappointment was so great we lost all interest for Darwin, and only stopped long enough to look at our dusty faces in the mirror behind Ned Reddy's bar. On we rolled over a delightfully smooth road for twelve miles to Orne's station, where breakfast was announced at 1 o'clock P. M. The time of day reminded me of a Panamint sport's breakfast, which usually consists of a gin cock-tail, a walk and a cigar, but we accepted the apology for the lateness of the hour and fell to work at a most excellently served table, even having good rich milk for our coffee, something never heard of in Panamint, and the taste of which was only revived by recalling our babyhood. Paying Mr. and thanking Mrs. Orne, we took our departure. We soon arrived in sight of Owens Lake—that vile cup of bitterness, the virtues of whose waters we explained to the Kansas sufferers, and guaranteed that if the grasshoppers followed them, they could turn them into soap by conversion and baptism.

Over the tortured and wrinkled hills bordering the lake, the stage went, "steady by jerks," convincing us of the correctness of the remark of Billy Balch, the driver, who assured us that "the devil made this country." About 3 o'clock we reached the lonesome town of Swansea, where all nature seems to have gone to sleep, but then we thanked the stage Co. for a fresh relay of horses and rapidly rolled on over the smooth alkalied road to Owens River, where our first sight of green fields and tender buds reminded us of "the spring time, gentle Annie." About 6 o'clock we reached the supper station, and came near being disappointed again, for the stage was behind time, but an earnest appeal for something to eat secured us the permission to go through the formula. Hastily swallowing a little tarantula juice we hurried to the dining room where the young man in attendence bawled lustily through the cubby hole into the kitchen for "another hot round," stringing out the last word so theatrically re-o-und that we thought we were in Panamint again. The dishes were passed out dextrously by a son of the celestial empire and waltzed on to the table by the theatrical young man who who stood off about ten feet and shot the plates at the castor without spilling a bean, and startled us into admiration by his skillful jugglery, but the battered rim of the pewter castor and the broken necks of the vinegar cruets told of occasional bad firing—nevertheless he was a gem of a waiter, and if we ever go into the hotel business we shall secure his services, for his agility diverted our attention from the baked beans, overland stew and boiled hominy and a sight of the "hot round" will remain green in our memory. This meal served with a vengeance we boarded a little two horse stage that rattled and banged over the road with a musical sound similar to that of a kettled jackass in Panamint. This Northern stage line is "a brick" and it isn't Dow's fault if they don't make time.

Weary and dusty we reached Independence just twenty two hours from Panamint. On the following morning, rising late, we viewed with admiration the beautiful gardens, orchards and shade trees of this favored spot—it seems an oasis in the desert. No wonder that we Panaminters stared and fed our rheumy eyes upon sights that were greener than an Eastern capitalist; we forgot our morning cock-tail and astonished the inner-man with a feast of strawberries and early vegitables, regardless of the consequence we rioted in berries and "garden sass" as long as we staid to get even on our exile in Panamint. Independence is a beautiful home for any one, and we commend the industry of its citizens for aiding nature in making it what it is. We found the people sociable, kind and hospitable, wherever we came in contact with them and henceforth we shall speak with pride and pleasure of our shire-town. Independence has an institution—in fact several, but one in particular where we Panaminters did most resort, lured thither by Isaacs and Childs. It is a damp, dark and would be dismal place if not for two redeeming qualities—it is cool and supplied with delicious lager. Now as we return to Panamint a "busted community," we regret the good things left behind us and the hard fare in store on our return.

[From The News, May, 29.]

We are informed, by a gentleman who is in a position to know whereof he speaks, that "Lucky" Baldwin will soon take hold of some mines here on his own account.

Dr. Bicknell, who was innoculated by the virus received while performing a surgical operation upon the late W. D. Bourne for animal poison, has been around for the past few days, having almost entirely recovered, with the exception of considerable swelling in one of his thumbs. Wednesday last he consulted with Dr. Wells, and the two decided it best to open the thump, the latter performing the operation.

On the 26th inst. an affray took place in this town between James Buckley and a man by the name of Redding, the latter losing the upper portion of his right ear through the gastronomic propensities of the former. Redding swore out a warrant against Buckley, but when the case was called in Justice Smith's Court, at 4 o'clock P. M. of the same day, the prosecuting witness was non est. Judge J. M. Murphy, appearing for the defendent, moved for a discharge of the prisoner, which was granted. There is no doubt but that Buckley is under obligations to his friends for the non-appearance of the prosecuting witness.

From C. King, who came in from Indian Wells last Thursday morning, we learn that another robbery took place at Grayevine canyon, six miles north of Indian Wells, on the previous day. A Frenchman, with a four-horse team going north, toward Lone Pine, was stopped by five men, who robbed him of five hundred pounds of flour and other provisions, jewelry and money, besides two horses from his team. They afterward gave up the horses, when they told the French man to drive off, which he did, and they took another course.

Terrible Disaster.

An Eastern despatch dated, May 27, says:

A terrible disaster visited Holyoke this evening in the burning of the French Catholic Church, which was so fatally swift that sixty-six men, women and children were either burned or crushed to death in the panic. Near the close of the service a taper set fire to the light trimmings of the altar and spread rapidly over the walls. The seven hundred people rushed wildly to the one narrow entrance, while those in the galleries jumped down upon the mass below. Some reached the open air only to live a few hours, the flesh dropping from their bones. The mass of wailing people in the streets where relatives had suffered this most horrible of deaths, the flames of the burning building, the gathering of the dead for identification, and the comforting of the dying, all made a scene never before witnessed in the city.

LATER.—The total number of death is now reported at 76.

Every Candidate for Himself.

The people of Kern county have evidently no use for political Central Committees. The Democracy meet to-day at Caliente for the purpose of selecting State delegates, and delegates to meet Tulare in a legislative convention There will probable be no nominations made for the county offices. It is understood that he who wishes to run will have to do so on his own merits without the assistance of a "good man at the helm." As will be seen elsewhere, the Republicans propose to adopt the same course this year. This mode of procedure is considered by many as a reform. We shall see.—[Bakersfield Courier, May 29.

A Murderous Affray in Arizona.

A dispatch from Prescott, dated May 25th, says that a shooting scrape occurred yesterday at Smith's mill, Vulture mine, nine miles from Wickenburg, on the Phœnix road, between two men named Bullard and Babe. Babe was dangerously shot in the mouth, the ball lodging in his head, and fears are entertained of his recovery. Bullard was brought to Prescott for trial.

Small Business.

Some scrubs up the country, but at what particular point we are not able to say, played this mean trick on the Piutes: The scrubs told the Piutes that the troop of cavalry were coming to take the Indians of that section in hand, either to put them on a reservation or inflict some other punishment, but if the Indians would raise a sum of money, say a dollar each, to pay for the trouble, the scrubs, being men of influence, would guarantee that the cavalry did not molest them. Feeling seriously alarmed about it, each Piute rustled about and raised the required assessment. Having paid it over to the influential cusses, all felt they had done a wise thing, particularly when they noted that the dreaded "sojer men" went right along without stopping to trouble them in the least.

Committee Transactions.

A meeting of the Republican County Central Committee, six members being present, was held May 31st. Nathan Rhine was duly elected as permanent Chairman and T. F. A. Connely, Secretary of the Committee. W. B. Dougherty of Panamint, and P. A. Challant, of Independence were elected and accredited as Delegates to the Congressional Convention to be held in San Jose on the 9th interest, also to the State Convention at Sacramento on the 10th. The Committee then adjourned to meet on Thursday next, June 10th. when the apportionment for Delegates to the County Convention. and the time for holding the same, are to be definitely arranged and announced. A full attendance of the members on this occasion is especially desirable.

Internal Revenue.

V. A. Gregg, Esq, Deputy Collector U. S. Internal Revenue for this district, sold retail liquor stamps during the month of April to the amount of very nearly $3,000; of wholesale stamps, liquor and beer, he has disposed of $1,200 worth. About $3 800 of this comes from Inyo alone, the remainder being from Mono. Our population all sorts, sizes and colors, is now perhaps 2,400, three fourths of which are of the fair sex and parties under age, so these figures would afford a Father Matthew disciple a text for quite a sermon on temperance, political economy, etc. Nevertheless Mr Gregg has shown himself a very efficient officer since he has held the appointment of Deputy Collector.

Steals "Old Pinto."

A man named Geo. Wellington hired a horse, three days since at Brown's Livery stables, saying that he wanted to ride down to Lank's to get a pair of blankets he had there Not returning that day nor the following, Brown made inquiries and learned that Wellington had remained about the "Sage brush Saloon," drinking until noon of the second day, and had then left for parts unknown Deputy Sheriff W. L. Moore started in pursuit and will be very apt to capture the thief. The horse is well known to everybody as "Old Pinto," and will be recognised wherever he may go.

Wasn't Captured.

David Akers requests us to say that during his late trouble, he was not "captured" by the officers at all. On the contrary he was on his way to town, pursuant to the advice of his father and brother, to give himself up, when he was overtaken by the officers, who, at his demand, remained behind while he came in alone and surrendered himself to the Sheriff. The point is, that he voluntarily surrendered, after seeing the foolishness of his attempt to run away

Important to Voters.

It may be of interest to voters to know that by virtue of a new section to the election law, any person, previously registered, who has not exercised his right to vote at any general or judicial elections for the three years last past will have to renew his registration or he will not be allowed to vote at the coming election. The law makes it the duty of the County Clerk to cancel the names on the Great Register of all such negligent citizens.

Important Enterprise.

We hear that Col. Stevens is now in San Francisco, endeavoring to negotiate for capital with which to build his tramway, mentioned by us heretofore, from the Lake to Darwin. This, of course, is to bring ores and fuel together. It is not at all a difficult or expensive undertaking and sooner or later, some such plan must be put in execution, no matter whether the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad is built or not built.

Purified.

A party of innocents—including the Blue-tailed-fly—went to bathe in Big Lake, the other day. Never more will the turbulent waters of said lake turbulate. It is said that the alkali and borax is quietly settling to the bottom.

Democratic Central Committee.

Pursuant to published call the County Democratic Central Committee met in Independence on the 3d day of June at 2 P. M. Members present: A. N. Bell, D. B. Curtis, John W. P. Laird, John A. Lank, and Henry M Isaacs, Secretary.

The meeting having been called to order, the following business was transacted:

The Chairman, S. P. Moffat, being absent, D. B. Curtis was appointed Chairman pro tem.

It was moved and carried that Saturday the 26th of June, 1875, be the day appointed for holding the primaries at the usual polling places in the county for the election of delegates to attend the County Convention.

Moved and carried that the County Democratic Convention be held at the Court House in Independence, on Thursday, the 1st day of July, 1875, at 10 o'clock A M.

The following resolutions were then adopted.

Resolved, That no person be allowed to vote at the primary election unless he be an elector.

Resolved. That the officers of the several precincts are hereby instructed not to receive the vote of any known Republican at the primaries

Following is the apportionment of delegates to the County Convention:

Pine Mountain, 2; Round Valley, 2; Bishop Creek, 6; Big Pine, 3; Fish Springs, 2; Independence, 8; George's Creek, 3; Lone Pine, 5; Swansea, 1; Cerro Gordo, 5; Darwin, 2; Panamint, 12; total 51.

Following are the appointments of officers of the election.

For Pine Mountain--Inspector, John Chastain; Judge, ——.

For Round Valley--Inspector, David Olds; Judge, Wm. Horton.

For Bishop Creek--Inspector, John L. Bourland; Judge, I. P. Yaney.

For Big Pine--Inspector, J. W. McMurry; Judge, W. A. Baker.

For Fish Springs--Inspector, -- Jones; Judge, J. G. Bonds.

For Independence--Inspector, G. W. Brady; Judge, Joseph Schalten.

For Georges Creek--Inspector, James Shepherd; Judge, C. Keppler.

For Lone Pine--Inspector, I. N Coburn; Judge, J. G. Dodge.

For Swansea--Inspector, C. Dockweiler; Judge, ———.

For Cerro Gordo--Inspector, W. L Hunter; Judge, J. L Porter.

For Darwin -- Inspector, John Crough; Judge, E. A. Reddy.

For Panamint--Inspector, John M Murphy; Judge, J. T. Wells.

The following gentlemen were appointed delegates to the Democratic State Convention to be held at San Francisco on the 29th day of June 1875:

Edward Gallahger of Panamint; P. Reddy, John Broder, Independence.

Moved and carried that the Democrats of Mono county are invited to participate in joint convention at the Court House in Independence on the 1st day of July, 1875, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the Assembly.

Moved to adjourn subject to the call of the Chairman of the Committee.

Our Lida Valley Letter.

LIDA, May 29.

MESSRS. EDS:--Lida is little spoken of, now days. There never was much blowing about it, but now it seems that we are to take a place among the places more favorably known, as the Lida Milling and Mining property has been incorporated; capital stock three millions. Gold Mountain mines have also been

INCORPORATED

For the same amount. Similar steps have been taken with the Montezuma Mines. It is expected that active operations will be commenced by all those companies soon; should this be a reality, this Summer may prove to be a lively one. However, those camps do not entirely depend upon those companies. At present work is being done on several

OUTSIDE MINES.

The King Solomen is now producing ore worth fifty cents per pound, the Sewana as usual is producing ore worth one thousand dollars p r ton. Those two mines are owned by Len Martin and are leased. Simersen & Murphy are working their mines and are taking out some fine ore. They shipped some ore to Columbus for reduction. Lida Hill is also leased and is doing well The mill here is running on Brown's Hope ore

This camp is not worth a cuss, yet, it produces more ore and of a better quality then any camp on the Eastern slope with the same amount of capital invested, and all that this section of country wants is a Jones, a Sharon, or a Bill Stuart and a newspaper correspondent; but those we have not, but we have three weekly mails and they are infernally weakly at that.

AT GOLD MOUNTAIN

Work under a lease is being prosecuted on the famous Oriental with good prospects. At Montezuma quite a number of men are engaged at mining with good prospects. Several hundred tons of ore are already out awaiting reduction It is expected that the mill at that place will soon be started up, and when it does you will all wish you had stock in that company. AGENT.

Sold Out.

C. Harvey has sold out his blacksmith and real estate in Lone Pine, to Tobin & Co., and now goes to Pine Mountain to start in again.

Transfer of Restaurant Property.

H. Levy has purchased the French restaurant building, and will open in a few days.

The Bandit—The Question Settled.

From a detailed report sent to Capt. Macgowan, by the committee appointed at his suggestion to investigate the matter of the taking off of the alleged bandit, we have in brief the following: The committee, whose names are given below, went to Prewits place, and after due investigation now certify that the dead Mexican was none other then Jose Maria Guerro, a known robber. The details of the inquiry and evidence are quite interesting, but we are compelled to confine ourselves to the mere substance of the report. The shooting, first and last was done by John Spratt. He had fired at both Mexicans as they were driving him into the house. Seeing that he had wounded one of their horses, as well as one of the riders, as he believed, he, with another man the next day, followed the trail for sixteen miles into a canyon where there was water, and where they found the wounded horse. Looking carefully about, Spratt soon caught sight of the wounded Mexican, who was just in the act of firing at him, when he, Spratt, blazed away and sent a ball through his head, but "too low to kill him immediately." The Mexican could talk yet, however; said his name was Guerro; that he had robbed people but had never killed any one. He didn't live long, why, we need not state here.

The following articles were found upon the dead robber: A large sized Waltham watch, No. 10174, hunting cass ga vanized, fancy silver chain; one Colt and one Remington six-shooter, the last named, No. 13163; one Spencer carbine, seven shooter, No. 15.397; fancy memorandum book, with notes and dates when due, belonging to a man at Ft. Tejon, one slip of paper bearinn the name of Bart McGee; also recovered three horses, one belonging to Scott Broder, the others, one a bay, the other a sorrel, Spanish brands. Following is a verbatim copy of the report:

LONE PINE, INYO CO., CAL., May 29, 1875.

We, the undersigned members who were sent by the Committee of Six to investigate and find all particulars regarding the killing of the Mexican, do find that the man was one of the robbers or bandits, and that his name was Jose Maria Guerro. That we found him in the canyon de-cribed, and that we buried him according to Hoyle.

G. H. PALMER,
E. JULIUS CHELLIUS,
JESUS AVAYA,
JESUS CORONADO,
Investigating Committee.

Spratt is highly commended for his action in this matter. The result of the investigation is perfectly satisfactory to the Mexicans and everybody, and it is now considered settled, that we will have no more robberies from any of the late gang, whether it consists of but few or many.

Republican Meeting.

Pursuant to call a meeting of representative Republicans of Inyo county was held in Independence, May 31st, there being twenty five delegates in attendance.

P. A. Chalfant was chosen Chairman, and Geo. H. McCallum, Secretary.

The Chairman having stated the object of the call to be to appoint and apportion a Republican County Central Committee, to serve until the meeting of the County Convention,

On motion, it was ordered that the appointment of members of said Committee be as follows:

Panamint, 2; Darwin, 1; Olancha 1; Lone Pine, 1; Cerro Gordo, 1; Independence, 2; Big Pine and Fish Springs, 1; Bishop Creek, 1, and Round Valley, 1; total, 11.

The following named gentlemen were then duly elected as such committee:

Panamint, W. B. Dougherty, T. Hannelly; Darwin, A. C. Hanson; Olancha, Thos Passmore; Lone Pine, T. A. Rittger, who subsequently resigned in favor of R. A. Loomis; Cerro Gordo, W. R. Johnson; Independence, Nathan Rhine and T. F. A. Connelly; Big Pine and Fish Springs, T. J. Goodale; Bishop Creek, Jas. Shaw; Round Valley, Richard Hilton.

Moved and carried, that this meeting delegate to said committee full power to transact all other matters embraced in the original call, and to transact such further business for the good of the party as may deemed proper.

Whereupon, the meeting adjourned sine die.

P. A. CHALFANT,
Chairman.

GEO. W. MCCALLUM, Secretary.

Sylvania.

This district is beginning to look up a little, and we hope it will continue to do so till its real merits are fully established. A number of mines have been bonded on thirty-days' time, at good figures. Among them we can give the name of but one, the Uncle Sam, Titzen & Palm, owners, for the sum of $12.500.

Arrived.

Co. I. 1st U. S. Cavalry, Capt. Carr, commanding, went into camp near the Post last Wednesday. They will probably remain several days. There are about seventy in the troop, all told.

Died at Cerro Gordo.

We learn that Dr. James O. Grant, practicing physician at Cerro Gordo, died on Tuesday last, he was a native of Virginia, aged 34.

—A moving tail—a hungry dog's.

—"Dictionaries exchanged for caramels," says a placard in a Chicago candy store. The girls of that city will certainly participate in the spelling matches now that there is a market for the prises.

—"Captain" said a son of Erin, as the ship was nearing the coast in inclement weather, "have ye an almanik on board?" "No, I haven't." "Then, bejabbers, we shall have to take the weather as it comes."

Letter from Bishop.

BISHOP CREEK, May 23d.

MESSRS. EDS:—By request of a large number of the citizens of Bishop and Round Valley, we forward you this that all may see that as

THE WAR IS BEGUN—THE RIGHT OF FREE SPEECH IS DENIED—

That the people here intend to assert and maintain their right to, not only think for themselves, but to listen to whatever speaker or speeches we desire, when the opportunity offers. A number of the liberalists of Bishop Creek and Round Valley, a few weeks ago, made up a subscription and sent for

DR. P. B. RANDOLPH,

Then in Virginia City on his way to Boston, having spent the Winter on this coast, to come here and give a course of lectures. He came and has delivered ten lectures, which were full of truth, eloquent, and graphically set forth. He is one of the few that loves to call things right names, and to wield the sharp blade of ridicule and sarcasm upon the follies, bigotry and

SUPERSTITIONS OF THE AGE

Some of his lectures were highly applauded; but one, wherein he handled the clergy and their absurd doctrin of a hell of fire, and a devil, to roast souls to all eternity in; it was too strong meat for their weak stomachs, and the following note was sent to him by an Indian:

Dr. P. B. Randolph—DEAR SIR: Having listened to your grossly and insulting language last Sunday, we, the citizens of this place, do hereby solemnly warn you to delay no more than thirty-six hours in removing your polluted and polluting carcass without the limits of this township; and if any "nay" is indulged in, "Old Carion" will be under the painfull necessity of rowing a defunct one over the dark and turbulent waters the of river Styx."

VERY MANY CITIZENS.

P. S. Obey!

But this cowardly attack upon a noted speaker in the ranks of reform, who was guilty of no crime or misdemeanor, and only had presented the truth in too plain a manner to suit them, did not serve to hasten his departure from here not one hour, but when it shall be known who wrote this insulting, uncalled for threat upon the life of a peaceable stranger in our midst, he or they, will be called upon to settle in a way they may not like.

As to Military Aid.

In response to an inquiry by Captain Macgowan, the war Department says that no troops will be permitted to aid tha civil authorities under any circumstances whatever except by order of the President, or some special authority. We fancy this is another result of the hoodlum element in the South. There is much that might be said about this matter, but what's the use?

SPECIAL NOTICE.

The House We Live In—In other words, our bodies—are held on repairing leases. We must prop and sustain them when they exhibit signs of weakness and decay, or they will inevitably break down. In DR. DR. RADWAY'S Sarsaparillian Resolvent

HAS MADE THE MOST ASTONISHING CURES SO QUICK, SO RAPID ARE THE CHANGES THE BODY UNDERGOES, UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF THIS TRULY WONDERFUL MEDICINE, THAT

Every Day an Increase in Weight is Seen and Felt.

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphilis, Consumption, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the system, Sore Eyes, Strumous Discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm, and all wastes of the life principle are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.

If the patient, daily becoming reduced by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, succeeds in arresting these wastes, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure.

Not only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excel all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional and Skin Diseases; but it is the only positive cure for

Kidney and Bladder Complaints, Urinary and Womb diseases, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brick dust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like white silk, or there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and white bone-dust deposits, and when there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the small of the back and along the loins. Tumor of 12 Years Growth Cured by Radway's Ready Resolvent.

BEVERLY, MASS., July 18, 1869.

DR. RADWAY:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried everything that was recommended; but nothing helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief; and there is not a sign of a tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter and happier than I have for twelve years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the bowels, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS!

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any interior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

SHERIFF'S NOTICE OF SALE.

WHEREAS, UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF a decree or judgment of foreclosure rendered by the District Court of the 16th Judicial District, in and for the county of Inyo, on the 7th day of May, A. D. 1875, in a certain cause therein pending wherein P. P. Gerrish was plaintiff and J. F. Yager was defendant, it was among other things ordered, adjudged and decreed that sale should be made by the Sheriff of Inyo county in the manner prescribed by law for the sale of real estate, of all and singular, the property therein described, that is to say: All that certain lot, piece or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in the town of Panamint, Inyo county, California, being twenty-five feet front on South line of Main street, in the town of Panamint, county of Inyo, State of California, by a depth southerly of a like width to South street in said town of Panamint, and lying west of and adjoining the lot of Wm. Hamilton, to pay the sum of seventeen hundred and seventy-seven 05 100 ($1 777 05 100) dollars U. S. gold coin and the costs and expenses of sale, of which decree a copy duly certified under the seal of said Court has been delivered to me

Now, therefore, I hereby give notice that on the 7th day of June, A. D. 1875, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M. in front of the Court House door, in the town of Independence, county of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the said property at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash in hand, in gold coin of the United States.

Poisonous Gum Boots.

A correspondent of The Oroville (Butte county) Mercury makes a very serious charge, and one of such importance to a large class of citizens, that we consider it a duty to direct general attention to it. He states that the gum boots so universally worn by gravel miners in this State, have latterly been lined with green flannel, the dye of which is unquestionably arsenicated, and which has poisoned many persons, some fatally. It is at once apparent that if poison lurks in the flannel with which these boots are lined, no quicker method of imparting it to human beings could be found; for while gum boots cause profuse perspiration, they keep it all in, and thus whatever deleterious substance is in the flannel must be actually soaked into the pores of the skin. The Mercury correspondent, however, gives a specific instance of this kind of poisoning, stating that Mr. McKlary, who lives on Cane's Creek, near Enterprise, has been suffering for several months from the use of these arsenicated boots, and that but for a skillful physician and attentive wife he would have died. He further alleges that "three more cases are under treatment in this neighborhood (South Fork Feather river), and a number gone to the hospitals, trying to find better care than in their lonely cabins." This account is given by the appearance of the disease produced by wearing the poisoned boots: "The first symptoms are the swelling of the lower extremities to two or three times the usual size, and then the flesh turns black. The suffering of the patient is terrible, under a constant burning sensation, until death relieves him." It is stated that the complaint is almost universal wherever the green lined boots have been used, and reference is made to a company of Chinese among whom several deaths occurred last year, then attributed to an epidemic, but traced to the boots. We presume The Mercury's correspondent hits the mark in suggesting that some rascally Eastern manufacturer has introduced a cheap and nasty material for boot linings to increase the margin of profit, and to conceal the worthless character of the fabric has employed this brilliant green dye ignorant or careless of the consequences. It would seem that there should be a remedy in law against the manufacturer in this case, and we advise those who have survived the poisoning to take legal opinion on the matter. Meantime the press will do well to spread the warning against green lined gum boots, and thus prevent the diminution of the mining population. It is said that the poisonous boots come from Connecticut, and it would therefore seem that the people of that State stand in need of green laws, as well as blue.

The Great Clock at Venice.

On the dial-plate of the great clock the twenty-four hours are marked with the signs of the zodiac and the phases of the moon. Above this is the Madonna, sitting in state upon a platform between two doors. On grand religious festivals, such as Epiphany and Ascension, the door on the right of the Virgin opens and out walks an angel with a big trumpet, which he blows, and then bowing to the Madonna, passes on; he is followed by three men representing the Moorish monarchs, or three wise men, or the three sacred kings, one of whom is black as night. These all pause and bow before the Virgin, and the whole party pass through the door on her left, which immediately closes after them. On the platform is a huge bell beside which stand two giant figures, who strike the hour with sledge-hammers, while above all is the lion of St. Mark with outstretched wings.

—A pious young widow in Milwaukee, speaking of a handsome young fellow who lives in her neighborhood, says: "I feel set back a year in my religion every time I meet him."

—It is the wear and tear on the female intellect in the matter of deciding upon the arrangement of the new bonnet that is filling so many graves for the daisies to grow upon.

—Now that there is no longer any occasion for secrecy, won't Mr. Spinner be kind enough to tell us what the two initials of his name really are?

Pre-Historic Man on the Pacific.

A Sacramento paper of May 25th has the following: "Lauren E. Crane, of this city returned on Saturday last from a tour through Nevada and Sierra counties, and brought with him a curious piece of fossil wood. It was discovered in the South Fork tunnel, near Forest City, Sierra county, on the 13th ultimo, at eighteen hundred feet from the mouth of the tunnel, and under eight hundred vertical feet of mountain. The remarkable feature of the specimen consists in the evidence it bears of having been handled by man at some very remote period. The wood is not petrified, but is in its natural state. It is a piece of oak twenty inches long and fourteen inches broad, by about five inches deep—a section of a tree nearly two feet in diameter. It has apparently been cut squarely off with some moderatly sharp instrument, and has lain buried in the west bank of an ancient river channel, 4,500 feet above the level of the sea, for countless ages. The tunnel wherein it was found is in undisturbed ground, there being no tunnel or shaft in the vicinity by which the wood could have reached the interior of the mountain. No other fragment of wood was discovered near it. The relic has been forwarded to Professor Le Conte, President of the University of California. While relating the circumstances of the discovery, Mr. Crane informed us that in 1858 a similar discovery, but on a larger scale, was made at Alleghany, in the Alleghany Tunnel, in which James McCormick and others found, in the heart of the mountain, several pine logs four feet in diameter and seven feet in length that had been neatly sawed and piled up and had been buried in the bed of the old Blue river from time immemorial. Such ividences of the existence of man at the time the ancient rivers of California were facing the skies are very rare."

Py Shiminy! Ish Dot So?

There is doubtless such a thing as excessive promptness in emergencies. Presence of mind and determination are admirable qualities in themselves, but it sometimes happens that a decision made upon the spur of the moment is regretted upon a more deliberate survey of the field. This remorse seems to have overtaken, lately, a worthy Dutchman of Anaka county, Minnesota. The Dutchman was seeking to reach a town at some distance from Saux Centre, and to accomplish this must drive over the prairie from the latter town. He was unaccustomed to the road, and night overtook him with his vehicle fast in the slough, and no town in sight.

He sought the solitary farm house visible, and asked permission to stay till morning, the farmer telling the traveler, however, that it would be necessary for him to sleep with the children or with the farmer himself, as their accommodations were limited. Quick as lightning the Dutchman expressed his resolution not to sleep with the "bodderation shiltren," so he slept with the farmer. The rest of the story may be given in his own language:

"Vell, in der mornin', ven we comes mit der shtairs down, I see two girls apout seventeen und nineteen years old, und I ask der old man, 'Pees dem girls die shiltren you told me about?' und he say, 'Yaw; dem ish my only shiltren', und I says to myself, py shiminy! is dot so?"

Habit.

"I trust everythieg under God," said Lord Brougham, "to habit, upon which, in all ages, the lawgiver as well as the schoolmaster, has mainly placed his reliance; habit which makes everything easy, and casts all difficulties upon the deviation from a wonted course. Make sobriety a habit, and intemperance will be hateful; make prudence a habit, and reckless profligacy will be as contrary to the nature of a child, grown or adult, as the most atrocious crimes are to any of your lordships. Give a child the habit of sacredly regarding the truth; of carefully respecting the property of others; of scrupulously abstaining from all acts of improvidence which can involve him in distress, and he will just as likely think of rushing into an element in which he cannot breathe, as of lying, or cheating or swearing."

A Tender Flower.

There is no richer fascination for the senses than hunting horse-radish. The delicate petals are now observable above the rich brown earth. How lovingly the hands toy with them; how soft and refreshing the beautiful leaves are to the touch. Pure as the tear of Niobe, and as pungent as the aroma of Araby, it modestly lifts its fresh young face to the beautiful sun. We tenderly twine our fingers in its soft, shiny locks; we softly fondle its brow; almost unconsciously our fingers sink down into the border of rich mold, then they tighten, and then they press upward with a gentle heave, and out comes the timid and shrinking beauty—nearly a foot long and worth about ten cents.—[Danbury News.

—A London paper tells a very romantic story to the effect that the deceased elder son of a noble lord just now dead was secretly but legally married to a lady who gave birth to a son still living. She was was sworn to keep the facts secret until the death of the child's lordly grandfather. There is a certain gallant ex-Captain of the Lancers who will lose a long expected title and heritage if this story proves true.

A Swallowed Alligator.

We have read of Jonah being swallowed by the whale, and after ruminating and feasting in that aquatic animal for three days and nights, was delivered safely on dry land again; but never before have we seen a man who could swallow an alligator and give him peaceful possession of his stomach for three years, until introduced yesterday to both the man and the alligator, at the rooms of Dr. Gannon, in Clinton.

The victim of this monstrosity is a colored man by the name of Thos. D. Gaines, resident of Clinton for more than six years, and generally known.

Tom related the facts substantially as follows: "I felt something in my stomach for about three years, which sometimes made me feel very sick. I could not endure my clothes to be drawn tight upon me. My stomach became very sore, and at times ejected a green slime. During the last year or more, I was obliged to get up at midnight and drink milk to stop the raging in my stomach."

This thing, which is about four inches long—yet neither beast, bird nor devil, resembles the alligator, except the head which is like that of a frog. It has scales upon its entire body and legs. It has also long claws with which, Tom says, it has been scratching the very internals out of him for three years.

This pet of Tom's, which is now corked up in a small jar, is minus the end of its tail. Tom says he ejected the tail after he went home.

These statements are facts supported by affidavits, which are in our possession, of a number who were present when the animal was ejected.—[Lyons (Iowa) Advertiser, May 12.

Calves on Fire.

"The luck of a lousy calf" is an old saying; but it was bad luck for fifteen lousy calves, near Santa Rosa, California, when their owner undertook to free them of the vermin, the other day. He wanted to brand them, but finding that they were lousy, he first saturated their hides with coal oil, which he had been told would eradicate the varmints. He then applied the heated branding iron to one of the animals, and in an instant it was wrapped in a sheet of flame. The frightened calf at once ran in among its fourteen companions, and they were soon in the same blazing condition. We have heard of a fiery bull, but this is the first time we ever heard of a bull-calf on fire. It may be unnecessary to state that the lice were killed.—[Resse River Reveille, May 31.

A Swindle, Most Likely.

We are in receipt of a number of circulars and blanks from the "Office of Cal. Labor Exchange and R. E. Bureau, No. 8 Montgomery Avenue, up stairs." The circular respectfully solicits the aid of press and people to assist the "Bureau" in finding lands and employment for the poor emigrants. If you have a farm to sell to an emigrant all you have to do is to properly execute the power of attorney furnished, give a full and honest description of the land (be particular about that), enclose $5 (be very particular about doing this), and forward the whole to the "Bureau," where it (not the $5) will be placed on file and sold to the first emigrant that comes along. You will also observe a similar process, especially in regard to the $5, if you want an emigrant to work for you or anything of that kind. Though not so requested by the "Bureau," it would be better for you to enclose your photo along with the document and the $5, anyway if you have a plastic, gullible cast of countenance. This will greatly facilitate negotiations with a fastidious emigrant, and thereby lighten the labors of the "Bureau." We forgot to mention the fact, however, that the name of no person whatever is given as connected with this "Bureau," nor would it be any the less a swindle it there was. If it was by Josiah he would have put his name down as "General Agent," if nothing more. It must be the offspring of a bona fide emigrant.

A Murder at Santa Barbara.

The main facts of a most atrocious murder of a man by his own wife and her paramour at Santa Barbara have just come to light. The murdered man was named Norton. Jack Colton, a desperate villain, being the name of the paramour associated with Mrs. Norton in the murder. The precious pair, after giving out that Norten was about to start for Los Angeles, chopped him to pieces and buried him, with scarce a show of concealment, near the house. Mrs. Norton went to Los Angeles and shortly telegraphed back that her husband had died, leaving directions for the farm to be sold and the money paid over to her. After her return, this was done, and then she and her paramour took the steamer for San Francisco. The full details, as published, show this whole affair to be one of the most diabolical on record. Mrs. Norton had two small children, and it is supposed Colton murdered them for fear of exposure from their prattle.

A dispatch in The Gold Hill News of the 7th, says Jack Colton and Mrs. Norton, or parties supposed to be them, have been arrested at Wadsworth, Nevaka, and were taken to the jail at Reno, to await a requisition from the Governor of this State. The little children are still with them.

The Statistician.

The May number of this excellent monthly contains a variety of valuable features, not the least of which is the admirably arranged and complete list of post offices in California, Oregon, the Pacific Coast Territories and British Columbia. The other tables, with this, constitute a fund of information of easy reference just such as should be in every office and house. L. P. McCarty, compiler, 423 Washington street, San Francisco. Price, $2 per annum.

In Luck.

James Anthony & Co., late of the Sacramento Union, are considerably in luck. Ten years ago the Alabama captured a vessel carrying paper for The Union valued at $90,902, which amount with four per cent per annum, amounting in all to $119,562, gold, has been awarded them by the Alabama Claims Court.

The Resources of California.

The above as an exponent of the resources of California is the best paper published on this coast. It costs only $2 a year, and is just the thing to send to friends in the "States." The June number contains the picture and elaborate discription of that wonderful structure, the Palace Hotel. J. P. H. Wentworth, publisher, San Francisco.

Prominent Candidates.

Colonel Hollister, James M. McShafter, General J. F. Miller and Governor Pacheco are the prominent Republican candidates for Governor. As the choice was probably made yesterday at Sacramento, political affairs, heretofore in a very chaotic state, will now take definite shape. The fight will soon begin all along the line.

—What State is round at both ends, and high in the middle? Ohio.

A BAD SHOWING.

Hon. T. G. Phelps, in an elaborate speech entitled "Taxation and Reform," lately delivered in San Francisco, proves that this State is the most expensively governed of any in the Union, not excepting those of the South in sole control of the carpet bag thieves. Among other things, he tells us that the gross receipts of our State Treasury in 1853 were $454,185 85, and in 1873 they had swelled to $3,792,615 99. The gross expenditure of the State government in 1853 were $1,269,149 13; in 1873, $3,524,093 74. Such a vast expenditure as this for a population of but little less than million is unprecedented. Even the worst "carpet bag" government of the South are marvels of economy as compared with California. In 1851, on an assessment-roll of $57,000,000, the State tax levy was fifty cents on the one hundred dollars. In 1874, on an assessment-roll of $600,000,000, the levy was sixty-five cents on the one hundred dollars. In addition to this the taxation for county purposes must be taken into consideration. The total amount raised by taxation for county purposes in 1853 was $553,103 27, in 1862 it was $2,453,065 14. In 1871 it had risen to $4,850,876 37. Here we have the amount doubled in the period of nine years, and yet during that period there had been but a slight increase in our population. In 1872 it jumped from $4,850,876 37 to $6,300,493 54, an increase of nearly 50 per cent. in a single year. The "upward tendency" has not since met with any check. The amount raised by taxation for county purposes in 1874 fell very little short of $8,500,000.

As The San Francisco Chronicle says there are facts which should set the people upon whom rest the burden of taxation no pondering the situation. The existing condition of things is oppressive and the outlook is alarming. The rate of taxation per capita in this State has been for years steadily increasing, notwithstanding the promises of "retrencement and reform" made by every successive party that comes into power, and if we go on for ten years longer in the path we have been pursuing for the last decade, the State and many of its chief municipalities will be in a condition of hopeless bankruptcy. We have become accustomed to this recklessness and extravagance that no one seems to entertain the old fashioned idea that municipal governments ought to be administered with the same intelligence and economy which every good business man employs in managing his private affairs. Mr Phelps' address had no political character, the speaker declaring that he was willing to act cordially with any party, whether Republican, Democratic or Dolly Vardeu, that would honestly and in downright earnest address itself to the task of retrenching the expenses of government and reforming official abuses.

School and Churches.

A short time since the following dispatch came from Brooklyn:

The feature of the Long Island Diocese Episcopal Convention in Brooklyn, yesterday, was the report of the Committee on Christian Education, read by Rev. Stafford Browne. The report urges the establishment of a system of Episcopal schools, in which the Church children may obtain religious culture not possible in the public schools of the State. The report uses strong language in denunciation of public schools, and urges that popular schools shall be made christian.

In reference to this The Gold Hill News express our own views in these remarks:

This is the identical ground taken by the Jesuits in New York City. They, too, oppose the common school system of this country, and desire to substitute therefor, parochial institutions, where their peculiar dogmas may be taught, at public expense. In a word, they demand the right to compel all tax payers to contribute to the propagation of a faith, to which, perhaps, three-fourths of them give no adherence. And now they find an ally in the other "only true Church."

We protest against this incessant warfare against our common schools. It bodes no good to those who stir up strife, for next to the Bill of Rights and fundamental law on which this Government is builded, its citizens hold most in reverence the system now jointly attacked by ultramontanes and high churchmen. And before either or both shall succeed in demolishing what is justly considered one of the bulwarks of our free institutions, they will find aroused a public sentiment which will bode no good to the leaders of these machinations. We are tired of this war of defense. It is unnatural for the American people to stand continually with uplifted hands crying forbear. Tolerant as is our Government, there is a limit to forbearance, and that extreme is near at hand when its institutions are imperilled either by churchmen or aliens. These may be able to pull down the strongest pillar of a our governmental edifice, but we warn them that, as was the case with Samson, they will mingle with the ruins.

—An Illinois enthusiast, who wishes to give his idea of heaven, says: "It's an endless prairie of flowers, fenced in with pretty girls."

THE INDIAN RINGS.

It would seem that the Indian Ring thieves have about succeeded in their hopes of nullifying all chances of a peaceful settlement of the Black Hills question. Red Cloud, Spotted Tail and other chiefs have been dragged two thousand miles, ostensibly to negotiate a sale of their Black Hills lands to the Government, really to keep them from selling it. The Indian Agents, those rapacious thieves, do not want the sale made because it would bring them, their agents, contractors and traders under the public eye, and by inducing legitimate competition from outsiders, break down their transportation and trading monopolies through which by wholesale robbery of both Indians and the Government, they are amassing great fortunes. For these reasons they are concentrating all their ingenuity and influence to defeat the projected negotiations, and unless the President shall personally determine to counteract their schemes all hopes for the opening of the Black Hills to settlement during the present year may as well be abandoned.

Everything is being done to disgust and exasperate the Indians that have gone to Washington. The Great Father turns the cold shoulder to them, and commits them to the tender mercies of the Indian Commissioner, and the Indian Commissioner is doing his level best in making them uncomfortable and discontented.

He jams them into a truly pious but inconvenient hotel, and refuses them the trifling favor to be lodged in the more commodious quarters occupied by them on their former visit to Washington. The managers "spare no pains" to exasperate the Indians, and thus render a solution of the difficulty impossible. The chiefs, though seeing the overwhelming power and means of the whites, turn sadly on their heels and say rather than submit, they will go back and die fighting for their homes.

Meantime the Agents and Contractors will flourish. While they can maintain proper antagonisms they do not fear competition or damaging disclosures such as would be ruinous to prominent men from the Rocky Mountains to the Potomac, and beyond.

The whole management of Indian affairs ought to be turned over to the military, and while doing so a few penitentiaries ought to be filled with Indian Agents and their backers.

President Grant's Letter.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, D. C. May 29, '75.

DEAR SIR:—A short time subsequent to the Presidential election of 1872, the press—a portion of it hostile to the Republican party, and particularly to the administration—started the cry of Cæsarism and the third term, calling lustily on me to define my position on the latter subject. I believed it to be beneath the dignity of the office which I have been twice called on to fill, to answer such a question before the subject should be presented by competent authority to make a nomination, or by a body of such dignity and authority as not to make a reply a fair subject of ridiculous treatment. I have been surprised that so many persons in the Republican party should permit their enemy to force upon them or their party, an issue which cannot add strenght to the party, however met. But a body of the dignity, and particularly a Convention to make nominations for State officers of the second State—having considered this question, I deem it not improper that I should speak. In the first place, I never sought the office for a second nor even for a first nomination. To the first term I was called from a position, one created by Congress expressly for me, for supposed services rendered to the Republic. The position vacated I liked, and it would have been agreeable to me to have retained it till such time as Congress might have consented to my retirement with a rank, and the adoption of emoluments which I so much needed, to a home where the balance of my days might be spent in peace and in the enjoyment of domestic quiet, retired from the cares which were retained so constantly now for fourteen years; but I was made to yield to the public good, which called on me to make the sacrifice. Without seeking the office for a second term, the nomination was tendered to me by the unanimous votes of all the delegates of all the States and Territories, selected by the Republicans to represent them for the purpose of making their nomination I cannot say that I was not pleased at this, and at the overwhelming endorsement which their action received at the following election; but it must be remembered that all, without that comfort has been made in accepting the first time. Such a fire of personal abuse and slander had been kept up for four years, notwithstanding the conscientious performance of my duties to the best of my understanding, though, I admit in the light of subsequent events, many times subject to fair criticism. Then the endorsement of the people, which alone governs the public, was a gratification that it is only human to have appreciated and enjoyed. Now, for the third time, I do not want any more than I did the first. I would not write nor utter a word to work a change in the will of the people in expressing their choice. The question of the number of years allowed to any one Executive can only come up fairly in the shape of a proposition to amend the Constitution, a shape in which all political parties can participate in, fixing the length of time or number of terms for which any one person shall be eligible for the office of President. Until such amendment is adopted, the people cannot be restricted in their choice by resolutions further than they are now restricted as to age, nativity, etc It may happen in the future history of the country, that to change an Executive because he has been eight years in office, will prove an effort most disastrous. The idea that any man could elect himself, or even renominate himself, is preposterous. It is imposing on the intelligence of the people to suppose such a thing possible. Any man can destroy his chances for the office, but no one can force an election or even nominate. To recapitulate: I am not, nor ever have been a candidate for renomination. I would not accept the nomination if it were tendered, unless it should come under such circumstances as to make it my imperative duty—circumstances not likely to arise. I congratulate the Convention over which you presided for the harmony which prevailed, and for the excellent ticket put in nomination, which, I hope, may be triumphantly elected.

With great respect, etc.
U. S. GRANT.

Finds a Conqueror.

Every evil has its remedy. The "hoppergrass" is no exception, for it has been discovered that a certain species of flies is sure death to the hopper. This little fly gently drops upon hiem my and builds a nest under his wings. Here it deposits larvae which soon develops into an unsightly grub. This grub immediately proceeds to appropriate the grasshopper to his own use, a la Sutro, by tunnelling into his interior deposits, in search of good bonanzas. This disposes of the hopper just as Mr. Sutro intends his tunnel shall do with the Comstock—leaves it nothing but a shell, the tunnelists having appropriated all the valuable portion of the hopper. Having disposed of one victim, the jovial fly continues his search for bonanzas much to the danger of the hoppergrass. It is said that to this cause may be attributed the decrease of these pests during the past few days in Missouri. The fly should apply to Congress for a subsidy and royalty for running his tunnel.—[Gold Hill News.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞Our Only Terms: CASH, IN ADVANCE Paper invariably discontinued upon expiration of term of subscription.☜

Personal.

Mrs. V. G. Thompson, and Mrs. John Shepherd have gone on a visit to Oakland. Miss M. A. Graham, late of Independence school, has returned to her home at Havilah. Receiver Tom. May accompanied the first and last named ladies, traveling in a private conveyance....P. Reddy, Esq, and Mr. V. Beaudry have returned from the Bay very well pleased with the result of their suit (the Union-San Felipe) before the Supreme Court. We are told Mr. Reddy acquitted himself very creditably in his argument before that august tribunal....N. Blackstock, a relation of Mr. F. P. Ball, and a young lawyer of promise is, with his family, paying Lone Pine a visit, with a view of locating among us....."Uncle Abe" Parker has returned from his visit below; also, Wm. Barrows, of Cerro Gordo, whom the "goats" wanted to get hold of so bad.

Still On It.

It appears that those bandits have not wholly subsided by any means. Several persons were recently tied up over on the South Fork of Kern river, and on Sunday last word came that some few of the gang had stolen all of Hunter's mules from his ranch, 25 miles east from Cerro Gordo. A strong party from Cerro Gordo and Under Sheriff Swearengin and Hickey Hood from this place immediately started in pursuit. We suspect should the Cerro Gordoites happen to get their hands on them, those particular mule thieves will learn something of much advantage to the community in general, and to "buffalo gnats" in particular. P. S. It turns out the mules were not taken at all, but we don't want to spoil an item, already in type, on that account.

On the March.

Co. I, First Cavalry, started on its scout southward from this place Wednesday morning. Captain Carr, with a detachment of ten or twelve, started the day previous intending to pay Cerro Gordo a visit. Mr. Beaudry, who in early times was associated with the Captain in the service, went along to do the honors of the place. Co. I. is a strong one, and remarkably well mounted. Panamint and vicinity is the present objective point of the company, after which the scout is to be continued for some weeks north and easily of that place, Camp Independence being the base of supplies.

Dentistry.

Dr. J. R. Porter, dentist, of San Francisco, is making a tour through Mono and Inyo counties, and will visit Bishop Creek, Owens River valley and adjacent settlements, June 11th, and afterward. He will visit Independence about the 20th, and may be found at the Blaney House. The Doctor makes a specialty of gold fillings, and has the best of references and recommendations, as to his professional worth and ability. This is an excellent opportunity for those who desire first class dental operations to avail themselves of it. *

Tom Carroll Killed.

We observe by the San Francisco papers that on Sunday, May 30, one Tom Carroll attempted to kill a man by the name of Sullivan, in a saloon on Post street, San Francisco, but received a shot himself, through the heart. It is quite possible the Carroll named is the individual who, last winter, infested Darwin and Panamint. If so the only general grief for his taking off will be that it was a bullet instead of the rope.

Did Not Get Off.

Owing to sickness and death in his family, the first indications of which occurred on the morning appointed to start, Mr. Chalfant, our senior, and Delegate to the State Convention, did not get off, so that unless Mr. Daugherty, the Delegate from Panamint, was more fortunate, Inyo had no representation at the Convention on the 10th.

We would call attention to the advertisement of Hall & Barnes, Panamint, and say that that firm are the authorized agents for THE INDEPENDENT, copies of which, as well as the leading California dailies, can always be found on their counters.

Committed.

George Wellington, who was foolish enough to think it would be profitable to steal a horse, had his examination before Justice Schalten on Tuesday, and now stands fully committed to answer for grand larceny.

Changed Hands.

H. Levy, having purchased Peter Margalot's French Restaurant, has now reopened it as a restaurant, lodging house and one-bit saloon, and invites a share of patronage.

Change of Time.

By reference to the new advertisement it will be seen that the Los Angeles Division of the Southern Pacific Railroad, E. E. Hewitt, Superintendent, has changed time on the several routes.

Severe Accident.

About 1 o'clock Monday morning last, Mr. I. P. Yaney, of Bishop, was the victim of a stage accident, first reported as a leg badly broken, but now we are pleased to know, not quite so bad as that. He, and Mr. D. E. Hunter, from whom we have the particulars, were coming to this place in the stage. Just above Big Pine the team became unmanageable, making a number of short circles through the sage brush. The driver finally got them partially checked, and Mr. Yaney attempted to catch the leaders. At this they started again, and in passing, one of them kicked him near the right ankle bruising it so badly that he will likely be confined to his bed for a number of weeks. Soon after, the team was secured, a broken coach tongue and other damages temporarily repaired, so as to come on to Big Pine, where Drs. White and Middleton were summoned. Subsequently Mr. Yaney was taken home, where he is now doing very well. It seems that it was a bit of carelessness in hitching up the team that caused the accident. One of the lines was buckled under the hame or some part of the harness so that in the darkness it was not discovered by the driver until he had left the station some distance when the accident occurred.

Vaqueroism.

A bucking horse in the streets will generally attract more attention than a free fight. There seems to be a fascination in the effort to stick a bronco before an admiring crowd without exposing more than four feet of daylight between the rider's posterior and the saddle; that is something for the knight of the saddle to be proud of, even if at the risk of life or limb. This week we were regaled with two performances of this kind in which the animals came out victorious, dumping the riders in a way that would most likely have killed them outright had it been anywhere else in the United States. One, a government mule, revenged his unnecessary spurring with a will. Placing his nose between his fore feet he skinned off the rider and saddle without even loosening the fastnings of the cinch, whereat the spectators enthused and all took a cigar.

Shooting at Panamint.

The News of the 5th publishes at length the particulars of an abortive attempt of two men to kill each other. One of them was Dick Robertson, whom our readers here will remember, and a Jerry Sullivan. Both were under the influence of liquor. The shooting took place in Jo Harris' saloon, and as the balls flew wildly about they caused Jo and a number of others to hunt their holes with more speed than grace. One ball came very near taking Jo in the leg, and another did go through both legs of a Chinaman who was cleaning windows in the room. Neither of the shootists were hurt.

Caught Him.

Deputy Sheriff W. L. Moore, after a remarkably long and hard chase in pursuit of Wellington, the horse thief, got back with his prisoner on Monday evening. The thief had nearly twenty-four hours the start, and in less than four days, rode old Pinto, apparently without food at all, clear to Cummings' valley, over two hundred miles, at which place Mr. Moore corralled him. "Dad," who is as pertinacious a thief taker as can be found, rode seventy-two hours without sleep or rest. He lost about twelve hours by getting off the track. The thief had traveled off the road most of the way, keeping out among the sheep herders from whom he begged his food.

Baa—Baa—Baa-a-a-a.

This plaintive cry is heard in the land. Every little boy, and every little girl, very nearly in town rejoices in the possession of a go-aate. The drover who passed through here, the other day, with a large band of goats, going north, must have had his numbers materially lessened when he left this place. If now some enterprising traveling agent would only make his appearance with an invoice of tin whistles and fish tooters, what a paradise of melodies we would have.

Brain Development.

It is said that fresh fish is good for the brain. In view of that fact, our young friend Jerry Mairs, no doubt thought to develop the fertile brain of our junior in the presentation of some fine trout. The square meal that followed astonished his stomach equal to a drink of water.

Interviewed.

That cuss who buzzed us so long, eulogized so many great and good men, and finally ground out about seventeen yards of metaphysics, ought to retire to some unfrequented spot and soak his head in deep water, and thereby furnish us with a first class item.

After Specimens.

The Borax Miner says, Stewart and Whitehill, Centennial Specimen Collectors, are lecturing and gathering specimens at Columbus.

Stable Burnt.

A barn belonging to Mr. C. A. Walters near the Post, was destroyed by fire last Tuesday morning. Supposition—a smoke pipe.

A Grasshopper Sufferer.

A grasshopper sufferer recently arrived from the East says he hardly believed the stories he heard in Chicago, that when a fellow got to Nevada he could pick up all the gold and silver he wanted right off the top of the ground. He thought there might be some little trouble encountered in getting the precious metals, but he had no idea that a person must slide five hundred feet down a staight hole just to get a lot of stone that people say might pay when they got the concentrator started. He says he will never consecrate his life to mining; that he would rather be a toad and feed on porter-house steaks on the surface.—[Austin Reveille, May 20.

"The War Has Begun."

BISHOP CREEK, June 7, 1875.

MESSRS. EDS:—I notice in your issue of June 5th a letter from this place in which "many more citizens" are upholding Dr. P. B. Randolph. Now, as I was a listener at his lecture, the same I believe which caused him to receive so much censure from some unknown person or persons; and as I earnestly desire that the many readers of THE INDEPENDENT should have a just conception of that lecture; I will state a few facts for "many more citizens," and the community at large.

Dr. Randolph came here some time in April and decided to give a course of lectures which, at first, was sparsely attended. Afterward he went to some who were not liberals and stated that the "liberalists" had misrepresented things to him. And he also urged the "now liberalists" to use their influence in procuring an audience for his farewell lecture, which unfortunately they did to their great chagrin, for the majority of the most intelligent persons in the valley assembled, among them, many ladies of high intellectual standing. The foundation of his remarks was "what's the news?"

Now, be it understood, there is not to my knowledge a single person in this community who would have a thought to deny any one the privilege of free speech or belief, yet should not freedom of speech be limited by morality, an elevating intellectual tendency and a profound respect for the gentle refined feelings of the true woman?

Now let us see what eminated from the great mind of this so called reformer as he arose to address the largest audience that had ever congregated to hear him in this place. Every one turned with great expectation to listen to the would be world renowned lecture. (No personal description of him is necessary). But as he proceeded every one, with only a few exceptions, was struck with amazement. In what could the reform consist? Not in his diction, for that was full to overflowing with provincial barbarisms and the favorite phrases of an old superannuated political stump speaker. Not in his mien for his gestures were crude and seem to have been originated by some egotistic minstrel actor. Not in his reverence, for he assailed the ministry, and in his uncouth way endeavored to drag them down by the faults of some to his own very doubtful level.

And he also endeavored to picture the great Ruler of the Universe sitting in judgment and using such phrases after condeming some poor soul, as, "how is that for high," which was very repulsive to any refined mind and would be considered nauseating to any healthy and dutiful "stomach" but quite a digestible article for one that has long been deranged and knew not the nourishment of building food, but was glad to try and subsist on any thing that could be "gulped."

Again I say not in his morality for he dragged up before our minds all that was detestable of the great scandal suit now pending. And in this he seemed to be more at home than in any other part of his piece. He rolled it under his tongue as a sweet morsel and giggled with self complacency that the world had furnished him with a subject suitable to his tastes and power of mind. And through all he seemed to want to ridicule the people of Bishop and that other little "empire" Round Valley; and they undoubtedly paid him more respect on account of some of his blinded friends than they would otherwise by hearing him through.

His close consisted of a washy or "bloody" poem of his own lineage—original, we were informed.

And all that surprises me, is that some one wasted paper and time in that notice by "very many citizens." But I have a great curiosity to know who those "many more citizens" are. Since your issue I have looking around and cannot make the discovery.

Scarlet Fever or Small Pox Remedy.

In 1872 we gave place to the following which we now again publish in the hope physicians will give it a test at this time when something a little more infallible then ordinary scarlet fever remedies is, unfortunately, so often required. It first appeared in The San Francisco Post:

A correspondent writes as follows: I herewith append a recipe which has been used to my knowledge, in a hundred cases. It will prevent or cure the small pox, though the pittings are filling. When Jenner discovered cow pox in England, the world of science hurled an avalanche upon his head, but when the most scientific school of medicine in the world—that of Paris—published this recipe as a panacea for small pox, it passed unheeded. It is as unfailing as fate and conquers in every instance. It is harmless when taken by a well person. It will also cure the scarlet fever. Here is the recipe as I have used it, and cured my children of scarlet fever. Here it is as I used it to cure small pox; when learned physicians said the patient must die, it cured:

"Sulphate of zinc, one grain; foxglove (digitalis), one gram; half a tablespoonful of sugar. Mix with two tablespoonfuls of water; when thoroughly mixed add four ounces of water. Take a tablespoonful every hour."

Either scarlet fever or small pox disappears in twelve hours. For a child, smaller doses, according to age. If counties would compel their physicians to use this there would be no need of pest houses. If you value advice and experience use this for that terrible disease.

—A fellow who walked as if he had been drinking crooked whiskey, was observed to stagger into The Call office the other night, make his way up to the counter, and remark to the astonished clerk, "gimme a bed." H[illegible] The Call a good thing to lie in Proceedings of Republican County Central Committee.

Unsophisticated Jones.

It seems from the following dispatch to The N. Y. Sun, May 24, that Senator Jones' "Slim Jim" experience in Wall street has been rather disastrous.

Senator Jones, of Nevada, to whom Grant wrote his wonderful financial essay, has been in Wall street, and came back a sadder and wiser man. He had made himself a Director in the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and undertook to bull the stock from 35 or thereabouts. He succeeded in running it up to about 170. Jones was at one time nearly $300,000 ahead, and all went nicely. Jay Gould let him have the stock as fast as he was ready to buy, and when the Senator had completely loaded up with the stuff the wicked Gould took his scalp as neatly as Red Cloud himself could have done. The Senator is out some $700,000. It is said also that his present embarrassment is so great that he has been compelled to dispose of his interest in the St. James Hotel at a great sacrifice.

Small Pox in New York.

A New York dispatch of the 6th says: Small Pox is reported as raging here to a fearful extent. The Board of Health has become alarmed and has appointed an extra vaccinating force of twenty physicians. The desease has prevailed for some months, but within the past two weeks it has increased to alarming proportions and of the most deadly character. Physicians state that the cases reported now are of the type known as black small pox—a malady which has not visited New York before for forty-five years. The epidemic is principally confined to the east side of the city. Several hundred cases have been reported within the past two months, and of late a majority of the cases have proved fatal. A system of compulsory vaccination has been established, and a fine of $500 is imposed upon any physician failing to report a case to the Board of Health. The hospitals are full of patients.

Smelting at Eureka.

The Eureka, Nev, Sentinel gives a summary of the smelting furnace operations of that district for the month of May, closing as follows: In round figures the amount of ore received at the furnaces is 16,800,000 pounds; charcoal received, 352,000 bushels; bullion produced, 2,814,000 pounds; bullion shipped, 1,911,000 pounds; pig lead shipped, 750,000 pounds, and over $110,000 in fine bullion from the Richmond refinery. We should infer from this that Eureka is not dead or dying just yet.

Snaky.

This snaky story has been going the rounds. Wonder if they make their own whisky over in Tulare.

A rattlesnake with thirty-one rattles was killed last week on the Keweah river in Tulare county. It measured thirteen feet in length, and is said to be the largest rattlesnake ever killed on this coast.

Married.

Gallant Phil Sheridan was married to Miss Irene Rucker in Chicago on the 3rd. He will probably adopt the infantry tactics at home.

—The hair of a young lady in Vermont turned white in a single night. She fell into a flour barrel.

—Some ingenious observer has discovered that there is a resemblance between a baby and wheat, since it is cradled, then thrashed, and finally becomes the flower of the family.

—At a recent meeting of a society composed of men from the Emerald Isle, a member made the following motion: Mr. President—I move ye's whitewash the ceiling green, in honor of the old flag.

—A little four-year old urchin strayed into a neighbor's house the other day. When he got home he told his mother that he saw shutters in the floor, and when he stood on them lots of hot came out.

—Thomas Donahue, one of the Elaine robbers, gets fifteen years in the State Prison for his little raid on the famous picture. Fooling with high art is a dangerous thing in a city of the æsthetic taste of San Francisco.

—An advertisement in the Washington Star reads: "If you want to be well dressed wear a Warwick collar, and have your boots blacked." It must be warm weather at the Capital to admit of such a wardrobe.

—Eye-ronical. Waiter—Beg pard'n, sir! Languid swell—We-ll, what is it, James? Waiter—Beg pard'n, I'm sure sir; but d'you know, sir, is there a gentleman here with one eye named Walker? Languid swell—Don't know, m'sure. Say, what's the name of other eye?

—"What's your business?" said the magistrate of a police court the other morning to a prisoner. "I'm an observationist, your worship." "An observationist! What is that?" "One who looks around in the daytime to see what he can steal at night, if it please your worship."

—Susan Jane must have been scantily dressed when she was looking out for her lover and sang:

"He'll come to-night; the wind's at rest,
The moon is full and fair;
I'll wear the dress that pleased him best—
A ribbon in my hair."

—Yesterday as an old citizen was nailing a "To Rent" card on a vacant house, a pedestrian halted and remarked that "howze" was not the right way to spell "house." How long have you lived in Detroit?" asked the old citizen, scowling savagely. "Fifteen years," was the reply. "Well, I've lived here for thirty," continued the old man, "and I guess I know how to speli as well as you do."

—A Missouri exchange informs us that the steamboat Vicksburg, which was sunk near Chester, "lays well." When the young steamboats hatch out, they will take to the water as naturally as young ducks.

—A man whose appearance indicated that he was staggering from the excessive weight of a brick in his hat, being asked if he was a Son of Temperance, replied, "Hic-no—no relation—not even an acquaintance."

—The Aztecs were necessarily long at their meals, for when they wanted bread they had to ask for totauquitlaxcallillaquelpacholli. Their poor jaws must have felt as if they had perpetually just come from the dentist's.

To Form Perfect Squares.

Squares can be tested with the dividers by drawing two circles, one within the other, from the same center, of sixteen and twelve inches diameter respectively; then set the dividers to ten inches, insert one point in any part of the outer circle (drawn with the dividers in this position) would intersect the inner circle; now draw a straight line through the center of the circles and through the point marked in the inner circle; and through the outer one, another line starting from the point where the dividers were inserted in the outer circle through the center of the circles, until the outer circle will form the corners of a perfect square whose side is 11.3137 inches. If the square is correct, it will fit the square thus formed and also the lines in the canter which divide the circle into four equal parts, and the angles must be ninety degrees. This is based on the rule for finding the hypothenuse of a right angled triangle, thus 6 square=36 and 8 square=64, sum 100, the square root of which is ten. This is sometimes called the six, eight and ten rule for squaring buildings.—Ex.

HAS MADE THE MOST ASTONISHING CURES SO QUICK, SO RAPID ARE THE CHANGES THE BODY UNDERGOES, UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF THIS TRULY WONDERFUL MEDICINE, THAT

Every Day an Increase in Weight is Seen and Felt.

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphilis, Consumption, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the System, Sore Eyes, Strumous Discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm, and all wastes of the life principle are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.

If the patient, daily becoming reduced by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, succeeds in arresting these wastes, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure.

Not only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excel all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional and Skin Diseases; but it is the only positive cure for

Kidney and Bladder Complaints, Urinary and Womb diseases, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brick dust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like white silk, or there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and white bone-dust deposits, and when there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the small of the back and along the loins. VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS!

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any interior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

Terms.

One Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE one year, the Chromo and the Art Union.

$6 00 per Annum, in Advance.

(No charge for postage.)

WHEN THE SONG'S GONE OUT OF YOUR LIFE.

"When the song's gone out of your life, you can't start another while it's a-ringing in your ears, but it's best to have a bit of silence, and out o' that maybe a psalm 'll come by and by"—[Edward Garrett.

When the song's gone out of your life,
That you thought would last to the end,
The first sweet song of the heart,
That no after days can lend;
The song of the bird to the trees,
The song of the wind to the flowers
The song that the heart sings low to itself
When it awakes in life's morning hours.

"You can start no other song;"
Not even a tremulous note
Will falter forth on the empty air;
It dies in your aching throat.
It is all in vain that you try,
For the spirit of song has fled—
The nightingale sings no more to the rose
When the beautiful flower is dead.

So let silence softly fall
On the bruised heart's quivering strings;
Perhaps, from the loss of life, you may learn
The song that the seraph sings;
A grand and glorious psalm
That will tremble and rise and thrill.
And fill your breast with its grateful rest
And its lonely yearnings still.

Extracts from Sherman's Memoirs.

SKILLFUL LOADING OF WAGONS.

The skill and success of the men in collecting forage was one of the features of this march. Each brigade commander had authority to detail a company of foragers, usually about fifty men, with one or two commissioned officers selected for their boldness and enterprise. This party would be dispatched before daylight with knowledge of the intended day's march; would proceed on foot five or six miles from the route traveled by their brigade, and then visit every planation and farm within range. They would usually procure a wagon or family carriage, load it with bacon cornmeal, turkeys, chickens, ducks and anything that could be used as food or forage, and would then regain the main road usually in advance of their train. When this came up they would deliver to the brigade commissary the supplies thus gathered by the way. Often would I pass these foraging parties at the roadside, waiting for their wagons to come up, and was amused at their strange collections—mules, horses, even cattle, packed with old saddles and loaded with hams, bacon, bags of cornmeal, and poultry of every character and description. Although this foraging was attended with great danger and hard work, there seemed to be a charm about it that attracted the soldiers, and it was a privilege to be detailed on such a party. Daily they returned mounted on all sorts of beasts, which were at once taken from them and applied to the general use; but the next day they would start out again on foot, only to repeat the experience of the day before. No doubt many acts of pillage, robbery and violence were committed by these parties of foragers, usually called "bummers;" for I have since heard of jewelry taken from women and the plunder of articles that never reached the commissary; but these acts were exceptional and incidental. I never heard of any cases of murder or rape; and no army could have carried along sufficient food and forage for a march of 300 miles. The country was sparely settled, with no magistrates or civil authorities who could respond to requisitionr, as is done in all the wars of Europe, so that this system of foraging was simply indispensable to our success. By it our men were well supplied with the essentials of life and health, while the wagons retained enough in case of unexpected delay, and our animals were well fed. Indeed, when we reached Savannah, the trains were pronounced by experts to be the finest in flesh and appearance ever seen with any army.

I have seen much skill and industry displayed by the Quartermasters on the march in trying to load their wagons with corn and fodder by the way without losing their place in the column. They would, while marching, shift the loads of wagons so as to have six or ten of them empty. Then, riding well ahead, they would secure possession of certain stacks of fodder near the road, or cribs of corn, leave some men in charge, then open fences and a road back for several miles, return to their trains, divert the empty wagons out of column, and conduct them rapidly to their forage, load up, and regain their place in the column without losing distance. On one occasion I remember to have seen ten or a dozen wagons thus loaded with corn from two or three full cribs, almost without halting. These cribs were built of logs and roofed. The train guard, by a lever, had raised the whole side of the crib for a foot or two; the wagons drove close alongside, and the men in the cribs, lying on their backs, kicked out a wagon load of corn in the time I have taken to describe it.

TORPEDOES.

On the 8th, as I rode along, I found a column turned out of the main road, marching through the fields. Close by, in the corner of a fence, was a group of men, standing around a handsome young officer, whose foot had been blown to pieces by a torpado planted in the road. He was waiting for a surgeon to amputate his leg, and told me that he was riding along with the rest of his brigade staff of the Seventeenth Corps, when a torpedo trodden on by his horse had exploded, killing the horse and literally blowing off all the flesh from one of his legs. I saw the terrible wound, and made full inquiry into the facts. There had been no resistance at that point, nothing to give warning of danger, and the rebels had planted eight-inch shells in the road, with friction matches to explode them by being trodden on. This was not war, but murder, and it made me angry. I immediately ordered a lot of rebel prisoners brought from the provost guard, armed with picks and spades, and made them march in close order along the road, so as to explode their own torpedoes, or to discover and dig them up. They begged hard, but I reiterated the order, and could hardly help laughing at their stepping so gingerly along the road, where it was supposed sunken torpedoes might explode at each step, but they found no other torpedoes till near Fort McAllister. That night we reached Pooler's Station, eight miles from Savannah, and during the next two days, December 9th and 10th, the several corps reached the defenses of Savannah—the Fourteenth Corps on the left, touching the river; the Twentieth Corps next; then the Seventeenth; and the Fifteenth on the extreme right; thus completely investing the whole city. Wishing to reconoiter the place in person, I rode forward by the Louisville road into a dense wood of oak, pine and cypress, left the horses and walked down to the railroad track, at a place where there was a sidetrack and a cut about four feet deep. From that point the railroad was straight, leading to Savannah, and about eight hundred yards off were a rebel parapet and battery. I could see the cannoneers preparing to fire, and cautioned the officers near me to scatter, as we would likely attract a shot. Very soon I saw the white puff of smoke, and, watching close, caught sight of the ball as it rose in its flight, and, finding it coming pretty straight, I stepped a short distance to one side, but noticed a negro very near me in the act of crossing the track at right angles. Some one called to him to look out; but before the poor fellow understood his danger the ball (a 32-pound round shot) struck the ground, and rose in its first ricochet, caught the negro under the right jaw and literally carried away his head, scattering blood and brains about. A soldier close by spread an overcoat over the body, and we all concluded to get out of that railroad cut. Meantime, General Mower's division of the Seventeenth Corps had crossed the canal to the right of the Louisville road, and had found the line of parapet continuous; so at Savannah we had again run up against the old familiar parapet, with its deep ditches, canals and bayous full of water; and it looked as though another siege was inevitable. I accordingly made a camp or bivouac near the Louisville road, about five miles from Savannah, and proceeded to invest the place closely, pushing forward reconnoissance at every available point.

COMMUNICATING WITH THE FLEET AT SAVANNAH.

As soon as it was demonstrated that Savannah was well fortified, with a good garrison, commanded by General William J. Hardee, a competent soldier, I saw that the first step was to open communication with our fleet, supposed to be waiting for us with supplies and clothing in Ossabaw Sound. General Howard had, some nights previously, sent one of his best scouts, Captain Duncan, with two men in a canoe, to drift past Fort McAllister and to convey to the fleet, a knowledge of our approach. General Kilpatrick's cavalry had also been transferred to the south bank of the Ogeechee, with orders to open communication with the fleet. Leaving orders with General Slocum to press the siege, I instructed General Howard to send a division with all his engineers to King's Bridge, fourteen and a half miles southwest from Savannah, to rebuild it. On the evening of the 12th I rode over myself, and spent the night at Mr. King's house, where I found Gen. Howard, with Gen. Hazen's division of the Fifteenth Corps. His engineers were hard at work on the bridge, which they finished that night, and at sunrise Hazen's division passed over. I gave General Hazen, in person, his orders to march rapidly down the right bank of the Ogeechee, and without hesitation to assault and carry Fort McAllister by storm. I knew it to be strong in heavy artillery, as against an approach from the sea, but believed it open and weak to the rear. I explained to General Hazen fully, that on his action depended the safety of the whole army, and the success of the campaign. Kilpatrick had already felt the fort and had gone further down the coast to Kilkenny Bluff, or St. Catharine's Sound, where, on the same day, he had communication with a vessel belonging to the blockading fleet; but, at that time, I was not aware of this fact, and trusted entirely to General Hazen and his division of infantry, the Second of the Fifteenth Corps, the same old division which I had commanded at Shiloh and Vicksburg, in which I felt a special pride and confidence.

SHERMAN AND LINCOLN.

Then came the march through the Carolinas from Charleston steadily north and the burning of Columbia, which General Sherman believes to have been an accident arising from the criminal folly of the Confederates in setting fire to their cotton. When the army reached Goldsboro, Sherman took a run up to City Point to meet Lincoln. The President remembered him perfectly, and they engaged in the most interesting conversation. Having made a good long social visit, they took their leave and went to General Grant's quarters, where Mrs. Grant had provided tea.

"As to Jefferson Davis," says Sherman, "Mr. Lincoln was hardly at liberty to speak his mind fully, but intimated that he had better clear out, escape the country, only it would not do for him to say so openly. As usual he illustrated his meaning by a story. A man who once had taken the total abstinence pledge when visiting a friend was invited to take a drink, but declined on the score of his pledge, when his friend suggested lemonade, which was accepted. In preparing the lemonade the friend pointed to the brandy bottle, and said that the lemonade would be a little more palatable if he were to pour in a little brandy, and his guest said if he could do so unbeknown to him, he would not object, from which illustration I inferred that Mr. Davis was to escape unbeknown to him."

The President's Letter.

A special says that Senator Thurman says the President's letter is a plain submission of the question to the people whether the President shall be re-elected for a third term. Resolutions will be adopted by Republican Conventions in the North, but Grant will have every vote of the Southern States. Senator Clayton believes the Republican party will yet nominate President Grant under the circumstances. He talks hopefully of the prospects of the Republicans in the West.—[Ex.

Information Wanted.

The Los Angeles Herald has this inquiry:

If C. C. Catlett is living, he can find his widowed sister, Helen, in Los Angeles, Cal. California and Nevada papers please copy.

We knew Columbus C. Catlett in "'49 and the Spring of '50," at which time he was the first candidate for the Sheriff's office in the extensive county which in those times had Marysville for its county seat, but since divided up into four or five counties. But we have never heard a syllable of the object of this inquiry since that date.

Special Indian Agents.

Secretary Delano has sent from Washington six Special Agents to visit the various Indian Agencies in the several Territories. They are each accredited with extraordinary powers and have instruction to make thorough investigation as to the manner of issuance of supplies of food and clothing. It is believed that a few weeks will develop most astounding frauds by a ring, which is believed to be as formidable as the one just broken by Secretary Bristow in illicit whisky.

The Candidates.

Following is the list of candidates nominated at the Republican Convention: Governor--T. G. Phelps; Lieutenant Governor--I. M. Cavis; Secretary of State--E. O. Hallett; Controller--James J. Green, the present incumbent; Surveyor-General---Robert Gardner, present incumbent; Treasurer --Wm. Beckman; Attorney-General--Judge E. D. Sawyer; Inspector of Public Instruction--Prof. E. D. Carr.

About to Collapse.

The indications are that the Alfonsists government of Spain will soon collapse, and that Don Carlos will at last gain the goal of his hopes. Alfonso has utterly exhausted the financial resources of the country, and without money he can do nothing but succumb. Spain is in a critical condition, which will scarce be bettered should the narrow minded Don Carlos obtain the throne.

Not So Rich After All.

It seems that the telegraph operator didn't put his points in right in the dispatch relating to the amount of the award to James Anthony & Co., on account of that paper destroyed by the Alabama. The allowance is but $4,000, with $920,00 interest. The dispatch made the latter read $92,000 which shows what a comma can do for a newspaper man.

A New Horse Disease.

A new horse disease has made its appearance in St. Louis, and seems to be spreading. Its effects are far more fatal than those characterizing the epizootic of 1872. The symptoms are similar to those shown in cerebro-spinal meningitis. The opinion prevails that the malady is due to atmospheric influences.

Another Terrible Shipwreck.

The steamer Vicksburg was wrecked on the 5th of June while on her voyage from Montreal to Liverpool. She was stove in by floating ice, going down with every soul, including women and children, in all near one hundred, save five men who escaped in a boat and were picked up at sea, totally exhausted.

This is the way The Salt Lake Tribune announces an influx of rural Mormons: "A car load of battle axes of the Lord came yesterday from the north, to go through the Endowment-house and swear eternal hostility to the government."

What Alfalfa will do.

Death of Thomas H. Selby.

Thomas H. Selby, ex-Mayor of San Francisco, and one of the most repected and responsible men of the city and State, died June 9, at half-past 1 o'clock, of pneumonia, after a illness of ten days. He leaves large wealth.

Terrible Earthquake.

News has been received of a terrible earthquake in New Granada. The destruction was greatest in the valley of Cuena on the Venezuela frontier. It is reported that 16,000 lives were lost.

Who They Are For.

The Los Angeles delegation to the Democratic State Convention is understood to be unanimous for Findley for Governor and Wilson for Congress.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

This body has met, transacted its appointed business and is now among the things that were. Its operations have been watched with the greatest interest by all parties. Country politicians, if no others, believed that upon the result of this particular convention depended, in a good measure, the fate of the Republican party of the State, and hence, as a matter of course, its proceedings were of great interest to both the Democratic and Independent parties. If this convention could hit upon a plan that would concentrate the Republican forces of the State—in other words, could absorb the Dolly Varden element—the success of the party was assured. If it failed to do this then the fight, almost beyond peradventure, goes in favor of the Democrats.

It is conceded that at least eight out of ten of the Dolly Vardens or Independents come from the Republican ranks. To withdraw this number from the party, is simply to insure the success of the Democratic, although from all the facts and figures we are able to gather, that party, straight, is several thousand in the minority in the State as compared to the concentrated Republican vote. The base for this conclusion is, not so much from the result of the last election, as from the assumption that the late emigration has added about 18,000 votes, full two-thirds of which are supposed, on good grounds to be Republican.

The only question the Convention of the 10th had to deal with, as regarded the restoration of the party to its full fighting power was one of men and not of principles, for, upon the latter, there has never been hardly so much as a distinction between the regular party and its offshoots. If the old regular office seeking wire pullers of the Republican party came forward resolved to rule as of yore, the conservatives of the Dollies were bound to repudiate, and of course, then the Democrats would sweep the field.

With this tangible fact staring them in the face, it is evident the regular wire pullers saw the necessity of making some concessions. Stanford some weeks before had solemnly declared the railroad entirely out of politics. It is said he even went so far as to insist upon Gorham, and such as he, remaining aloof, and in consequence of this advice, there had been a serious quarrel between him and his henchmen. However that may have been, it is clear Gorham, Carr, and such could not possibly listen to good advice or take a back seat even to save their party, for we note that they were present at this convention in all their arrogant glory We note still another thing. That the very fact of these wire pulling demagogues having taken such an active part in this convention has pretty well ruined all chances of electing a ticket which, otherwise, would generally be accepted as a first-rate one. Disconnected with these men, or owing nothing to their favor, we can see no reason why the ticket headed by T. G. Phelps for Governor is not as strong and acceptable to Republicans generally as could reasonably have been expected. It does not appear that a single man of the old thieving ring has been put prominently forward on the State ticket. But it gives little reason to hope, all the circumstances considered, of being able to unite the party, so the Democrats can feel pretty well assured of a success, unless a blunder of their convention, to come off on the 29th, should change the present aspect of things.

Their Brains Softening.

It strikes us that some of the Republican leaders of this State are suffering in a marked degree with softening of the brain. On what other hypothesis can we account for such action as that of the Congressional Convention of this district held at San Jose on the 14th? It was there unanimously decided that in all this vast territory there was not another man to be found in the Republican ranks who could poll so heavy a vote for Congressman as the Hon. J. O Houghten. We don't claim to be particularly well posted, but if there is another who is likely to poll less, we don't know where he is to be found. If there were no back pay steals, no railroad subservient votes to condemn him' the simple, accepted fact that from first to last he was J. Earl's reliable henchman in every one of his attempted steals, from the buildings and lands of Camp Independence to thieving mail contracts, utterly ruins his chances for even a respectable minority in Inyo county.

For Congressmen.

C. B. Denio, of the Third or Mare Island Congressional District, is the Republican candidate lately nominated, as is also Page for the Second District. No report as yet for this, the Fourth, the Convention for which met in San Jose last Monday.

THE REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

If the enunciation of a good platform gave an assurance of success, the Republican party of this State would now be all right. Taken as a whole that presented by the Convention of the 10th, though coming as it did from George C. Gorham himself, is the best one in all its particulars that has yet been laid before the people of this State. This platform, in brief, re-affirms the State platform of 1871 and National platform of 1872; expresses confidence in the patriotism of President Grant, and accepts his third term letter as a final settlement of that question--in effect, that he is out of the field; the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments must be maintained, and all attempts to prevent the exercises of the franchise by colored citizens must be met as an attempt to resume civil war. State and county governments should be reduced one-half; and cost of administering public affairs economized; the practice of voting the people's money to institutions called into existence without State action abandoned; the Legislature should assume the control of lakes and rivers, subject only to mining and mechanical rights, and provide a system of irrigation to be under control of those owning irrigable lands; freedom of the State from ecclesiastical control must be maintained, and the public moneys not be diverted to the support of sectarian schools. The C. P. R. R. is a State corporation, amenable to the laws of the State.

That clause relating to ecclesiastical interference with our public school system is one that we particularly commend. It excites our ire above all other public questions, these persistent endeavors to impose purely sectarian matters as part and parcel of public policy and control. We want none of it. We feel it a question of more importance than ever since we note that the Protestant-Episcopal Church Conference of New Jersey a short time ago formally promulgated a resolution to the effect that our public school system is adverse to religion and must be broken up, thus taking the identical grounds, and joining hands with the Jesuits in their crusade against non-sectarian, popular education, which, while it teaches nothing of any churches's narrow path to heaven, gives the best guarantee we can have for both religious and political freedom. We, and the American people generally, are a thousand times willing for any church or sect to build up its own schools and educate its children in whatever tenets of religion or non-religion it may choose, but we do not accord them the slightest right to interpose an iota of their peculiar tenets in any part of the public machinery. The world has seen too much of religious intolerance to ever again allow churchmen, as such, to again begin to direct the religious policy of a free nation. But if churchmen are determined to force these issues upon us, enlightened as this age and nation claims to be, we want the issue met and defeated at the earliest possible moment, and for that reason, are glad to see it made a political issue now and at once. The full text of the resolution on this point is as follows:

That the freedom of the State from ecclesiastical domination is of equal importance with the maintainance of religious freedom from State control; that the common school system is an institution of the State, established as a preventive of the crime and poverty which attend ignorance, and we will tolerate no interference with it from any quarter; and that any effort to divide the school fund for the purpose of supporting sectarian schools with a portion thereof shall be met with all the resistance in our power.

The doctrine of railroad control may be inferred from this, the shortest of three resolutions touching upon such matters:

That we recommend, and that the people should exact, in advance, from candidates for the Legislature, unequivocal pledges—first, that they will, if elected, vote for such a reduction of freights and fares as will leave to the railroad companies a fair income upon the actual cost of constructing the roads, and allow for maintaining and operating the same, and enable them to meet their just obligations; second, that they will, to that end, institute a thorough investigation into the affairs of the corporations, as they have ample power to do, in order to ascertain the real cost of the construction of the roads and the annual outlays for maintaining and operating the same; third, that they will in adjusting the tariff of freights and fares, abolish all unfair discrimination between the same classes of merchandise and equalize the rates between different localities, having due regard to grade and curves.

Confessed.

Jack Cotton has confessed that he shot Norton at Santa Barbara. He has told several stories, no two alike. In one he totally exculpates Mrs. Norton from all share in the terrible deed; in another he shows her to be a fiend incarnate.

Gen. Redington's Last Words.

The act of physical dissolution used to be associated with ideas of mystery and awe that caused the "last words" of eminent men to be treasured as precious utterances. John Quincy Adams, lying on his death bed, murmured, "This is the last of earth," turned to the wall and died. Daniel Webster, as he breathed his last, feebly articulated, "I still live." Napoleon the First, passed away with a military order upon his lips. General Redington died a few days since at the age of seventy-three years. The attending physician had warned the sorrowful friends gathered at his bedside that the supreme moment was at hand. Among these friends was one with whom the dying man had had some transactions in Consolidated Virginia. Rousing himself from the lethargy and stupor with which kind nature deadens the parting pang, the General turned his darkening gaze upon his friends and slowly enunciated the words: "It is a good thing to hold, Cyrus; keep your margins good." Such were the last words of a man whose life had been devoted to business, but with no miserly or selfish aim. Like Longfellow's "Village Blacksmith," he had wrought faithfully in his vocation, and like him, he could "look the world in the face, for he owed not any man.—[San Francisco Chronicle, June 5th.

The Simplicity of It.

If we look at it in the simplest way, what is religion? It is only trying, by God's help, to do whatever is right. For a person who has not been doing that, the way to begin is perfectly simple. It is to give up and turn away from all willful wrong doing, and to look constantly for sympathy and help to that loving God whom Christ has taught us to call Father. It is to try to live in the spirit of Christ, not only in purity and innocence, but in active love toward all human beings and in dependence on the love of the Highest. To reach perfection in this life is a long, long task; but to set one's face toward it and make a beginning is a simple matter. Indeed, in a Christian family, it constantly happens that a child makes some beginning and growth in this life from its earliest years. There may come a time of conscious, deliberate acceptance of a Christian purpose; but long before that the child has probably been learning to be gentle and obedient, truthful and helpful, and to look to God as its friend. It is the natural and right way that one should thus grow up to be a Christian and that the beginning should be as far back and uncertain as the time when the child began to talk.—[Ex.

Woman for Office.

A widow is candidate for the position of School Superintendent of San Diego county, and will probably be elected; the two newspapers representing both political parties agree in urging her claims. The Legislature, at its last session, passed an Act providing that women over the age of twenty one years, are eligible to all educational offices in this State, except those from which they are excluded by the Constitution. That document, referring to the State Superintendent, speaks of "his duties," as if the officer must be a man, but it certainly does not exclude woman from the position of County Superintendent or School Trustee. We do not hear of any other feminine candidates for school offices, though many might fill the places better than they are filled now.—[Alta.

Oatmeal.

Few understand the importance of oatmeal as an article of food, or it would be more generally used. It contains all the principles necessary to support life. Perfect health would be the result of a diet consisting exclusively of oatmeal. The coarse quality of the meal serves to distend the digestive organs in a natural manner, thus freeing the system from impurities and keeping the whole body in good working order. The Scotch and Irish realize the wholesomeness of oatmeal, and either from choice or necessity make it one of the principal articles of their diet. Where can you see such beautiful complexions, such pure pink and white, as you find among the Scotch maidens? Not a vulgar, beefy red, but a delicate seashell tint, at once beautiful and healthy. Many people discard oatmeal because they do not like the bitter taste it sometimes has. This bitterness is not essential, and oats grown and ground in this country never have it until they become old and musty. If our young lady readers only knew how the use of this simple article would add to their charms, there would be such a demand for the article in question as to create a corner in the market. After using oatmeal for a few months you will be surprised to see how much better you can bear fatigue than formerly. It is the oatmeal silently doing its work of repairing and building up your system. Oatmeal has another use which may interest the ladies. Its external application (when mixed with water) will make the skin soft and remove tan; and when mixed with lemon juice it is a remedy for the most obstinate case of freckles. Mothers when nursing their little ones, should partake freely of oatmeal, as it contains so much bone and muscle food; and for teething and growing children it is unequaled. The most palatable way of preparing oatmeal is to gradually sift it into a porcelain kettle containing boiling water, and then boil slowly for a half hour or more according to quantity, being careful to prevent it burning. The most important thing is to have it thoroughly cooked. As we say of yeast powder, "Try it; it is infallible."—[S. F. Chronicle.

Taxing Bachelors.

A bill has been made the special order in the State Senate of Tennessee, which contains the following section: "That bachelorism is hereby declared a privilege, and every male inhabitant of this State over thirty years of age, being of sound mind and enjoying good bodily health, remaining unmarried after the first of May, 1875, shall pay a fine of ten dollars annually." We thing it will be pretty difficult to collect that tax, for the reason that it will be easy to demonstrate that any man who remains unmarried after he reaches thirty is not of "sound mind," so that the law is likely to remain a dead letter.

CONDOLENCE.

"I'SE WELL, NOW, MAMA, I WANTS TO BE DESSED."

Yes, angel baby, your gentle words were heard here as thy last and there as thy first want that loving hands, no doubt, granted while they took thee from earth to heaven.

How, like hollow sounds are words to the bereaved heart! But how sorrow vibrates the same chords of sympathy in other hearts that, too, have felt the bitter pang of parting with loved ones by death. But there are pangs of deeper grief than when a stainless soul goes back to God, in life's morning; for then it can say, "I'se well now," and ready to be clothed in its bright robes of immortality.

Some children, like flowers from a fairer clime, are too refined for a long earth life and its trials; and heaven would not be such if there were no children there.

May we not hope that from their bright home above they waft sweet kisses to the longing lips of those left here, and love us still up there.

Yours in sympathy,

L. H.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞Our Only Terms: CASH, IN ADVANCE Paper invariably discontinued upon expiration of term of subscription.☜

Sudden Death.

A. D. Eames, the well known landlord of the Orleans Hotel, Lone Pine, and highly respected citizen, died at that place on the 10th of heart disease. He was first attacked about 11 o'clock in the forenoon at which time Dr. Gelcich was called in at once, but despite all that could be done, he soon breathed his last. Coroner Wayland held an inquest, the jury rendering a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to his death from natural causes, to wit: chronic heart disease. Mr. Eames was a native of Massachusetts, about 48 years of age, and leaves a family. Mrs. Eames was visiting at Oakland at the time of her husband's death.

Correction.

By a clerical error (not ours), the published apportionment for Republican County Convention Delegates was made to read six to Panamint, when it should have been five; three to Darwin instead of two, and two to Bishop, when it should have been three. All the others are as before given. By order the corrected list is Panamint 5, Darwin 2, Bishop Creek 3, which with the others as before make a total of 24 delegates.

The Fourth.

It will be observed by reference to the advertisement, that Bishop Creek and Round Valley proposes to celebrate our National Anniversary, now close at hand, in regular form. As this appears to be the only formal effort at celebrating to be made in the valley, it is to be hoped everybody who can will turn out and help make it a success. We take it for granted that the Fourth in this instance means Monday, the 5th.

Shooting at Pine Mountain.

A difficulty, superinduced by whisky we believe, occurred at Broder's Camp, Pine Mountain, on the 15th, between two men named respectively P. J. Foster and Phil Sullivan. The result was that Foster shot Sullivan in the ribs but not dangerously, the ball coursing around without entering the cavity. A special officer was appointed by the people who brought Foster in to undergo an examination.

Quite Neat.

Al. Wapelhorst has been overhauling and rebuilding the old Lentell building adjoining the Headquarters saloon, and now has the neatest and best finished front on the remodeled building of any in town. This work was done by Gerrish & Cartier. Huff's barber shop occupies the corner division, the other portion of which is finely fitted up, to be devoted to the saloon business.

Furnace for Darwin.

The furnace machinery for the Christmas Gift-Lucky Jim mines was to arrive at Darwin last Wednesday evening. It will be but a short time until it is in full blast. The machinery for still another furnace is en route and the ground is already graded ready for it at a point about 500 yards west of town. This last is for Tyler & Co.

To Rebuild.

Postmaster J. B. Rowley is clearing up the debris from his burnt building, intending to at once begin to put another store, to be 24x48 feet on the ground, which is a third larger than the old one. Rowley intends to have a building which will be a credit to the town. P. P. Gerrish has the contract of construction.

Dr. Colleau.

We would call the attention of those needing a physician to the card of Dr. Colleau of Lone Pine. The doctor is a quiet, unassuming man, but as we have good reason to believe, a most reliable physician, being a graduate of the Univesity of Paris, and of long practice in this country, particularly in Virginia City, Nevada.

A Ride for Nothing.

Under Sheriff Swearingen had a long bootless ride out to Lida and Gold Mountain after the reputed stealers of Hunter's mules as mentioned heretofore. As the mules were not stolen at all, Pete didn't find any thieves to arrest, but is none the less to be credited for a proper effort.

Pine Mountain.

The machinery for the Broder-Moffatt furnace is all on the ground at Pine Mountain and the work of erecting it is being pushed ahead as rapidly as possible. This is to be the brag furnace of the county. A Mr. Jamison, of Lida, is superintending the construction.

Preaching.

Rev. Mr. Jennings' appointments are as follows:

" "	"	7:45 P. M.
" 21.	Darwin.....	7:45 P. M.

Contractor and Builder.

Parties desiring estimates for carpenter and joiner work, and good work in his line at reasonable rates, cannot do better than give P. P. Gerrish a call, whose card appears in this issue. He is a very reliable and superior workman.

Weather.

We have been having remarkably cool and windy weather for this time of year during the past eight or ten days. It was almost winterish at times, with a slight frost one night.

Discharged.

Foster, mentioned elsewhere as having shot and wounded Phil Sullivan' P. Reddy as counsel, appeared before Judge Hannah, on Thursday for examination. It appeared from the evidence given by Burns, the special officer who brought him in, that Foster did the shooting in defence of his property in this way: He had made a sale of some mules to Sullivan and another party. Soon after all three got drunk enough to have little or no sense. Foster, who is a teamster, had returned to his wagon when Sulivan and another man came and demanded a set of valuable halters, claiming that they were included in the mule sale. Foster said he sold no harness or any part of any harness with the mules, whereat Sullivan and his partner, whose name we have not learned, proceeded to take the halters vi et armis, but got a shot in the ribs instead. It was a very fortunate thing that Foster pulled the trigger with such a delicate touch, else Sullivan would now be sleeping with his fathers. In consideration of these facts, the prisoner was discharged.

Scarletina.

This disease still prevails here to some extent, but we have high hopes we may have no more fatal cases to chronicle. Leastwise, Dr. J. D Blair has had such remarkable success in the numerous cases that have come under his care as to give more than ordinary assurance that the disease can be mastered if attended to in time.

Dentistry.

Dr. J. P. Porter will be at the Orleans House, Lone Pine, Tuesday June 22, and at the Darwin House, Darwin, about Thursday or Friday following. The Dr makes a specialty of gold fillings and guarantees first class work.

For The Bay.

Paul Bennett and J. S. Rothschilds left for the Bay on Wednesday morning's stage south.

That Objectionable (?) Lecture.

BISHOP CREEK, June 14th, 1875.

MESSRS. EDS:—The article in your last issue, signed "Justice," in the effort to elucidate Dr. Randolph's lecture that was a cause of offense to some here, has made things about as clear as mud. It bears the unmistakable "ear marks" of our pedagogue, who, some believe to be the author of the insulting note to the doctor as heretofore sent you.

I will say, in regard to that lecture, that it was not as good, in any degree, as some he had previously given here, and not at all like the one we had requested him to give at that time. There being no black-board on which to illustrate that subject—"Journey of a Soul," he substituted the one of "What's the News?" I will repeat the substance of the exceptional lecture, especially, the most objectionable language he used, in as nearly as possible, his own words that the readers of THE INDEPENDENT may see clearly and judge for themselves when they look on this picture and then on that.

In speaking of the clergy, he said, "they were no more sacred than other people, and were as liable to do wrong as anyone else." Referring to H. W. B., he said "he was a good man, as he knew him well; had met him in his own house and family; that the people were about to make a god of him, until he got the 'Tilton.'" I fail to see in this anything to disgust a mind, however elevated and refined, that can at other times pour over the really prurient testimony of the Beecher scandal from month to month as presented in almost every newspaper of the land, without any qualms of conscience or satiety of devouring every item set forth.

The charge, that the lecturer referred to the Ruler of the Universe, when depicting the judgment of the murderer and his victim, is entirely erroneous. The lecturer disclaimed any allusion to the Divine Being when illustrating the injustice of the Jewish God in case of a murder as follows: "Two men quarrel, one a villain and desperado, who shoots and kills his antagonist, a quiet peaceable man, generally, but not a Christian according to church creeds; he goes to hell all unprepared, while his murderer has time given him and opportunity to repent of his crimes, and professing religion, goes straight from the gallows to heaven; and, in looking over the battlements into hell, sees his poor victim writhing in brimstone torments, he calls out, 'I'm all O K. How are you?" and, "How is that for high?" I fail to see what there is in this to shock ones refinements, unless such sensitiveness is made up of the wrong ideas and false notions of the Divine Government as to believe such judgments just which stultifies reason and prevents the sense of right in every thinking and rational mind. As for appearances, truth, like a diamond, is of the same value no matter what kind of setting it may have. But in this age of sham and shoddy, principles are lost sight of in policy and gentility; and any prophet now a-days that should appear as did John or Jesus with camels hair and leathern girdle, or seamless robe, would be hooted out of a respectable (?) community.

The coming conflict of the ages is near at hand, and we hope no other steel may be used but that of the pen, and no more explosive power than the burning words of truth. L. H.

June Snow Storm.

It hailed this morning; likewise it snowed. It snowed a little more, this afternoon, and promises to snow some more to-night. Words are inadequate to portray the feelings of our citizens over this Winter in-Summer-time.—[Austin Reveille, June 9.

Our Benton Letter.

BENTON, June 16th, 1875.

MESSRS. EDS:—As we do not think that our success depends upon publishing our various resources as many other localities do, we will therefore state a few facts probably noteworthy and possibly of interest to some of your readers.

MINES.

That our regular compliment of mills and mines are in successful operation and doing well is an old song very well sung. But the saying is that "a good song never gets old." Mr. Howell, Superintendent of the Indian Queen Mill & Mining Co., at Hutch's canyon, came in yesterday and shipped by Wells, Fargo's Express, four bars of bullion, weighing 400 pounds and assaying 600 fine, and we think that is a pretty good song. Mr. Albert Mack has been in San Francisco for about ten days and it is reported, is about to effect a sale of his mill and mine at this place; the consideration is supposed to be $250,000. Mr. Mack is sure of a bonanza, because if he does not get it already coined he can take it out of the earth and coin it. I am told by Mack's Superintendent that the mill has been running about 24 days and that they have at least $20,000 of bullion, most of which is smelted into bars and nearly already for shipment.

THE WEATHER.

For the last two weeks we have had exceedingly cool weather and have been compelled to regale ourselves in our winter coats and it is considered quite fashionable to take a seat by the fire, and rude zephyrs have prevailed and it is practically proven by your humble servant that drifts of sand in the corners of a persons eyes are somewhat disagreeable.

HAYING

has commenced in this vicinity. Mr. McBride is cutting the first hay of the season being alfalfa, well matured and an abundance to the acre. Frank Shaw, of Adobe Meadows has also commenced cutting hay and ere many days our little market will be supplied "with new mown hay."

LUMBER.

The saw mill of J. D. Channell & Pard is now complete and in running order. Mr. Channell has worked manfully and we would like to see him rewarded for his labor, but we are sorry to say that a difficulty has arose between Channell and his Pard, and as Channell's circumstances are not such as will permit him to become sole proprietor, consequently is compelled to sell out at a sacrifice.

has commenced and the streets present a business-like appearance, being obstructed by building material such as stone, lumber, lime, etc. Levy Samnon has commenced butchering again and is erecting a large and commodious shop. This building is to be made of stone and when finished will be a credit to Benton. Mr. Farber is erecting a dwelling house in Partzwick. Mr. Brooks contemplates building and has the lumber on the ground, but is waiting to perfect his title to the real estate before building. Mr. Lawsen's residence is now complete and presents rather a respectable appearance. All of the above named gentlemen are single and it is rumored that all (excepting the first mentioned) contemplate committing matrimony.

MARRIED.

At Bridgeport, about the 1st of this month, Mr. J. W. Steward and Miss Ada Murphy were joined together by the holy bonds of "padlock."

And yet they are some left as there were two divorces granted in this county last term of Court, and both of the widows live in Benton (thanks to the Court), but the ink on the divorce bills were not dry before the County Clerk had issued a marriage license upon which was the name of one of the lucky ladies.

AT TORNEY.

Murder at Sumner.

A shocking murder was committed at the depot on Monday morning about ten o'clock. The circumstances as we learn them, are as follows: Two Mexicans named Refugio Salazar and Antonio Araisa had been drinking and carousing at one of the dens, became quarrelsome, and stepping outside the door of the dance house, began fighting. Ramon Abila, a friend of Salazar, observing the disturbance attempted to stop it and separate the combatants, but in doing so he received a terrible stab from his friend Refugio, from which he fell and died immediately. The knife severed a large artery near the heart and death resulted almost instantaneously. The murderer immediately took flight and succeeded in escaping to the brush. The officers, as soon as apprised of the affair, gave pursuit, but the fugitive had secreted himself in the dense growth of willows on the South Fork, and all efforts to capture him were unavailing. There is little probability of his capture now, and as this exploit will entitle him to full membership with the Chavez gang, he has no doubt presented his credentials and been accepted. Coroner Rogers held an inquest on the body, and a verdict was returned in accordance with facts.—[Bakersfield Courier, June 12.

—"Mohair chairs are going out of date and we are glad of it. A mohair chair is the worst thing in the world to sit in while drawing on a pair of pants." Finding the foregoing in The Mendocino Dispatch, a paper edited by Mrs Belle Lynch, we are constrained to ask what she knows about it?

—Indictments have been found against several citizens of New York for complicity in the Tweed frauds, and the prosecution of all suits against members of the ring are being pushed vigorously.

You Got Him, "Boss!"

A serio-comic incident occurred at a station on the Richmond & Danville Railroad a few days ago. An engineer having occasion to back his train on to a siding to take on an extra car, a negro who was to do the coupling, got caught in between the bumpers of the off car and the train, and, though not seriously hurt, had the breath pretty well knocked out of him and was unable to move. Another negro, who saw his predicament, crept up to the engineer and drawing the engineer aside, said to him in a confidential whisper: "Boss, you got him."

"What?"

"You got him, Boss, sure enuf dis time. He can't move nor holler needer."

Still puzzled, The Enquirer reporter again demanded an explanation, when the negro sank his voice lower, and, giving a knowing leer, said:

"Boss, I specs you better run; nobody seed you," and then disappeared.

About this time the fireman who had gone back, came forward and explained matters, but it is evident that negro No. 2 thought the squeeze was done on purpose.—[Richmond (Va) Enquirer.

Book on Farming.

An Ottumwa man of literature is writing a book on farming. He is writing from practical experience. The first chapter of the work is completed, and contains a sum total of his experience till date. The Democrat, by way of encouragement to home talent, prints the first chapter in full, and it is as follows:

WHAT I KNOW OF FARMING.

BY A WESTERN MAN.

CHAPTER I.

Farming is darned hard work.

[Ed. Childs, Esq., the retired farmer, has applied for the agency of the above work, and says that the first chapter contains more solid truth to the square inch than any revelation given to man in the last eighteen centuries.]—[Mendota (Ill). Bulletin.

Destitute.

The earthquakes that have succeeded the famine in Asia Minor have been very severe. The number of killed is put at over two thousand; and we are led to infer that, though these lives were not destroyed in any densely populated town, several villages were ruined. That two thousand people were killed by earthquakes seems nearly incredible. No such fatality from this cause has occurred, so far as we remember, since 1861, when Mendoza, in the Argentine Republic, was overturned and about twelve thousand people were said to have been killed.—[Ex.

Croup.

Croup, it is stated, can be cured in one minute, and the remedy is simply alum and sugar. The way to prepare it is to take a knife and shave off in small particles a teaspoonful of alum; then mix it with twice its quantity of sugar, to make it palatable and administer as quickly as possible. Almost instantaneous relief will follow.

SCISSORINCTUMS.

—"I say, Jim, why don't you walk straight?" "How in thunder, Tom, can a feller walk straight after drinking crooked whiskey?"

—"Digby, will you take some of this butter?" "Thank you, ma'am, I'm a Good Templar. Can't take anything strong," replied Digby.

—A young lady while out walking, heard, for the first time, her mother's intention to marry again, she was obliged to sit down and cry about it. She could not go a step-father.

—The heaviest snorer we have heard of is the man whose wife woke him up the other night, during a tempest, saying that she did wish he would stop snoring, for she wanted to hear the thunder.

—"Are the young ladies of the present day fit for wives?" asked a lecturer of his audience. "They are fit for husbands," responded a female voice; "but you men are not fit for wives!" The applause was great, and so was the discomforture of the lecturer.

—Brown is a married man now. A few days since he thought of taking a trip to Paris. One of his friends, meeting him on the street, inquired, "Well, Brown, my boy, when are you off?" "Next week." "Going to take your wife with you?" "No; its a voyage of pleasure."

—"Yes, you may come again next Sunday evening, Horace, dear, but—" and she hesitated. "What is it, darling? Have I given you pain?" he asked, as she still remained silent. "You did not mean to, I'm sure," she responded; "but next time please don't wear one of those collars with the points turning outward; they scratch so."

—An old Highlander, rather fond of his toddy, was ordered by his physician, during a temporary illness, not to exceed one ounce of spirits daily. The old gentleman was dubious about the amount, and asked his son, a school boy, how much an ounce was. "Sixteen drams," was the reply. "Sixteen drams! An excellent doctor!" replied the Highlander. "Run and tell Donald McTavish and big John to come down to nicht."

—A slim old chap and a fat woman, husband and wife, from the East, were riding to a hotel from the depot yesterday, when the old man caught sight of the sun and yelled out: "Well, darn me if that ain't curus!" "What?" she asked. "Why, the sun's right here on my left hand this morning. When we're home it's right over the hoss-barn. Wall, wall—one's got to travel afore he knows anything."

—"Ish der some ledder here for me?" inquired a German at the general delivery window of the postoffice the other day. "No, none here," was the reply. "Vhell, dot ish queer," he continued, getting his head into the window; "my neighbor gets sometimes dree letters in one day, und I get none. I bayes more daxes as he does, und I hat never got one ledder yet. How comes dose things."

Grant Becoming Burnsideized.

We have watched the career of President Grant very closely, and on the whole, have felt that the country would be entirely safe in his hands for any number of terms; but the report that he is now cultivating Burnside whiskers has dampened our admiration. If he should conclude to part his hair in the middle, we should "have no confidence" any longer. So long as our hero shaved himself with a pair of scissors, and his beard and mustache stuck out in every direction, after the manner of a woodchuck, we have had unlimited faith in his common sense and general self-poise. But this reputed change bodes no good to Republican institutions. It is more alarming altogether than if he were to write a book on the third term question. We have long deplored the tendency among our public men to become spoiled by fashion and other weaking habits, and to think that the President of the United States should resort to the cultivation of side whiskers, at this stage of the game, and become the envy of school girls, hotel clerks and flash ministers of the Gospel, is more than we can bear. Better had Burnside never been born than our eyes should behold such a sight. It is possible that he mode a mistake in being born, anyhow.—[Oakland Tribune.

that instantly stops the most excruciating pains, allays inflammations and cures Congestions, whether of the Lungs, Stomach, Bowels, or other glands or organs, by one application.

IN FROM ONE TO TWENTY MINUTES, no matter how violent or excruciating the pain the RHEUMATIC, Bed-Ridden, Infirm, Crippled, Nervous, Neuralgic, or prostrated with disease may suffer,

Radway's Ready Relief

WILL AFFORD INSTANT EASE.
INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, INFLAMMATION OF THE BLADDER.
INFLAMMATION OF THE BOWELS, CONGESTION OF THE LUNGS.
SORE THROAT, DIFFICULT BREATHING, PALPITATION OF THE HEART.
HYSTERICS, CROUP, DIPTHERIA, CATARRH, INFLUENZA.
HEADACHE, TOOTHACHE, NEURALGIA, RHEUMATISM.
COLD CHILLS, AGUE CHILLS.

The application of the Ready Relief to the part or parts where the pain or difficulty exists will afford ease and comfort.

Twenty drops in half a tumblerfull of water will in a few minutes cure CRAMPS, SPASMS, SOUR STOMACH, HEARTBURN, SICK HEADACHE, DIARRHEA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, WIND IN THE BOWELS, and all INTERNAL PAINS.

Travelers should always carry a bottle of Radway's Ready Relief with them. A few drops in water will prevent sickness or pains from change of water. It is better than French Brandy of Bitters as a stimulant.

FEVER AND AGUE.

FEVER AND AGUE cured for fifty cents. There is not a remedial agent in the world that will cure Fever and Ague, and all other malarious, Bilious, Scarlet, Typhoid, Yellow and other Fevers (aided by RADWAY'S PILLS), so quick as RADWAY'S READY RELIEF. Fifty cents per bottle. Sold by Druggists.

HEALTH! BEAUTY!!

STRONG AND PURE RICH BLOOD—INCREASE OF FLESH AND WEIGHT—CLEAR SKIN AND BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION SECURED TO ALL.

DR. RADWAY'S Sarsaparillian Resolvent

HAS MADE THE MOST ASTONISHING CURES SO QUICK, SO RAPID ARE THE CHANGES THE BODY UNDERGOES, UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF THIS TRULY WONDERFUL MEDICINE, THAT

Every Day an Increase in Weight is Seen and Felt.

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphilis, Consumption, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the System, Sore Eyes, Strumous Discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm, and all wastes of the life principle are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.

If the patient, daily becoming reduced by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, succeeds in arresting these wastes, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure.

Not only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excel all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional and Skin Diseases; but it is the only positive cure for

Kidney and Bladder Complaints, Urinary and Womb diseases, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brick dust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like white silk, or there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and white bone-dust deposits, and when there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the small of the back and along the loins. Tumor of 12 Years Growth Cured by Radway's Ready Resolvent.

BEVERLY, MASS., July 18, 1869.

DR. RADWAY:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried everything that was recommended; but nothing helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief; and there is not a sign of a tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter and happier than I have for twelve years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the bowels, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

MEDICAL.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS!

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

BEYOND THE SUNSET ARE THE HILLS OF GOD.

BY FANNIE ISABELLE SHERRICK.

Gleaming folds of red and gold, linger in the Western sky;
Fleecy clouds of purest tint, mingle with the purple dye

Faintly to the dreamy mind, comes the sound of earthly life;
Far beyond the shining banks, cometh rest from worldly strife.

Through the sunset's misty veil, now we look with longing eyes;
To behold more beauteous sight than the evenings glorious skies.

Slowly now the red banks part, showing what is hidden there;
Flashing hills of shadowy light, piercing through the darkening air.

Like the rainbow's promise clear, God has placed His emblem there;
Giving life and trust to all, love unbounded, rich and rare.

Glimpses of a life beyond come to each faint, weary heart;
And we long for that bright shore where the loved ones ne'er shall part.

Strange that souls should still live on, hopeless with their hidden pain;
When, would they but read the skies, heaven and hope would come again.

Though the life be weary spent, evening brings the glory near;
And beyond the sunset's glow, grand the hills of God appear.

What Shall we do With Our Boys.

It is as impossible to "make" a chemist, or an engineer, or a naturalist, of a boy, if he has no special taste or aptness for these studies, as to make a poet out of a Digger Indian. It is no unusual circumstance for parents who have boys just entering upon manhood to come to us desiring counsel in regard to placing them in a chemical laboratory, that they may "learn the trade," as to their eyes the business appears remunerative. They have no special genius, no training in preparatory studies, no decided leaning toward chemical manipulation or research, but the desire is to have them "made" into chemists. There is a mistaken idea, common to many parents, that their children are as well adapted to one employment as another, and that they only need opportunities to learn regarding this pursuit or that, to become proficients, and rise to eminence. More than half the sad failures so commonly observed are due to being forced into the wrong road in early life. Young men are forced into pulpits, when they should be following the plough; forced into courts of law, when they should be driving the plane in a carpenter's shop; forced into sick rooms, as physicians, when they should be guiding a locomotive, or heading an exploring party in the Rocky Mountains; forced into industrial laboratories, when they should be in the counting room or shop.

It is a wise provision of Providence that nearly every boy born into the world has some peculiar distinctive capability, some aptness for a particular calling or pursuit; and if he is driven into channels contrary to his instincts and tastes, he is in antagonism with nature, and the odds are against him. One of the earliest and most anxious inquiries of parents should be directed to the discovery of the leanings of their children, and if they find that their boy, who they earnestly desire shall adorn the bar or the pulpit, is persistently engaged in constructing toy ships, and wading in every puddle of water, to test their sailing qualities; if he reads books of voyages, and when in a seaport steals away to the wharves, to visit ships and talk with sailors, it is certain he is born for the sea. Fit him out with a sailor's rig, put him in the best possible position for rising to the honorable post of ship-master, and you have discharged your duty. If, on the other hand, he is logical, discriminating, keen, fond of argument, let him enter the law; if he is fond of whittling, planing, sawing, constructing, and neglects his studies, turn him over to a good carpenter to learn the trade. If he begins early to spend his pennies for sulphur, nitre, oil of vitrol, aquafortis, etc.; if he is such a persistent experimenter that you fear he will kill himself, or set your buildings on fire; if his pockets are full of abominable drugs, and his clothing so charged with the odor of stale eggs that you refuse to admit him to the table at meal times, why, the chances are that he is a "born" chemist, and it will be safe to start him off to some technical school for instruction.

The question is, not what we will make of our boys, but what position are they manifestly designed to fill; in what direction does nature point, as respects avocations or pursuits in life which will be in harmony with their capabilities and instincts? It is no use for us to repine and find fault with the supposed vulgar taste of our boys. We must remember that no industrial calling is vulgar; every kind of labor is honorable; and it is far better to be distinguished as a first class cobbler or peddler, than to live the contemptible life of a fifth-rate lawyer or clergyman.

There are thousands of boys born into the world possessing scarcely a trace of ambition. Such do not care for distinction, or even for wealth; if they can procure the humblest fare, by constant toil, the aspirations of their boyhood, and subsequently of their manhood, are fully met. They are negative characters, happy with nothing, and suffer no elation or depression, whether in sunshine or under a cloud. These boys, who often afford much mortification to ambitious parents, fill a most important niche in the world; in fact, the world could not do without them. They constitute the great army of men who build our railroads, tunnel our mountains, load and unload our ships, cut down our forests, and manipulate the red-hot iron masses which come from our blast furnaces. Scold and fret as we may, we cannot alter the temperament or proclivities of such boys. Nature is stronger than we are, and well it is that this is so. If our boys are born to live in subordinate or humble positions, we can hardly help it; we may hold them in a false position by the power of wealth, or strong controlling influences, but when these fail they fall at once to their place, in obedience to a law as irresistible as that which Newton discovered in the fall of the apple.

What shall we do with our boys? Study to learn what they are capable of doing for themselves; aid them, encourage them to do well whatever work is suited to their natures. Regard every calling as honorable, the labor of which is honorably performed, and thus insure happiness and prosperity to our off spring.

To Rest.

Multitudes of earth's toiling millions have died while striving to make enough money to retire from business, and in a beautiful cottage on their own little farm to spend the remnant of their days in rest, in having nothing in particular to do. Perhaps one in a million of the hopers does make money enough to enable him to retire to his country seat, and for a year or two, while he is fixing it up to his notion, all goes on charmingly, but when everything is completed to his mind and he has nothing more to take up his attention, he eats and sleeps and lounges around for a few months longer, falls into disease and dies; or if he has unusual force of character and power of observation, he notices that both health and happiness are passing from him, and tracing this to the true cause of an inactive body and an unoccupied mind, he resolves to "sell out" and plunge again into the vortex of business.

Recently an old schoolmate—younger, graduating in the same class thirty-seven years ago—writes that "both body and mind are worn out; the slightest physical labor exhausts him," and "any effort to think or study or even read, so wearies the brain that life is felt as a burden." He withdrew from his professional duties, which he had performed in the place for twenty-five years, with honor to himself, having secured the love and confidence and respect of all who knew him. He gave up his calling for the purpose of obtaining rest, as a means of health.

The number of families are increasing every day, who give up housekeeping as a means of rest from family cares, and resort to that miserable and most unwise mode of life, boarding at a hotel or in some private family, to get more dissatisfied than ever in a few months meanwhile falling into bad health and bad habits of various kinds.

All these classes of persons fail, miserably fail in their object, because they mistake the physiological meaning of the word "rest." Neither body nor brain are safely, truly and happily rested by doing nothing. The only healthful rest, as long as our physical and mental constitutions remains as it is, is to be busy. Men of force and industry will everywhere tell you, "It is the hardest thing in the world to do nothing." No mortal man was ever made to be a loafer, to be a miserable drone. The true idea of rest is recreation, a making over again, a return to our accustomed vigor; and this is accomplished, not by allowing the machine to come to a standstill, for inactivity is rust and ruin to all mechanical contrivances, and death to all physiological structures. The object of rest is recuperation, and that is best brought about as to the body, by exercising a different set of muscles; and as to the brain by calling into requisition a different set of organs and powers, causing the mind to act upon new objects. A better plan is not to get into the unhealthful conditions named, and they are avoidable by giving two hours daily to the exercise of a different class of muscles or to the investigation and study of objects of comparatively trivial importance and of a wholly different nature. The student should ride on horseback, or cultivate fruit or flowers; the merchant should employ his mind in liberal studies, in active personal and elevating charities, while the over taxed and worried wife should pay a visit daily to some prudent friend, some cheery neighbor or suffering sister or child; the main idea in all cases being to spend two or three hours daily in open air activities wholly differing from the ordinary business routine.

—"On which side of the platform is my train?" asked a stranger in a Jersey City depot the other day. "Well, my friend," replied a gentleman passing, "if you take the left, you'll be right, if you take the right, you'll be left."

—Did it ever occur to you what the meaning of "No cards," and "No cake," appended to a marriage announcement means? It is simply the exclamation of the editor thrown in, in a spiteful way, to show that he was not remembered.

—In what respect does a Bishop resemble a fish? Both live in the sea!

END OF VOLUME V.

With this issue THE INYO INDEPENDENT closes its 5th year and volume. For five long years, under dificulties and discouragements greater than appears upon its columns, it has maintained a somewhat checkered existence. But we are proud to say that it has taken no step backwards, but with steady increase now boasts a larger and better list of patrons and good friends than at any other period of its existance. If it does not continue to do so it will not be for lack of persistent effort and earnest desire on the part of its propietors. We are confident a new era of prosperity is about to open for our county, and in that hope and belief far more than in existing realities, we feel that a corresponding good future is in store for THE INDEPENDENT. In this connection we feel it but right to say that circumstances will soon make it imperatively necessary for us to ask each and all of our patrons to "REMEMBER THE PRINTER." and while doing so we return our thanks to the people of Inyo generally for their promptness in that respect heretofore Taken all in all, we doubt if there is a country paper in the State, run as they generally are, on the credit system, whose subscribers have so universally settled their bills as well as those of this paper. Sooner or later, though in some instances years may have elapsed, nearly every one has come forward and squared his account. To all such we can only say. "do the best you can for us, and it is all right."

THE OHIO DEMOCRATS.

Columbus, (Ohio) dates give the subjoined synopsis of the proceedings and platform of the Democratic State Convention held there on June 17. The Eastern press of both parties condemn the "inflation" plank in strong terms. Great importance is attached to the pending Ohio elections as promising almost a certain proof as to which party shall elect the next President, and hence this inflation plank is denounced by the Eastern Democrats as one calculated to injure their prospects of success very materially. We think the particular plank most deserving of condemnation and worthy to defeat the party that enunciates it is that one denouncing the Republicans for their atitude in reference to sectarian interference with our public school system. But here is the ticket and platform as full as yet received:

The Democratic State Convention to-day was the largest ever held in Ohio. The following ticket was nominated: For Governor, William Allen; Lieutenant Governor, S. F. Carey; Supreme Judge, T. O. Ashburn: Auditor, E. M. Green; Treasurer, Jas. Schriver; Attorney General, T. E. Powell. The following platform was adopted: Sacred adherence to the principles of the Government, put in practical operations by the fathers of the Republic; protection of all citizens without regard to race or color; that the President's service shall be limited to one term, at a salary of $25,000 a year; retrenchment in every department of the Government; no grants of land or money to railroad, steamship or other companies; preservation of the public lands for actual settlers; that the volume of currency be made and kept equal to the wants of trade; that the national circulation be permanently retired and legal tenders issued in their place; the establishment of a system of free banks of discount and deposit; denouncing the Republican platform as an insult to the intelligent people of Ohio and a base appeal to sectarian prejudices.

New Patents.

Through dispatches to Dewey & Co., Patent Agents, San Francisco, we receive the following advance list of U. S. Patents granted to Pacific Coast inventors, viz: Arthur Barton, Nevada, Cal, machine for bending horse shoes; Wm. H. Carson, San Jose, Cal., amalgamator; Frank Enos, Mineral City, Nev., attachment for cooking stoves; A. S. Hallidie, San Francisco, endless rope traction way; Daniel F. Hawkes, Timbuctoo, Cal., flume battery; Jos. R. Mitchell, Haywood, Cal., cutter holder for metal lathes; A. S. Wall, Graniteville, Cal., slow match for lighting fuses; A. P. Ashbourne, Oakland, Cal., process for preparing cocoanut for domestic uses; J. W. Tucker, San Francisco trade-mark for watches.

Road Wagon.

The Los Angeles and Independence Railroad company now have a steam road wagon at the Cajon Pass where it is first to be used in driving Burleigh drills, with which a hole is to be knocked through that mountain with the greatest despatch.

MILLS AND FURNACES.

It is demonstrated that the regular crushing and amalgamating process of silver ore reduction is too unreliable and unprofitable to generally give much hope of success anywhere in the Great Basin, off the Comstock lode. The failures by this mode can be numbered by the hundreds, while perfect success can scarce be named at all. We do not call to mind a single mill in all the great region named, with the exceptions above alluded to, that has met expectations unless run in combination with a furnace process of some sort. The simple crushing and amalgamating process can never prove satisfactory on such ores as are found in this region. It will not be for the lack of ores of the very richest class, or of quantities beyond computation. There is enough rich silver ores in this county alone to keep thousands of stamps profitably pounding away for all time to come if a fair proportion of the precious metals could thereby be saved. But this will rarely ever be done by the Washoe system simply.

But there is one plan or process, perfectly practical in this county, which gives a positive assurance of the success. This is nothing more than Cerro Gordo furnace method of separating the silver from the rebellious ores. As we understand it, nearly every particle of silver in the richest and most rebellious silver ores can be saved by smelting with lead The most prosperous days Cerro Gordo has ever seen was when the lead ores of that camp were enriched, during the process of smelting, by the rich but rebellious silver ores of the neighboring district of Belmont. The bullion shipped was made of any value desired, within certain limits. All the silver was saved with no additional expense other than the cost of the added silver ores. It costs no more to ship a ton of bullion containing two or three hundreed or more ounces of silver than the lead with its natural quota of fifty or a hundred ounces. All this is too obvious to need demonstration. The question is, Why is not that plan adopted exclusively in this county? Allowing a little for the extravagance of the assertion, there is enough lead ore in this county to smelt all the silver ores in the State, and enough silver ores to enrich all the lead ore on the coast. Take Cerro Gordo, Waucoba, Darwin and other localities close by, on the one hand, and Panamint, Rose Springs and everywhere for a hundred miles around, and we have lead and silver enough to pave the whole State. But to work either class of these ores with certainty of profit, they must be brought together and worked in combination by the smelting process Without offering anything as exact estimates, we believe that each ton of Darwin lead ore, rich as much of it already is in silver, can be made to extract all the silver from an equal weight of Panamint average silver ore. It can be made to do this at a far greater profit than is possible to accomplish the same end by expensive roasting and mill process. Panamint is building fine roasting furnaces and finer crushing mills and with fair prospects of success. But we feel an assurance that the prospects for a grand success finally depend almost wholly on the adoption of some such plan as here suggested.

At the mouth of Panamint Canyon, within easy reach by tramway of millions of tons of rich silver ores, there is an abundance of water for a large city. On the neighboring mountains is to be found a plentiful supply of fuel, sufficient for extensive works for years to come. Right at that place ought to be furnaces to smelt the ores of Panamint, Rose Springs, Darwin and other places within easy reach for a hundred miles around. It only needs the proposed Los Angeles and Independence Railway to carry the lead ores of Darwin some thirty miles, all on a level or down grade to that point, there to be used in extracting the silver from silver ores of Panamint. The same railway extended to Owens Lake, places at command the whole vast timber region of the Sierra Nevada, the ores of Cerro Gordo and all this country.

The whole plan, scarcely outlined, is perfectly feasible, and, as regards the reduction of the silver ores, the only one that has ever yet met expectations in this county, or probably ever will. There is no part of it that can be considered in the light of an experiment, and it is be hoped it may receive the attention of mining men before they expend all their means in less promising or perfectly futile experiments, if the prosecution of old plans, re-adopted, can be called experiments. The roasting and crushing process is not new in this region, neither has it ever proved much of a success, though millions have been spent in testing it.

—"Pigeongram" is the name suggested by a learned school ma'am for dispatches sent by pigeons. Carrier her out.

SANTA MONICA.

Los Angeles is now sorely distressed, not to say disgusted, with the operations of Senator Jones, all because the Senator is going to build up a great commercial city and sanatarium there at Santa Monica just to the west'ard. The City of the Angels cares but little about the commercial part of the programme, since she never made any pretentions in that direction herself further than to ask outsiders to do a work all important to that interest when she could have done it without such aid—it's the thought of a rival sanitarium that hurts. Well, it is bad, but might be worse. Los Angeles won't be of any less consequence with the Los Angeles and Independence railway; she wou'd never have amounted to anything worth speaking about without it; but for the inducements of Santa Monica sheep ranch it is likely the Senator could not have seen any need of that railway—so, but for Jones, and his sheep ranch there was no hope of the railroad, and consequently not the least for any commercial importance for Los Angeles. Whatever Santa Monica may gain will be just what Los Angeles never had to lose. Her capitalists and their coin (quite sufficient to have made her a city of railroads and commerce had it been handled with commercial energy) will stay with her, chiefly on account of the exertion of getting away—otherwise, they would have built this Independence road themselves and put its terminus where it would have done their own city the most good, which, like enough, would have been just where the gentleman from Nevada is placing it; then there would have been none of his energy and bonanza to make the locality a dangerous rival.

But, for further particulars as to the cause of this keen distress without adequate cause we refer our readers to the Senator's 36,000-acre sheep ranch, or Santa Monica advertisement, which comes through an advertising agent and is, of course, published at about one-fourth rates, therefore not displayed according to our real estimate of the inducements offered. We believe a large city will be built there, but as a matter of course, never without the completed Los Angeles and Independence railroad—which will make Los Angeles a real city at the same time.

The Aldine.

The Aldine for June (No. 18 of the current series) has come to hand, and it may be called one of the most substantial numbers of the publication which has yet appeared, appealing, throughout, to the most refined and elevated sentiments. The fact is especially notable in several of the illustrations, "Mother's Darling," the first, being a perfect apothesis of that holiest and most self-sacrificing of affections conveyed by the name; while in two companion pictures, "The Helping Hand," and "Saved and Lost," the story of man's spiritual peril and his only abiding refuge is told most strikingly. "A Waterfall in the Pyrenes," "The Heron's Rock," "Battle of Bunker Hill," "The Drinking Stag," three noble views of Durham Cathedral, and a portrait of Hon. B Wyman, of Brooklyn, make up the art-contents of the number. In letter-press, no story of the secession war has been so plainly and yet so sweetly told, as is "A Virginia Girl's Experience at the Fall of Richmond," of which a part is given in this number. The novel of the Revolution, "The Spar of Monmouth," "The Bellenden Difficulty," by Florence Allen, a pleasant paper on "Germantown," by Chandos Fulton; the first of a scrappy series by John Thompson, Jr., on "Old Personal Resemblances;" careful papers on "Bunker Hill." Then, and to conclude, we have the following poems—all worthy of their place: "The Mother's Darling," "The Best to Come," "June Roses," "One Maiden's Way," and "The Brook of Kildare," making up a whole of quite the average Aldine excellence, which is all that need be said. The Aldine Company, publishers, 58 Maiden Lane, New York City.

Will Escape.

The Tribune's Washington special says the trial of Hinds, the mail contractor charged with corrupting Government officials, is making rapid progress. The indications are that he will escape conviction on technicalties. Officials of the Postoffice Departm nt doubt whether there is any law covering the case, and the local prosecuting officers have not been very vigorous in the prosecution. Hinds threatens serious things if convicted, and says he will not go behind the bars alone.

Boston and Brains.

The Philadelphia Times, in referring to the large number of Massachusetts Centennial employees, says: "There is no State we think more of than Massachusetts, but we do not care to have the world believe that she has made a corner in brains."

General.

Recent local elections throughout Virginia have generally gone in favor of the Democrats.

Alexander Stevens, having been mentioned as a candidate for Governor of Georgia, takes an early opportunity to deny that he has any aspirations for the place. He also says it would be the very height of folly for the Southern States to take no part in the Philadelphia Centennial exercises next year.

Tweed is officially discharged; but he will have to raise the little matter of three million dollars bail before he can pass Ludlow Street Jail on his way to the bosom of his family.

The funeral of forty eight victims of the disaster at Holyoke was solemnized in the new Catholic church at Holyoke, May 29th, a large crowd being in attendance. The coffins were placed on a raised platform, which partly gave way under the weight, causing a temporary panic. A procession nearly a mile long followed the bodies to the cemetery.

The Nashville Press (Democratic) says: "The year of jubilee is indeed coming, and before we are through with the Centennial celebrations the animosities of the war will be practically blotted out."

While there is a wide diversity of opinion among newspapers concerning the precise meaning of the President's third-term letter, there seems to be a very general belief that it will completely remove him from the field as a candidate for renomination.

The saw dust from the mills on the Truckee river has formed a bar across the outlet into Pyramid Lake miles in length, and the waters have thus been diverted into Winnemucca Lake, which is now eight feet higher than usual.

Mrs. Lincoln.

It is related that when an old friend of Mrs. Lincoln went to her recently and told her plainly that she was insane, and that her best friends felt that it was best that she should go to an asylum, the unfortunate woman said: "It may be so, and what if it is so, what wonder is it? Have not I had enough cause to derange any woman's brain? Did I not see my husband assassinated before my eyes? Have I not been homeless for years, and have I not buried all my children with the exception of Robert? Do you wonder that I am deranged?"

Columbus.

The Northern Belle Mill and Mining Company declared their first dividend of one dollar per share on the 12th, payable on the 15th instant. This little disbursement causes those to smile who have not smoken for many days.

The Floor of the Mississippi Valley.

The boring of an artesian well at St Louis showed the Potsdam sandstone to be four thousand feet below the bed of the Mississippi river; and as this rock carries a fossil trilobite, that level at one time must have been the floor of an ocean.

Small Pox.

The Virginia (Nev) Enterprise, says: "Several cases of small pox have occured in this city during the past two or three weeks, and so many are now reported that it must be again regarded as a contagion in our midst.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE.

To Busy Bee Lodge No 250 I. O. G. T.—We Mrs. R. A. Clark, Wm. Goodwin, and Joseph Dowling, your Committee, respectfully submit the following:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Supreme Ruler of the Universe in his infinite wisdom to remove from our midst the beloved children of our respected Bro. and Sister Chalfant in which they are bereft of their loved little ones, therefore be it,

Resolved, That we humble bow in submission to the will of God in this dispensation of Divine Providence ever believing that in His infinite wisdom He doeth all things well.

Resolved, That we tender to our respected Bro. P. A. and Sister A. Chalfant, parents of the deceased, our heartfelt sympathy in their great bereavement and we deeply mourn with them in their loss.

Resolved, That these resolutions be copied in the minute book, a copy sent to The Rescue and a copy to Bro. and Sister Chalfant

Dramatic Entertainment.

The Independence Amatuer Dramatic Club advertise in this issue to give another of their popular and very enjoyable entertainments. It was designed to have it to come off on the evening of July 5th, but in deference to the Round Valley celebration, which will be largely attended from this place, the evening of the 2d was fixed upon, still further shortening the time for preparation, already brief enough for amatuers to "get a good ready" for such an extensive programme, and at the same time attend to regular daily duties; but they will make a success, nevertheless, for they have talent and energy equal to almost any emergency. The programme, varied and superior in its details as may be seen, is one we are sure, that will give higher satisfaction than anything of the kind we have ever had in this place Considerable expense has been incurred by the Club in preparing costumes, which are complete, stage, scenery, etc, and it is to be hoped everybody and his wife will be there to see and hear.

That Lecture Controversy.

We this week publish a rejoinder to the communication from "L. H." given last week. We like to give place to everything of the kind that can instruct, amuse or vindicate a wrong, but we don't like to make our columns a medium for matters essentially personal, and more particularly when not given over the writer's true name. Personal allusions, deserving or otherwise, rarely elucidate any issue of public interest or strengthen the side for which they are used, and it is much better for all concerned that they should not be indulged in.

County Court.

Next Thursday is the time appointed for the meeting of the County Court and Grand Jury. The term, ordinarily would begin on the first Monday of the regular month, but next Monday being in fact a legal holiday, it had to be passed, and so to accommodate jurors and others in distant parts of the county who would want to be there to "celebrate and get over it," the officers thought best to postpone for a few days longer.

The List.

Though not quite complete yet, in this issue will be found the names of numerous aspirants for county offices' being one or more for each office except that for County Judge and Supervisors Out of the list already announced, a good set of officers can be had, so be it the people want 'em. We don't think any better will be offered, selecting just enough to fill the places.

About Supervisors.

The good people of the several Supervisor districts of this county, while fixing up tickets for the more desirable county offices, must not overlook the fact that a full Board of Supervisors are to be chosen, and if there is any office where the best men ought to be put it is on that Board. Trot 'em out.

Childrens' Party.

Miss Alice and Master Bertrand Rhine issued invitations to all their young friends, and had a little farewell party on Thursday evening, and we are informed by the little fellows that it was the success of the season. The occasion was the return to school at San Francisco.

Dr. Lesesene Killed.

A Prescott, Arizona, dispatch of June 19 says that Dr. Lesesene, a former well known physician of this county, was shot and killed at Mineral Park on the 13th instant, by D. A. Mayendorf. We have nothing further in regard to the affair, except that Lesesene had shot also but without effect.

For Pine Mountain.

A. C. Harvey, late of Lone Pine, has just sent out his blacksmithing material to Pine Mountain, where two days since, he went himself with a view of locating. He has just returned from Los Angeles county where his family propose to spend the Summer.

To Go.

By request, V. A. Gregg, Esq., goes up to orate (which he can do very well) at the Round Valley celebration Likewise, Matlack, Late and Geo. Gill and their stringed instruments, with which to soothe the savage young mustangs, and others.

Will Celebrate.

Panamint, as we learn through The News, proposes to celebrate the Fourth in becoming style. In the way of speech making and heavy cannonading, if in no other, Panamint ought to be able to celebrate to good advantage.

Personal.

Mrs. Ashim is now here on a visit to her unfortunate son, B. Ashim, in the County Jail awaiting his trial for the killing of Perasich. The trial is set for the November term.

Crazy or a Rascal, Which?

Tuesday or Wednesday last a man named Moore rode a mule to Brown's stable to be taken care of. The rig consisted of a piece of baling rope around the mule's neck, only that and nothing more. This Moore said that he was a brother to J. J. and "Dad" of the Sheriff's office. Dad don't think the mule rider is really his long lost brother with a strawberry mark on his arm. He has several reasons for this belief, but the most conclusive in Dad's opinion, is that he has no brother who would steal a mule and not get a saddle and bridle to go with him when he started to travel. Shortly after his arrival the man went to District Attorney Snelling wanting a warrant for some individual specified who, he said, had stolen a saddle and some valuable clothes from him at the toll-house on Greenley's road. As his story was incoherent and a lie on its face he didn't get the warrant for the hypothetical scoundrel. Soon after, this particular Moore got frightened at something somebody said, and left without his mule, having tried in vain to raise the small sum required to pay the stable bill. He is a tall man, sandy complection, and without a coat or special recommendations in the way of good clothes of any sort. Dadual thinks that if this mule belonged to his long lost brother, with or without a strawberry mark, and that brother got scared or crazy and ran off and left said mule in Brown's stable, he, Dad, falls the moral if not the legal heir to him That Brown holds a different view is plain since he advertises for an owner for the mule, as may be seen elsewhere. Any way this thief, lunatic, or whatever he is, claims to have come in from the direction of Lida valley, and previously from Eureka or thereabouts.

Independent Ticket.

We understand there is a movement on foot to get up a complete Independent ticket for this county, but we don't understand just yet what the pretext is. It is certain that up to the present no one can find fault with the tickets presented by either of the regular parties. There is not an objectionable man on either one of them so far as we have heard. We can't undertake to say what there may be hereafter, however. It is well enough to take time by the forelock. If Republican or Democratic votes can't elect good officers, or have not sufficient material out of which to make them, may be the Independents can furnish them, who knows?

Election To-Day.

An election for School Trustees for this district will be held at the school house to day between the hours of 1 and 4, P. M. A full board is to be elected, and now let all and every one interested in schools, come out and attend to this important duty. We wish it understood that Mr. Chalfant of this paper, and Clerk and Trustee of the district, is not a candidate for reelection and will not accept the position by election or appointment.

Primaries To-Day.

The Democratic Primaries through the county come off to-day. The polls at this place will be held at Brown's office, Pioneer Stables, and will be open at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Lumber.

We observe a number of heavy teams passing loaded with timbers and lumber designed we believe, for the Darwin furnaces.

Railroad Grading.

Grading has commenced on the Eureka and Palisade Railroad. The line is now located up to the Summit, and Engineer Norton is now engaged in cross-sectioning for the graders, who commenced active operations on Monday. The work will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible, and before cold weather Eureka will have direct communication by rail with the trans-continental road. The grading of the Ruby Hill and Eureka Railroad has been completed to the Lawton dump of the Eureka Consolidated line. The surveyors are now engaged in running track centers and will soon finish their part of the work. Iron and ties are arriving daily and being laid. A side track is being put in near the furnaces, and the entire road will in a few weeks be in running order.—[Eureka Sentinel, June 17th.

"The Objectionable (?) Stanchion."

BISHOP CREEK, June 21th, 1875.

MESSRS EDS:—Your last issue lies before me. I have perused carefully the article by "L. H." I presume the writer thinks that signature is the climax of the logic and will carry conviction with an overwhelming power to all. Yet after consideration I would suggest that "L" alone would be more suitable—only a suggestion however. And were it not that some inuendoes were cast at "our pedagogue" I would deem it a pure waste of time to reply to him, her or it. For the article by "Justice" I have heard citizens of worth and intelligence, both male and female, who were at said lecture, say more than once that it was just and eminently true, and not half told. And it has but one supporter and that "stanchion" must have found its affinity. "Oh! who can account for tastes." Again the writer's synopsis of the lecture is incorrect throughout. Why did not he, she or it tell us about "the Doctor's vision," "Lizzie's acquaintance with H. W. B. as compared with his own," and many more of the same caliber. Oh! no, that would be a seive through which his might-be-popularity would quickly leak out. I have listened to the Doctor in the private family circle as well as the lecture room and his colloqual powers seems to have been invigorated and strengthened since the "Brooklyn Scandal Suit." "By their fruits ye shall know them." The man with two souls came to me personally and said that his "stanchion" had written him falsely, giving him to understand that there was a large hall at this place and his expenses should be paid and "he would be well remunerated besides." His expenses were barely eked out to him and this incensed him wrongly against the people, who had nothing to do with his coming. Hence, the supposed cause of his insulting lecture. To add something to his expense fund he donned a vaquero's rig and proposed to work his passage up to Benton with a butcher of that place who was taking up some beef cattle from here. When he came up with the drove at Fish Slough, he proceeded to make himself useful as all good vaqueros do, raising his sonorous voice to a high key, he illustrated the vibratory theory of sound until the hills echoed and re-echoed again. Then the cattle all turned suddenly around, gave him one searching look, elevating their tails and dilating their nostrils they rushed madly over the hills, each one seemed determined to cross the Equator first. I have it from the butcher himself, he has not seen one of them since. It has its significance. At Benton he began a course of lectures with a co-worker furnished by somebody to give a little more worth or worthlessness. His pedantic ally plunged into "atomic attraction," "molecular forces," "psychological conundrums," and wound up with a "metaphiscal hypothesis," and through all was as innocent of the meaning of his, her or its little piece—so the Doctor says—as an infant. Hence those unfledged reformers wondered at the stupidity of their hearers and emigrated from there on a small amount of thanks. And in conclusion is the above "as clear as mud" to "L. H." (a school-boys conclusive argument at his first attempt to debate). That worn out phrase "bears the unmistakable brand" of nothing very modern, for it flourished about the time of Joan-of-Arc, another poor deluded mortal who heard mysterious voices in the air. I do not think the readers of THE INDEPENDENT desire "L. H." to judge their perceptive and conceptive faculties by his or her own standard of capacity, nor care to inhabit such a glassy house as he or she lives in. And I would gently advise "L. H." to drop that charge against "our pedagogue" "some say" or "some think" he was the author of that "note of warning," (a cowardly way of expressing one's opinion) or he or she may find it convenient to produce that little "some" in the course of human events. Those personages, I think are as immortal and soulless as the works, deeds and thoughts of "L. H." & Co. And, if he or she wishes to reply to this article and desire to illustrate without using that antiquated phrase "as clear as mud," permit me to suggest a more modern and forcible one, "as clear as the Doctor's complexion."

A CO-WORKER WITH JUSTICE.

Religious Persecution in Spain.

During the three centuries elapsing between 1481 and 1781, Spain annually executed or imprisoned 1,000 of her inhabitants on account of their religious opinions. On an average 100 persons endured matyrdom each year of all this long period. According to trustworthy statistics in these 300 years 291,000 persons were condemned to various terms of imprisonment and to other penalties, 32,000 persons died at the stake, and 17,000 persons were burnt in effigy. Of these last the most part probably died in prison or fled to other lands. A policy like this must end in the deteriorating of a people. By persistently destroying and banishing its boldest and most vigorous thinkers, its most resolute and courageous men. Spain was drained of its best and purest blood, and the result is seen to the present day in the dwarfed physical and mental stature of the Spanish race.—[Ex.

Serious Accident.

A private letter from Caliente on Tuesday, says: We had quite a serious accident here this morning. Judge Smythe's little daughter, while playing with a pistol (the family not knowing that it was loaded) accidentally discharged it, shooting her mother. Although serious, we hope that it will not prove fatal.—[Southern Californian.

—Almost any sort of a fight between men is a do ill.

Announcements.

We call attention to the announcements, under the head of New Advertisements, of candidates for different offices before the different conventions. John Pattie, having served a term as Under Sheriff in Pioche, where it was necessary to snatch many a rough customer, certainly ought to be acceptable to the voters of this county. W. B. Daugherty is so well known for his gentlemanly demeanor, and being au fait as an accountant and scribe, with intelligence enough to recommend him for any office in the gift of the people, will certainly be indorsed by Republicans, Democrats and Independents alike. If he is elected, and the people ever have any reason to regret it, then we will acknowledge that we know very little of what constitutes the true gentleman and honest man. Johnny Irwin, having served as Deputy Assessor, now wants to be promoted. His past experience in the office will undoubtedly influence the Convention in his favor.—[Panamint News, June 19.

We endorse the above to the full as regards the only one mentioned with whom we can claim a personal acquaintance—that is Mr. Daugherty, who is not only well qualified for the position named, but carries political weight enough to do no discredit to his ticket, should he be nominated as he ought to be.

—A new kind of metal—printer's zink. Those who use it find it has the ring of true coin.

—The "Mollychunkemunk" is the euphonious title of a new pleasure steamer recently launched on a lake in Maine.

—A darkey called at Owensboro, Ky., the other day, and wanted to know, "Does dis postorfis keep stamped antelopes?"

—A young man in a music shop was lately overpowered by a fastidious young lady, who wanted to purchase "Mr. Hood's—a—song of the—a—gentleman's under-garment!" The young man is still alive.

—Holmes remarks on the wonderful provisions of nature. He says there is not even left a narrow crevice under a flat rock without a thin black bug prepared by Providence to fill it. It is the same way when vacancies occur in official positions.

Sit and Set, Lay and Lie.

The two words "sit" and "set" are often mistaken for each other. When a grammar class is asked, for the first time, if it is right to say "hens set," the "court sets," one-half of them, perhaps, will vote one way and the other half the other. The court means the judge or judges; the judge sits, the court sits, the jury sits, hens sit, birds sit. "Setting hen" is wrong; hens are not "sitters" or "pointers." Set requires an objective case; we set a chair, but we sit in it. There is a similar difficulty in the use of "lie" and "lay." In families whose hens "set," everything "lays" and all "lay abed." The quoted words are wrong. Lay means to place, and requires an objective, as, "the hen lays eggs." "Now I lay me." We should say the book lies on the table; he lies abed; lies low, everybody lies, if you please, but nobody lays unless he has something to lay.

Carlyle Says

Nine-tenths of the miseries and vices of manhood proceed idleness; with men of quick minds, to whom it is especially pernicious, this habit is commonly the fruit of many disappointments and schemes, not so much for the want of strength as from the ill-direction of it. The weakest living creature, by concentrating his powers upon a single object, can accomplish something; the strongest, by dispersing his over many, may fail to accomplish anything.

To Clean Gold Chains.

Put the chain in a small gless bottle with warm water, a little tooth powder and some soap. Cork the bottle and shake it for a minute violently. The friction against the glass polishes the gold, and the soap and chalk extract every particle of dirt and grease from the interstices of a chain of the most intricate pattern; rinse it in clear cold water, wipe with a towel, and the polish will surprise you.

Ear Ache.

There is scarcely any ache to which children are subject, so bad to bear and difficult to cure as the ear-ache. But there is a remedy, never known to fail. Take a bit of cotton batting, put upon it a pinch of black pepper, gather it up and tie it, dip it into sweet oil and insert into the ear. Put a flannel bandage over the head to keep it warm. It will give immediate relief.

HEALTH! BEAUTY!!

STRONG AND PURE RICH BLOOD—INCREASE OF FLESH AND WEIGHT—CLEAR SKIN AND BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION SECURED TO ALL.

DR. RADWAY'S Sarsaparillian Resolvent

HAS MADE THE MOST ASTONISHING CURES SO QUICK, SO RAPID ARE THE CHANGES THE BODY UNDERGOES, UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF THIS TRULY WONDERFUL MEDICINE, THAT

Every Day an Increase in Weight is Seen and Felt.

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphilis, Consumption, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the System, Sore Eyes, Strumous Discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm, and all wastes of the life principle are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.

In the patient, daily becoming reduced by the waste and decomposition that is continually progressing succeeds in arresting these wastes, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure.

Not only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excel all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional and Skin Diseases; but it is the only positive cure for

Kidney and Bladder Complaints, Urinary and Womb diseases, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brick dust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like white silk, or there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and white bone-dust deposits, and when there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the small of the back and along the loins. Tumor of 12 Years Growth Cured by Radway's Ready Resolvent.

BEVERLY, Mass., July 18, 1869.

DR. RADWAY:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried everything that was recommended; but nothing helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief; and there is not a sign of a tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter and happier than I have for twelve years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the bowels, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

VINEGAR BITTERS,

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS!

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

LITERARY.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA, Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art, so soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any interior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series so made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

Terms.

One Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE one year, the Chromo and the Art Union.

$6 00 per Annum, in Advance.

(No charge for postage.)

Specimen Copies of THE ALDINE, 50 Cents.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtainable only by subscription. A Ride on a Shrimp.

The following truly marvellous exploit is related in a story which we find in one of our exchanges. It is a maritime tale, and the scene of it is located on the coast of England, and in those days, a few years ago, when patrols of coast guard and revenue cutters were kept exceedingly busy trying to prevent enterprising smugglers from landing their contraband goods on the coast from France, and elsewhere. The most daring and successful of all the smuggler captains was the hero of this tale. He was described as a dashing young fellow of about 280 pounds weight, short and active and always full of good brandy. But here's the story:

One dark, stormy and boisterous night he was nearing the coast with his swift sailing craft close hauled on the wind and lee scuppers under water. Just as he had managed to dodge through between a couple of revenue cutters which were lying to in the gale, a huge sea wave came rolling over the starboard side, sweeping the valiant captain away from the tiller, overboard into the wild foaming waste of angry waters. As he went over the bulwarks with the cook's galley and the white bull terrier pup, the captain wouldn't have given a pinch of snuff for his chance of preserving his life. As he subsequently expressed it, "Blowed if I didn't say to myself, says I, 'Old man, you won't never drink nothink but salt water agin;' and just as I made this mental ejaculation, I drops astride of somethink in the water." Not to continue the narrative in the ornamented yet peculiar style of the captain, it may be simply explained that at the moment the bold smuggler fairly fell overboard he happened to fall astride a shrimp, and with the instinct of a drowning man he clutched at the object under him the instant he encountered it. The shrimp, also feeling the shock, turned back his two attennæ, or feelers, and it was these which the captain grasped in his two hands. It is no easy matter to sit on a shrimp in a heavy sea, especially to a man who is not accustomed to horseback exercise on land, and the probabilities are that any one but the captain would have speedily been unshrimped. Fortunately his weight was so great as to depress the convex outline of the shrimp's back, thus converting the third scale or joint of the creature into a natural saddle. This, of course, gave our hero a comparatively firm seat, which he was the better able to retain by his purchase on the attennæ. Here, again the smuggler's ignorance of equestrianism stood him in good play. A better horseman, in his desire to drive on toward the shore, would have given the shrimp his head but the captain kept the shrimp well in hand, and thus prevented the shrimp from diving. The principle was exactly the same as is adopted with a horse. Keep a horse well reined up and he cannot buck, and as everybody knows that a shrimp cannot dive without getting his head down, the captain's firm hold kept his novel steed on the surface of the water.

The night was pitch dark, but as soon as he found that the shrimp was somewhat under control, he cast about to see what could be done. The crustacean was wild with terror, and dashed through the waves at the rate of fifteen knots—so fast, indeed, that the captain turned his face back on his shoulder to avoid the spray and dashing wave caps which nearly suffocated him. Occasionally the creature would yaw, but the captain would bring him back to his course by tugging at the starboard or port feeler, as the case might be; and it was strange, almost Darwinian to note how quickly this monster which had never worn a bitting harness, learn to obey the rein. At three bells the captain sighted the Beachy Head light, and by altering his course two points he was enabled to discern the lights of the patrol on the cliff above his secret little harbor. The entrance was difficult, and once he came near wrecking the shrimp on a rock by mistaking a little white cloud on the bluff for a calico gown of his Moriarann, and thus neglecting to put the helm, or rather the bridle, hard down, at a sudden bend in the channel.

When day dawned, the smugglers' wives and daughters were all down on the beach, singing Kingsley's beautiful ballad of, "The Three Fishers," for the smuggler's boat had not arrived and the night had been wild and stormy. Suddenly there was a commotion in the waves, a rush of waters, a great white wake of foam, preceeded by some strange object. In another moment the shrimp had dashed high and dry on the shingle beach, and the captain, at last unhorsed, was thrown ten feet over his head. "Blast my tarry top lights!" exclaimed the captain, picking himself up, "if the blamed stearing gear hadn't got fouled I'd have laid that there craft up alongside and anchored her with my gold watch and chain ship-shape and sailor-style; send me aloft to slush down the mizzen-to' gallant mast, if I wouldn't!" There was great rejoicing amongst the people at this unexpected action of the daring young sailor, and for the time the means of his escape was not thought of. Then in a procession, they marched down to the place where the captain made his landing. Industriously they searched for an hour; stones were overturned, and all the little basins which the receding tide had left were carefully inspected; but the faithful shrimp was not found. Whether he was smashed under the foot of some smuggleress, or whether he escaped to sea and told his strange experience to his fellows, can never be decided; but the latter is probable, as, since that day, a shrimp has never been caught or seen in Smugglers' Cove.

His gallant craft, the Moriarann, was never more heard from. The fair one for whom she was named, went up to London as a lady's maid, and eventually married a Guardsman. The captain unable to bear up under the combined disaster, came to America, where our delightful climate restored his spirits, and of which country he became a solid citizen. Fond as he is of shrimps, he will never eat one. "I can't; it would be base ingratitude," sadly exclaims the captain when he has a plate of shrimps placed before him.

Anecdotes of Henry Clay.

[From The St. Nicholas for July.]

Mr. Clay's knowledge of human nature was thorough and profound; and he was able to put it to use at any moment, as the following anecdotes will show:

On a certain occasion he met an old hunter, who had once been his supporter, but who afterward went against him on account of his vote on a certain bill in Congress.

"Have you a good rifle, my friend?" he asked of the hunter.

"Yes."

"Does it ever flash in the pan?"

"It never did so more than once," the hunter answered, proud of his weapon.

"Well, what did you do with it? You didn't throw it away, did you?" continued Mr. Clay.

"No; I picked the flint, tried it again, and brought down game."

"Have I ever flashed in the pan, except on the Compensation bill?"

"No, I can't say you have."

"Well, will you throw me away?"

"No; I'll pick the flint and try you again." So the hunter grasped Mr. Clay's hand and gave him his vote.

At another time Clay was visiting a backwoods county in Kentucky, where the man who could fire the best shot stood highest in esteem, and the man who couldn't fire at all was looked upon with contempt. He was canvassing for votes, when he was approached by some old hunters, one of whom told him that he would be elected to Congress, but that he must first show how good a shot he was. Clay declared that he never shot with any rifle except his own, which was at home.

"No matter. Here's 'Old Bess,'" answered the hunter, giving him a gun, "and she never fails in the hands of a marksman. She's put a bullet through many a squirrel at a hundred yards, and has let daylight through a red-skin at twice that distance. If you can shoot with any gun, you can shoot with 'Old Bess.'"

A target was set up, and Mr. Clay aimed "Old Bess" at it. He fired faint-heartedly, but the shot struck the bull's-eye in the center.

"A chance shot! a chance shot!" cried his opponents.

"Never mind," he answered. "You beat it, and then I will."

No one could beat it, and Mr. Clay had too much sense to try again.

A Horseman, Too.

A stud of six valuable horses purchased by Senator J. P. Jones in the East, at a cost of $25,000, passed Reno yesterday morning for California. Two of them were trotters, two running horses and two carriage horses. They came through by special car, in the passenger train, at a cost of $1,500 for transportation. The inference is that John P. did not leave his "scalp" in Wall street.—[Lyon County Times, June 24.

EARTHQUAES AND VOLCANOES.

The interesting paper of Prof. Robert Mallett on the above subject, an abstract of which was first published in this country (we believe) in The Science Record, January, 1873, is attracting much attention. We will briefly recapitulate the points of the new theory.

The various relations and points of connection between volcanic phenomena, earthquakes, and lines of mountain elevation, imply that they are the results of the play of one set of cosmical forces which have been brought into operation by the gradual cooling of the earth from an incandescent sun-like state to its present condition. His argument is as follows: As the cooling of the earth proceeded, the crust gradually thickened and contracted less and less as the temperature became lowered. The hotter nucleus, on the other hand, contracted more, being at a higher temperature than the crust and having a higher co efficient of contraction for equal loss of heat.

By this process, which is still going on, the crust of the earth would shrink at one rate, and the vastly hotter central portion at another and greater rate; and cavities would be formed between the crust and the nucleus, cavities which would be inevitably filled by the crushing down of the solid crust on the more swiftly contracting nucleus, by the force of gravitation, which is sufficient to crush the hardest rocks; and as the solid crust follows the shrinking nucleus "the force expended in mutual crushing and dislocation of its parts is transformed into heat," by which, at the points of crushing, the rocks are heated even to fusion.

The access of water to such points determines volcanic eruption. These points of crushing may occur at various depths in the solid crust. He then proceeds to measure the amount of actual contraction by the annual amount of heat lost by radiation into space, which is sufficient to liquefy seven hundred and seventy-seven cubic miles of ice into water at thirty-two degrees, and comes to the conclusion that less than one-fourth of the total annual loss of heat would suffice to produce the contraction necessary for its hypothesis The actual amount of annual construction is estimated at a reduction of three-fifths of an inch, an amount too small to be measured by any astronomical method, and yet more than enough to produce all the volcanic phenomena now to be observed on the surface of the earth.

MORE MEXICAN TROUBLES.

Again, as it seems by reports, Mexico has tired of peace, and is far on the way toward another of her revolutions, which have been so common, that we refrain from commencing the word with a capital letter. For some time past occasional reports of troubles in various portions of that country have reached us, giving hints of discontents, local emeutes and disorder, indicating an unsettled state of the public mind, and plainly showing that the so called national peace was little more than a cessation for a rest in order to renew the traditional struggles with greater energy. Recently the outlawry committed in Texas by Mexican bandits and cattle-stealers—the friends of Cortina—had forced the Texans to arm and pursue them. They seem to have done so with effect, destroying one party which gave battle entirely. This has incensed Cortina, and he swears vengeance. On account of his acts—embroiling his country with the United States—he was summoned to the City of Mexico. But he was too wary to do this. The Mexican Government, it was reported, had ordered General Fuero to march to Matamoras, and he is reported to have left Monterey at the head of three thousand men. It is supposed that he is to attend to Cortina, who refused to obey orders from Mexico But now come reports that the threatened revolution will prevent Fuero from continuing his march upon Matamoras, he and his troops being wanted to take part in the revolution now imminent. Should he continue his march upon Matamoras, he will probably have to fight Cortina and his robber adherents.

—Accordingly to an Indianopolis M. D, a person soon dies of "spazzams"

—Next year will be our centennial The Japanese have already celebrated their 2535th anniversary.

THE BLACK HILLS.

It looks as though Gold Bluff's Fraser River, and the hundred and one other similar excitements, is to be enacted over this Summer and Fall, the Black Hills being the Happy Land of Canaan. The news from the Hills still continues sufficiently favorably and well authenticated to make people believe it is to be another grand El Dorado. There is just enough of doubt about it and difficulties in the way to lend enchantment to the view, and soldiers and Indians notwithstanding, it is almost a certainty, that country is to be the objective point of another great stampede. From the East and from the West the prospectors "will come a hundred strong." They will come riding gaily; they will return afoot most bitterly. We consider it one of the inevitables that at least nine out of ten, perhaps all who go to the Black Hills in the hopes of a quick and easy fortune, either from placer or ledge, will be miserably deceived. It can't be otherwise, even admitting the truth of the statement, that gold is found "in considerable quantities." Gold always is found in vast quantities in such places, so far as reports can make it so. It is always found in quantities ten times as great as the reality. There has always been disappointment, ruin, even distress attending every one of these stampedes. There always will be. But what's the odds? People must "rush," and suffer and die, and that is why these stampedes were invented. Otherwise the world would stagnate, or become over-peopled, and would have to kill each other for more room. So let 'em rush. Here is the latest inducement, being a Fort Laramie date of the 22d of June:

A party from the Black Hills arrived to day. Professor Jenney's party and the expedition under Colonel Dodge have formed a permanent camp on French Creek, near Harney's Peak, called Camp Harney, close by a stockade the miners built whom Captain Mix brought out. Gold seems to have been found in abundance Nearly a hundred miners were found there in different camps, who have located claims and done considerable work in building sluices, digging ditches, etc. Some of the party report that soldiers in the command have panned out gold dust of a rich quality. The command is reported in good condition.

The following is received from Colonel Dodge, commanding the escort of Professor Jenney's Black Hills party:

Gold has been found in paying quantities on French Creek. Custer's report is confirmed in every particular.

Private advices received here say the command found one hundred men at work in Custer's Gulch, taking out gold at the rate of $5 to $25 per day per man. Evidence is strong that many miners are in that country. The gold found is coarse and scaly, but easily pounded. Quartz mines are abundant, but no one has prospected them. No Indians were seen by the party.

The Boss.

The release of Boss Tweed, the new proceedings against him, and the general hub-bub made by the legal fraternity over the affair, is now the sensation in New York City. After seven months' incarceration in the clerk's office of the prison, with a goose quill stuck behind his ear, and the luxuries of the land within call, it has just been ascertained that the poor gentleman has been illegally restrained. It is sad to think that the Hon. Mr. Tweed must now, just as he is allowed to breathe the air of freedom, return to a dungeon and the air of rascality or ante up $3,000,000 bail, but such is the case. Mr. Tweed only stole six millions of dollars, and now to be compelled to disgorge half of it in bail, even for a time, renders gentlemanly thieving at a discount. Why not let the old fellow go? It will probably amount to that in the end.

Awful!

The newspapers have been preaching a telling temperance sermon on the assumed fact that no less than 203 persons had died in Dublin, Ireland, in one night from the effects of free whiskey. The excise buildings took fire and the liquor was poured out into the gutters until it ran in torrents People took advantage of this to collect and drink the vile stuff until they could drink no more—could do nothing but die in the most horrible torments. The story is substantially true in all respects save as to the number of deaths, which turns out to be but three instead of 203, the date of the occurrence and the number of victims having been run together in the reading of the cablegram.

Game Law Expired.

The prohibition against taking, killing and destroying elk, deer and antelope expired by limitation last Wednesday; but it is to be hoped that the wanton destruction of these will be sternly discountenanced by our sportsmen, as well as by those who do not wish to see venison a rarity in this market.

—A bad hub bub—Jesse Pomeroy.

St. Nicholas.

St. Nicholas for July opens strongly and does not flag to the end. Its list of contributors is headed by three of the most popular female writers for children—Rose Terry Cooke, Emily Huntingdon Miller and Louisa M Alcott. The numb r has one of the liveliest and most natural boys' stories that have appeared for months, written by Rossiter Johnson, and entitled "A Great Speculation." No true boy will fail to appreciate it. Then there is an article on "How to Make a Boat," which will doubtless set hammer and saw to going, and introduce to waters of lake and river many a shapely craft built by the same young hands and arms that man it. Our patriotic pride is awakened by the fine portraits and anecdotes of "American Orators," and the Fourth of July spirit is addressed by an historical sketch of the first naval battle in American waters one hundred years ago, and by the contrasted pictures of "Our Fag," then and now. The account by a Nebraska woman of "How the Grasshoppers Came," thoroughly proves its authorship by the savor of reality in its vivid portrayal of the devastation and dismay which followed the coming of these small but destructive marauders. Susan Coolidge and Sarah O Jewett contribute two capital stories for girls The poems of the number are excellent; the illustrations are up to the usual standard of St. Nicholas, which by the way, leaves nothing to be desired; and there are as many more attractions in the number as we have mentioned.

New Patents.

Through dispatches to Dewey & Co., Patent Agents, San Francisco, we receive the following advance list of U. S. Patents granted to the Pacific coast inventors, viz: S. Plymale, Portland Oregon, dynamic wrench; E. P. Berney, San Quentin, Cal., fire escape; P. Castellanos, San Francisco, (five patents) for manufacturing of nitro sulphuric acid for manufacturing nitroglycerine; recovering acids from residuum of nitro-glycerine manufactory; apparatus for recovering acids from the residuum of nitro-glycerine manufactory; explosive compounds (two); C. J. Hardee, San Francisco, lock mortising machine; P. Hinkle, San Francisco, hydraulic elevator; J. C. Fullinger, Portland, Oregon, trademark for prepared salmon

Rather Cheeky.

It appears to us that the authorities at Mollendo, Peru, were guilty of an indiscretion when they peremptorily demanded of an American Captain that he should "dress his ship" in honor of a Peruvian anniversary. When Captain Murphy of the Alexandrin declined to comply with this cheeky demand, on the ground that he ought not to be required to join in the celebration of a Peruvian victory over a nation with which his own country was at peace, he took a manly and sound position, which he ought to have maintained at all hazards. When he yielded to threats and "dressed" his ship, he did an act of which, as an American, he ought to be heartily ashamed.

The Independent Ticket.

The Convention of Independents which took place in Sacramento on the 22d ultimo, puts up John Bidwell for Governor and Pacheco for Lieutenant Governor; Roush, Secretary of State; Van Clief, Attorney-General; Twitchell, Surveyor-General; Lauren E. Crane, Controller; Paul Morrill, Clerk of the Supreme Court, and Bachr for Treasurer. These are pretty strong men, but their chances for election are slim indeed.

Postal Reduction.

A remarkable reduction in postage on letters, papers, etc., to foreign countries took place on the 1st of this month. By treaty between the different powers, the rate on half ounce letters on and after that date will be uniformly but ten cents to Germany, Austria, Hungary, Belgium, Denmark, Egypt, Spain, Great Britain, Greece, Italy, Luxembourg, Norway, Holland, Portugal, Roumania, Russia, Servia, Sweden, Switzerland and Turkey. After January 1, 1876, it will be the same rate with France also. Postal cards will be but two cents each, and newspapers under four ounces, two cents.

Tuolumne Nominations.

The Democrats of Tuolumne have nominated the following ticket: County Judge, J. D. Redmond; Member of Assembly, T. C. Birney; Sheriff, D. F. Baxter; Clerk, I. J. Potter; Treasurer, ——; District Attorney, E. R. Galvin; Assessor, J. T. Faxon; Superintendent of Schools, W. R. Gillis; Surveyor, John P. Dart; Coroner, D. F. Riordan. There are several Independent candidates.

General.

Boss Tweed appeared in the Court House June 25, in custody of the Deputy Sheriff, and presented the order of the Court of Appeals for a discharge from the Penitentiary. There was quite a discussion in the premises over a new indictment which was presented against him. He was admitted to bail for the present in the sum of $3,000,000 In the meantime he was committed to jail.

An Ancient Egg story.

In The New York Herald we find the following yarn: Under the ruins of the old castle of King Dagobert the Abbe Denis found a hen's nest full of eggs. They had been there 1,200 years hidden from the light and the air and the changes of temperature, and the hen herself had barely escaped when the falling walls sealed her eggs hermetically for future times Abbe Denis put three eggs under a hen and they were hatched.

John Denis, who is first cousin to Saint Denis, told us the same story some time ago; but we did not believe it then. Now that it appears in the Herald who can doubt it.—[Austin Reveille

The No Fence Law.

The first regularly contested case in Fresco county under the "Trespass Act," or "No Fence Law," came up in Justice Tupper's Court in this town on Friday last. On the 30th of April, W. H. Morrison, a settler and resident on a possessory claim in Liberty settlement, took up seven head of cattle that had for several days been running on his grain field and garden, and corralled them in a neighbor's stockade. He at once instituted l gal proceedings in the Justice's Court of Thomas Thompson, against the stock, and in due time judgment was had against them for the damage done, and ahey were sold at public auction by Constable J. H. Thomas to John H Sweem, the highest bidder, for $80. The owner of the stock, John Sutherland, desiring to test the validity of the sale, replevined the cattle from the purchaser, in the Justice's Court of B F. Nosker at Kingston, and the cause, having been transferred to Justice Tupper, was tried on Friday. The plaintiff was represented by J. G. Jenkins, of Kingston, Charles H Marks, of Merced, and W. H. Creed of this place. The defendant was represented by E. C. Winchell We are informed the trial was closely contested, occupying the whole of the first day. The argument was concluded at noon on Saturday, and at 1 o'clock Justice Tupper rendered his decision, reviewing the proceedings in Justice Thompson's Court, and commenting upon the peculiar requirements of the Trespass Act. As a result he found that the law had been complied with, that the defendant had acquired a legal title to the cattle by the sale, and was entitled to a judgment for their return to him. We understand the plaintiff has taken steps for an appeal to the County Court.—[Fresno Expositor, June 16th

TOO BAD.

"THEN, I TOO SHALL LAY ME DOWN TO DIE"

This was the heart broken language of a mother in the South, when one after another of her children had died of that devastating scourage—yellow fever. On being told that the last one was about to die, she uttered this, too sad, refrain. But the ties of love are sometimes stronger than life; and, we too, would even go through the dark vale of death, to meet our loved ones gone before. How inscrutable are ways of life and death! How little we can know of what awaits us in this life or in the more distant future. But if "our life is one eternal day, why should our children die so soon?" Can it be that we must learn the full lesson of life only through such heart pangs as fills earth with little graves? Is our world so young that like blossoms and fruit, some are too tender to stand its storms and chilling blast of disease and death?

Before our earth shall ever reach the time prophesied of, when "there shall be no more sorrow nor any more pain," sickness and death must cease to grieve and deprieve us of our loved ones! How blindly and sadly we still grope our way in search of happiness in this life, to find alas, our brightest hopes and future prospects blighted by the chilling frosts of death.

In the grand possibilities of the fully unfolded mind of man may we hope he may yet be able to destroy the sting of death, and to rob the grave of its victory. May the bright angel of Hope fold your sorrowing hearts with her white wings of promise, and the spirit of resignation to supernal wisdom, fill your hearts with that consolation no mortal can impart.

Yours in deep sympathy

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞Our Only Terms: CASH, IN ADVANCE Paper invariably discontinued upon expiration of term of subscription.☜

The Amateur.

Pursuant to announcement, the Dramatic Association gave a third exhibition last night. They enjoyed an appreciative house and every available space was utilized, but was not crowded so uncomfortably close as on the 22d of February, their last entertainment. We have not the time or space to give a synopsis of the play. Understanding the difficulties under which the company were laboring we deem it unnecessary to criticise. If any criticisms were indulged in at all, we would sum it up in "these few but emphatic words:" The company undertook too much in the short space of time that they were allowed. Only five days to order costumes, fit up the hall, learn their parts and only time for one thorough rehearsal, besides this premature arrangement nearly all had their regular daily duties to attend to. The manager, like others, was obliged to put in day and night in the performance of these duties, consequently had not a moment to spare. But we will not dwell too much on the "prelims." Suffice it to say, that altogether the affair was a very enjoyable one, the audience were charitable, and why shouldn't the press be? The characters were well assigned and especially to the ladies who are entitled to much credit. The Duetts—"Mr and Mrs. Brown," by Geo. M. Gill and Miss Annie Eudey, and "Tommy, Don't Go," by W. F. Mathack and Misses Rose and Annie Eudey, were loudly applauded and might be called the success of the evening. The dance was well attended and didn't break up until Old Sol gave warning that there was no longer any use for wax candles.

Admitted to Bail.

Saturday last, B. Ashim, through his counsel, P. Reddy, appeared before Judge Hannah of the County Court, on habeas corpus, demanding that he be admitted to bail. Mr. Reddy submitted quite an elaborate and convincing argument showing that under the law the prisoner was clearly entitled to his discharge on bail. District Attorney Snelling continued struggling against it. His Honor took the question under advisement and on Sunday, the following day, adjudged the prisoner the right to give bail, fixing the amount at $15,000, with the stipulation that all the bondsmen with the cash or property should be actual residents and present in this county. As it appears by a thorough examination of the California Reports, from first to last, that while a number of such applications for bail had been allowed by the Supreme Court, the highest bond fixed in any case did not exceed $10,000. There does not appear to be the slightest reason to fear that Ashim will not appear for trial, but the Court did not feel disposed to take any chances, so far as a safe bail bond could secure him. The bonds will probably be furnished next week.

Left Us.

Mr. Chalfant, the senior of this paper, with his family, now so sadly reduced, started Tuesday morning last on a visit to relatives at Oakland. The length of his stay is somewhat uncertain, but will not exceed six weeks. With the exception of two short intervals, and they of a business character, Mr. Chalfant has never had scarce a day's relief from the responsibilities of the paper and office since its first issue, with this number just five years ago. It will be easily understood by all whose knowledge of running a country newspaper is sufficient to enable them to fully appreciate its wearing character, a little brief respite is necessary now and then. He takes this trip partly with the view of adding some additional stock and material to this office. If it is not already so, we intend THE INDEPENDENT job office to be as completely fitted for all kinds of job printing as any country office almost in the State. Furthermore, we intend to do work on such reasonable terms that none but the most unreasonable money-shaver shall ever have any excuse for sending his work elsewhere.

Personal.

The Democratic Convention and other causes have filled town quite respectably. J. Blair of Bishop Creek is here....H. Mitchell of Benton came down in behalf of Mono county....Mr. J. H. Holt on business in connection with the Kearsarge, is in town; we know not whether this visit will result in anything in the way of active operations or not...."Ephf" Harrington of Deep Spring....M. L. Haskell of San Francisco....J. C. Irwin, R. E. Arick, John Pattie, J. M. Murphy, Jas. Fitzgerald of Panamint; Chas. E. Benjaman of San Francisco.

Sheep.

Sheep men seem to be greatly troubled to find pasturage for their flocks, and while doing so are giving farmers a great deal of trouble. Over in Fresno and through that country farmers have had to organize themselves into an armed force to protect their crops. A somewhat similar state of affairs is said to exist in our county, particularly at Bishop Creek. Monday last a band of perhaps 200 sheep passed this place going north.

Primaries.

The primaries meet to-day and we trust that the delegates from the different precincts will be on hand.

The Celebration at Round Valley.

In a communication from Round Valley pertaining to arrangements made by the Fourth of July Committee, the following list of officers is given: Marshal, C. H. Parsons; President, J. L. Bourland; Vice Presidents, P. Reddy, of Independence, Stephen Gregg, of Big Pine, I. P. Yaney, of Bishop Creek, A. Mack, of Hot Springs and D. Olds; Orator, V. A. Gregg, of Independence; Reader, C. C. Wainright, of Bishop Creek; Chief of Ordinance, Ed. Hilton. A grand ball will be given in the evening. Musicians are expected from this place and a party of singers have been engaged from Bishop Creek. The committee are determined to make ample accommodations for the reception of all who may come.

A Mystery Somewhere.

Moore, the man who left that mule at Brown's stables, as mentioned last week, came back two or three days after. Altogether people didn't know what to make of it. It don't appear that the man is a thief, as his actions first seemed to indicate, neither is he obviously a lunatic. But there is a good deal not as perfectly right as it should be. Any man who can ride a bare back mule through the hot sun and sands of this region and feel like doing strange things, need have no fear of the Stockton Asylum.

Democratic Convention.

The convention of the Unterrified held on the 1st instant was well attended. Delegates from every precint having put in an appearance except Swansea. The proceedings were lively—interesting and at one time quite exciting—but those adjournments helped considerably to cool off the unbounded zeal of some who were willing to sacrifice themselves by accepting office—for the good of the county in general and the Democracy in particular.

Our Junior.

Our intellectual Junior don't know how to apologize and would sooner at any time run than attempt it. Therefore know ye all men by these presents that, although the afore said Junior can husk corn and do many other marvelous things, he is not prepared to do the heavy interviewing, and is perfectly willing to negotiate with some responsible party to run this department by contract, to whom a liberal commission will be allowed.

Pine Mountain.

The prospects are that the Broder-Moffatt furnace will steam up in less than twenty five days, possibly in half that time. The saw mill is now ready for operations and will be cutting timber the coming week. A contract has been let to furnish 100,000 feet of logs at the mill, which for a time will be kept going night and day.

Lost their Horses.

It seems that the railroad surveying party, mentioned elsewhere, got their horses into a terrible canyon, some distance south of Panamint and were forced to abandon them to their fate, not being able or mountain educated enough to get them out. A party subsequently went out from Panamint to rescue the animals and rigs, which were not taken off the horses' backs.

Railroad Survey.

We learn that a party of four, Engineer Buchannan in charge, were last week making a preliminary survey for a railroad route through Darwin Canyon to Darwin City, having viewed the country through from Cajon Pass. This is in the interest of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad.

Tom Carroll.

The Carroll who was killed in San Francisco some time since, and supposed to have been the Tom Carroll of Darwin notoriety, proves to be a horse of another color. Our Darwin Carroll, we understand, is still alive and enjoying pretty good health, considering the warm weather. We don't know where he is sojourning, and can only hope he will stay there.

A Strike.

We are glad to know that a splendid strike has been recently made in one of the Broder-Moffat mines at Pine Mountain. So long as it may hold out, which bids fair to be a long time, it is said four men can easily get good ore enough out of this one mine to keep the furnace running constantly.

Will Close.

Register McCallum will close the Land Office during the holidays, the day preceeding and after the Fourth. In this connection we note some very necessary improvements in the furniture of the office in the shape of writing desks pigeon holes, etc., they were manufactured by Gerrish.

Earthquake.

We were touched up by an "old times reminder" a rattling little shake at 11 o'clock last Monday. It, however, was a poor excuse of an earthquake and only succeeded in giving utterance to a growl and a rumble, accompanied by a feeble attempt to quake.

School Trustees Elect.

At the school election for this district last Saturday P. P. Gerrish, Geo. H. McCallum and Nathan Rhine, were elected Trustees. This makes a pretty substantial Board and one that will attend to business, we think.

Senator Jones.

This distinguished gentleman is expected at Panamint immediately. It is thought he will instill new life into affairs in that camp.

Will Steam Up.

The Surprise Valley Company's big mill at Panamint, is to blow its first whistle on the Fourth.

Proceedings of the Democratic Convention.

The convention met at the Court House Thursday and organized by the appointment of D. B. Curtis, temporary Chairman, and Henry M. Isaacs, Secretary. A committee on credentials was appointed, and reported the election of forty-nine delegates—all the precincts being represented except Swansea.

On motion of John Alexander, a committee of five was appointed to report permanent officers and order of business.

The Committee reported the names of R. E. Arick as Chairman and Henry M. Isaacs, Secretary—report adopted.

Nominations for Sheriff being in order the following persons were placed in nomination: J. F. Hutchinson of Bishop Creek, J. B. Swearingen of Independence, and John Pattee of Panamint. On the 13th ballot Mr. Hutchinson received a majority of all the votes cast, and was declared the nominee.

For County Clerk, R. E. Arick of Panamint and J. B. White of Independence, were placed in nomination. On the first ballot, Mr. Arick received a majority of all the votes cast, and his nomination was afterwards made unanimous.

There being no candidate for the office of District Attorney, no nomination was made.

Henry M. Isaacs was declared the unanimous choice of the convention for County Treasurer.

For Assessor, J. F. Dillon of Independence and J. C. Irwin of Cerro Gordo were placed in nomination. Mr Dillon received a majority of all the votes cast and was afterwards declared the unanimous nominee.

For Coroner, John A. Lank of Independence was declared the nominee unanimously.

For County Surveyor, John Alexander was nominated by acclamation.

John A. Hannah was nominated County Judge by acclamation.

For County Superintendent of Public Schools, Miss Ellen Eudey was nominated by acclamation.

The following persons were appointed members of the Central Committee: J. L. Bourland of Bishop Creek, C. H. Parsons, Round Valley; W. A. Baker, Big Pine; James Jones, Fish Springs; S. P. Moffat, Pine Mountain; P. Reddy, Independence; Chas. Kepler, George's Creek; P. G. Gelcich, Lone Pine; J. R. Hughes, Cerro Gordo; W. T. Grant, Darwin; John M. Murphy, Panamint.

The following persons was appointed members of the Executive Committee: P. Reddy, Chairman, H. M. Isaacs, Secretary, J. A. Lank, Joseph Schalton and A. N. Bell.

The following persons were nominated for Supervisors, 1st District, C. H. Parsons; 2d District, D. B. Curtis; 3d District, Chas. Meysan. On motion the convention adjourned to meet the delegation from Mono county in joint convention to nominate a candidate for the Legislature.

The Joint Convention organized by the appointment of R. E. Arick, Chairman and Henry M. Isaacs, Secretary. On the fourth ballot, Mathew Griswold of Mono, received a majority of all the votes cast, and was afterwards declared the unanimous choice of the convention.

HENRY M. ISAACS, Chairman.

Magnificently Fitted.

Al Wapelhorst comes out this week with a new ad. He has now the most elegantly furnished rooms in town. The bar fixtures, chromos, etc., gives the place a palace like appearance. An ice-cream saloon adjoining is being prepared for the reception of ladies.

Expected.

We are in receipt of a note from Jas. E. Parker the former junior of THE INDEPENDENT. He will start from Virginia City this week and will probably pay us a visit sometime after the fourth. We shall try and secure his valuable aid during Mr. Chalfants absence.

Notary Public.

W. T. Grant has received an appointment at Darwin, and will forthwith hang out his shingle as Notorious Public.

School Election at Bishop Creek.

At the school election at Bishop Creek C. H. Powers was elected Trustee, vice W. G. McCrosky term expired.

Republican Convention.

Republicans and all others interested will please bear in mind that the Republican Convention will meet in this town on July 17.

Returned.

Mrs. D. D. Gunnison returned yesterday from her trip to Europe, where she went some six months since.

Their Level.

By far too many people fancy that they are not appreciated according to their deserts. "I want to make a change. I feel that I am not valued according to my deserts," says an aspiring young man. In all probability our inexperienced friend has more egotism and selfishness than is good for him; but we advise him to move—anywhere that he may choose—in order to test the accuracy of his gauge of his own ability or merit. It is proper to add that as a rule a man is appreciated for all that he is and does—often for much more; and it is wise and, as a rule, safe, to take the measure other people give you as a just one; and if it does not satisfy you, work harder until they voluntarily change it. Few men arise and remain long above their just level; few can be kept below it.

—Warm weather helps one to be good. That is you don't care whether your neighbor has a big wood pile or a small one.

Panamint Items.

Dr. F. T. Bicknell returned on Sunday's stage, having fully recovered from his sickness caused by being inoculated with animal poison taken while in attendance upon W. D. Bourne.....We noticed this morning that smoke was pouring out of the two stacks of the Company's twenty-stamp mill. We presume they are merely tempering or drying out the brick-work around the boilers....From a letter received by D. G. Tipton from San Francisco we learn that James Bruce had to submit to another surgical operation on his arrival in that city.—[Panamint News, June 29.

A Prospecting Pioneer.

[Gold Hill News, June 28.]

Major Downie, the well-known old pioneer and founder of Downieville, dropped in to see us to-day. He has but just returned from a prospecting trip to New Granada, Costa Rica and the adjacent sections of country, and is much benefitted by the trip, looking ten years younger than before he left. He was well treated everywhere and contrary to what had been told him, he found the natives and residents of the country the most hospitable people he ever met with. There was plenty of everything and money was at a discount. The Major found it a fine, fertile, healthy country, and just such as people from this coast should go to for health or recuperation, instead of going East. He took a look at many rich mining regions—both placer and quartz mines—and also figured somewhat as a resurrectionist, prospecting for "huacas," or ancient graves of people who died there centuries and centuries ago, and were buried with their gold and silver ornaments, money, etc., by their side. Heavy forests of timber have grown over these graves, and they are not easily found. It is only in the past half dozen years or so that human cupidity has induced the hunting after these graves, the fact of their buried riches having been accidently discovered. Some of them pan out very rich in ornaments, images, etc., of pure gold, as high as $50,000 worth being obtained from a single grave. Major Downie brought along several very interesting and rich specimens in that line, which he showed us, also specimens of pre-historic pottery implements, etc., found in that region, which he will present to the Pacific Coast Pioneers, of which society he is a much esteemed honorary member.

Training Children.

We pity our children too much and strengthen them too little. It is equally in vain to attempt to guard our children from all evil companionship. It is not hopeless to imbue them with a spirit of resistance. They must wear their coat of armor underneath the surface; they can not put it on too early. The mother-bird provokes the little nursling to leave the nest—tempts her with promises, calls her with sweet invitations, or, failing thus, pushes her from the nest and compels her to trust herself to her as yet untried powers of flight. We brood our children too long. We must teach them to fly before they are ready to leave the nest altogether. We have, in short, something more to do than to keep them from suffering—viz., to teach them to endure; something higher than to keep them from all contact with sin—viz., to teach them to conquer it.

The parent or teacher who most fully enters into the child's life, shares its experiences, and appreciates its joys and sorrows and conflicts, is the best trainer. God teaches the race partly by law, more by Christ's example, most of all by the indwelling of the Holy Spirit. We train our children a little by the laws we impose, more by our example, most of all by our heart-life. The ancient prophet, summoned to the chamber of death, laid himself upon the corpse of the lad, "his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands;" and so the life passed from the living to the dead. Thus are we by the power of a genuine sympathy to lay ourselves, as it were, upon our children, and to inspire in every faculty a true life which pulsates in our own souls.—[Abbott.

Every Day an Increase in Weight is Seen and Felt.

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphilis, Consumption, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the system, Sore Eyes, Strumous Discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm, and all wastes of the life principle are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.

If the patient, daily becoming reduced by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, succeeds in arresting these wastes, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure.

Not only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excel all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional and Skin Diseases; but it is the only positive cure for

Kidney and Bladder Complaints, Urinary and Womb diseases, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brick dust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like white silk, or there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and white bone-dust deposits, and when there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the small of the back and along the loins. Tumor of 12 Years Growth Cured by Radway's Ready Resolvent.

BEVERLY, Mass., July 18, 1869.

DR. RADWAY:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried everything that was recommended; but nothing helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief; and there is not a sign of a tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter and happier than I have for twelve years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the bowels, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

DR. RADWAY'S Perfect Purgative Pills,

perfectly tasteless, elegantly coated with sweet gum, purge, regulate, purify, cleanse and strengthen. Radway's Pills for the cure of all disorders of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous Diseases, Headache, Constipation, Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Bilious Fever, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles, and all Derangements of the Internal Viscera. Warranted to effect a positive cure. Purely Vegetable, containing no mercury, minerals or deleterious drugs.

☞ Observe the following symptoms resulting from Disorders of the Digestive Organs:

Constipation, Inward Piles, Fulness of the Blood in the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust of Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Chest, Limbs, and Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh.

A few doses of RADWAY'S PILLS will free the system from all the above-named disorders. Price 25 cents per box. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS!

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

LITERARY.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA, Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete polume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any interior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed to every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

Terms.

One Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE one year, the Chromo and the Art Union.

$6 00 per Annum, in Advance.

(No charge for postage.)

The Last Station.

He had been sick at one of the hotels for three or four weeks, and the boys on the road dropped in daily to see how he got along, and learn if they could render him any kindness. The brakeman was a good fellow, and one and all encouraged him in the belief that he would pull through. The doctor didn't regard the case as dangerous, but the other day the patient began sinking, and it was seen that he could not live the night out. A dozen of his friends sat in the room when night came, but his mind wandered and he did not recognize them.

It was near one of the depots, and after the great trucks and noisy drays had ceased rolling by, the bells and short, sharp whistles of the yard engines sounded painfully loud. The patient had been very quiet for half an hour, when he suddenly unclosed his eyes and shouted:

"Kal-a-ma zoo!"

One of the men brushed the hair back from the cold forehead, and the brakeman closed his eyes and was quiet for a time. Then the wind whirled round the depot and banged the blinds on the window of his room, and he lifted his head and cried out:

"Jackson! Passengers going north by the Saginaw Road change cars!"

The man understood. The brakeman thought he was coming east on the Michigan Central. The effort seemed to have greatly exhausted him, for he lay like one dead for the next five minutes, and a watcher felt his pulse to see if life had not gone out. A tug going down the river sounded her whistle loud and long, and the dying brakeman opened his eyes and called out:

"Ann Arbor!"

He had been over the road a thousand times, but had made his last trip. Death was drawing a spectral train over the old track, and he was brakeman, engineer and conductor.

One of the yard engines uttered a shrill whistle of warning, as if the glare of the headlight had shown to the engineer some stranger in peril, and the brakeman called out:

"Ypsilanty—change cars here for the Eel River Road!"

"He's coming in fast," whispered one of the men.

"And the end of his 'run' will be the end of his life," said a second.

The dampness of death began to collect on the patients forehead, and there was that ghastly look on the face which death always brings. The slamming of a door down the hall started him again, and he moved his head and faintly called:

"Grand Trunk Junction—passengers going east by the Grand Trunk change cars!"

He was so quiet after that that all the men gather around the bed, believing that he was dead. His eyes closed, and the brakeman lifted his hand, moved his head and whispered:

"De—"

Not "Detroit," but Death! He died with the half uttered whisper on his lips. And the headlight on death's engine shone full on his face and covered it with such a pallor as naught but death can bring.—[Detroit Free Press.

An Auctioneer who knows his Business

At an auction of household goods on Harrison avenue yesterday, when a woman had made a bid on an old bureau worth about $2 00 a boy slipped around to another woman and whispered:

"You see that woman over there with a blue bow on?"

"Yes."

"Well, she says that no woman with a red nose can buy anything at this sale!"

The woman with the red nose pushed her way into the crowd and run the price of the bureau up to $12 and as it was knocked down to her she remarked:

"I may have a red nose, but no cross-eyed woman with a blue bow on can bluff me!"—[Detroit Free Press.

—Reading the great Spurgeon's declaration, "A cigar is a thing to thank God for," a Navy Yard school boy bought a cigar. He was afterward seen hanging over a fence, but he was not giving thanks.

SCISSORINGS.

—"Ma," said a small boy, exhibiting unmistakable symptoms of a severe pain in his bowels, "do green apples grow in heaven?"

—"Who will care for mother now?" sighed a Carondelet girl the other day as she left her aged parent bending over the washtub while she started out to play croquet.

—Black eyed ladies are most apt to be passionate and jealous. Blue-eyed—soulful, truthful, affectionate and confiding. Gray-eyed—philosopical, literary, resolute, cold-hearted. Hazel eyed—quick tempered and fickle. Green-eyed—jealous. Ours is green-eyed.

—A Nashua man sang "Don't be angry with me, darling," while he larruped his wife with a stirrup strap. But she got the bulge on him, and stood on his stomach while she strewed his nyperion curls about the kitchen floor and warbled while she twined her lily fingers in his auburn locks, "Darling you are growing bald."

—A physician's wife who was bored with visitors, remarked to her husband the other day at the table, where quite a number of her guests were seated: "My dear, I was afraid the children would get hold of that leg you brought home from the dissecting room last night, so I took it down stairs with me, and that's it wrapped up in a towel on the side-board there." She dines pretty much without company now.

—A pale man with long hair got into the car. It was a cold day, and the seat near the stove was occupied by a man and an inquisitive looking boy. The pale man backed up to the stove and remarked: "Man run over just now." The inquisitive-looking boy sprang to his feet and rushed out of the car like a maniac. The pale man settled down in the vacated seat and explained: "He run over the track ahead of the engine. He wasn't struck."

—Not long since the wife of the Professor, Mrs. Agassiz, rose one morning and proceeded, according to custom to put on her stockings and shoes. At a certain stage of this process a little scream attracted Mr. Agassiz's attention, and not having yet risen, he leaned anxiously upon his elbow, inquiring what was the matter. "Why, Professor, a little snake has just crawled out of my boot," said she. "Only one, my dear?" replied the Professor, calmly lying down again; "there should have been three." He had put them there to keep them warm. Pleasant man to have in the house, particularly in one's sleeping room.

Printing Office Dialogue.

It is not alone printers and compositors who will enjoy the following. It is a

Foreman of the Office—Jones, what are you are at now?

Compositor—I'm setting "A House on Fire;" 'most done.

Foreman—What is Smith about?

Compositor—He is engaged on "A Horrid Murder."

Foreman—Finish it as quick as possible, and help Morse through with his telegraph. Bob, what you trying to get up?

Bob—"A Panic in the Money Market."

Foreman—Tom, what are you distributing?

Tom—"Prizes in the Gift Lottery."

Foreman—Stop that, and take hold of this "Runaway Horse." Slocum, what in creation have you been about for the last half hour?

Slocum—Justifying the "Compromise Measures," which my "sub" set up.

Foreman—You chap on the stool there, what are you on now?

Chap on the Stool—On the "Table" that you gave me.

Foreman—Lay it on the table for the present; no room for it.

Compositor—How about those "Candidates for Aldermen?"

Foreman—Run 'em in. What did you say, Slocum?

Slocum—Shall I lead these "Men of Boston?"

Foreman—No; they are "solid" of course. John, have you got up that "Capital Joke?"

John—No, sir; I'm out of "sorts."

Foreman—Well, throw in this "Million of California Gold," and when you get through with it, I'll give you some more. Wilson, have you finished "The Inflation?"

Wilson—Yes, sir, the "Inflation" is all up.

Editor—What do you want now?

Printer's Devil—More copy, sir.

Editor—Have you completed that "Eloquent Fourth of July Oration?"

Printer's Devil—Yes, sir; and I've just got up "A Warm Summer."—[Santa Barbara Index.

Wheugh!

Not far from our office lives a model husband and the father of a nice little flock of children. He never wearies of providing the little ones something to play with. While coming home from the Vivian mine the other day he found a nest of young skunks, and, of course, brought one home for the children. About ten minutes after the children got a hold of it and commence to squeeze it, the folks in the house commenced to smell something like the balm of a thousand flowers. When S. brought that skunk home he didn't think it was ripe, but when he opens the cellar door now to see if the children are smelling any better, he knows that it was. If there is anything in this world that isn't fit for children to play with, it is the gable end of a skunk.—[Lyon County Times.

Sent to the Bay.

About 250 pounds of Barcelona ore was shipped to San Francisco on Tuesday last. Considering the amount it was, perhaps, the highest grade of ore ever sent from Belmont in one lot. The shipment would doubtless mill nearly, if not quite at the rate of $2,000 per ton. We don't wish to convey the idea that the whole width of the Barcelona ledge will yield at that ratio, but we do know that the whole vein will produce an amount per ton that would require but a short time to make its owners rich, with ample milling facilities on the ground. The test made at the Monitor mill settles that proposition.—[Belmont Courier, June 26.

—A gentleman drove a sorrowful looking horse into town last Saturday, and, stopping in front of Bank Block, he requested a small boy to hold him a moment. "Hold him!" exclaimed the boy; "just lean him up against the post—that'll hold 'im."

POLITICAL.

The Democratic State and county tickets will be found in our advertising columns, published by order of the County Central Committee. Throughout the coming campaign, which—if all signs fail not—is destined to be one of the warmest in the political history of the State, citizens and partisans will find a convenient reference thereto. The other party or parties—Republican and Independent—would do well to imitate the rare example of the party flinging the first full ticket to the breeze.

The School Superintendency.

"Sallie Hart's little bill," making woman eligible to educational offices, which created quite a flutter in the 20th Legislature—meeting with a general Democratic opposition—has found fruition with the Democracy of Inyo. Miss Ellen Eudey is upon the ticket for County Superintendent; our Republican friends can be scarcely less gallant, and will doubtless give the lady a feminine opponent. We are an advocate of placing in the field Miss Ellen's sister—Rose Eudey, making a pretty phase in politics, as well as insuring a good choice in any event.

The Jury Discharged.

The jury in the preposterously long and famous Beecher-Tilton case, instead of coming to the sensible verdict of "guilty, with one cent damages," have succeeded in convincing the Judge that an agreement was impossible and thus secured a disharge. Of this immoral Niagara the world has had enough, but we presume the lecture-fiends turned loose by the case will hesitate not.

A Free Fight.

All parties in our neighboring county of Kern have agreed to make no nominations for local officers. It is to be a free, open fight, with everybody running that feels like it. The sufferings of the poor election officers, in counting ballots where every other man votes for himself, don't seem to have been considered in this connection.

New Head.

La Cronica, of the 25th of June, comes to us with a fine new head, representing the advance of civilization and science in California. La Cronica is the only Spanish newspaper published in the southern portion of this State. It has a large circulation throughout Mexico and Spain, and it is an ably edited and neatly printed sheet.

Railroad Iron Shipped.

Enough iron has been shipped from New York by way of Panama to complete about forty miles of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad. It is to be laid down and supplied with cars before the 1st of September. The forty miles will reach from Santa Monica to a point twenty-five miles east of Los Angeles.

Target Shooting.

Let the eagle bird soar. The American rifle team handsomely got away with the works over on the old sod. Let the grizzly also get up and howl. The Sumners, of San Francisco, in a recent important contest, plugged the bullseye a great many more times than did the champion team of New York.

Political Note.

About this time the many Nevada and Montana papers friendly to one of the Democratic county nominees will itemize thus: "Hon. Rufus E. Arick, ex-Mayor of the city of Virginia, is the Democratic candidate for County Clerk in Inyo county, Cal."

Vindicated.

One Thompson, with a p, brings out a "Vindication" of Josiah. As an instance of how much whitewashing a swindler can get, probably by paying for it, the document is valuable.

Getting Aged.

The Reese River Reveille has entered upon its 22d volume. It has one of the wittiest humorists of the coast, on the editorial staff.

Levee.

Cotemporaries will please make no remarks concerning the name of the Temperance gubernatorial candidate.

—Antoine Casamayou, brother of the editor of The Austin Reveille, committed suicide on the 1st. Ill health was the cause.

—John Clark, a Rochester (N. Y.) desperado, shot two officers who were trying to capture him, Friday, July 3

—The Irish rifle team have at last won a match from the Americans. It was a trifling one, however.

—Seven Indians are to be hung at Fort Smith in September.

—Jesse Pomeroy, the boy murderer, is to be hung in Boston.

OUR RAILROAD.

We give elsewhere an extract from The Eureka Sentinel to the general purport that it is the intention of the owners of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad to make a grand detour to the east of Panamint and Inyo altogether—ultimately connecting with the Union Pacific. We doubt not but that Brother Cassidy's informant gave to The Sentinel the subject of Senator Jones' intentions as he had heard them, but our understanding of the railroad project is somewhat different.

That the ultimate function of the railroad will be to furnish a southern Winter route to California from the Union Pacific independent of the Central may be accepted as a fact; it is Jay Gould's purpose to effect it, it is Mr. Jones' business to second the movement by adapting his road thereto. Stating that the road will cost, completed, but between five and six million dollars, it will be worth more—being shorter and immensely less expensive—than Stanford's road, which cost thirty seven million and odd. Men and money are crowding things around the southern terminus, while the New York railroad king has recently obtained control of the Utah Southern.

But Mr. Jones and company have the better part of two million invested in their enormous interests at Panamint, while perfectly recognizing the great present and future importance of many other Inyo districts, the business of which he does not purpose to loose for the sake of getting that of a single district comparatively little explored, or perhaps unheard of before Mr. Taylor's representations were made. Besides, the company can hardly afford to lose the special and liberal privileges granted by the charter under which the road was projected and is working, referring particularly to the authorized schedule of freights and fares. Our information came direct, that Independence, as contemplated and required by that Act, is to be the northern terminus of this road, where connection will be made with the through line coming south from the Overland.

The State Temperance Ticket.

After due deliberation, the temperance reformers of the State have adopted a platform and formally placed in the field the following ticket: For Governor—W. E. Lovett, San Benito; for Lieutenant-Governor—J. V. B. Goodrich, Alameda; for Secretary of State—W. H. Baxter, Napa; for Comptroller—Joel Russell, Alameda; for Clerk of Supreme Court—G. W. Anthony, San Francisco; for Superintendent of Public Instruction—E. S. Carr, Alameda; for Treasurer—C. P. Thompson, Grass Valley; for Surveyor-General—George B. Katzstein, Sacramento; for Attorney General—Robert E. Thompson, San Francisco. The following State Central Committee were choosen: A. K. Straus, Mrs. E. P. Stevens, F. F. R. Whitney, H. D Cluffery, San Francisco; Mrs. G. M. Blake, J. H. Redstone, Alameda; A. G. Clerk, Napa; J. G. Dow, Sonoma; J. D. Fowler, San Benito.

New Patents.

Through dispatches to Dewey & Co., Patent Agents, San Francisco, we receive the following advance list of U. S. Patents granted to the Pacific coast inventors, viz: Isaacs L. Merrell, San Francisco, Cal., paint compound; Christian Myers, Marysville, Cal., plow; John C. Henderson, San Francisco, Cal., carburetter; Horace Parkhurst, Oakland, Cal., horse power; J. W. & V. Cook, Clifton, Oregon, trade-mark for salted, pickled and preserved salmon; G. S. Hunt, Sacramento, Cal., and B. E. Hunt, St. Louis, Mo., trade-mark for anti fiction metal.

Improvement in Photography.

The June number of The Philadelphia Photographer, a magazine devoted to photography, notes an improvement in the art emanating from a San Francisco photographer, I. W. Taber. The magazine says: Since the introduction of "retouching," there has been but little that was new or novel, except it was that which called for more retouching, viz., the immense heads; and these have been pushed by many with a zeal that deserved a liberal reward, but it became irksome at last. There were calls for something different, some new style must be introduced. It came in the right time, and from a source the least expected. We had all been looking for relief from the Old World, where most of the new things in art originate, but it came in the opposite direction. From the Golden Gate of the Pacific we have the last sensation in photography, in the form of the beautiful "Promenade Photograph." The inventor possesses genius and the enterprise to make a new thing go.

New Volume.

THE INYO INDEPENDENT has entered upon its sixth year and volume under favorable auspices. We are glad to learn this, as we value THE INDEPENDENT as one of the very best of our exchanges. It should, and we hope may, achieve the success to which it is entitled.—[Eureka Sentinel.

Starting of the Panamint Mill.

[CORRESPONDENCE OF THE INYO INDEPENDENT.]

PANAMINT, June 30.

MR. EDITOR—The 29th day of June A. D. 1875, will long be remembered by the miners and citizens of Panamint, and the events of the day should be entitled to a prominent page in the history of the great mining district. It was widely rumored around town during the early part of the day that the Suprise Valley Mill and Water Co. (a company that has expended in the neighborhood of two million dollars developing the rich resources of this district) would make a trial of their large and powerful engine at the mill. Accordingly a big fire was built under the boilers, and as soon as the steam guage indicated the necessary pressure the engineer slowly applied steam and the huge monster started gracefully. Quite a crowd had assembled to witness the great event, and the enthusiasm manifested by them as they watched its graceful motions was only exceeded by the extreme liberality of the Superintendent of a branch of the Company's business, who furnished for the occasion and gratification of the boys one whole bottle of wine of the well known brand, "Imperial." All present indulged in a foaming glass, drinking to the success of the donator, and then quietly dispersed, feeling confident of the future success of the S. V. M. & W. Co.

CITIZEN.

An Important Railroad Enterprise.

[Eureka (Nev.) Sentinel, June 29.]

Mr. Taylor, of the British Mill and Mining Company, who returned from a visit to San Francisco a few days ago, furnishes us some information relative to a railroad enterprise which is destined to prove of incalculable benefit to the south and southeastern portion of this State. It is well known that an English company, represented by Mr. Taylor, is preparing to commence the treatment of the base ores of Groom District, 240 miles south of Eureka, on a grand scale. There is no other place in the world, Eureka not excepted, where base ores, carrying a large per cent. of gold and silver, occur in such wonderful abundance as at Groom. Isolation from established lines of transportation has hitherto operated as the greatest detriment to the successful treatment of the heavy base ores of that locality, and it was with a view of overcoming this obstacle, if possible, that impelled Mr. Taylor to seek an interview with Senator Jones, and other railroad magnates, during his visit to San Francisco. He tells us that Senator Jones is fully alive to the great importance of his railroad east from Los Angeles as a competing line to the Central Pacific, and express a determination to push it through with all possible dispatch to a point where connection will be made with the Utah Southern. The Senator has changed his original plan of building the road direct to Panamint, and will now continue it across to the lower end of Death Valley and so on to the Utah line. This will pass through or near Groom and other important mining districts southward, and it is believed also that it will furnish a better outlet for Tybo and Reveille than those places now enjoy. The managers of the Utah Southern have agreed to hurry along the work of construction on their end of the line, and Senator Jones seems sanguine that the whole road will be in full operation within two years from date. Then with the Eureka and Palisade road extending south and intercepting this southern route, we will be placed in position to take choice of lines for the transaction of all our business, whether it be with the great commercial centers of the East or with the toll-gathering metropolis (San Francisco) of the Pacific Coast. Then, too, will the important question of freights and fares be adjusted on a fair and permanent basis by virtue of this competing through line. There never were too many railroads in any country, and we shall hail the completion of Senator Jones' road as dating a new and prosperous era in the history of Nevada.

How a Telegraph Operator Got His Dinner.

A day or two since a clerk in one of the telegraph offices in town, being the last to leave for his dinner, found the door locked as is usual, but, as is not usual, discovered he had left his key in another coat pocket two or three blocks away at his hotel. The windows were two stories up, and he did not exactly see the point of an exit that way. And every minute his dinner was growing cold and his temper correspondingly hot. He rattled the door, tried to pick the lock with a shingle nail, and repeated softly to himself choice extracts from profane history, but there he staid, and relief seemed appallingly remote. Did he wait there till his brother clerks returned from their seven courses, from soup to doughnuts, to let him out? Not he. An idea struck him, and the impression left bore its fruits. He telegraphed to St. Thomas, Canada, had it repeated to Detroit, Mich., whence it was returned according to accompanying instructions, to the Atlantic and Pacific office here on Main street, the result of which was to send a boy up to his office to release him. He was in time for dinner.—[Buffalo Courier.

—Twelve bald-headed men were drawn on a jury at Cairo, Ill., and the Judge refused to go on with the case until six of them were replaced by good and true men. He said that his Court-room couldn't be made a circus of, no how.

—An exchange suggests that if you want to see a man struggling to do several things at once just watch him try to put on his overcoat and rubbers and keep his head bowed while the minister is pronouncing the benediction.

—"Oh, lickety slam, pop," exclaimed a lad whose father had praised him for his gallantry in holding a young lady on his lap in a crowded car, "and didn't I feel just like a pot full of hot potatoes?"

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

An Outrage.

As acquainting our readers with an occurrence which took place at the ball at Round Valley on the night of the 5th, the following unvarnished statements of facts will bring the blush of shame to many at the bare thought that such a miscreant as the perpetrator thereof could be allowed to live within the county. Our popular Independence musicians, Mr. Matlack and the Gill brothers, had agreed, after repeated urgings, to furnish music for the occasion. The boys were on hand promptly, refreshed by a long night's sleep at Bishop. A few minutes before 10 in the evening, while the dance was progressing, a man well known in the county hurriedly stepped up to the stand and offered each a glass of lemonade, which they drank. Miss Katy Schalten happened a few moments later to be standing near, when George naturally enough proffered her a drink of the same. In a few moments more all four of them were stupid from the effects of a drug. With superhuman but despairing efforts, the boys attempted to continue, and succeeded in so doing for some time later, though they wore a wild and greatly distressed look. Finally succumbing to its effects, they reeled off and fell to sleep, of which they could scarce free themselves for a day and night afterward. For three days after, Miss Schalten, for whom the villainous draught could not have been intended, went about in a stagering stupor. Her physician here states that only chloroform, administered internally, could produce the effects she suffered under. Now it is barely possible that the one presenting the drink knew nothing of its nature, but various clues point to one who must have known of and performed the deed from motives of his own. We call upon the managers of the Round Valley celebration to make a thorough and searching investigation, promising a statement of facts from here if desired. In the meanwhile, let no innocent man imagine that he is suspicioned; the guilty one is known, and the almost numberless friends of the bright and popular young men will leave no stone unturned to bring about some punishment.

Completed.

At 4 o'clock, upon the afternoon of July 3d, water was for the first time turned loose in Darwin amid an uproarious jollification. The event is one long to be remembered, and some of the scenes upon the Fourth, when everybody upon the streets, irrespective of person or station, were treated to a remorseless sluicing down from the hose and pipes attached to the hydrants, would beggar description. The water comes from Mr. Beadry's Crystal Springs, and the entire work is owned by that gentleman. The pipes have a discharging capacity of 25,000 gallons per 24 hours, and the fluid is, for the present, sold at 2½ cents per gallon.

Bullion Shipments.

From the bullion-loaded stages which have been for some weeks leaving the towns of Benton, Belleville and Columbus, we should judge that a most gratifying era of productiveness has come about in that region. From all three points there is a tri-weekly average of fifteen hundred pounds of silver bullion passing through the office of Wells, Fargo & Co. at Aurora. We will shortly give regular reports, as showing something of the enormous commercial importance of this growing section of the country

A Rough Character.

At Benton on the Fourth, during a general assemblage and jollification of the citizens and miners of the surrounding camps, a man who had not long since been invited by a citizen's organization to permanently leave Bishop Creek, possibly for Bishop Creek's good, took occasion to brutally attack and beat an intoxicated but inoffensive man. Afterwards, the rough was seen at Bishop, having changed his base of operations to old stamping ground.

For Canada.

V. Beaudry, Esq., left Darwin on the 5th instant for a visit to his old home at Montreal, C. E. Since Inyo's earliest days, Mr Beaudry has been identified with the most important enterprises of the county, so that he has become widely known throughout this section of the State as a successful business man, and, withal, a jolly good fellow. May good luck attend him.

An Error.

Through a print-shop error, in our report of the proceedings of the Democratic County Convention last week, the name of Henry M. Isaacs was appended as "Chairman," while it should have been "Secretary." Accidents will happen, Harry.

Dentist and Jeweler.

A. F. Stoeckley has gone to Bishop Creek, where he will remain long enough to give everybody an opportunity to secure his services. He has given general satisfaction in this place.

For Sale.

Mr E. Orne offers for sale his entire property at Orne's Station, on the Darwin road. See his advertisement.

The Weather.

The weather has been quite sultry this week. Frozen cow is in demand.

THE FOURTH.

Celebration at Round Valley, Lone Pine and Darwin.

The Fourth, this year "coming on the 5th," was generally observed by the residents of the valley and county. Probably the largest gathering was at Round Valley, where the people flocked in numbers from Independence and all points north. In its main features, the arrangements partook of the good old fashioned pic-nic order of things, and in these particulars, were a success.

GOODRICH'S GROVE,

where the gathering was held, is as romantic and desirable a place for the purpose as could be imagined. Amid the trees were erected the grand stand, benches, tables, etc., while over the noisy creek numerous foot boards afforded passage from one place of attraction to another. The unlimited water power probably suggested of itself the original adaptation to which it was put by Charley Wilderson, who had, at a considerable expense, erected a revolving swing of four arms and seats. A flume carrying say 400 inches of water poured its contents against a horizontal, fan-like wheel attached to the bottom of the upright, center shaft. The venturesome riders swung around at the rate of 480 revolutions per hour, the machine being scarcely idle a moment during the day. As dizziness came on while riding, the couples, clinging close together as if by impulse, somehow seemed to like it all the better. Ice cream, lemonade and more spiritual refreshments for one's true inwardness could be had at convenient stands upon the ground. About noon the beautiful grove seemed filled to overflowing with the participants, when

THE PRESIDENT OF THE DAY,

John L. Bourland, Esq., came upon the stand and called the assemblage to order, announcing as Vice Presidents Messrs. David Olds, I. P. Yaney, A. Mack, P. Reddy and Stephen G. Gregg, and Thos. E. Jones Secretary. After an able invocation by Mr. Gunter, appropiate music followed, at the hands of the Independence string band. The Declaration was read by Mr. C. C. Wainwright, its grand periods appearing more attractive under his rendition. More patriotic music followed, when the President introduced

THE ORATOR,

V. A. Gregg, Esq., of whose profound effort we cannot this week give even a synopsis. The address was delivered extemporaneously, in the gentleman's own good style, but from its ability must have had some previous preparation in the way of thought upon the grand and imposing themes suggested by the recurrence and celebration of our proud nation's natal day.

After receiving from the audience motions and hearty votes of thanks to the various officers of the day, the President gracefully dismissed the crowd with a timely suggestion that the tables were groaning for relief from their load of good things.

DINNER

provided in profusion, and dispensed by the good ladies of Round Valley and Bishop, was discussed with gusto. Each knot of eaters vied with others in pressing ye stranger to partake, and it will be long before ye aforesaid strangers will forget the hospitable reception extended them.

MORE SPEAKING.

A general adjournment took place to the stand, where calls for remarks were responded to by W. P. George, R. E. Arick, J. A. Hannah, J. E. Parker, Mr Randolph and Geo. H. McCallum, all of whom acquitted themselves more or less creditably.

DANCING

began soon after, and was continued somewhat intermittently till late in the morning—a large crowd occupying the floors at times. Of this part of the general celebration we would fain say but little, but an incident connected therewith is given elsewhere.

Lone Pine

On account of the absence of so many Lone Piners, who are sojourning at Darwin and Panamint, the Fourth at this point passed off very quietly. Outside of a very liberal display of bunting, firing of salutes and an impromptu dance on the night of the 5th, little else was done.

SALUTE EXTRAORDINARY.

A small cannon, which some say was used at Little Lake during the Indian fights, was brought out on the night of the 3d, and planted between Begole's saloon and Diaz' butcher shop, to fire a salute, under command of A. J. Chelins. The first shot—with a charge of three pounds of powder—was successfully fired by being touched off with a lighted cigar. The gun recoiled seventy-three paces, showing that it was as dangerous to stand behind that gun as in front of it. At the third shot, with a charge of four pounds of powder, the gun was literally blown to pieces. One piece was found north of the Orleans Hotel, and another in Dodge's stable-yard. No vestige thereof was left, and the chief gunner, thinking that the extra charge had caused the gun to recoil a greater distance, proceeded to find it. After a diligent search he returned and reported that somebody must have stolen it. How it was that out of a crowd of eight or ten men no one was hurt, is a mystery.

THE BALL

passed off very pleasantly, some twenty-five or thirty couple being present, who enjoyed themselves until nearly daylight.

Arraigned.

George Wellington, who it will be remembered was captured by Deputy Sheriff Moore in Kern county with B. L. Brown's horse "Pinto" in his possession, was yesterday arraigned before His Honor Judge Hannah, and entered a plea of guilty. He will be sentenced on Monday next.

How the Aborigines Celebrated.

Fourth of July afternoon, ye noble red men and women of Independence celebrated with a vehemence, and it is astonishing how earnestly they are beginning to imbibe a certain spirit which enters into its observance—costing $2 per bottle. They had no regular programme arranged—assembled as they were, just east of town, on a little grassy plat, each majestic warrior or graceful maiden, as they became fired with patriotism would dance, sing and whoop all the same white men. There was a heap of fun till a dusky little maid appeared on the scene gorgeously arrayed in a new calico dress—likewise there was another present similarly rigged out with a new dress, headgear, etc; their eyes met and in a moment the former saw in the latter a hated rival, and the scene that followed—great Cæsar! The air was filled with strips of calico, brass buttons, rings and locks of raven hair; both were nude in less than two minutes. The victorious one bounded to a friendly sage brush and assumed a new gown, pulled out her Jew's-harp and resting over on one foot, played a merry strain, seemingly oblivious of her scratched condition and the plaudits of the admiring crowd. Then followed another scene; the older squaws and bucks, in arguing some point, first indulged in a few American expletives, then fell to throwing stones and scratching. A general row resulted, when the Sheriff appeared and consigned to the calabooze two mahalas and two bucks. How they rested that night we know not, but the next morning voices were heard through the grated door, like the rattling of a dried bladder in the bung hole of an old salt barrel, calling "Jack! Jack! me heap like 'um water," and when the Sheriff soon after opened the door and turned them loose, they rushed for the creek and at each jump it was "waater, waater; me heap catch 'um water." They pumped in a liberal supply, and it was thus they succeeded in cooling off the exhuberance of patriotic zeal, or perchance it was from the effects of little too much salt in their beans.

That Report.

Elsewhere will be found the report of the Grand Jury for the present term of the County Court, which was submitted yesterday, and the jurymen discharged The principal point therein is a sage promulgation of the idea that Inyo county has been badly abused in the injury of its property—the Court room—by "traveling shows." Nail-holes in the ceiling, we presume. Our talented, local club of dramatists will be particularly stuck after the "traveling" part. The public as well as the jurymen themselves are perfectly acquainted with the facts, and his Honor was lenient in not returning the report with an order to expunge the "traveling show" phraseology. The substance could have been said better, without a needless misrepresentation. The following gentlemen constituted the jury: John Willet, Thos. E. Bell, Albert Halverson, Schuyler Williams, Jacob Powers, Abraham Parker, E. P. Baker, James Malone, A. C. Harvey, Thos. Kehoe, Paul Houard, Fred. Alberes, H. G. Plumley, Andrew Dell and W. A. Greenley, Foreman.

Mr. Gregg's Oration.

During the proceedings of the celebration at Round Valley a resolution was adopted requesting the orator to furnish THE INDEPENDENT with a copy of his oration for publication. In relation thereto we are in receipt of the following, which of course explains itself:

INDEPENDENCE, July 8.

MR. EDITOR—I must apologize to the people who so kindly passed the resolution requesting me to print my address delivered on the occasion of the celebration of the Fourth of July, at Round Valley, for not furnishing you with the manuscript. My excuse is pressure of business since my return which has prevented my preparing same from notes used by me upon the occasion. Respectfully,

V. A. GREGG.

Conditions of Crops in the West.

The following is an extract from a private letter to THE INDEPENDENT:

I have traveled over quite a large section of country and find Illinois in a good flourishing condition as to crops Small grain looks well, corn is in a good condition and clean from weeds, but quite small for this season of the year on account of our cold, backward Spring. This State suffered last year for want of rain, which damaged the corn crop one-half or more; the yield was only about 15 to 20 bushels to the acre, but so far this year we have had plenty rain. Money close and business moderately dull. Iowa is about in the same condition as Illinois, except the southwestern portion, which received a shower of grasshoppers that destroyed nearly all the crops. I think Iowa has had more rain than Illinois—most too much for good of the crops; times are good and the State is in a prosperous condition, as they had plenty rain last year and good crops. Nebraska so far this year is in a better condition than last year, although the grasshoppers have entirely destroyed the crops in the southeastern portion, comprising about four counties. Eastern Missouri is in a good, prosperous condition, but the two western tier of counties are entirely used up by the grasshoppers. Kansas is in about the same condition as Missouri only reversed, the eastern portion is distroyed by grasshoppers and a few spots in the centre of the State have also suffered; times are hard and the people discouraged both in Kansas and Nebraska, but they are hoping for good crops and better times.

A Card.

BISHOP CREEK, July 7.

MR. EDITOR—Your note received, and your motive for not wishing to publish my last reply to Co-worker & Co., is accepted; but in justice to me, I desire this note inserted in your next issue. I wish also that my reply sent you last week be given to any one to read who may desire to. This is the third time I have been denied by the Press in this State a full hearing upon my own defense.

My life is devoted to the discovery and promulgation of Truth, no matter where it may level; and I would rather be a martyr for Truth's sake than to ignobly yield the least in its defense in word or deed. I have been maligned and abusively ridiculed in a public manner, for no other cause than defending a stranger who came among us to lecture on liberal ideas, not for the purpose of pleasing people so much as the presentation of new and better views of life and man's true salvation from evil. My article was not personal in any degree to the one I replied to; besides, my own signature should relieve you from any responsibility whatever.

I shall be found ready to live or die

Report of the Grand Jury.

To the Hon. County Court, State of California, county of Inyo:—We, the Grand Jurors impanelled for the July term of the County Court, have the honor to submit the following report, viz:

1st. That we have found two indictments for grand larceny.

We have examined the Court House and find the Court Room in a bad condition from uses made of it by traveling shows.

We therefore recommend that it be used for county or religious purposes only.

And with the above fulfillment of our duties as Grand Jurors for the July term of the Hon. County Court, we have the honor to ask our discharge.

W. A. GREENLEY,
Foreman of the Jury

To Start Up.

We have received positive information from our old townsman, Mr S. A. Davis, who returned from his San Francisco visit to-day, that the Columbus mill is to start up immediately. The quicksilver and other articles necessary thereto were shipped last Saturday and Mr. Jeremiah Miller, Superintendent, will probably arrive next Tuesday We have not time to dilate on this item, but the bare fact is good enough —[Borax Miner, July 3.

—"It's my duty to fish her out I suppose," said the old man, "but Providence might have let her been in a few minutes longer before I heard her holler." The "her" was the old man's wife, and she had fallen into the cistern, with about six feet of water, and the night was dark and rainy. She had made the old man's home a hell with five rooms and a basement kitchen, and he could not but think how narrowly he had escaped being a widower.

—It isn't safe to whip a scholar in a Texas school. Teacher Smith whipped Bud Powell, and the latter went home for his little revolver and returned and shot the offending dominie.

—The municipal authorities of Paris have in consideration the project of organizing a life-saving brigade of Newfoundland dogs to be posted along the banks of the Seine.

—A Virginia widow rides with a leg on either side of the horse. People used to stop and gaze at her before she killed John Cass, but now her mode of riding is not commented upon.

—An Ohio girl got up the other morning to bathe her face in the liquid dew, and cut off one of her fingers on an old scythe hidden in the grass. There is always some drawback to sentiment

—A traveling disease—stage struck.

Mark Twain on the Mosquito Net.

Mark Twain, in a letter to the inventor of a mosquito net, talks in this way about the only thing worth talking about, now that the third term is gone: "There is nothing that a just and right-feeling man rejoices in more than to see a mosquito imposed on and put down and browbeaten and aggravated, and this ingenious contrivance will do it. And it is a rare thing to worry a fly with, too. A fly will stand off and curse this invention till language utterly fails him. I have seen them do it a hundred times. I like to dine in the air on the back porch in Summer, and so I would not be without this portable net for anything. When you get it hoisted the flies have to wait for the second table. We shall see the Summer day come when we shall sit under our nets in church and slumber peacefully, while the discomfited flies club together and take it out of the minister. There are heaps of ways of getting priceless enjoyment out of these charming things, if I had time to point them out and dilate on them a little."

—Be careful of your diet. A Georgian held a strawberry in his teeth for a young lady to bite at, and she bit half his nose off.

—Graham bread is said to be excellent food for the children on account of its superior bone-giving qualities. You can feed a child on that bread until he is all bones.

—There is truly a model husband in Glasgow, Ky. He never allows his wife to do more than half the work. She puts up all the canned fruit in the Summer, and he puts it all down in the Winter.

HEALTH! BEAUTY!!

STRONG AND PURE RICH BLOOD—INCREASE OF FLESH AND WEIGHT—CLEAR SKIN AND BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION SECURED TO ALL.

DR. RADWAY'S Sarsaparillian Resolvent

HAS MADE THE MOST ASTONISHING CURES SO QUICK, SO RAPID ARE THE CHANGES THE BODY UNDERGOES, UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF THIS TRULY WONDERFUL MEDICINE, THAT

Every Day an Increase in Weight is Seen and Felt.

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphilis, Consumption, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the system, Sore Eyes, Strumous Discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm, and all wastes of the life principle are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.

If the patient, daily becoming reduced by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, succeeds in arresting these wastes, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure.

Not only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excel all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional and Skin Diseases; but it is the only positive cure for

Kidney and Bladder Complaints, Urinary and Womb diseases, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brick dust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like white silk, or there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and white bone-dust deposits, and when there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the small of the back and along the loins. Tumor of 12 Years Growth Cured by Radway's Ready Resolvent.

BEVERLY, Mass., July 18, 1869.

DR. RADWAY:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried everything that was recommended; but nothing helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief; and there is not a sign of a tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter and happier than I have for twelve years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the bowels, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

DR. RADWAY'S Perfect Purgative Pills,

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS!

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

LITERARY.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA, Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of detail than can be afforded by any interior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

Terms.

One Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE one year, the Chromo and the Art Union.

$6 00 per Annum, in Advance.

(No charge for postage.)

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtainable only by subscription. Virginia City Affairs.

[CORRESPONDENCE OF THE INYO INDEPENDENT.]

MR. EDITOR—Having noticed no correspondence from this burg in your paper of late, I have concluded to devote a little time—for I have plenty of it—and semi-occasionally give your readers an epitome of the events which mark the passing hours in the city of the big bonanza—the fights, the fires and other exciting episodes that stirs the blood and rouses the quiet denizens of our godly town.

I presume that, remote as you are from the Comstock, your people don't care a cent for stocks, and so if Pictou goes to 25 cents a share, or an assessment of 5 cents is levied on the Mother Lumpkins, you don't fly off the handle and jump stiff-legged as we do here in the metropolis of sage-brushdom, so I waste paper writing about stocks, the bane of our existence and the rock upon which we split.

THE CITY,

as the glorious Fourth dawned, assumed a holiday appearance. The toy shops and bazaars are gay with flags, and the young Arabs of the street make days dangerous and nights hideous with their torpedoes, crackers and Chinese bombs. An effort was made to pass an ordinance against such practices, but it did not prevail, and young America has a perfect right to frighten horses and timid bipeds, and to demoralize the nerves of the whole community. But give the boys a chance, even if they do fire the town, for it would only give employment to our many excellent steam fire engines, that would otherwise rust in idleness.

BUSINESS

is very dull here at present, and for this prevailing stagnation in trade there is no apparent cause. I don't believe our miners are hoarding their money; they must have grub, whisky and their little games of faro and keno—yet the boys don't throw their ducats around as freely as of yore. A friend of mine who runs a mill, and whom I meet frequently when coming from church, informs me that he hasn't sold by several burrels as much barley water this month as last. This fact speaks volumes for decaying greatness, and if this thing goes much further we will have to burn the town, get the old iron and leave for parts unknown, for when a people fails to get away with its regular quantity of cereals it is time to call it half a day and go a fishing.

THE STREETS

are ever filled with moving masses of humanity of all condition, sex and previous servitude, from the high-toned lady to the unpretentious Piute squaw, from the dapper city swell to the meek pilgrim from the grasshopper country.

THE CELEBRATION

was exceeding fine, notwithstanding some little drawbacks as to Grand Marshal's band. The fire department was, as usual, the feature of the day. All passed off pleasantly; the customary quantity of whisky and fights were indulged in, and everything, as I remarked, was away up and sociable.

But perhaps I encroach upon your space; so more anon.

COMSTOCK.

The Wheeler Expedition.

As the work of the Wheeler expedition has commenced, all appertaining to it is interesting to our readers. We find the following in The Denver News: "The field work of the expedition will be carried on by two divisions, one starting from Los Angeles, Southern California, and the other from Pueblo, in this Territory. The latter will be subdivided into three parties—one under Lieutenant Marshall, another under Lieutenant Morrison, each of which will probably enter the field during the next few days. Lieutenant Wheeler himself takes charge of the California section, which will also be subdivided as may be deemed advisable. The prospects of the season are very promising, and the importance of the work to be done exceeds that of all previous years."

One Hundred Years Ago.

One hundred and ten years ago there was not a single white man in what is now Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, or Illinois. Then what is now the most flourishing part of the United States was as little known as the country in the heart of Africa itself. It was not till 1776 that Boone left his home in North Carolina to become the first settler in Kentucky. And the first pioneers of Ohio did not settle till twenty years later still.

A hundred years ago there were but four small papers in America; steam engines had not been imagined, and locomotives, and telegraphs, and postal cards, and friction matches, percussion caps, and breech-loading guns, and stoves and furnaces, and gas for dwellings, and India-rubber shoes and sewing machines, and anthracite coal, and photographs, and chromo painting, and kerosene oil, and the safety lamp, and compound blow-pipe, and free schools, and spring mattresses, and wood engravings, and Brussel carpets, and lever watches, and greenbacks, and cotton and woolen factories, in anything like the present meaning of these terms, were utterly unknown. A hundred years ago the spinning wheel was in almost every family, and clothing was spun and woven and made up in the household, and the printing press was a cumbrous machine, worked by hand, and a nail, or a brick, or a knife, or a pair of scissors or shears, or a razor, or a woven pair of stockings, or an axe, or a hoe, or a shovel, or a lock, or a key, or a plate of glass of any size, was not made in what is now the United States. Even in 1790 there were only seventy five postoffices in the country, and the whole extent of our postoffice routes was less than nineteen hundred miles. Cheap postage was unheard of, and had any one suggested the transmission of message with lightning speed, he would have been thought utterly insane. The microscope on one hand, and the telescope on the other, were in their infancy as instruments of science, and geology and chemistry were almost unknown. In a word, it is true, that to the century past have been allotted more improvements, in their bearing upon the comfort and happiness of mankind, than to any other which has elapsed since the creation of the world.

Second Sight.

Under the title, "A Vision of Death," The St. Louis Republican publishes the following strange narrative:

Sheriff Ramsey, at Ellis, on the Kansas and Pacific Railroad, got after a thief with the determination to catch him or perish in the attempt. The desperate character of the hunted man was well known. He was a daring marauder, and having lived in open defiance of the law, it was pretty certain that he would not allow himself to be taken alive. Mrs. Ramsey, the wife of the Sheriff, was extremely anxious for the safety of her husband, and dreamed a bad dream one night. She was terribly distressed about it and expressed the conviction that her husband was killed. She enlisted the sympathies of one Dr. O'Brien of Ellis, and the two started toward Hays, where the Sheriff was supposed to be in quest of his game. On the journey the Doctor and Mrs. Ramsey met a wagon ten miles south of Stockton containing the corpse of the Sheriff, shot through the body in his encounter with the thief. The sight of her dead husband dethroned Mrs. Ramsey's reason, and she is now a raving maniac. Her dream was fulfilled in every particular. Many miles away she saw her husband fire the first shot at the thief, hitting him. Then both fired simultaneously. The thief fell dead with the bullet in his heart. Ramsey fell also, mortally wounded, the ball having passed entirely through his body. He lived only an hour. All these things happened in reality. Then the woman saw the wagon starting with her husband's lifeless body in it. When Mrs. Ramsey, traveling with the Doctor, saw the wagon on the road she knew it afar off. It was all very like a dream, even to the Doctor, as he drove along with the woman, whose vision was turned in the direction of the unknown, which she pierced so clearly. Her eyes are still looking for the coming of her husband, and they will look on forever. To her he is not dead but coming. She stumbled over his corpse and in her mind he rose from the dead.

Not that Way.

During a dense fog a Mississippi steamboat took a landing. A traveler, anxious to go ahead, came to the unperturbed manager of the wheel and asked why the boat stopped.

"Too much fog; can't see the river."

"But you can see the stars overhead."

"Yes," replied the urbane pilot; "but until the biler busts we ain't goin' that way."

The passenger went to bed satisfied.

Sensible and Humane.

Prof. Agassiz and Prof. Slade tell fishermen to kill their fish the moment they are taken from the water. The flesh, they say, is more solid and better flavored than if the fish are left to suffer and smother to death, just as if the flesh of beef dying slowly is inferior to that purposely killed. The superiority of fish cooked directly after their capture is well attested, and it goes far to confirm the assurances of these naturalists.

—Singular—to see a garden walk.

Breaking News Gently.

He entered the ladies' sitting-room at the Central Depot, walked up to a woman whose husband had left the room about ten minutes previously, and calmly inquired:

"Madam, your husband went out to see the river, didn't he?"

"Yes—why?" she asked, turning pale in an instant.

"He was a tall man, wasn't he?"

"He was," she replied, rising and turning still paler.

"Had red hair?"

"He had—oh! what has happened!"

"Weighed about one hundred and eighty pounds."

"Yes—yes—where is he—where is my husband!" she exclaimed.

"Couldn't swim, could he?"

"He's drowned—my husband is drowned!" she wailed.

"Had a silver watch chain?" continued the stranger.

"Where is my husband—where is the body?" she gasped.

"Do not get excited, madam. Did your husband have on a gray suit?"

"Yes—oh! my Thomas! my Thomas!"

"And stoga boots?"

"Let me see him—let me see him!" she cried.

"Come this way, madam, but do not get excited. There, is that your husband across the street at that peanut stand?"

"Why, yes, that's him; that's my husband!" she exclaimed joyfully. "I thought that you said he was drowned."

"No, madam, I did not. I saw him buying peanuts, and I believed it my duty to say to you that peanuts are not healthy at this season of the year."

He slid softly out, and she stood there and chewed her parasol and stared after him as if he were a menagerie on wheels.

Courage.

Have the courage to face a difficulty, lest it kick you harder than you bargained for. Difficulties, like thieves, often disappear at a glance. Have the courage to leave a convivial party at the proper hour for doing so, however great the sacrifice; and to stay away from one upon the slightest grounds for objection, however great the temptation to go. Have the courage to do without that which you do not need, however much you may admire it. Have the courage to speak your mind when it is necessary that you should do so and hold your tongue when it is better you should be silent.

THE "KEELEY MOTOR."

Our mechanics and engineers are just now in a furore of excitement concerning an alleged "invention" which is to supercede steam and all other known methods as a motive power. Our readers have doubtless read accounts of the so-called great discovery, of which it is claimed that its cost is a mere trifle compared to that of steam, while it is capable of being used with the utmost safety at a pressure many times that of the ordinary use of steam. The discoverer refuses to tell even the capitalists associated with him how he obtains his power; although he freeley permits his associates and some of their friends, as experts, to see the machine both at rest and at work. According to reports, they find that it actually possesses wonderful power, developed in a manner which they cannot explain. They have taken the machine to pieces, watched the discoverer, Keeley, while putting in water and blowing in air, examined the vapor which issues from the machine when in operation, and found that the power amounts to a pressure of several thousand pounds to the square inch. There is no fire, no heat, and, so far as they can discover, no chemical; and they suppose that the power is obtained by decomposing water into its constituent gases by some process not generally understood. Keeley says he must keep his secret till he gets his patents. He refuses to give a name to the motor; but others, led by guess, call it "cold steam." The machine is described as about three feet high, two long, and a foot wide, and contains a number of pipes of wrought iron connected by valves. The Scientific American, the best known authority upon such subjects, is vigorously battling the proposition as a complete humbug, and it were well to wait for a practical demonstration, on the principal that only seeing will lead to full confidence in the reality of the invention.

The People's Nominee.

The coming election involves the necessity, for the weal of the State and the satisfaction of this people in particular, of defeating H. O. Houghton for Congress--for causes and facts which we will in time take occasion to mention. The man choosen to accomplish the work is P. D. Wiggington, of Merced, nominated by the Democrats, a gentleman of ability, honesty of purpose and great local popularity. Except upon questions of vital interest to our section, THE INDEPENDENT--while liable to do exactly as it pleases in all things--generally purposes to eschew politics in a partizan sense; but Inyo can't afford to loose sight of Josiah's intrigues in this most important matter.

Presidential.

The candidates of the respective parties for the Presidency are thus given by The New York Sun: Republicans, B. H. Bristow, O. P. Morton, E. B. Washburn, E. D. Morgan, H. Wilson, J. G. Blaine. Democrats, C. A. Hendricks, A. G. Thurman, W. Allen, T. F. Bayard, J. S. Black, S. J. Tilden. The Sun says that as the case stands at present, each of these lists is complete, and one of the twelve will most likely be the next President. This ruthlessly settles the political hash of Booth and Grant.

More Communication.

A new telegraph company has been incorporated in San Francisco, with a capital of $35,000,000, to construct and maintain lines between all the cities of the United States and Canada. Michael Reese, Calvin W. Kellogg, Jas. R. Keene, Faxton D. Atherton, Wm. Sharon, Wm. Burling and Alfred A. Cohen are the Trustees. This way with the wires, gentlemen, if you please.

Register.

In the Code amendments is a provison authorizing the County Clerk to strike from the Great Register the names of all who did not vote at the preceding general election. Hence, if a citizen did not then vote, he must now renew his registration.

The Grabbers.

It is said that the swamp land ring have captured all three of the candidates for Surveyor-General.

Such is a significant item running the rounds of our State exchanges. Knowing their dark ways, we think it more than likely a correct statement.

Insane.

Robert Dale Owen, for many years the leader of the world's Spiritualists, has become insane.

ASHIM.

When Hon. S. J. Finney, of San Mateo, made his memorable effort in the last California State Senate for the abolition of capital punishment, his evident sincerity, ingenious argument and profound learning attracted the closest attention of all students in the science of sociology. Although apparently defeated in his work, he seems to have indirectly accomplished the same object by placing in our Codes the clause empowering the jury in murder cases to designate the penalty--death or imprisonment for life. In nine cases out of ten the jury shirk the responsibility of imposing a disagreeable job upon the Sheriff; but, aside from this, an enforcement of the new system appears to have materially changed the laws governing the legal treatment of what has been hitherto admitted as perfectly non-bailable offenses.

In the case of Ashim, indicted for the murder of Perasich, at Darwin, a considerable feeling has been evoked by the action of Judge Hannah in admitting him to bail. One of the singular upshots of this is a petition, addressed to his Honor, signed by some hundreds of our best citizens, praying for a reconsideration of his order in the matter. The document, which has been presented to us for examination, after the usual opening goes on to aver:

We, your petitioners, citizens of Inyo county, beg leave to present this protest against your decision in the matter of admitting to bail B. Ashim now under indictment charged with murder in the first degree, and petition your honorable Court to reconsider your decision, on the following grounds, to-wit:

1st. That it is our firm belief that the said B. Ashim, if admitted to bail will not appear for trial, as his friends are willing to lose the sum of $15,000 in order that he may escape the chances of trial by jury.

2d. That we believe that in admitting said B. Ashim to bail it will have the effect of leading people to believe that by the payment of a certain sum of money they may violate the laws of the State in Inyo county with impunity.

3d. That if the honorable Court adheres to his decision and the said B. Ashim does not appear for trial, Grand Jurors in the future will have very little incentive to bring indictment against a person charged with such offense against the law of our State, and when so easy a method of escape from trial can be obtained.

The Judge declined considering the prayer. Notwithstanding the people's guaranteed right of petition, the utter absurdity of petitioning (on general and not legal grounds) a Judge to act in disregard of the law furnished him by the people, and which he is sworn to correctly interpret and administer, will doubtless become manifest upon a "second, sober thought;" and if considered in all its bearing--for instance in its nature as an irregular influencing of a Judge--many signers would rather that course had not been pursued. Talk of newspapers rendering difficult the obtainance of impartial jurors; why, what sort of jurymen would these petioners make? We leave the thought that an expensive change of venue must come per consequence, and pass on to other matters.

The $15,000 local bail required by the Court was furnished by two well known business men of this place Michael Perasich (who has favored us with a copy thereof) and F. P. Ball make and file an affidavit that from the best of their information and belief said sureties are not worth the sum named over and above all other bonds and liabilities, official and otherwise. Though his Honor (and the public, for that matter) may know the sureties good, we are inclined to think that unless the affidavit itself is manifestly faulty, the Judge should have ordered an examination as to their sufficiency, according to the provisions of Section 1280 of the Penal Code.

Was the case a bailable one? We have devoted the better part of a week to an examination of the curious points raised by counsel, and can arrive at but one opinion in the premises--that it was. The authorities cited by the respective counsel, as well as a number of cases scattered through the Reports, together with the statute law of the State bearing upon the question, have been looked into, and may be generally summed up as follows:

Section 1270 of our Penal Code reads: "A defendant charged with an offense punishable with death cannot be admitted to bail when the proof of his guilt is evident or the presumption thereof great. The finding of an indictment does not add to the strength of the proof or the presumptions to be drawn therefrom." Section 190 of the same, as it stood prior to the amendment of which we shall speak, prescribed the death penalty for the crime of murder, and therefore under these two sections that offense was not a bailable one when the proof of guilt was evident or the presumption great. The query here arises, who is to determine whether the proof of guilt is evident or the presumption great? Naturally, the person who is to decide whether the offense is bailable or not. How is that person to determine the question? If a person other than the committing magistrate, by examining the depositions taken before that officer--so that the question of whether a person charged with the crime of murder could, under the law prior to amendment, be admitted to bail or not depended upon the individual opinion of the particular Judge as to whether "the proof of guilt was evident or the presumption great." Under this law our Supreme Court, in the case of the People vs. Smith, 1st Cal. Report, p 10 admitted the defendant, who was charged with murder in the first degree, to bail in the sum of $10,000. In the case of McLaughlin, 41st Cal. Report p. 220, the same Court admitted defendant to bail in like sum. In that case the facts were: At the July term, 1870, of the Sacramento County Court the defendant was indicted for the crime of murder; at the February term of the District Court in the following year, McLaughlin was placed on trial. The jury failed to agree, and defendant was remanded to jail to await another trial. Prisoner then applied to the Supreme Court by writ of habeas corpus to be admitted to bail, which was, as above stated, granted. In the case of Walsh, 39th Report, p. 706, District Judge Bradford, of Merced, admitted the defendant, who was charged with murder, to bail in the sum of $10.000, and the Supreme Court sustained this action. These cases are but a few among many; the bail in no instance we have met with exceeding $10.000.

According to the language of Section 1270 of the Penal Code it is not the nature of the crime which renders the case bailable, but the punishment which the law prescribes for it. Section 1271 says "If the charge is for any other offense he may be admitted to bail before conviction as a matter of right." From these it appears plain that if the offense is punishable with death it is discretionary with the Judge hearing the application to admit or refuse bail, because he must determine whether "the proof of guilt is evident or the presumption great;" and if the Judge, upon examination of the evidence, entertains a doubt he must admit to bail--because if the jury who try the case entertain a like doubt they must acquit the defendant altogether. In all other cases it is a right of the defendant--as was said by the Supreme Court in People vs. Tinder, 19th Cal., p 539--which no Judge or Court can properly deny. Then in all cases, save those which the law says shall be punished with death, the Judge has no discretion whatever; it is a Constitutional right of the defendant to be admitted to bail, which shall not be "excessive." It follows that the Judge, before he can exercise his discretion on the question of bail, must be able to say, "this defendant, if found guilty of the charge, will be punished with death." In other words he must be able to say that the law directs that the death penalty shall be inflicted on those found guilty of murder. Before the adoption of the amendment referred to the Judge could say this, because Section 190 in positive terms contained that provision--but as amended in 1874 by the Finney bill it now reads: "Every person guilty of murder in the first degree shall suffer death or confinement in the State prison for life, at the discretion of the jury trying the same; or upon a plea of guilty, the Court shall determine the same." We believe that the effect of this was simply to strike the crime of murder from the list of offenses punishable with death in the sense in which it is used in questions relating to bail. Where the law says that any given offense shall be punished by one of two or one of twenty different penalties, and leaves it discretionary with the Judge or jury to designate which one shall be inflicted, it certainly can not be said that the crime is punishable by any particular one of the penalties until after the body having the power to finally determine shall have acted. The Judge must determine that the offense is punishable with death before he can refuse bail, because if not so punishable the defendant has an absolute right to bail. Now where the Judge or jury who are to try the case have a right to choose which penalty he or they will inflict, how can the Judge hearing the application for bail say that the defendant if found guilty will be punished with death? Yet he must be able to do this, as the law now stands, or else he is not authorized to refuse bail--not, at least, until he becomes an unerring prophet.

In 1852-3 the penal laws of this State contained the following: "Sec. 59--Robbery is the felonious and violent taking of money, or goods, or other valuable thing, from the person of another, by force or intimidation. Every person guilty of robbery shall be punished by imprisonment in the State prison for a term not less than one year nor more than ten, or by death in the discretion of the jury." Section 60, after defining larceny, read thus: "And upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the State prison for any term not less than one year nor more than ten years, or by death, in the discretion of the jury." Yet we have heard no one assert that in this State robbery and grand larceny were ever non-bailable offenses, although the jury might possibly inflict the death penalty. In the present Code the same language is used with reference to the punishment for murder, only that the imprisonment extends during the life of the criminal; and if robbery and larceny were bailable then we don't see why murder is not now

Section 1272 says "After conviction of an offense not punishable with death, a defendant who has appealed may be admitted to bail." Then if one should be convicted of murder in the first degree and the jury should sentence him to imprisonment for life--which experience has shown to be very probable--he would certainly have the right to appeal, and pending that appeal he might be admitted to bail. If he is not bailable before conviction the result is somewhat illogical in this: that while the law presumes the defendant innocent he is caged up and denied bail, while after he is pronounced guilty and branded a murderer the right to bail is admitted. If an accused person must wait until a jury has convicted him and awarded imprisonment as his punishment, offenses punishable with imprisonment only might as well be made non-bailable also, because it can never be determined that his case is bailable until after the verdict, and then as a general thing the right is of no value to him.

After studying all the law that has been cited and that we can find upon the subject--and understanding it as near as may be--we conclude: That before Section 190 was amended admission to bail in cases where the law prescribed the death penalty was discretionary with the Judge; and that since said amendment the defendant has an absolute right to be admitted to bail. That, according to the law--which, by the way the people through their Legislature are responsible for--which he is solemnly sworn to support, Judge Hannah did not err in admitting Ashim to bail.

More of It.

The nineteenth century's nightmare, with its train of horrid spectres haunting civilization, will never end--referring, of course, to the Tilton-Beecher scandal. Now it is given out that the "mutual friend" threatens a new action, which will open up the whole controversy afresh. According to the report, Moulton intends to get Beecher indicted and show by the testimony of Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. Martha Bradshaw, Mrs. Moulton, Theodore Tilton James W. Richards, Mrs. Richards, Henry C. Bowen, Mrs. Tilton and others, that Beecher committed perjury in giving his evidence on the trial. Meanwhile the great Henry revels in a salary increased to $100,600 per annum.

Days of Election.

The State laws provide--Political Code 1,041--that "the General Election" shall be held on the first Wednesday in September every two years; making the General Election this year on September 1st. The same laws also prescribe (Ib. 1,042) that the judicial election shall be held on the third Wednesday in October, which this year will be the 20th of the month.

Wonder if it is not the same.

The Democrats of Inyo county, California, have nominated one R. E. Arrick for County Clerk. He hails from Panamint. We wonder if this is not "Rute" E. Arrick, who used to be Mayor of Virginia City--[Eureka Sentinel.

The Candidates.

It is noted as a singular coincidence that the present Governor of the State is a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, and the present Lieutenant-Governor is a candidate for Governor.

C Holloway, San Diego, planing machine; Maria McBurney, admx. of W. H. McBurney, dec'd., Sacramento, hay, cotton and wool press; D. B. Scofield, Baker City, Oregon, carpet cleaner; L. Chaize, San Jose, Cal., faucet; F. M. Merrell, Marysville, Cal., governor for steam engine; J. A. T. Overend, San Francisco, (reissue) type casting machine.

Unpopular.

Democrats are organizing in San Francisco to defeat their own nominee for Congress, Piper. He seems to be thoroughly disliked, and the probable result will be the election of the Independents' candidate, Hon. John F. Swift.

The Colorado Desert.

[From The San Francisco Alta.]

The idea of turning a portion of the waters of the Colorado river from their present bed and cause them to run upon the lands of the Colorado Desert so as to reclaim it from its present waste and worthless condition, is a part of the plan of survey upon which Lieut. Wheeler is at present engaged. We see that Lieut. Bergland, who has command of this part of the work, is instructed, or it is suggested to him to examine the river and the country, in view of this proposition, pretty well up the river from the old crossing near Pilot Knob. These instructions or suggestions may lead to valuable results. But unless we are mistaken, if the waters, can be divided from the present bed of the river, it must be at Pilot Knob, because the mountains which fence in the river on the west, terminate there, and leave only the sand bordering the river to be crossed or cut for a canal.

At that point the river is rapid, and probably at an elevation sufficient to supply water at a descent of four feet to the mile for one hundred and twenty miles westward, where the present surface is a hundred feet or more below the surface of the Gulf of California, the bed of a portion of which this depressed plain undoubtedly was. We doubt, from observations made a quarter of a century ago, while passing across that river and those arid plains, if the river can be tapped above that point and diverted to the sand plains of the Desert. But this survey by the party under command of Lieutenant Bergland, will doubtless decide the question definitely should the time allowed afford sufficient opportunity. It is a very important question, and if answered satisfactorily, will lead to the addition of millions of acres of prolific territory to this State.

Struck by Lightning.

I must now attempt to describe the effects on ourselves and the impressions on our senses, though I am conscious of difficulty in avoiding subjective matter here. Of the three, my wife only was "struck," and fell to the ground, my son and myself remaining erect, and all three retaining consciousness. For more than half an hour my wife lost the use of her lower limbs and her left hand, both of which became rigid. From the feet to the knees she was splashed with rose-colored, tree-like marks, branching upwards, while a tree-like mark, with six principal branches diverging from a common centre, thirteen inches in its largest diameter, and bright rose-red, covered the body. None of us are certain of having seen the flash, and my wife is sure she saw nothing. As to the noise, my wife heard a "bellowing" sound and a "squish," recalling fireworks; my son also heard a "bellow," while I seemed conscious of a sharp explosion. My wife describes her feeling as that of "dying away gently into darkness," and being roused by a tremendous blow on the body, where the chief mark was afterwards found. My son and myself were conscious of a sudden and terrific general disturbance, and he affirms that he received a severe and distinctly electrical shock in both legs. My left arm, shoulder and throat especially suffered violent disturbance, but I did not think it was electrical. As I turned to help my wife, who was on the ground, I shouted, as I thought, that I was unhurt and hoped that they were also; but it seemed I only uttered inarticulate sounds, and my son, in his first attempt to answer, did the same. This, however, was only momentary; in an instant we both spoke plainly.--[American Artisan.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Our Telegraph.

Now let he that hunts the "man who wrote that item" have a care!

In his private office, or rather in his armory, our Lokleitems composedly picks his teeth with an Arkansas quill. To his lair, from the main entrance of the composing room, leads our telegraph He is instantaneously informed of the entrance of any mild mannered man whose appearance indicates an ability to cut a throat or scuttle a ship, whereupon said Lokle heels himself and—slides out the other way.

We are open for congratulations upon inaugurating Inyo's pioneer telegraph line. The wire is short, to be sure, but the batteries and instruments are suitable for any main line, and we'd be only too happy to hitch on to the Overland, for instance. The outfit was purchased of Mr. E C Atkinson of the Sacramento Business College, to whom we are under many lasting obligations for his courteous consideration and fair dealing in the matter.

Any parties in town or elsewhere who desire to be sociable like, we will assist in putting up wires and instruments to connect and give instructions in operating to the first two or three.

Visitors desirous of investigating the modus operandi are requested to call during the first days of the week. Come and see how perfectly manageable is harnessed lightning But we won't stand undue foolin' round. Section 640 of the Penal Code says:

> Every person who, by means of any machine, instrument or contrivance, or in any other manner, willfully and fraudulently reads, or any attempts to read, any message, or to learn the contents thereof, whilst the same is being sent over any telegraph line, or willfully and fraudulently, or clandestinely, learns or attempts to learn the contents or meaning of any meassage, while the same is in any* telegraph office or is being received thereat or sent therefrom, or who uses or attempts to use, or communicates to others, any information so obtained, is punishable by Ubehebe.

Such is the euphonious name of a new mineral district located about 20 miles east from Cerro Gordo, by Messrs. W. L. and J. B Hunter, Thos McDonough and J. L. Porter. One of its principal and quite remarkable features is an enormous copper ledge 80 feet in width, which assays from 15 to 67 per cent—the whole averaging 24 per cent. This monster, which is designated as the Piute, was located July 2d Water and wood are some distance away When the railroad taps it we would like to be counted in. Some silver discoveries are also mentioned, and in the future "Ubehebe"—originally the patronymic of some Indian princess—will be heard from Something Ought to be Done.

Some of these bright days or nights another fire may come along and destroy much more property—perhaps the whole town—and then we will all wish a fire engine, of some description, had been procured. We have preached this doctrine for years; and though the place has been providentially favored, the last "glim" caused a loss sufficient to have purchased two or three machines. In all human probability, had there been a properly handled fire-engine on hand, but one building would have been burnt at most. The lesson should be heeded in time.

Unfortunate Accident.

Thursday last Mr. A. G. Cook, residing near Camp Independence, had a narrow escape from death by the explosion of an overloaded shot-gun. A part of his left hand was carried away, the wrist joint and a portion of the fore-arm destroyed, necessitating amputation below the elbow Dr. White performed the operation, and the patient is reported as doing well.

Gold.

A curious as well as a very valuable strike was recently made in the old Jefferson mine, at Cerro Gordo. Coming in amongst the galena ores is a streak of quartz literally bright with gold—one piece of which, less in size than a man's fist, carrying more than $20 in the precious metal. Still the owners are not proud, and the working of the mine goes right along!

Way Up.

The frame of Brother Rowley's new building is entirely completed and inclosed, and will be ready for occupancy in a short time. However, visitors will please refrain from comparing our worthy Postmaster to a Phœnix—he can't stand it.

Still Here.

That official allusion to our "traveling" theatrical fraternity has, as yet, sent none of them from town. All are here, so far as can be seen. We suppose it was a sort of a sublime joke, based upon their being on the stage.

Military.

Company "I," First Cavalry, U. S. A., have gone into camp at the Wood Reservation, in the foothills back of Camp Independence.

No Business.

The Board of Equalization, advertised to meet on the 12th instant, failed to connect, from some cause or other.

Married.

On Wednesday evening last, at Taboose Station, there occurred a notable hymeneal event, and one which will be a pleasant recollection to the invited participants, as well as to the happy principals in the affair. According to programme, duly prepared and privately announced to the favored ones, R. W. Woolard, Esq., matrimonially entrapped Emily J Peel, a sister to mine hostess of the Taboose—County Judge Hannah conducting the ceremonies. A goodly crowd of guests were present, and the social scenes following were the very acme of all that could be enjyable in that line. During the discussion of the repast, toasts were drank and speeches delived abounding in such genuine compliments to the central pair that, out of regard for Bob's retiring modesty, we refrain from reporting—merely remarking that wit, wine, song and dance ruled in full sway till morning. Upon their return to this place on the following morning, the gentlemen of several unmarried couples who were in attendance, were observed walking around town anxiously looking for dwellings, and making absurd inquiries as to the general cost of supporting a family.

Crop Prospects.

Judging from a view of the crops, taken while passing several ranches about the Post and to the northward the other day, we think that the prospects are, on the whole, very promising. Barley is ripening rapidly and wheat in favored spots will be ready for harvesting in a few days, and from what little information we could gather and from our own experience as a jolly Granger, we believe there will be a little above an average yield. Threshing machine men are preparing for operation and will be in the field next week. Corn has this year been rather backward and should this section be visited with early Autumn frosts, there will be a light crop However, there are some splendid fields of corn; one in particular on P. B Curtis' farm—the Butte Ranch—reminded us of the green fields in Illinois. This of course, was planted early and has received proper attention. Probably about one fourth of the corn planted in the valley will compare favorably with it. The usual quantity of hay is being cut, and the fine weather has afforded ample time to cure and put it up in good shape.

Fishists.

During the week, as is usual this time of year, many excursionists are hieing away to the mountains. Among the rest were Mr and Mrs. P. W Bennett, J. P. M. Perham and niece, Billy Loke, G. W. Brady and others. Though much has been written of the charms and enjoyments of the pleasure grounds of Kern river, in fishing, hunting, soda water tipping and lolling in the cool shades, ye Lokle has taken it all for granted from reports—since he has had no realizing experience thereof. P. S.—No objection to a mess of trout at this office.

Amusements.

At Camp Independence, on the evenings of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week, the Junior Amateur Club, consisting of Masters George and Charles McGowan, Henry Thompson and Felix Dugan, gave their initial performances. The programme included burlesques, farces, dialogues and music, which is reported by those present as creating unbounded merriment among the large audience assembled to witness the exhibition. A repetition of their effort is hoped for, by the way of furnishing a good hour's fun and entertainment.

To the Southward.

We are indebted to W. B Daugherty, Esq., who arrived from Panamint yesterday, for several general news items concerning Panamint and Darwin. At the latter point times have taken a lively turn, and from various causes the immediate future of the camp will be very flourishing. Senator Stewart and Sam Jones had arrived in Panamint and placed 70 miners at work upon the Wyoming. It was said that the Company's mill would be started in a short time.

Wholesale Contract.

Her Highness Captain Jim, the aboriginal broom slinger who polishes floors for the sum of two bits, the other day discouraged a can of concentrated lye by bringing her pedal extremities in contact therewith She confidentially informed our devil this morning that "mabeso by and bye heap catch-em balligator boots." Thus will be consumed the Southern alligator crop.

Naturalization.

Everybody who wishes to become naturally civilized or civilly naturalized, and thereby realize in himself a glorious citizen of these United States, must bear in mind that the County Court meets on the 28th instant, which will be the last opportunity before the coming contest.

Emigrants.

A long train of emigrants wagons are now passing southward through the valley, being coastward bound from Washington territory. It was understood in Nevada that they were bound for Bishop, and we opine that they will wish they had located at that point.

For San Quentin and Stockton.

Sheriff J. J. Moore, started via Southern route with two prisoners in charge, Wilson Velarie, insane, and George Wellington, sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the State Prison for horse stealing.

Mowed Off.

Wm. Arcularious, while engaged last week in operating a mowing machine, above Camp Independence, had a finger so mutilated that amputation was necessary

EDITOR: To look back upon the past two weeks and view the history of our little village and mining camp, and to note the multifarious and highly edifying social gathering which took place the day of American jollification and the day after, who can look upon the discoveries of Franklin and Fulton with the least surprise and wonder, or who can be present at such a gathering and wonder or dare opine that there is anything in the way of that such an intelligent and enlightened race could not accomplish, or to say the least, who of the multitude that gathered here to celebrate the 4th, can say that we did not drink, drink and be merry from the morning of the 3d until the 7th, when gold arose to 117½ and as a vast majority of the enthusiasts had exchanged their gold for a beverage indispensable on the 4th, consequently there was a crash in the financial affairs which brought these celebrationists of the Ninety-ninth Anniversary of our National Independence to a realization of their adverse circumstances and drove them from a lucrative life around the curb-stones to the honest avocation of chloriding; and it is generally believed that the people of this place celebrated the birthday of American Independence the only true way and unparalleled in programme, either before or since the 4th of July, 1776.

MINES.

As you have a pretty good idea of how we celebrated the 4th, we will now visit the curb-stone brokers in their chloriding haunts. To mention them in detail would be too tedious. The Comanche mine is owned and worked by Mr. A. Mack, who has a force of about twenty men at work. This mine is worked to the depth of about 650 feet; the vein is four and one-half feet wide and goes down as near perpendicular as ever a mine did. Tis enough to say that it is rich. The first run Mr. Mack made after putting in his new furnace was about twenty-one days and turned out $18,000 worth of bullion. The Indian Queen mine at Hutch's canyon is running on time and the Superintendent, Mr. Howell, ships about 700 pounds of bullion every week from 400 to 600 fine, which is pretty good for a four stamp mill. "Render unto Cesar" etc In your last issue we noticed an item headed—"A rough character," in which there is a slight error, on the part of your informant of course. We know of whom you intimate, but the person referred to did not, on the Fourth, assault any man intoxicated or sober, offensive or inoffensive, but mingled with the multitude of Presidents and Orators of the day, and enjoyed himself altogether becoming a celebrationist in Benton.

ATT. OURNEY.

Coso Correspondence.

DARWIN, Ju'y 9th.

MR. EDITOR:—The improvements in camp within the last month have been quite extensive, and considering you entitled to all the particulars, I shall do my best to write them up. There have been several new discoveries lately that promise well—not that any extra prospects were considered necessary for the success of the camp, that being already secured. Several experts have visited the place lately, looking at the Defiance, Lucky Jim, Cuerbo and a few other claims. There are two furnaces in course of construction and when finished will give employment to quite a number of men. There is a large amount of ore on hand at present, awaiting the completion of these furnaces.

Our enterprising friend, V. Beaudry, succeeded in having the water in town on the evening of the 3d instant, which event was duly celebrated on the following day. The men of the camp having had an invitation to be on hand at 9 o'clock A. M were at the tank, where, I can assure you, the Private Cuvee flowed as freely as the water. Several toasts were proposed and were happily responded to by the following gentlemen: Messrs. Tyler, Wilson, Hoffman, Wales, Beaudry and Reddy

All Hearsay Evidence.

"I say, Mr. Smithers," said Mrs. Smithers to her husband; "didn't I hear you down in the kitchen kissing the cook?" "My dear," replied Smithers blandly, "permit me to insist upon my right to be reasonably ignorant. I really cannot say what you may have heard" "But wasn't you down there kissing the cook?" "My dear, I really cannot recollect. I only remember going into the kitchen and coming out again. I may have been there, and from what you say I infer I was. But I cannot recollect just what occurred." "But," persisted the ruthless cross-examiner, 'what did Jane mean when she said: 'Oh! Smithers, don't kiss so loud, or the old she dragon up stairs will hear us?'" "Well," said Smithers in his blandest tones, "I cannot remember what interpretation I did put on the words at the time. They are not my words, you must remember."—[Courier-Journal.

The Platform.

The Democratic party of California in State Convention assembled, in compliance with usage, to assert the following principles, as the basis of their political action, and pledge the candidates about to be nominated to their hearty support.

We declare:

First—That we are opposed to the unconstitutional interference of the Federal Administration in the domestic affairs of the States, by which one portion of the Union is ground with taxation to keep another portion of the Union in bankruptcy and servitude.

Second—We condemn the Republican party, not only for its contempt of constitutional obligations, but for its extravagant, partisan and corrupt administration of the Federal Government; for the perversion of the functions of the latter to enrich great corporations at the expense of the public; for the jobbery and frauds which have brought reproach upon Democratic institutions; or the Sanborn and Jayne frauds; for the infamous Washington ring; for the back-pay steal; the iniquities of the protective system; the curse of inconvertible paper money; the nepotism of the President; for its disgraceful diplomatic service and unfit appointments; for its attempt to pass an unconstitutional force bill, which was fortunately frustrated by the determined front of the Democratic minority in both Houses of Congress; and for a catalogue of other enormities which have rendered that organization offensive even to the mass of those who were once its supporters.

Third—That now as in past periods we are in favor of a strict construction of the Constitution, and against the exercise of doubtful powers; in favor of limiting the powers of legislative bodies; in favor of a tariff for revenue only, and a currency convertible into gold and silver at the will of the holder; against the profligate and wasteful system of local improvements by the General Government, and in favor of reducing the expenditures of the State governments, and of the counties and towns, and the salaries of officials, which have been largely increased since the State election of 1871

Fourth—That the School system and fund of this State are under guarantee of the Constitution inviolable, and we are opposed to any diversion of the fund to any purpose except those ordained by the Constitution.

Fifth—We assert the traditional policy of the party, in declaring it is the right and duty of the Legislature to regulate corporations, whether railway, telegraph, water or otherwise; to limit their charges in the interests of the public, and to compel them to serve all citizens, without discrimination, at reasonable rates; and that when they refuse to do so, we recognize the right and declare the intention of making them do so; and we further assert it to be the duty of the Government to preserve the waters of the State for irrigation and other public uses, instead of permitting them to be made the means of extortion and monopoly.

Sixth—That the Democratic party has no occasion to make any new departure or declaration of opposition to the system of subsidies, when we recall the fact that it is to a Democratic State Administration that this State owes its deliverance from this oppressive, unjust and corrupt system

Seventh—That we are in favor of calling a convention of delegates elected by the people to amend the Constitution of the State, as the only mode of creating a system of government at once harmonious and efficient, and are therefore opposed to the amendments to the constitution, which are to be submitted to a vote of the people at the ensuing election.

Eighth—That the time-honored Democratic doctrine of local self government is sufficient when properly administered to afford an effective remedy for the evils now caused by Chinese labor and the presence among us of an inferior race, detrimental to our moral and physical health; that in the interests of all classes in California, especially that of the white working people, we demand such amendment to the Burlingame treaty as shall reduce it to a mere commercial convention.

Ninth—That we condemn the doctrine whereby the power of the State to prevent the importation to our shores of degraded persons for immoral purposes has been denied

Tenth—That we favor the speedy completion of a transcontinental railway on the Thirty-second parallel, subject to such limitations by the Federal and State Governments as shall protect the rights of the people.

Eleventh—That we are in favor of equal taxation, and any departure from this principle or any system of taxation which imposes a double tax upon the same object is in violation of the spirit of the Constitution and unjust to the best interests of the State.

Twelfth—That all legislation intended to regulate the social habits and customs of the people, so long as these habits and customs do not interfere with the welfare of society at large, and all legislation of the character known by the general name of Prohibitory Law is opposed to the principles of the Democratic party, and is calculated to promote a pretense of social morality, rather than a well founded system of public order and decency.

Thirteenth—That we invite the hearty co-operation of all persons, whatever may have been their past political affinities, to unite with us in carrying out the principles herein enunciated.

Fourteenth—That we condemn, as subversive of the rights of the people and ruinous to the best interests of the State, the policy of permitting the lands of the State, to become a monopoly in the hands of the few at the expense of the many, and we hereby pledge the Democratic party to the correction of this giant evil.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
Saturday, July 17,.....1875.

Studious.

Going home a few days since, a resident of Detroit heard the voice of a boy in a stable, and looking through a broken window, he saw a lad about ten years old reading to a group composed of half a dozen boys of about the same age. "Now, isn't this nice?" chuckled the gentleman to himself; "these boys, crowded out of school, are still determined to secure an education." He took another look through the window, then placed his ear to the broken pane and heard the boy read: "If the person who deals makes a misdeal, the cards may lie on the table only with the consent of all—

"Grashus!" exclaimed the citizen, as he sprang away from the window; "that boy is reading from Hoyle!"

—Ah Hang, a Chinese laundryman in Chicago, is translating popular songs into "pigeon English." Here is the result of his labors on "Comin' thro' the Rye:"

"Spose man lun slam-bang flont of gal
Walkee tlough le lye;
Spose man make kissee pidgin gal,
What fo' cly?

"Evly man pickee up some gal,
Speakee all loun no got mi;
All same lookee so evly gal loun mi way
Walkee tlough le lye."

—Girls should be warned of the danger they run in marrying railroad brakemen. An enthusiastic member of that fraternity, on being wakened the other night from a dream of an impending crash by a train, found himself sitting up in bed, holding his wife by the ears, having nearly twisted her head off in his frantic efforts to "down brakes."

—A Philadelphia German, upon the arrival of a second pair of twins, said to his family physician: "Ov you bleese, doctor, it ish better dot a schtop be boot to dose dings. One bair of quince, I dinks, ish aller roit; but more as dot ish blaid owit. Don'd id? You know how it is myself!"

—It was 12 o'clock at night when Mr. Berger, Macon, Ga., discovered a colored preacher in his stable untying a horse, and the preacher only observed—"Jess what I said all de time, Mister Berger, your horse is bay sure nuff, and dat 'spute between me and Brudder Jackson is settled."

—A scientist has discovered an insect that will destroy the potato bug. It bores into the potato to lie in wait for the destroyer of that edible, and while it is waiting, the potato suffers. The farmers fondly hope to discover another bug that will destroy the bug that destroys the potato bug.

—Monmouth, Oregon, is a village containing only forty houses, and yet boasts of nine organs, three pianos, and a musical instrument not classified—a cross between a piano and a melodeon. There is also a band of fourteen performers and a number of guitars, violins, flutes and so forth.

—There is a dark and a bright side to every providence, as there was to the guiding pillar-cloud. Nature fixes on the dark and calls it sorrow; faith sees the sun dispersing the darkness, and calls it by the name of joy.

—"Kill him! kill him!" shouted a crowd in Virginia City as they gathered around a hotel. "What for!" inquired a stranger. "He's got on alligator boots and a velvet coat. Mash 'em."

—At the Atlas works, Pittsburg, Pa., they are making the largest shears ever constructed in this country. They will weigh forty tons, and will shear cold iron five inches thick.

—The demoralizing influences of the Beecher wickedness is everywhere apparent. More men can be heard saying "damtheflize" this Summer than ever before.

—Never keep anything from your better half. It will save her the trouble of finding it out from your neighbor's wife.

—A darkey's instructions for putting on a coat were, "First, de right arm, den de left, and den give a general convulsion."

—The first person who ever went round the world—the man in the moon.

—The maiden's prayer—"Papa buy me a spring suit."

Agents Wanted.

THESE OATS HAVE BEEN THOUROUGHLY tested and proves to be the finest known. Their yield is enormous—60 or 80 bushels per acre—they will grow well on thin land—they do not injure your land like the common oats. A Package that will yield from 6 to 10 bushels of oats, with circular giving terms to Agents, and full instructions as to time and manner of sowing, will be sent, postpaid, to any one desiring to act as Agent on receipt of 50 cents. The oats I offer are fresh and genuine seed—last year's production. Now is the time to order, so you may be prepared for early fall sowing.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's

CALIFORNIA VINEGAR

BITTERS!

Gratefull thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essential. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with the BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory or Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Every Day an Increase in Weight is Seen and Felt.

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphilis, Consumption, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the system, Sore Eyes, Strumous Discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm, and all wastes of the life principle are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.

If the patient, daily becoming reduced by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, succeeds in arresting these wastes, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure.

Not only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excel all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional and Skin Diseases; but it is the only positive cure for

Kidney and Bladder Complaints, Urinary and Womb diseases, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brick dust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like white silk, or there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and white bone-dust deposits, and when there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the small of the back and along the loins. Price $1.

WORMS.—The only known and sure remedy for Worms—Pin, Tape, etc.

Tumor of 12 Years Growth Cured by Radway's Ready Resolvent.

BEVERLY, Mass., July 18, 1869.

DR. RADWAY:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried everything that was recommended; but nothing helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief; and there is not a sign of a tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter and happier than I have for twelve years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the bowels, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

Cerro Gordo.

[Correspondence of The S. F. Chronicle.]

The often-repeated remark in your city of late, by sensible, responsible, and in some instances, by men of scientific pretensions, that "in less than five years Inyo county would produce more bullion than the whole State of Nevada," induced your correspondent to start out on a tour of inspection, observation and collation. The ignorance of many business men in your city, of this county, its productions and prospective wealth, is amazing. I found many prominent business men in San Francisco did not know that Inyo county was in California; and Cerro Gordo, why that was "in Mexico, of course," and nowhere else. But when we reflect upon the luxurious style in which we Americans now live, and think of the pleasures of visiting a mining camp in a Pullman palace car, and of the unhappiness of a ride in a stage coach drawn by broncos at full speed 250 miles over a rough, mountainous country, we are not so much surprised that this silver county (and that should be its name) has been so long neglected and that hundreds of men are to day exhausting brain and muscle on California street in quest of dollars, and in blissful ignorance of the fact that they are within a three days trip of mines that generations yet unborn cannot exhaust, and that will now yield $30 for every dollar properly expended on them.

THE LOS ANGELES AND INDEPENDENCE RAILROAD

is being constructed with all the speed that brains, machinery and capital can evoke; and nine months hence the shrill neighing of its many iron horses will be heard for the first time in Cerro Gordo. The 100 twelve-mule teams engaged in freighting between this camp and the railroad will have to find some other occupation. Freight on bullion from here to San Francisco will be reduced at least $35 per ton. The half opened mines will be worked, the unprospected hills and mountains (and this section is in almost a virgin state) will attract the attention of the practical miner. The farmers in Owen's River Valley will find a ready market for all their farm and dairy products, and I do not think it exaggeration to say that the Cerro Gordo Mining District alone, with railroad facilities, will support a population equal to that of the whole State of Nevada to-day. It is said, and I believe the assertion can be sustained, that for the amount of money invested this district has yielded more money than any mining district in the United States. I submit the following table from the books of one of the principal companies of the Cerro Gordo District. It will give some idea of the enormous profits, that were made when they worked against many disadvantages that have no existence now:

	Capital involved in furnaces, etc., each year.	Total.	Bullion produced, tons.	Net profits at $80 per ton.
1869....	$15,000	$15,000	1,000	$ 90,000
1870....	15,000	30,000	1,500	135,000
1871....	30,000	60,000	2,500	225,000
1872....	15,000	75,000	4,000	360,000
1873....	10,000	85,000	5,000	450,000
1874....	15,000	100,000	6,000	540,000
Total.....				$1,800,000

SMELTING FURNACES.

There are two furnaces here, thirty tons capacity, each producing about twelve and a half tons of base bullion per day, worth $115 in silver and $90 in lead per ton. The furnaces are run about one hundred days in succession without cooling off. They have been worked six years. The process is perfect. They are charged with the sulphurets and carbonates of lead and silver, with a proper proportion of feruginious ore and argentiferous quartz. Professor Raymond, United States Commissioner on Mining Statistics, says in his report for 1873: "It is the pride of these works that they smelt more ore with less fuel than any other works in the country." Twenty bushels of charcoal to the ton of ore is the allowance here, whilst it will be found on investigation that about twice that quantity is necessary at other furnaces, both in Europe and America. As I have said before, this district is almost in a virgin state.

DEVELOPMENT OF MINES.

We have seen that with an outlay of $100,000 a net profit of $1,800,000 was returned. But some work has been done. The Union mine has been worked to a depth of 750 feet, and has now a vein 40 feet wide. The Omega is down 500 feet, vein 30 feet wide. Santa Maria vein 100 feet wide. The Jefferson, Carman, Guadaloupe, Guymas, First and Second Lead mines, San Benito, Alpha and Buena Vista, are all valuable mines. The ores from the Ignacio silver mine average $180 per ton, and specimens as high as $2,000 per ton. The croppings of the Buena Vista are more than 100 feet wide on the summit of the mountain. All the mines in Cerro Gordo have steadily improved in the quantity and quality of the ore as they have gone down. And now let me say a word in relation to a new enterprise. Between the "lower" mines of Cerro Gordo and the Union there are ten parallel lodes. A company called the Potosi Mining and Smelting Company has been formed to work these veins or lodes by means of a tunnel called which commences in the lower town of Cerro Gordo and has a course of 70 degrees east. It will cut the above named lodes nearly at right angles at depths varying from 500 to 2,200 feet. The tunnel is in between 500 and 600 feet, and is to be ten feet wide and seven high, and have a double track. It is at the key to Cerro Gordo mountain, and the mine owners on the line of the great tunnel are anxious for its completion, as it will enable them to get their ores to market at a much less expense than they can by any other route. The company are willing to pay a handsome profit on their investment for the privilege of running their ores through the tunnel, because it will enable them to get out of the hands of the companies who now control the only means of transportation, and have the power to compel them to pay almost any price they demand for the use of their railroad. The tunnel will intersect extensive and costly works erected for the reduction of the ores. The note reads as follows: A letter from Darwin this city verifies the truth of a rumor which has been current for some weeks; that of the painful death by cross-examination of two men in Panamint, who had struck a rich vein of silver ore. The note reads as follows: Quigley, of Irish birth, died in the Quigley, of Irish birth, died from exhaustion and struck water, 50 cents per gallon here, and Valley, July wasted of Denmark.

I noticed a few days since half mile Chronicle that the renowned Professor Vincent was expected in San Francisco. After he has visited and examined the Comstock, I hope he will come here and see for himself a district which promises to rival Nevada's famous lode.

A Great Work.

[From The Los Angeles Herald.]

Any one desiring to obtain some idea of the stupendous accomplishments of railroad engineering, should spend a few days in Tehachape Pass, investigating the operators of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. About twenty miles of that road is a succession of cuts, fills and tunnels. Within this distance there are thirteen tunnels, ranging from eleven hundred feet to a few yards in length. For the greater portion of the way the road bed is cut through solid granite. The elevation is so great from the present terminus of the road at Caliente to Tehachape valley that the first mile and a half out of Caliente is attained by laying down eight miles of track. Higher up in the Pass the road runs through a tunnel, encircles the hill and passes a few feet above the tunnel. After completely encircling the hill and going half around again, the track doubles on itself like a closely pursued hare, and after running several miles in the opposite direction, strikes up the canyon. This circling and doubling is for grade. Once the track crosses the Pass and this involves the building of a long and very high bridge. We doubt if a more difficult and expensive piece of engineering was encountered in the building of the Central Pacific over the Sierras, than that with which the Southern Pacific is now struggling in Tehachape Pass. Another tremendous piece of work is the San Fernando tunnel, which, when completed, will be over one and one-half miles in length and, in places, over one thousand feet beneath the surface. Yet the company will accomplish this great work and run cars through from San Francisco to Los Angeles by the first of next July. All the force that can be used is kept at work on the San Fernando tunnel. In the Tehachape Pass five thousand men are employed and the forces is being increased at the rate of one thousand Chinamen per week.

A Big Bonanza.

Trinity county has found its bonanza as well as other sections. Ours was a bonanza of rattlesnakes, and was discovered on the line of the Coffee Creek ditch by James B. Watkins, employed on the ditch. He ran into a den of rattlesnakes, the extent of which may be imagined from the fact that he killed sixty five of the snakes in half an hour, with a club. He was in town the other day and showed us the rattles, which range from three to fourteen in size. The smallest ones he says, were the most trouble, being more active than the larger and older ones. Coffee Creek has always been celebrated for the number of rattlesnakes produced. Since work has commenced on the ditch, some are killed every day, Mr. Watkins alone having killed 120 this summer. His last feat in this line surpasses any single-handed combat with rattlesnakes ever placed on record.—[Trinity Journal.

—Why is a pig the most provident of animals? Because he always carries a spare-rib or two about him.

The Earthquake in Granada.

The following particulars of the recent terrible earthquake are received by letter from Salazar: "A severe earthquake has visited this city and region. In this city a large part of the church, public hall, and several houses were destroyed and some people were killed. The city of Cercuita is entirely destroyed, only a few families being saved. The Botica Aliemania, a German drug store, was set on fire by a ball of fire which was thrown out of a volcano, which is constantly throwing out lava. This volcano has opened itself in front of Santiago. San Cayentana was destroyed, and also Santiago. In the larger part of Gramlatia there was great destruction. Abroletes, Cucutilla and San Cristobal are nearly destroyed. The population of these towns is estimated as follows. San Cayetana, 4,000; Santiago, 2,000; Gramlatia, 3,000; Arboletes, 5,000; Cucuisas, 500; San Cristobol, 1,600. The sections of country referred to embrace regions around about where the Columbia and Venzuela join. The Columbia portion, embracing Srntander, is in some respects most productive. Parts of this republic, for its coffee, is famous all the world over. San Jose de Neicuta at the time of the disaster had a population estimated at 1,800. It had a large commercial business, and was a great depot for coffee and cocoa for shipment, either through the Venezuelan ports or down the Magdalena to Panama. The shock was felt sharply in Bogota and the adjoining sections. A gentleman who was at the time in Factatvia says that the movement lasted for three-quarters of a minute.

Tulare.

We learn that the business men of the place are determined to build up a better town than they had before. They will build of brick in the future. Tulare was a beautiful place, had a good class of business men, and we would like to see it surpass its former prosperity four fold.—[Visalia Delta.

MODERN BLASTING AGENTS.

In a paper on this subject, recently read by Mr. Noble before the Society of Arts, the author thus explains the reasoning which led to firing slow explosives by local detonation: "When a hammar strikes a very thin layer of nitro-glycerin on an anvil, the blow produces a strong compression of the liquid, which liberates heat and raises its temperature to the point at which it detonates. But only that which actually receives the blow explodes. If, however, the hammer is very heavy, and the blow strong, the explosion is no longer confined to the part which receives the direct shock, and the whole goes off. A local detonation, owing to the immense tension of its gas, must be very similar in action to a strong blow, and will thus compress the explosive liquid which surrounds it, causing it to detonate at will and to propagate the explosion throughout the whole mass by the same means. Whether that theory be correct or not, it led to a result which affords considerable facilities for the utilization of modern explosives. It enables us, with or without confinement, to turn a solid or liquid substance of very harmless appearance instantaneously into a gas which occupies the same or nearly the same bulk, but has an expanding tendency which, for nitro glycerine gas, must come near a pressure of 500 tuns per square inch."

Reformation in Illinois.

They had a "reform" Legislature in Illinois last Winter, and this is what The New York Tribune, a professedly Independent paper says about it. "Since the leap of the Gadarene swine many years ago, there has probably never been seen a more maniacal or bestial assemblage than the Illinois Legislature. It was composed exclusively of new men, 'free from the corrupting influences of city politics.' They had no more regard for others' rights than for their own dignity. They were so ignorant and piggishly wrong headed that, as was said by a disgusted lawyer, 'you couldn't bribe them to do a legal act.' They broke up and went home this Spring in scandal and disgrace, amid the cordial execrations of both parties."

John D. Lee.

Late news from Beaver City, Utah, states that John D. Lee, who for months past has been in confinement under a charge of murder in the Mountain Meadows massacre, has turned State's evidence, and will tell all he knows about that horrible slaughter. This will cause the dry bones of the Mormon priesthood to shake, and will at last throw a gleam of light over the incidents of the most barberous massacre ever perpetrated by people claiming to be civilized. If it results in convicting the Head of the Church and his beastly "apostles" of murder, the apostate Lee will deserve pardon.

High Living.

Dr. Dio Lewis says that "high living is the foundation of every cemetery." Dr. Dio Lewis has uttered as much nonsense, with "Sir Oracle" dogmatism, as any four men living, but he never said anything sillier than this. "High living" certainly is not more fatal than foul air, dirt, unwholesome food, corrupted water and perpetual sliminess, the usual surroundings of "low life." Why do epidemics break out in the quarters of cities where "living" is anything but "high?" Why does the cholera, or yellow fever, or the plagues, rage most fearfully in the slums and dens of "low living?" Dr. Lewis is fond of magnifying his office of Lecturer in Ordinary and Reprover General of American habits, and he often does it at the expense of truth and good sense, as in this case. If every country had such a pest, and his owlish alarms were heeded, the United States would be as sickly as Sierra Leone. Every man who was not speechless would be a hypochondriac, dying slowly of pressure of a scientific fool.

Found Guilty.

Harry Granice of Merced, who killed Madden nearly a year ago, in a feud growing out of some disgraceful newspaper personalities, has been found guilty of murder in the first degree. The Jury elected imprisonment for life as the punishment.

The Grasshoppers in Kansas.

The grasshoppers have entirely disappeared in Kansas. Many localities report cinchbugs, but the damages appears to be very slight, excepting on high prairies, where the utmost care is necessary to withstand their progress.

MOUNT WHITNEY.

The ascent of Mt. Whitney was made July 22d by George B. Bayley, Chas. Washburne and John Muir in about two days from Independence. They rode their mules to the base of the range near the mouth of the Lone Pine canyon, then pushed directly up the canyon afoot to the base of the peak the first day, camping on the upper limit of the timber line. The summit of the mountain was reached about 10 A. M. next morning and the descent to the foot of the range opposite Lone Pine was accomplished the same day.

There is but little snow on the north side of the mountain and none at all on the south side or on the summit. The temperature on the summit at 11 A. M. was 45° in the shade and 53° in the sun. The temperature at daybreak at an elevation of 11,500 feet was 48° which is perhaps the highest temperature ever observed at so great an elevation in the Sierras.

The party left Yosemite Valley on the 9th instant and skirted along the western flank of the range as far as Kings River, crossed over to Independence via, the Kings River Grove of Big Trees, the Kings River Yosemite on the South Fork. These gentlemen assert positively that Mt. Whitney is accessible from nearly all points except directly east. They have proved themselves expert climers and diligent scholors, and we hope to see them on this side again. They return to Yosemite by way of Mono and Bloody Canyon.

An Escape from San Quentin.

William Harrington, alias "Waverly" alias "Alkali Jim," an old convict, escaped from the State Prison under peculiar circumstances. He had been engaged in the shoe department and packed himself in the bottom of a case of shoes. The case was taken on board a vessel with other freight and sailed for San Francisco. After the vessel had left the dock Harrington made his way out of the case and made his escape. He is described as follows: Native of Tennessee; age, 35; hight, five feet seven inches; high, full forehead, reddish-brown straight hair, large gray eyes, large round nose and round face, sandy mustache and no beard. He has served three terms in San Quentin and was serving his fourth term when he escaped. He was sent up the last time from Calavaras on June 28, 1871, for thirteen years, for robbing the San Andreas stage.

New York Sharpe.

Daring robberies appear to be becoming epidemic in New York, another one being reported by the telegraph. The robber gained the confidence of an old lady by representing himself to be a sanitary inspector, and the dispatch says he inspected the old lady, but we change it to "premises," instead.

Old War Horses.

Senator Jones and Tom Fitch are shortly to take the stump for the Republican ticket in California. Everything now indicates that the Republicans will make a much better showing at the polls than was thought possible in the beginning of the campaign.

Sentenced for Life.

At Austin, Nevada, Luigi Baderacco was sentenced, July 14th, to imprisonment in the State Prison for the term of his natural life. He was indicted some time since for the murder of John Beal and James McCreary.

Sensible.

Judge Nye, of Alameda, has adopted a rule that he will henceforth issue no naturalization papers unless the applicant has previously read or heard read the Constitution he will be required to swear to support.

A High Indorsement.

The San Jose Mercury, a leading Independent, upon which it was said that the mantle of The Sacramento Union should fall, has this to say concerning the Hon P. D. Wiggington, Democractic nominee for Congress from this District:

"The nomination of P. D. Wiggington, of Merced, for Representative in Congress from this District, meets with general favor. Mr. Wiggington is a lawyer of eminence. He is regarded in the community where he resides as a man of high integrity, and of superior ability. Although a Democrat, he is one of the Independent kind, and his nomination is one that Independents can heartily endorse. We must not fritter away our strength in this district by dividing the vote against Mr Houghton; hence it is the duty of all the opponents of Mr. Houghton to unite on Wiggington. He will, if elected, represent the district fairly and creditably. We understand he is a fine speaker, and will visit San Jose soon, when the Independents will have an opportunity to make his acquaintance."

—A gold knee buckle of good workmanship was recently found by a citizen living in the vicinity of Braddock's Field, in the western part of the State. It is thought to have belonged to one of the unfortunate victims of Braddock's defeat.

IMPORTANT TO VOTERS.

Assessor Dillon has kindly furnished us with the following list of his Deputies in the different precincts, to whom persons desiring to be registered may apply without the expense and trouble of coming to Independence to make application to the County Clerk or Assessor:

Bishop Creek and Round Valley precincts by I. P. Yaney at Bishop Creek; Pine Mountain, Big Pine and Fish Springs precincts, by J. W. McMurray at Big Pine; Swansea and Cerro Gordo precincts, by J. R. Moffat at Cerro Gordo; Darwin precinct, by John Wilson at Darwin; Panamint precinct, by J. C. Irwin, John Pattie and R. E. Arick at Panamint.

Political Code, Section 1083 says:

"Every male citizen of the United States, who shall have been a resident of the State six months next preceding the election, and of the precinct in which he claims his vote thirty days, and whose name is enrolled on the Great Register of such county, is a qualified elector thereof."

If by any chance, any registered voters name is left off the copy of the Great Register furnished the precincts, or if the name is not returned to the County Clerk in time to be placed upon the printed copy of the Great Register, then in accordance with Section 1227 of Political Code as amended, If the person offering to vote produces and files with the election board, an uncancelled certificate of registration on the Great Register, and the vote is not rejected after challenge as in other cases, the inspector or judge acting as such must as in other cases place the ballot in the ballot box.

No one can vote who does not hold a certificate of registration or whose name is not on the Great Register of the county.

The voter offering a vote in a precinct must have resided in said precinct for thirty days next preceeding the day of election.

Part 3d Section 1239 Political Code reads: "A person must not be held, by reason of having moved from one precinct to another, in the same county, within thirty days prior to the election, to have lost his residence in the precinct so moved from, provided he was an elector therein on the thirtieth day prior to such election."

Pretty Solid Advice.

ED. INDEPENDENT: Enclosed pleased find $5 for THE INDEPENDENT. I should be sorry to have it discontinued. It has worked nobly for Inyo county and ought to be well patronized. Save the biggest watermelon and a bunch of cigarettes—we will bring a chew of tobacco, and then the way things will short will be a caution.—Ed.]

Dr. Talmage on the Scandal.

Dr. Talmage stands on the fence, but evidently leans over to Tilton's side. In his Christian at Work he says that, while the majority of people in New York and Brooklyn think Beecher innocent, outside and away from these cities a great many think him guilty. Dr. Talmage sympathizes with Mr. Beecher because the jury has not vindicated his name, and with Tilton because of the destruction of his family. But leaving aside the question of Mr Beecher's innocence or guilt, it is easy, says this clerical brother, to learn the lesson that married men and especially ministers, ought to be very economical of kissing and writing love letters to other men's wives.

For County Clerk.

Wm B Daugherty, formerly of this place, is announced in The Panamint News as a candidate for the office of County Clerk of Inyo county, subject to the action of the Republican County Convention. Billy would make an accomplished and efficient Clerk and he has many friends in this section who would be glad to learn of his success, both in securing the nomination and at the polls.—[Eureka Sentinel.

Removed.

P. W. Bellingall, who was appointed Deputy Surveyor of the Port of San Francisco at the special request of President Grant, has been removed from his position by Surveyor Grey, to make room for Frank B. Sharp, who is a nephew of Billy Carr.

The Same.

Nevada papers are informed that the Wm B. Daugherty nominated by the Republicans of this county for Clerk, is the same "Billy" so well and favorably known in the western part of that State.

Mrs. Lizzie Petit Cruzer declared in a recent lecture on "Flirts of Modern Society," that "it is always the noblest and best men who are ruined by the flirt."

We have been ruined four times.

The Independents.

Judge J. S. Thompson, of Los Angeles, is the Independent nominee for Congress from this District.

—"Arrah, me darlint," cried Jamie O'Flannigan to his loquacious sweetheart, who had not given him the opportunity to get in a word even edgewise during a two hours' ride behind the little bay nags in his oyster wagon, "are ye afther knowin' why your cheeks are like my ponies there?" "Shure an' it's because they are red is it?" quoth the blushing Bridget. "Faith an' a better raison than that, mavourneen: Because there is one of them aich side of a wagon tongue."

—On the 4th instant the Sutro tunnel was in 10,000 feet, which is about one-half of its whole length. The entere work will probably be completed in two years.

Pine Mountain.

Dr. A. Marrotte returned on Thursday evening last from this new mining district, having touched at Sylvania during his trip. His reports of the Pine Mountain district are encouraging. The mines are situated about seven miles in an easterly direction from Deep Springs. A good wagon road up the canyon to the mines has recently been constructed by Broder & Co. The camp is already "blessed" with four saloons, three private dwelling houses, a butcher shop, and two restaurants, where the traveller can be furnished with refreshments and luxuries. Recently an engine of 25 horse power has been put up by engineer Stoddard, which drives the company's saw mill and has already furnished the most of the lumber necessary for the camp and smelting works which are now in the course of construction under the direction of Mr Jas. Jamison, who is well known on this coast as an experienced furnace-builder. The Superintendent of the company, Mr. S. P. Moffitt, asserts that the furnace will be in smelting order within two weeks. The mines are but a short distance from the works, the courses of the veins being northeasterly and southwesterly. As in all new camps, but little has been done as yet in the way of developing. The "Last Chance" mine has a remarkably well defined ledge, bearing the richest ores in the district, upon which a shaft of 80 feet in depth has been sunk. Broder & Co. have run a 300 foot tunnel to tap this mine, but have not reached the ledge yet. The "Mountain View" mine has a shaft 35 feet deep, with well defined walls and a good prospect. The "Lead Lode" has about 1,000 tons of good ore on the dump; the shaft is about 100 feet in depth and a drift has been run proving a body of ore 20 feet wide. The ledge pinches nearly out in the shaft in one place, but is coming in again and improving as it goes down. Dr. Marrotte examined this mine carefully, and states that the ore taken out of the bottom of the shaft is similar to that at the surface, and of better quality. The assayer of the company, Mr. C. W. Ober, a reliable gentleman, says that the average assay of this ore is $60 per ton. New discoveries are being made frequently, and there are not less than fifty ledges recorded in the district. The country rock is granite, limestone and slate. Wood and water and fire proof material are abundant, and there is no doubt that when these mines are developed sufficiently to justify their owners in putting on more laboring force, Pine Mountain will be a flourishing camp.—[Borax Miner.

Our Railroad and its Projector.

The following, which will be read with a special interest by the people of Inyo, is a report of Senator Jones' reply to inquiries concerning the progress of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad:

"Well, I think I am able to say that I have secured outside capital to cover my 'blind,' to use a phrase familiar to betting men. I have already been to a considerable outlay on the road, and we have made fair progress. There is one thing about it, everything that has been done and all the material which has been bought has been paid for. I purchased in New York iron and some eighty cars, with locomotives, etc, for cash. The line between Los Angeles and Santa Monica has been pushed forward, and satisfactory advances have been made on the tunnel at the Cajon Pass. In fact, by the time that tunnel is finished we shall have completed the work between Los Angeles and the Cajon. I am crawling forward to the work of building the road, and I pay as I go. I don't want any accruing interest on outlays for portions of the road which cannot be used until the tunnel is completed. I have been careful not to call upon your people for subscriptions until it is seen by them beyond the possibility of a doubt that the road is a living reality, and will certainly be built. In not doing so I have been influenced by the reasons I have mentioned. I go no farther and no faster with the road than my means will warrant. I do not pretend to be able to build a railway out of my private purse, at once. That would require too heavy a tax for a man who has so many irons in the fire as I have. Besides my expenditures for the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad, I have been putting up ice-machines all over the United States. I have been to considerable outlays at Panamint, and I have expended upwards of half a million dollars on my Kernville mine. I could very readily borrow the money to complete the road at once, but that is not my way of doing business. I have no doubt but that Stanford and his friends would be glad to advance me the means themselves, in the hope that I might be led into deep water, and by calling for everything at once, they might get the road. I commit no mistakes of that kind. There is another thing I propose to exemplify in the building of the Los Angeles and Independence Railway, and that is that a subsidy is an injury to a railway. It encourages habits of wastefulness, and stockholders and the public both suffer. There will not be a dollar of outlay on the building of this road except what goes into the cost of construction and equipment. The rights of the smallest stockholder will be fully protected as long as I stay in the road, and I don't propose to be out of it during my life time. I believe that the mines of Inyo county will, when fairly under way, yield 1,000 tons of rock daily, which will average $100 a ton. Taking the Panamint, Wild Rose, Lee, Wancoba, Cerro Gordo and other districts into the count it is difficult to exaggerate the treasure production of that section. In the development of all noted mines on the Pacific Coast very rich surface rock has been found and then a barren zone was encountered. This has been the case in the celebrated California mines and in the Comstock, and it has also been that way in Panamint. These ores near the surface have been specially rich because the action of the elements during ages have eliminated from them the iron and sulphur and other admixtures. We have gone down to a depth of three hundred feet in Panamint and have found rich and reliable veins. The outlook for Panamint could not be better. The large quantities of argentiferous galena ores in Inyo county will necessitate some day the establishment of a great smelting center somewhere on the line of the Los Angeles and Independence Railway. Where that center will be is very difficult to say. Wherever fuel and water can be brought together the cheapest. I believe that coal will be found in sufficient quantities in Los Angeles county. Should this prove not to be the case, however, the extension of the Los Angeles and Independence Railway to a junction with the thirty-fifth parallel road, or with the Southern Utah, would make the coal mines about St. George, Utah, available, and somewhere in the neighborhood of the Point of Rocks would be the point, in all likelihood.

Great attention is being directed in the East to the advantages of a railway connection with Los Angeles. I have done much to familiarize the capitalists and public men East with the claims of Los Angeles and Southern California. I believe that ultimately the Los Angeles and Independence Railway will be pushed forward to a junction with the Thirty-fifth Parallel road. That road, in my opinion, combines advantages that neither the Central nor Texas Pacific roads have. It is below the snow belt, will travel through a rich mineral and otherwise valuable country, and lateral feeders will spring up at many points north and south. In my opinion if this road is completed Los Angeles will receive more than half of the trans-continental travel. With regard to Santa Monica, I do not pretend to be a philanthropist, but I am going in to help your people establish the fact that all your lands are good farming lands, and I am going to do it and keep on doing it. I am not like Stanford, who has been made by the country and then says he made it. I am going to take a hand in the work of bringing your county into prominence. On the San [illegible] ranch I intend to plant forests of eucalyptus and other trees, valuable even as trees, to [illegible] of their aid in beautifying the country. I [illegible] ing on a large [illegible] the work of [illegible] sink a deep [illegible] Monica. [illegible] ing and [illegible] needed [illegible] of Los [illegible] gation, [illegible] the continent. I shall have the plowing done [illegible] with of twelve or fifteen [illegible] I shall have my agent [illegible] that it is done right. Some thousands of acres treated in this way, and resulting, as I have no doubt, in a fine crop, will leave the drones and croakers no refuge but to go and do likewise."

Write Plainly.

There are a certain set of scribes—not experienced ones—who seem to be impressed with the idea that illegible manuscript is an index of genius. Printers know a great deal better, and to their cost, too, that crooked, blotched chirography is a sore trial to temper and eyesight alike; and to make matters worse, to heap up tribulations on misery's head, as it were, the callous authors are indignantly sensitive on the subject of typographical errors. A printers mistake is to them the unpardonable sin; they would, if they could, have the offending compositor severely punished. Losing sight, in their anger, of the more important fact that their copy was a sort of Chinese puzzle, a conundrum replete with errors too, and because the men of types did not correct them all, the careless writer assumes the role of a much injured innocent. Now is this quite fair? And as so much has been written concerning the blunders of the "intelligent compositor," might not something be said not exactly flattering, but quite true, in reference to the careless, and maybe, at times, not intelligent writer?

The Wrong Customer.

How the pure, unconcentrated cussedness of a man's nature will show out when intoxicated is illustrated in the following, which we find in The Gold Hill News:

"The natural meanness with which some people are filled, finds vent when they get drunk, and many times a cowardly cur gets full of liquor, that he may have artificial courage to do some contemptible act which he would lack the face to commit, unless cloaked from the searching eye of the world under the all-comprehensive excuse of drunkenness. Most intelligent people, however, know that no man, the very essence of whose nature is not that of a blackguard, will be guilty of a mean act when drunk, any more than when sober. One of this class of customers undertook to bark the wrong tree in Virginia, and soon found to his cost, that he had more on his hands than he bargained for. He was coming up G from Carson street, about noon, and just before he got to Sutton avenue entered a Chinese doctor's office, in which he very unceremoniously began to turn things upside down, of course never for an instant dreaming that a Chinaman would have the courage to punch his head. He was very signally mistaken, for the way that Celestail bundled him into the street and began building a Mansard on him, was truly beautiful. Unfortunately Charley White came along and arrested both parties for fighting, before the miscreant had received half the punishment he deserved."

Bad Water.

The editor of The Reveille has heard several complaints in regard to the quality of the water supplied by the pipes of the Austin Water Company. Never having tasted the aforesaid, of course his censure is based entirely upon hearsay.—[Eureka, Nev., Sentinel.

—A lady in Halifax, having occasion to enter a milliner's shop, had her attention attracted by a beautiful and and very expensive French bonnet, and inquired the price. She was told it was sold. "Oh, I had no idea of buying such an expensive bonnet," said the lady; upon which the milliner said: "It is a joint stock bonnet—that is, it belongs to three factory girls, who wear it by turns on Sunday.

—An absent minded professor, in going out of the gateway of his college, ran against a cow. In the confusion of the moment he raised his hat and exclaimed: "I beg your pardon, madam." Soon after he stumbled against a lady in the street. In a sudden recollection of his former mishap, he called out, with a look of rage in his countenance: "Is that you again you brute?"

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Horse Thieves on the Rampage.

Horse thieves of the county must have become suddenly possessed with a desire to leave the country, and found it convenient to provide transportation suited to their own depraved natures, that of stealing a horse, riding him down, leaving him to his fate and exchanging for a fresh one. Captain Eudey of the Eclipse mine, lost two fine American horses Sunday night. Two young men who had been camping on the river trying to recruit their jaded nags, were discovered by one of the Eclipse employee's in the pasture trying to make a choice of the best horses. They succeeded in getting two and made off after firing several shots as a parting salute. There were about eight men at the Eclipse, but from lack of means or presence of mind, did not attempt to follow them, instead, a man was sent for the sheriff, thus giving the scoundrels about eight hours the start.

RAID ON AN EMIGRANT.

Monday night, an emigrant from Montana lost three horses, all he had, while camping on D. B Curtis' ranch near Black Rocks, evidently they were stolen by the same Eclipse party, whose trail has been discovered leading over the mountains, by Mr. Upton, at a later date, near the old Crysopolis mill. The poor emigrant is left with his wagons without any means of getting on.

TWO MORE STOLEN AT GEORGES CREEK.

We learn that two more horses were taken from Uncle Dave Thomas' ranch on Georges creek, Tuesday night, but the direction that was taken, and whether the trail was discovered we could not ascertain.

LATER.

From reliable information received to day we learn that three men were tied down, at the time the horses were taken from the Eclipse They were sheepmen and had been herding their sheep along the west side of the river They were surprised and their camp invaded about 11 o'clock that night. The robbers after securely tying them proceeded to carry off all the rifles, pistols and money they could find The amount of money we are unable to state. The ferry boat and a small row boat, used at the Eclipse were cut loose and sent adrift. The direction taken by the robbers was, as given above, over the mountains east of Crysopolis and toward the old road leading to Salt Lake. The leaders of this little gang of Chavis imitators seems to be an American and a Spaniard, both young men. The number of their followers are supposed to be four, and there is considerable speculation as to their identity with the bandits whose operations are so well known to the southward.

An Indian Doctor Cut and Shot.

Monday night an Indian came rushing into the Court House after the Sheriff saying that one of their number had been killed by a Lone Pine Indian and wanted the Sheriff's services. A party of white men went down to the rancheree where they found the unfortunate doctor laying on his back with a frightful knife cut in the center of his breast ranging to the right side. The knife must have been a long one as it entered the right lung, and to make sure was twisted around several times making a frightful wound inside In his back he had received a pistol ball. The Indians had formed a circle around him and were chanting a death song. He was removed to better quarters, received medical treatment and may recover yet. The cause of the assault is the old tradition, that when an Indian doctor looses his third patient, the nearest relative of the latter goes for him, and his Indian goose is cooked in short order.

Our Fishers of Men.

P. W. Bennett, Esq., arrived from the "fishing grounds," over the mountains opposite Lone Pine, Wednesday night. He reports the party in fine spirits and enjoying themselves hugely The ladies are comfortably quartered--the fish bite without provocation--flies centipedes, horned-toads, tarantulas, candidates, rattlesnakes, macropedal politicians and lizards, are unknown. If this isn't the favored spot of this mundane sphere then where? oh where? is the haven frest? Old bachelors are excused from answering this question.

Selling Liquor to Indians.

Jacob Dence, the affable, smiling Jacob of the Sage Brush Saloon notoriety, on George's Creek, was arrested this week for selling whisky to Indians. He was brought before Justice Schalten, and for the first time, we believe, in the annals of the history of Inyo, it was postively proven that a red man said unto a white man, "me likeum drink!" white man said unto red man, "I'll see you d--d first;" red man said unto white man, "me heap catch um four-bits;" then the white man said, "Jim, you heap savy, pretty good medicine." Jake was fined $75 which he paid--bought himself a little pistol and went home rejoicing.

Gone Home.

Mr. Jas. E Parker, well known to most of us, who was to editorially manage THE INDEPENDENT during our Seniors absence, was by Tuesday's mail called home to Virginia on an urgent message from his family. We don't envy him his long and dusty ride, but he has travelled it often and knows what it is. Many acquaintances and friends will join us in our best wishes for his success, and trust that he will decide to return and remain with us.

Darwin.

Reports from Darwin are very encouraging, and we anticipate interesting developments in the Coso districts, and that, not very far in the future. Considerable lumber is still being shipped from this direction, and there will necessarily be quite a demand for produce of all sorts this season. It is useless to predict what is destined for the future of Darwin. Where there is mineral, capital is but a question of time. Two important sales were made recently. The transfer of 1,050 feet of the Invincible for the consideration of $5,000; the Bella Union and 1,250 feet of the Raleigh for $15,000 gold coin. George W. Grayson was the purchaser. The Invincible is situated about 1,000 feet from the famous Chrisimas Gift, the Bella Union 2,600 feet from Lucky Jim, and the Raleigh about 4,000 feet north of the Grand.

Found.

Wednesday morning after the dance at the Head Quarters, we were shown a full set of teeth--made to order of course--that had been lost in the street. They were in splendid order, the molars well sharpened, and the corn crackers in good condition. Tom, the lucky finder, says he can't possibly make any use of them since he always takes his slap-jacks rare, and his regular matutinal cocktail requires but little or no mastication. Tom is guilty of many naughty things, and his chief delight now is to watch everybody in the dining room, and then it is curious to see what an interest he takes in the smiles of his lady friends. Naughty, naughty Tom, send the ivory to us and we will advertise the roof, teeth and all, gratis.

Bucked Off.

This is too much of an every day occurrence to deserve notice, but when the cavalier boards the requisite quantity of valley tan to balance him, then spurs his poor beast into a state of frenzy, at the same time tugging away at the reins, and then charging up and down the streets, he generally excites a great deal of admiration, and the remarks that are invariably dropped is to the effect that it would be matter of supreme satisfaction to all beholders were he to get bucked off and break his d--d neck.

Perished from Exhaustion.

A letter from Darwin this morning, verifies the truth of a rumor on the streets; that of the painful death from exhaustion of two men in Panamint Valley. The note reads as follows: "Albert Quigley, of Irish birth, aged 19 years, perished from exhaustion and want of water in Panamint Valley, July 18. Oscar Muller, native of Denmark, was found dead about one-half mile from Camp Lookout, July. 4. His appearance indicate that he also, died from exhaustion and thirst."

Military.

Company "I," First Cavalry, U. S. A, have been relieved from their command at Camp Halleck, Arizona, and it is a matter of conjecture whether they will receive orders to relieve Captain Macgowan's company at Camp Independence, or take up their line of march to some other clime.

Pertaining to Land Matters.

Hon. T. D. Edwards of Garson was in town this week. He is employed in the interests of the Southern Pacific Railroad concerning certain lands in Tehachape, occupied by early settlers and now claimed by the railroad We shall wait for the Land Office decision before going into details.

Some Law.

Our heavy reporter exhausted himself physically, mentally and morally, last week, in the manipulation of Webster and the California Codes. This week we have exhausted some elegant language in packing the volumes back among the cobwebs.

Ballot Paper.

We are prepared to furnish all parties with election tickets according to law and copy Send in your orders early, and we will grind them out with neatness and dispatch, and warrant them to pass, that is, one to each elector.

Pine Mountain.

By an unfortunate breaking of the saw of the mill getting out the timbers, etc., operations on the Broder Pine Mountain furnace will be necessarily delayed for a time, until the arrival of some new machinery from San Francisco.

Dance.

A jolly little party, who delight in tipping the light fantastic toe, assembled at the Head Quarters building Tuesday night. But as usual, attention to business prevented our joining within the charmed circle.

Painful Accident.

Rev A. Clark's little girl had her collar bone badly broken last Sunday, on Bishop Creek She was riding in a wagon when the horses suddenly started throwing the child out backwards.

Serious.

A. G. Cook, mentioned last week as having lost his hand from the explosion of a shot gun, has had two pieces of bone removed from his arm, and may possibly have to submit to another amputation.

Acknowledgement.

Our mutual friend, J. B. Swearengen deposited in our sanctum, this morning, a nice lot of green corn. Pete is a "brick," and we wish the world abounded in good many more just like him.

Improved.

H. Levy has made some important changes in the French Restaurant. His new ad will appear next week.

Preaching.

There will be preaching at the Court House to-morrow night at 7:30, by Rev. A. Clark, of Bishop Creek.

An Old Topic.

The "spell" of warm weather has not been a swinger this week, but the thermometer indicated from 98 to 100 and most everybody indicated a desire to buy two bits worth of something.

Birthday Party.

Miss Kate Wallace gave a birthday party Saturday night. It was largely attended by her juvenile friends. Music, dancing and singing was kept up till a late hour.

Earthquake.

Quite a severe shock of an earthquake was experienced at 4:30 A. M. Wednesday, on Bishop Creek. No damage of any consequence.

From Cerro Gordo.

Mr. Craig, Superintendent of the Cerro Gordo Water Company was in town this week.

Ashim.

Ashim having arranged everything in regard to his bail, has left for his home accompanied by his mother.

Deserted.

Two soldiers belonging to Company "I," First Cavalry, deserted last Tuesday.

Chinese Agriculture.

Notwithstanding we are accustomed to look upon the natives of the Celestial Empire with a certain degree of superciliousness, as an inferior race, there are many things in which they are not only our equals but our superiors. Among these may be mentioned agriculture, which is the principal occupation of the great mass of the people. Next to letters, agriculture is considered in China as the noblest occupation of man, and in order to remind the people that it is the basis and foundation of society, the Emperor himself and the Viceroys of the provinces once a year perform the ceremony of plowing a few furrows and sowing some one of the cereal grains The people are thus made to understand that the poorest farmer is entitled to respect, since his pursuit is ennobled by the participation in it of the most exalted of the human potentates know to him, and recognized as one of the most necessary and exhalted employments. It is true that modern labor saving machinery, and the chemistry of agriculture are entirely unknown to the Chinaman, but it is equally true that no nation on the earth practices agriculture more thoroughly or successfully than the Chinese. Their implements are very rude, but their practical skill and industry are without a parallel in any part of the world. We have seen some evidence of this in the Chinese market gardens of this State, and it is quite certain, soil and capital being equal, that no European or American can excel them in the perfect cultivation of land for any purpose. They are able to raise greater crops from a given area than any other people under the sun Their system of irrigation is well-nigh perfect, and far in advance of anything attempted by western nations, and their knowledge of the value and usefulness of manure is manifested in their extreme care in collecting it from every possible source in a country where very few domestic animals are used. Very few meat cattle or horses are to be found in China, as the inhabitants make little use of beef, milk, butter or cheese, and either carry burdens upon bamboo poles or transport them by water upon their innumerable canals. Hence they are forced to gather manures from other sources They make use of all focal matter, muck, ashes, plaster, offal, hair (even the barbers gathering and saving the results of their tonsorial operations and selling them to the farmers), and whatever else experience has taught them has power to invigorate the soil. The density of the population is so great that they cannot afford to let their fields lie fallow, and, as they understand little about the rotation of crops, they are compelled to maintain the productiveness of the soil by constant manuring and irrigation. In the fertile country between the Yellow and Yang tse rivers, and south of the latter, two crops per year are raised from the same field. Neither fences nor hedges are used, and travelers remark that the cultivated plain appears like a vast garden, in which the plats appear to be mere beds.

With all our vaunted knowledge and our best improved agricultural machinery, they are probably as far in advance of the skilled cultivators of Europe as the latter are ahead of the ranchmen of the Pacific coast. Since then, the Chinese are among us, let us make the best of their presence, and condescend to be taught a thoroughness of culture which has been growing up in Asia through scores of centuries—and which according to their accounts, has been practiced for 23,000 years.

Inyo Independent.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

Saturday, July 24,.....1875.

Letter from Round Valley.

[CORRESPONDENCE OF THE INYO INDEPENDENT.]

ROUND VALLEY, July 10.

MR. EDITOR: Being that the "glorious Fourth" and Fifth have pleasantly passed, we all feel once more, bright and sober, earnestly attending to biz. The folks of this valley, as well as strangers, appeared to enjoy themselves exceedingly well on the Fifth. Many genial faces gladly met. Old pioneers and ancient taboose eaters, also scores of more recent settlers of Owen's Valley, shook hands heartily—none of your cold, mincing, formality—but brawny hands grasped and clinched with a vengeance! What a jovial, generous crowd of men, women and children! The scores of healthy, beautiful, gayly dressed children, prattling in harmony with the purling streams, and joyously prancing through the grove, were indeed objects of interest. Bless your little souls! earthlife (even to bachelors) wouldn't be worth a cent were it not for your bright presence and mischevious pranks.

Nearly 12 years ago, three or four of us camped within a hundred yards of Goodridge's Grove. One evening a band of almost naked, hostile redskins, encircled us, threatening vengeance, because quite a number of their tribe had just been killed by the whites near Owens Lake. The Indians having previously murdered a lady at Haiwai Meadows and had committed other depredations. However, we escaped unscalped. On July the 5th, 1875, what a contrast! Near the same spot, we cheerfully mingled with hundreds of kind, intelligent friends—the dusky Lo family occupying back seats! Presto, change!

Quite a noble delegation from Independence put in an appearance on the Fifth. We highly appreciated the fine oratorial and musical talent which our county seat furnished. May we live to see and hear you oftener.

That foul lemonade business has not yet been investigated; many believing that even patriotic Good Templars will indulge in stronger beverage than lemonade on the nations natal day—that a "belly wash wid a shtick in it" is a decided improvement—brightens up the intellect, etc. But whether something stiffer than our regular tarantula juice was dispensed to the boys will yet be ascertained.

A deficiency of light was complained of during the evening. However, friend Goodridge threatens to greatly improve things in and around the grove before such another crowd meets. Among other things he calculates to build a good substantial hall, brilliantly illuminating the same with gaslight, spiritual light, and various other lights, besides moonlight in bottles, but he protests against lightning-struck lemonade.

POLITICS

don't run high in this quarter; very few take active parts. There are quite a number of voters here, but only four or five may be seen attending primaries. Very little we care who gets his finger in the pie, providing we can successfully grow pumpkin! Our heads run entirely on corn and squash. You may ask one of us, "What do you think, Mr. Ryegrass of our county affairs, nominations," etc, and he may inadvertently answer, "Yes, you bet, corn will be corn yet!" Good, honest men should of course earnestly engage in politics in order to purify the atmosphere. Still it is hard tugging for unsophisticated farmers to cope with shrewd, unscrupulous politicians in County Conventions. However, some of the nominations lately made, appear to wake up our Rip Van Winkles; they will buckle on their armor and do some "bucking" in the political arena! We know of no exception to the general impression that Mr. C. H. Parson, if elected, will make an efficient Supervisor, he being a good manager and shrewd financier.

THE CROPS

of small grain will undoubtedly be good this season. Corn is not yet sufficiently advanced to praise it much, still this warm weather makes it "hump" itself. Grass is abundant and haying has already commenced; in fact, everything looks lovely and promising for bountiful crops.

JINKS.

The Indian Witch.

We learn that Luna, the Witch Indian Princess of the Cane-Brake region in the eastern part of this county, recently practiced her tricks upon Captain Crispine, one of the bravest and worst warriors of the now nearly extinct Digger tribe. He did not believe in the maiden's black art. He took down his shot-gun—she fled to the wigwam of the pale-face—he pursued—she reached Ned Brandt's house and rushed in—Ned stepped to the door to see who or what pursued—he soon found himself looking down into the captain's gun—he got into his room and got his gun—crawled out of the window—flanked the captain—a report of fire-arms—smoke clears away—captain literally blown to pieces—Princess saved—a funeral—peace—the end.—[Bakersfield Californian.

—Tell us, ye winged winds that on the prairies hum, is there any spot on earth where scandal reports don't come? No island in the sea, no valley in the West, where from this jamboree it is possible to procure a rest? Where Tilton is unknown, and where they never heard of Beach, where Moulton is—what's that? Speak louder—"Out of reach!"

—An Iowa court has decided that it is not legal for a farmer to hitch his wife up with a mule, no matter how anxious he is to plow.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's

CALIFORNIA VINEGAR

BITTERS!

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essential. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with the BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory or Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

The Platform.

The Democratic party of California in State Convention assembled, in compliance with usage, do assert the following principles, as the basis of their political action, and pledge the candidates about to be nominated to their hearty support.

We declare:

First—That we are opposed to the unconstitutional interference of the Federal Administration in the domestic affairs of the States, by which one portion of the Union is ground with taxation to keep another portion of the Union in bankruptcy and servitude.

Second—We condemn the Republican party, not only for its contempt of constitutional obligations, but for its extravagant, partisan and corrupt administration of the Federal Government; for the perversion of the functions of the latter to enrich great corporations at the expense of the public; for the jobbery and frauds which have brought reproach upon Democratic institutions; for the Sanborn and Jayne frauds; for the infamous Washington ring; for the back-pay steal; the iniquities of the protective system; the curse of inconvertible paper money; the nepotism of the President; for its disgraceful diplomatic service and unfit appointments; for its attempt to pass an unconstitutional force bill, which was fortunately frustrated by the determined front of the Democratic minority in both Houses of Congress; and for a catalogue of other enormities which have rendered that organization offensive even to the mass of those who were once its supporters.

Third—That now as in past periods we are in favor of a strict construction of the Constitution, and against the exercise of doubtful powers; in favor of limiting the powers of legislative bodies; in favor of a tariff for revenue only, and a currency convertible into gold and silver at the will of the holder; against the profligate and wasteful system of local improvements by the Federal Government, and in favor of reducing the expenditures of the State governments, and of the counties and towns, and the salaries of officials, which have been largely increased since the State election of 1871.

Fourth—That the School system and fund of this State are under guarantee of the Constitution inviolable, and we are opposed to any diversion of the fund to any purpose except those ordained by the Constitution.

Fifth—We assert the traditional policy of the party, in declaring it is the right and duty of the Legislature to regulate corporations, whether railway, telegraph, water or otherwise; to limit their charges in the interests of the public, and to compel them to serve all citizens, without discrimination, at reasonable rates; and that when they refuse to do so, we recognize the right and declare the intention of making them do so; and we further assert it to be the duty of the Government to preserve the waters of the State for irrigation and other public uses, instead of permitting them to be made the means of extortion and monopoly.

Sixth—That the Democratic party has no occasion to make any new departure or declaration of opposition to the system of subsidies, when we recall the fact that it is to a Democratic State Administration that this State owes its deliverance from this oppressive, unjust and corrupt system.

Seventh—That we are in favor of calling a convention of delegates elected by the people to amend the Constitution of the State, as the only mode of creating a system of government at once harmonious and efficient, and are therefore opposed to the amendments to the constitution, which are to be submitted to a vote of the people at the ensuing election.

Eighth—That the time-honored Democratic doctrine of local self government is sufficient when properly administered to afford an effective remedy for the evils now caused by Chinese labor and the presence among us of an inferior race, detrimental to our moral and physical health; that in the interests of all classes in California, especially that of the white working people, we demand such amendment to the Burlingame treaty as shall reduce it to a mere commercial convention.

Ninth—That we condemn the doctrine whereby the power of the State to prevent the importation to our shores of degraded persons for immoral purposes has been denied.

Tenth—That we favor the speedy completion of a transcontinental railway on the Thirty-second parallel, subject to such limitations by the Federal and State Governments as shall protect the rights of the people.

Eleventh—That we are in favor of equal taxation, and any departure from this principle or any system of taxation which imposes a double tax upon the same object is in violation of the spirit of the Constitution and unjust to the best interests of the State.

Twelfth—That all legislation intended to regulate the social habits and customs of the people, so long as these habits and customs do not interfere with the welfare of society at large, and all legislation of the character known by the general name of Prohibitory Law is opposed to the principles of the Democratic party, and is calculated to promote a pretense of social morality, rather than a well founded system of public order and decency.

Thirteenth—That we invite the hearty co-operation of all persons, whatever may have been their past political affinities, to unite with us in carrying out the principles herein enunciated.

Fourteenth—That we condemn, as subversive of the rights of the people and ruinous to the best interests of the State, the policy of permitting the lands of the State, to become a monopoly in the hands of the few at the expense of the many, and we hereby pledge the Democratic party to the correction of this great evil.

A Notable Negro.

[From The New York Mercury.]

The most notable memory possessed by any man in the United States, perhaps, is that of Alfred Dueling, an humble colored man employed as hat rack waiter at the Metropolitan Hotel in this city. Alfred is apparently about 35 years of age, and is bright and intelligent in appearance. He has the faculty of remembering faces, names, facts, etc., that is very wonderful indeed. If fifty men are in a room, and all are strangers to him, he can walk around and inquire the name of each, and then go round again and call every man by his proper name. Read a page of a book to this remarkable person, and he will repeat the whole afterward from memory. He can keep the accounts of the steward of the hotel in his head a week or a month at a time, with items, expenditures, etc., correctly, thus constituting himself a mental daybrook and ledger.

The most curious illustration of of Alfred's powers is not in his remembering hats. It is his particular business at the hotel to stand in the ante-room leading to the dining hall to receive the hats of the guests as they pass in. Alfred takes the hats and places them on a rack, and when each guest comes out of the dining room that particular guest is handed his hat. It has been said that this colored man can remember four hundred hats, and the face of the person to whom they belonged, as he he did on one occasion when there was a large and fashionable ball at the Academy of Music. He told The Mercury reporter, however, that four hundred was too high a figure, and an exaggeration circulated by some of his sanguine and enthusiastic friends, "but," said he, "I can remember three hundred without any difficulty at all. I have handled, during the past fourteen years that I have been in the business, the hats of the most distinguished men in the land.

"There's poor old Uncle Horace Greeley—bless his heart! I've put up his famous white hat, and his black hats too, on the rack scores of times." His head was a twenty-four incher, and was as wide in front as it was at the back. In this respect Uncle Horace was different from most persons. Nineteen men out of twenty have hats the inside of which fitting their heads resemble a pear, the forehead being narrow and the back wide. The founder of The Tribune seldom took his hat from Alfred without bestowing a quarter or a half dollar for the taking care of the tile. He was very liberal in this respect. Alfred always watched Horace to see that the latter did not in a fit of absent-mindedness put his hat on hind side before.

One time the great editor had his hat full of scraps cut out from newspapers, and when he took it off his head, the scraps flew all over the floor, and some of them blew out an open window. Somewhat angry at the occurrence, Mr. Greeley exclaimed: "There now! See, there they go—all the material for tomorrow's editorial!" Several waiters who were standing near hastily gathered up all the fluttering pieces of papers that could be found and returned them to the editor. The famous journalist looked them over and said: "Well, all that I care about are here, except one about Chinese Coolie Labor. I'll give any one five dollars who will find that for me." The prospect of gaining this reward induced the waiters and bell-boys to make a vigorous search, which was prosecuted for some time in vain, and Horace departed. Three or four hours afterward, when it was 11 or 12 o'clock at night, a bell boy, who had been more persevering than the others in his search, found the missing article on Chinese Coolie Labor hat buried in the mud in the area of the hotel. The little fellow rushed breathlessly to The Tribune office, and up to the room in the second story, where Mr. Greeley was busy writing. "There's your newspaper scrap," exclaimed the little fellow, handing the mud-be-daubed slip to the editor. Mr. Greeley took the slip, smiled benignly on the boy, and gave him a five dollar note. The next morning the article appeared in The Tribune.

The most dilapidated hat ever placed on the rack leading to the Metropitan dining room was the tile of Long John Wentworth of Chicago. The identical hat was worn by the noted Illinois politician ten years, and then was taken to the hatters's and furnished with a new band and lining, and is probably still doing good service. On one occasion Long John, who stands six feet eight in his stocking feet, came to the dining-room door and asked the waiter to remove his hat for him. "But I can't reach your hat," said the waiter. Mr. Wentworth replied: "Get a chair and stand on it, and then you can." The waiter did as requested, and, removing the tile from the head of the tallest man in Chicago, deposited it on the rack. Long John ate his dinner, and when he had finished, one of the bell-boys got upon a chair and replaced the tile. The smallest man who ever gave his hat into Alfred's keeping was "Little Mac," the minstrel.

Charles Sumner once dined at the Metropolitan, and left the dining room, forgetting to have his hat returned to him. The waiter had to follow the absent-minded Senator clear out into the street in order to give him his hat. Sumner received the hat, thanked the waiter, and added: "I declare, I forgot all about my hat."

Artesian Wells.

There are three conditions essential to the successful boring of an artesian well: 1, a fountain head more elevated than the locality where the boring is to be undertaken; 2, a moderate downward dip of the strata, toward the site of the well, as a steep angle is unfavorable and permits the water to flow away beyond the reach of the boring, which must need pass at an acute angle through few layers of rock; 3, alternation of porous and impervious strata beneath the surface soil. It is sometimes the case that the head of water is at so high an elevation that the column burst forth from the ground as a fountain, throwing up a continual jet. By raising the water above the surface in a pipe, and letting it flow over, convenient water power is obtained. Artesian wells are applied to this purpose at many localities in France, the water they supply being found sufficient to run heavy machinery. From the great depth at which the currents of water are reached, the supplies may be regarded as permanent. A well at Aire, in Artois (from which name the word "artesian" is derived), France, has flowed steadily for a century, the water rising above the surface at the rate of 200 gallons a minute; and at Lihers in the same country, one well has given a constant yield since the year 1126.

Seven years and two months were devoted to the boring of the well at Grenelle, a suburb of Paris, the rock being extremely difficult to pierce. The water bearing stratum was reached at at a depth of 1,802 feet, when the water was discharged at the rate of upwards of 880,000 gallons in 24 hours. The force is such that the water ascends to a hight of 120 feet above the surface, in the pipes in the elegant structure which has been erected over the bore. The present yield of the well is about 506,000 gallons per 24 hours. The water is at a uniform temperature of 82° Fah., and is used to warm some large hospitals in the vicinity. During the boring, and when at a depth of 1,254 feet, it is related that a drill broke and fell with 270 feet of rods, to the bottom, necessitating fifteen months of constant labor to remove it.

In the United States the deepest artesian well is that bored for the insane asylum in St. Louis Mo. This has reached the enormous depth of 3,843 feet, or, in that locality, 3,000 below the sea level. This would give a water pressure at the bottom of 1,293 lbs. to the square inch. The deepest bore in the world is one, begun as a rock salt mine and yet uncompleted, at the village of Sperenburg, some twenty miles from Berlin. Its present depth is 4,194 feet. In the Desert of Sahara some seventy-five shafts have been sunk, which yield a aggregate of 600,000 gallons per hour. The effect of this supply is said to be plainly apparent upon the once barren soil of the desert. Two new villages have been built, and 150,000 palm trees have been planted in more than 1,000 new gardens.

Numerous artesian wells are being sunk along the line of the Union Pacific Railroad, in order to obtain water for the locomotives and for the workmen laboring in the coal mines along the route. The first well is at Separation, 724 miles from Omaha, and the last one at Rock Spring, 832 miles. It is believed that for agricultural purposes the mineral salts could be washed out of the water obtained from wells in the above vicinity, so that soil irrigated therewith would probably prove remarkably productive. A flowing well, furnishing 1,000 gallons per hour, will water a section of 640 acres. If bored 1,000 in depth, the cost would be about $10,000. Out on the plains this outlay would make a most productive farm, which might be made the nucleus of a stock range of thousands of acres, having besides an ample supply for human consumption.

—A bore—A man who persists in talking about himself when you wish to talk about your yourself.

—The fact that Mrs. Lincoln was adjudged insane, partly upon evidence that she bought very many things she did not need, has placed a weapon in the hands of married men of the country which they are prompt to use. A Brooklyn husband furnishes an illustration. He gave his wife a fair wardrobe in the Spring, and now if she even hints at a need of more, he gazes at her with a look of alarm in his face, and, putting on his hat, remarks: "I think I will step over to the doctor's a moment. Be quiet and calm, love, until I return."

Civilizing the Indians.

A correspondent of an Eastern journal suggests that all attempts to make the red man a farmer fail for the reason that pastoral life always precedes agriculture in civilization, and proposes that the experiment be made of making cattle-raisers out of the Indians. There may be something in this, but if experience is worth anything the noble red man would very soon be engaged in raiding upon the pasture grounds of his neighbor tribes, and endless strife would follow. The truth is that all attempts to civilize the Indian are doomed to failure, simply because there is no royal road to civilization. Evolution does not proceed in leaps, whatever Mr. Mivart may think, and it is as impossible to transform a tribe of nomads into a community of orderly citizens as it would be to make even an average Congressman out of a Chimpanzee. All attempts to condense the slow process of generations into the work of a few years or months must fail, because they are attempts to transcend natural laws. The Indians might certainly be changed, as some joke-loving-folks once proposed that the negro should be changed, namely, by miscegenation; but as a Government policy such a proposition would hardly be thought suitable, and, therefore, in all probability, the Indian will never be changed until he is educated off the face of the earth—which will not be a tedious process.

Reform Party.

The Nominating Convention of the Temperance Reform party are having a hard time of it. Colonel J. V. B. Goodrich, their candidate for Lieutenant Governor, has sent in his resignation. W. H. Baxter, for Secretary of State, did the same. Their private business and circumstances beyond their control, are the causes for resignation. Geo. W. Anthony also declines the honor, saying: "I have been a Republican ever since I was old enough to vote. Your party has honored me with a nomination for the office of Clerk of the Supreme Court, for that honor I feel grateful, but as most all now admit there is no chance for electing the ticket, and as I have no desire to take from any party any of its strength by continuing in the field, I, therefore, respectfully resign the nomination."

Trial of John D. Lee.

Lee's trial for the Mountain Meadows massacre began July 22. The Court Room was crowded. The defense skirmished on every point. The jury was impaneled at 2 o'clock P. M., with three Gentiles and nine Mormons, one of whom, D. T. Arthur, is a son-in-law of Haight, who gave the order to fire upon the emigrants, but has no opinion. Another juror is a step-son of Urie, who was engaged in the massacre, but knows nothing of it. The Mormons examined as jurors would swear they had lived from ten to eighteen years in the region of the massacre, yet never heard or talked of it, and had no opinion about it. This is the subject of much comment and bitter feeling.

New Patents.

Through dispatches to Dewey & Co., Patent Agents, San Francisco, we receive the following advance list of U. S. Patents granted to Pacific Coast inventors, viz: F. B. Alderson, San Jose, Cal., newspaper file; R. Bragg, San Francisco, gong attachment for engine houses; E. Hickman, Red Bluff, California, floor clamp; G. W. White, San Francisco, ore concentrator; A. Goodenough and T. S. Drennan, Portland, Oregon, reciprocating churn.

Mercury Falling.

The Reese River Reveille's thermometer fell the other day—from a peg. It is no doubt fractured, and if so we will loan them ours, which may be relied on although it hangs in the shade nights, and is often used as a composing stick by the devil, when laboring under a fit of abstraction.

Keeley Motor.

The papers are still full of the Keeley motor. It seems that the bigger the humbug the more it will be discussed. We would advise the mechanical idiot, Mr. Keeley, to let up on his keeled over motor and try perpetual motion for awhile.

Cars for the New Road.

Senator Jones, of Nevada, has purchased from the defunct New York Boston and Montreal Railway Company eighty new freight cars for his California railroad. They will be shipped immediately for Aspinwall.

MOUNTAIN MEADOWS MASSACRE.

The trial of John D. Lee, still goes on and the testimony thus far elicited by the prosecution implicates the heads of the Mormon Church. The evidence of Philip Klingensmith, who was himself a participant in the butchery, proves that the murderers acted under express orders, and that the extermination of the emigrants had been resolved upon from the moment they entered the Territory of Utah. It does not as yet appear possible that Klingensmith's testimony will be sufficient to convict Brigham Young of complicity, but the moral certainty is not the less strong against him. It is shown that the Mormons were under a rigid discipline, which combined the influences of superstition, terrorism and organization. As soldiers of the Nauvoo Legion they had learned to obey the word of command. As Mormons they were taught to receive the orders of the Prophets as divine inspirations. And as members of the Mormon community they had been made to understand that it was as much as a man's life was worth to refuse obedience to the authorities. Says Klingensmith in his cross examination: "I did not try to prevent any man from going to the massacre; had no power to do so; had I undertaken that it would have been bad for me. I was afraid of both the Church and the military authorities. If a man then did not walk up to orders it would not be well for him. I feared personal violence. I feared I would be killed." Yet this man was commander of the Nauvoo Legion for Southern Utah, and First Counselor to Brigham Young.

Whether it is possible to carry out the ordinary process of law in a community which thus sympathizes with murderers and woman-butchers, is extremely doubtful. The situation in Utah is in nearly all respects identical with the situation at the South during the prevalence of the Ku-Klux outrages, and it is to be feared that in this case, as in that, more rigorous methods will have to be adopted, for securing the vindication of the law. Meantime we would caution the fiery sympathizers with the massacre who are making these threats, against allowing their instincts to carry them too far. It is true that Beaver, is comparatively isolated, but since the railroad was built no spot in Utah is out of reach, and there are a great many people on this side of the mountains who would rather welcome an opportunity to avenge the slaughter of the emigrants in kind.

WOMEN AS SCHOOL OFFICERS.

The following clipped from exchanges is of considerable local interest and we heartily congratulate our Democratic friends in having selected, for County Superintendent of Schools, one who is so favorably known and complimented so highly abroad:

It is a note-worthy circumstance and one strongly indicative of a healthy impulse of the public mind, that two of the three political parties into which the State is just now divided, have given formal and forcible sanction to what was very recently regarded as an absurd and impracticable innovation upon time honored usage, by nominating women for the office of County Superintendent of Schools. The Independents of San Luis Obispo led off in the "new departure" by nominating Mrs. Carrie Stanton. The Democratic County Convention followed it by the nomination of Mrs Virginia F. Russell. Next came the Independent Convention of Butte county, before which Mrs. Woodman of Chico was a candidate against two gentlemen. After hearing an exceedingly forcible though very modest speech from Mrs. W., the convention nominated her on the first ballot by a majority of two votes. And now among the nominations made by the Democratic Convention of Inyo county, the name of Miss Ellen Eudey for County Superintendent of Schools. —[Stockton Leader.

The last named lady, Miss Ellen Eudey, is well known in Grass Valley, having been raised in this township. She is a graduate, we believe, of the Forest Spring school, which was so long and so well taught by B. J. Watson, Esq., at present editor of The Nevada Transcript. She is a talented, practical and most excellent young lady, and will fill the office to the complete satisfaction of the people of Inyo county. We know that she will be elected.—[G. V. Union.

We unite with The Union in its compliments of Miss Eudey, and believe Inyo county can find no one who will better serve the interests of the public schools. We also add that she attended Laurels Hall Seminary, at San Mateo for two years, and we believe was a graduate from that institution. She is in every way qualified for the responsible position, and we hope she will be honored with the office. — [Nevada Transcript.

The Right Spirit.

The following ladies have been nominated for County Superintendents of Public Schools: Miss Ellen Eudey in Inyo county; Mrs. Woodman in Butte; Miss Achaia Elkins in Marin; Mrs. Carrie Stanton in San Luis Obispo; Mrs. Virginia F. Russell in Santa Barbara; Mrs. D. Coleman in Shasta, and Mrs. Mary Sanborn in San Diego.

THE NEW MEXICAN COLONIZATION LAW.

The Mexican Congress on the 31st of May last, passed a remarkably wise and liberal colonization law. We think that its provisions should be known to the public, in order that all parties interested in it may be placed in a position to avail themselves of the advantages it offers. The law authorizes the Executive to enter into contract with individuals or companies for the introduction of emigrants into Mexico, and to pay such individuals or companies a stipulated amount for each family landed at any given point in the Republic, and a larger amount for each family settled within its territory. The President is further authorized to make advances equal to one-half of the bounty agreed upon to aid in carrying out the contracts. Lands will be sold to colonists at reasonable credit and upon easy terms of payment. Families will be furnished with one year's subsistence, and, the Government also engages to make pecuniary advances to enable settlers to purchase utensils for agricultural purposes and to construct their dwellings. The emigrants coming into Mexico under this law are to be exempted from military service, from national and department taxation, from the payment of Customs duties, from interior taxes on provisions, furniture, implements, tools, machinery, materials for house-building, etc.; and these exemptions are to be in force for a period of ten years. The sum of $250,000 has been appropriated by Congress to carry out the provisions of the Act for the current year.

We do not know of an instance where any Government has made so generous a bid for emigration as is embodied in this law. Its policy is an enlightened one, and its effect cannot fail to prove of vast benefit to Mexico, if its provisions shall be carried out in good faith.

A Curious State of Affairs.

A curious state of affairs obtains in most of the Western States in regard to the railroads and the crops. For several years we have been told that cheap transportation was the only thing needed by the Western farmers, and that the hateful railroads stood between them and Paradise. Well, cheap transportation has been obtained. The Railroad Gazette states that "during the month of June the farmer could have every bushel of his grain transported from Chicago to New York for about ten cents." But just when the last barrier between him and bliss seems to be removed, he discovers that it was not, after all, the transportation question that prevented him from growing rich. For the reason that he cannot avail himself of the unprecedently cheap transportation is that there does not happen to be a market for his grain, and even Granger logic knows better than to saddle the responsibility of this state of things upon the railroads. What now will have to be done? Shall we have a new movement for going to war with all nations that refuse to buy our grain when they do not want it, or would it not do to get up a scheme for compelling the country to take the surplus crops, and pay for them in 3 65 bonds. Evidently a new panacea is in order, and it will not do to keep the godlike farmer waiting too long for it.

Vicksburg Rows.

The Vicksburg rows are the most peculiar of any known in the United States, if we except some of the old fashioned New Orleans rows. They are always provoked by ferocious negroes, and they invariably result in a number of deaths and casualties among the colored fiends exclusively. It is singular that these negroes will persist in aggressions upon the weak and unoffending whites, when they invariably have to suffer so severely for their wickedness. The last Vicksburg row of which authentic details have been received occurred on the Fourth of July, and was provoked—for a wonder—not by a negro, but by a white radical. The white radical, we are told, "stood directly in front of one of the best citizens of the town," and when requested by the said best citizen to move "answered insolently," whereupon he was knocked down with a pistol butt, and "an old negro was shot." What he was shot for is not stated—probably upon general principles.

The Semi-Tropical Farmer.

This is the name of a new paper, started in Los Angeles. It is a neatly printed sheet ably edited and alive to the interests of the farmer. Although there are thirteen papers—we believe—published in Los Angeles, The Farmer's subscription list will no doubt rank among the highest.

—In one part of Norway the longest day is three months. What a splendid chance for a lazy man to start a daily paper.

FROM THE BLACK HILLS.

The rosy reports from the Blacks Hills region are received cum grano salis by the people of the Pacific Slope. The memories of Fraser River and countless other luckless excitements have cooled the ardor of prospectors so far as remote districts are concerned, and the mass of our people are too much taken up with home interests to be disturbed by any startling news from the Hills. As our contemporaries, particularly those of Nevada, have repeatedly remarked the mines of the Pacific Coast cannot be surpassed for richness and extent, and operators and miners know it. The developments at the Black Hills are of interest as news of the day and nothing more. The latest news, which comes via of Fort Laramie, is to the effect that Professor Jenny is now prospecting on Rapid and Spring Creeks, and has found gold in paying quantities, and plenty of water with sufficient fall in these creeks to use to advantage. Nuggets have been found worth over a dollar, and about six dollars worth of dust was sent in for G. H. Collins of Omaha who sends it to friends East. These are, by all odds, the richest diggings discovered yet. The estimated number of miners in the Black Hills at present is one thousand, and still they are arriving at the rate of twenty or thirty per day. It looks as if the Black Hills were to be occupied by the whites, at any rate, and General Sheridan will have hard work to dislodge them.

The Inter-Ocean's special correspondent in the Black Hills, under date of July 20th, telegraphs from Harney's Peak as follows:

Professor Jenny has discovered encouraging prospects along the Spring and Rapid Creeks, where he has been working with his corps the past two weeks. There is an abundance of water, probably from one to twelve inches, with a fine fall of from seventy five to eighty feet per mile. There is a number of flats where the average is from three to four and a half cents per pan from the grass roots to the bed rock. There are, it is estimated, on Spring and Rapid Creeks not less than 300 miners, and throughout the hills there are about 800, although some place the number at from 1,000 to 1,500. The gold in the diggings is of a coarser quality and in greater quantity than that discovered along the Branch Creek. Miners are coming in at the rate of twenty daily. Colonel Dodge left this morning with two cavalry companies for Professor Jenny's camp. The remainder of the command will occupy Camp Harney for several weeks, or until the Indian Commissioners arrive; it will then move north to Bear Butte, where the next permanent camp will be made.

A Scientific Curiosity.

The pressure of the water in Lake Tahoe at a great depth is enormous, being nearly one pound on the square inch for each two feet of descent. Ordinarily a tightly corked bottle is crushed inwards before reaching a depth of sixty feet. Out of mere curiosity we lowered an empty champagne bottle (N. B.—It was empty when we started from shore.) We had carefully driven the cork into the neck of the bottle as far as possible, and the larger portion still projecting above the rim or mouth. Letting it descend slowly, we watched intently for the air bubbles which should bring us word that the bottle had been crushed. At last the bubble came, but not in the form we expected. Instead of being large, as when a bottle is suddenly filled under water. They continued to rise in tiny sparkles until the bottle reached the bottom. Upon bringing it again to the surface we found the cork driven wholly into the neck, so that the upper part was fully half an inch below the top of the bottle. The bottle was completely filled with water, and was corked so tightly that not a drop could escape. We thus found ourselves in possession of a sealed corked bottle of condensed water from the bottom of Tahoe; a curiosity which deserves a place in some first class museum. — [Correspondent Record Union.

Dissolution of the Injunction.

There was the wildest rejoicing among the citizens of this place on Wednesday night, over the news of the dissolution by Judge Deering, of the Thirteenth Judicial District, of the injunction upon the construction of the county buildings, issued at the instance of the railroad company and its friends. Flags were run up, bonfires lighted at different points, and the echoes awakened up to a late hour in the night with anvil salutes and explosion of Giant powder. This is the most barefaced and persistent effort on the part of a corporation to override the expressed will of the people that has ever occurred. From the time the question of removal of the county seat from a barren and inaccessible mountain fastness to a fertile valley and a flourishing town in the centre of the county down to the issuance of an injunction restraining the contractors from building the Court House, the agents of the railroad company, with their co-conspirators, have striven by every species of intrigue and legal trickery to defeat the acts of the majority of the people in this regard, with the ultimate hope of carrying the county seat to some of the railroad stations along the line.—[Kern County Courier.

—"Oh, Charles!" she gasped as she rose with some difficulty from her fourth plate of strawberries and cream, "if I eat any more I think I will burst." And Charles fumbled abstractedly in his pocket and murmured: "That last plate just busted me."

Route of the L. A. & I. R. R.

There is some little dissatisfaction expressed by citizens who have taken stock in the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad, over the prospect that the road will not pass through this city. If we are correctly informed as to the intended line of survey, the road will just touch the southwest corner of the corporation limits. If this is correct, the distance from the center of the city to the road will be a little over two miles. This is a long ways to haul freight and will add materially to the cost of transportation. The San Pedro street railway company will soon have their road completed to the depot, which will to a great extent do away with the inconvenience to passengers, but for freighting purposes the track will be too far out of town to ensure cheap lumber or any other freight. It was generally understood that the road would pass through the city and up the Arroyo Seco. This would have made it a great convenience to the city; but the route now determined upon is not received with favor by our people. The indications are that the track will pass a short distance southwest of the race track, through the Laguna ranch, cross the San Gabriel river on the property of Mr. Temple and thence on through the Monte. The graders have, we are informed, already crossed the Los Angeles river on this route, and we presume there will be no change in the survey. So, after all, the Santa Monica railroad will not be much of a Los Angeles road. We hear it rumored that a town will be laid out on the Laguna ranch and also one at the crossing of the San Gabriel river.—[Los Angeles Herald, July 24.

Lake Tahoe.

The Reno Journal says: For beauty of natural scenery probably no lake in the world equals Lake Tahoe. Situated between the summit of the Sierra and California, at an altitude of over 6,200 feet above the level of the sea, over thirty miles in length, an average width of perhaps twelve miles, and a depth of over 1,600 feet, surrounded by mountains whose snow-capped peaks tower thousands of feet above its mirror-like surface. Lake Tahoe is to the lover of nature beautiful beyond description. Whether rowing lazily over its smooth waters, or peering into its clear depths below, or wrapt in admiration by the view of its surrounding scenery, it is alike and at all times a feast of beauty to the eye, and a source of inspiration to the mind. The season is now fairly open, and we understand some of our Reno folks propose making up a party of a dozen or so and stay at the lake a couple of weeks in the latter part of this month.

Started Up.

The Columbus mill fired up and blew her whistle at noon on Tuesday last, after an intermission of a little more than a year and a half. The engine was run for a few hours and then shut down for an overhauling. Thursday brought the smoke out of her stack again, and on yesterday two of the pans were started on the pulp remaining in the mill since the last operations there. The present working is for the purpose of clearing out the pulp and ore now in the mill, to make room for a thorough overhauling, preparatory to receiving ore from the Get. Them mine. We hope soon to be able to chronicle bullion shipments from this source, and see the old mill enrich her managers and contribute to the general prosperity of Esmeralda.—[Borax Miner, July 24.

Imagination.

A Carson man was the victim of a singular coincidence the other evening. While passing along the street near Johnny Moore's saloon, a boy exploded a common (on this occasion an uncommon one) fire cracker just behind him, while at the same moment a rotten banana, thrown from a neighboring fruit store, struck him on the back of the head. He at once screamed, "I am shot! I'm shot!" and, taking a handful of the decayed fruit from his head, exhibited it to the horror stricken crowd as a specimen of his brains. One of the town's medicos was called, who soon explained the matter to the great satisfaction of all. This person above alluded to, is not a "mint drop," donkey or Bunker Hill battle anniversary celebrator, but we are sorry to say, he once figured among the printing fraternity.—[Lyon County Times.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Experience of one of our Troutists.

Our Adonis has been a fishing, but there is a little episode in which he figured, and of which he is very silent even to his confidential friends. It happened thusly: He had captured a supply of early bugs, and with rod over his shoulder and with hook and line dangling behind, he started off up the creek. His step was light, and his noble form was a picture worth beholding; the mountain zephyrs kissed the youthful brow, and the rising sun betrayed a slight blush on the fair alabaster cheek. Sweet innocence! Little did he think of the peril in his pathway, for he hadn't proceeded far before he encountered a water snake about six inches long directly under his feett With a shriek of horror, he cleared the fatal spot with one mighty bound The dangling hook caught in his collateral system, and thinking that it was the serpent that had him there, he gave vent to an agonizing yell of despair, and plunged headlong into the river. His friends fished him out, put him on his litlit horse and sent him home.

Chinaman Shot.

Monday night as we were making our regular pilgrimage to the Postoffice in the fond hopes of finding a goodly supply of exchanges, and with the full determination to steal a first class editorial, we were startled from our reverie by several pistol shots and some one from the gloom and darkness shouting murder! help! thunder! or something of that sort. A thrill of delight shot through our nervous system as we rushed to the spot with the fond expectation of gathering in a first class item. But it was only a Chinaman who had been cooking in the Blaney House, and had kicked up a row with his predecessor, and was shot through the leg. Chinamen for breakfast are not at all palatable. We were disgusted

The Wounded Indian.

It is said that a cat has nine lives, a possum eighteen, if that's a fact a buck Indian must have twenty seven. As an illustration, the case of the old Indian doctor, who was so badly cut up last week, shows how perverse an Indian can be when his friends want him to "make a die of it." Dr. Blair probed the cut in his breast, and removed nearly all of the right lung, still in spite of the hot weather the doctor assures us of his ultimate recovery.

A Farewell.

Rev. Mr. Jennings will preach his farewell sermon tomorrow. In the morning at Lone Pine, in the afternoon at Georges Creek and in the evening at Independence. His appointments north will be August 8th, in the morning, at Round Valley, and at Bishop Creek in the evening of the same day. We hope he will have a large audience to-morrow for he certainly deserves a compliment on the part of our citizens. His labors have been self sacrificing and very efficient, and he will leave many warm friends in Inyo.

Broder-Moffat Furnace.

The Broder-Moffat furnace at Pine Mountain was fired up last week, and it was rumored here a failure, that they only succeeded in getting out one bar of bullion. We learn now that it was owing to a defect in the bottom of the furnace and through which, the lead had escaped. It amounts to nothing comparatively and will be remedied and in running order in a few days. A big run is anticipated.

Money Orders.

Postmaster Rowley informs us of a change made in the rates of commission charged for money orders. It would be well for persons living at a distance from money order offices to cut out and preserve the following rates and thus save the postmaster and themselves any inconvenience:

On orders not exceeding			$15.....	10 cts.
Over $15	"	"	$30.....	15 "
" $30	"	"	$40.....	20 "
" $40	"	"	$50.....	25 "

Almost a Fire.

Thursday night Harris & Rhine's store had a very narrow escape from a first class conflagration. One of the large lamps hanging near the hardware department fell down, throwing the flaming coal oil in every direction. The clerks had the presence of mind to use blankets instead of water and extinguished the flames before any damage was done.

County Court.

County Court opened Wednesday but we believe there was no business to transact except that of admitting three persons to citizenship, Arnold Wapelhorst, Louis Fromm and Henry Levy Judge Hannah then adjourned til August 18.

Paralyzed.

A Mexican was found near town the other day, paralyzed in both arms. He had come in from Cerro Gordo, and not meeting with any one who understood his language he was unable to make known his helpless condition. He had been two days without food.

Equalization.

We neglected to mention last week the meeting of the Supervisors as a Board of Equalization. There were only two reductions made, that of the Cerro Gordo Water Company from $10.000 to $7.500 and the O. L. S. L Company from $25,850 to $20,000.

THE OUTLAWS AGAIN.

Tying up and Robbing of a Man and Wife Within a Short Distance of Independence!

Wednesday morning T. J. Graves arrived in town from the foothills about 7 miles from here and created considerable excitement by reporting that the bandits of last week were still among us, and had the night before perpetrated upon himself and family. Mr. Graves and his wife had been ruthlessly bound, he to a post and the lady to a chair, some distance apart from each other, the little boy, an only child, of about six years, being left free. They were guarded for about four hours, from just a little after dark till about 11 o'clock. In the meantime the bandits pillaged everything that could be of any possible use to them. They prepared supper, saying that they had eaten nothing for two days, and from the way they demolished the food it was pretty evident they told the truth After milking the cows and drinking a pot of coffee, they took all the provisions and packed them together with the other plunder; they took all the clothing, even the stockings belonging to the little boy and the boots Mr Graves had on his feet, then with the sang froid of old and experienced brigands, such as we read of in dime novels, they made themselves merry by singing songs laughing and joking till finally interrupted by one of the party, who was laying in his blankets aside from the rest, and who seemed to be

AN OUTRAGE

THE LEADER.

He ordered them to stop their noise, and they not complying with his demand he pulled his pistol, and bringing it to bear on them, he put a stop to further merriment with the air of one who is used to having his orders instantly obeyed

About 11 o'clock they released their captives. Mr. Graves' arms and hands had become swollen and were turning black from the tightness of the ropes the gang took their departure, after warning them that the first one that attempted to leave or give an alarm would be instantly shot They also made many inquiries as to the number of men stopping at the Kearsarge and Silver Sprout mines, and no doubt contemplated a raid in that direction.

THE SURPRISE.

Mr. Graves occupies and cultivates a piece of land in the foothills near the Kearsarge mill road, and had been stopping all Summer with no other company but his little boy, his wife visiting him occasionally from their place of residence in town. She had remained longer than usual on her last visit. Tuesday night about dark two strangers made their appearance and wanted to purchase some vegetables, and one of them accompanied Mr Graves to the potatoe field; after digging what he considered enough, he returned to the house where he found himself confronting a navy revolver; he was ordered to sit down, and hold up his hands when they proceeded to tie him and his wife as above stated Two more of the gang put in an appearance, and one of them proved to be

A WOMAN IN MALE ATTIRE!

She was dressed like the rest, but could be readily detected by her form and feminine voice From their conversation it is evident enough that they are the same party who tied up the sheepman and stole the horses at the Eclipse. Instead of crossing the Inyo mountains as Deputy Sheriff Upton supposed, they must have camped there until their provisions were exhausted and then crossed the valley into the Sierras One of the gang, a tall and very dark complexioned man, who was taken for a Mexican, called himself a Texan, but resembled a Cherokee more than a Mexican The band must have been organized in Tulare, as they are well acquainted in that part of the country. One of them was bold enough to tell Mrs Graves the names of three of her brothers living in Tulare, saying that he knew her whole family. They took two horses belonging to Mr. Graves, and he is left almost entirely destitute. His family were obliged to walk the entire distance, through the burning sun, to Independence. A large force, well armed and headed by the Sheriff and his Deputies started in pursuit Wednesday morning and the last report we have heard from them they had struck the trail leading toward the Kearsarge and were following it up. Sheriff Moore applied to the military for guns and help, but of course it behooves that body of armed men to send to Washington for orders, and they dare not move without them.

DESCRIPTION OF THE ROBBERS.

The leader is a man about five feet eight inches high, and will weigh about 160 pounds; auburn hair, close cut and curly; light complexion, pug nose and very light gray eyes. The tall Texan stands over 6 feet; small, round black eyes; straight black hair, cut close, and is of slim build. The boy is about 18 or 20 years of age; about 5 feet 6 inches in hight; dark brown eyes and hair, and square features, or what might be termed "dish faced." The one supposed to be a woman is of light, fair complexion, somewhat freckled; a thin aquiline nose, and would weigh less than one hundred pounds This is a complete description of all that were seen, but as there were signals used at different times, it is probable there might have been more One incident in connection with their tying up the parties we forgot to mention. When they drew their pistols the first time the boy stood by without drawing his, when the leader turned upon him with his revolver and ordered him to draw at once or he would shoot him through, the boy bursting out crying, obeyed. The most singular part of the robbery was in the taking of a half dozen pairs of the little child's stockings, of what earthly use they could make of such plunder we can't imagine. A substantial reward should be offered for their heads (it is immaterial about their bodies), and it is to be hoped "Dad" Moore and his trusty followers will succeed in making short work of this little band of sneak thieves and highwaymen.

LATER.

Up to going to press to-day, we have heard nothing from the Sheriff and party in pursuit. But of the depredations committed we hear of a raid made on Mr. Densmore's stock ranch about five miles from Mr. Graves' place. They cut up and destroyed everything they couldn't conveniently carry off, and as there was no one present to interfere, they must have felt brave as sheep. These chivalrous cusses would undoubtedly make a good fight were they cornered like Chinamen.

Inyo Candidates.

The Panamint News of July 28 expresses its unqualified opinion in a good-natured way of our local candidates, and winds up with the sage advice to "vote for the best" There is wisdom in this; but we suppose electors always imagine they are voting for the best. However, we are glad to note the gallantry of The News in the support of the Democratic nominee for School Superintendent.

Lost $500.

Mr. Wilcock came in from Pine Mountain the other day, to exchange some orders, etc., for specie. He returned Thursday with something like $1.600, rolled up in his coat and tied on his saddle, $500 of which worked loose and was lost on the road between Independence and Big Pine.

Registration.

Ye Lone Piner's who wish to embrace the opportunity to serve your country, to do penance before the Political Altar, to feel that you're a living part of these gloriously illustrated United States, can do so by applying for registration to Deputy Assessor R. L. Peterson.

Our Benton Letter.

BENTON, July 28, 1875.

MR. EDITOR: We take pleasure in announcing through the columns of your valuable paper the wedding of Mr. Thos. M. Byrne to Miss A. E. Williams, both of Benton, at the residence of the bride's father on the evening of the 22d ultimo. The capacity of the residence was tested by the elite of the village, who were unanimously pleased to observe the delight of the happy bride and groom. After the nuptial knot was tied, and the usual congratulations, (which consisted in kissing the bride out of breath) the guests received a hint that wine and cake were practicing an imposition upon a weak dining table, which was relieved of its weight by satiating the thirst and appetite of two score. But it was plain to be seen that these moments were hours of torture to the happy couple, so they were escorted across the street to their own cozy little cottage and then left to test and discuss the merits of a married life. Your humble "Atty" was the greedy recipient of a section of the wedding cake, which was ahead of competition and a credit to the builder.

ATT. ORNEY.

A Boy's Letter.

DEAR DAD: Nothing of konsiderbul importance has transcurred sence I last rit to you The same old jest like it was abowt all that happens here ennymore. Ma is not so very lonsome; and she said i mode not rite yu to hurry back. She sed it was her christian duty to let you enjoy yourself, and she was alus glad to have yu go way. This is what she told that preacher man, and he said he didn't blame her. He comes here moar often than he did. He and ma is readin' a story in a Gent Lewis paper which comes every nite, and he brings it over and they rede it. It ain't got no killin' or injuns in it, and I can't make hed nor tale out of it. Its something about Tilton and Moulton and Beecher, some fellers as was awful good freuds and told hes on each other. Last night ma axed did he believe Beecher was guilty, and he said he did but mussent let on for it would hurt the cause of religion. Then she axed him did he blame him and he said it was women to err, but what he meant i doan no. Then ma sed she diddent blame the woman either if thay were toath christions. She sed everyboddy ought to have a finity, and that yu wassent her finity. Then he sed to me if I wassent sleepy, and i sed no, and he offerred me five cents to be a good boy and say my prayers and go to bed I sed hugh i ain't no five cent hairpin, so he laffed and gimme ten cents and i went. Miss Spyser sed this morning was anybody sick at our house a lite was burning so late, and ma sed she was settin up ritein to her deer husband. All for the present. Yure sun, Johnny.

SCISSORINGTUMS.

—Lady Franklin died in London July 18.

—"My face is rugged, but I'm wealthy; will you have me?" said he. "Yes, indeed, it's knotty, but it's nice," said she.

—A romantic Chicago widow had her lap dog colored a gorgeous crimson by way of compliment to her convivial lover's nose.

—If you want to make an enemy for life, just stand and laugh at a fat woman as she passes you on the flying jump to catch a horse car, with the thermometer at ninety-five.

—An Indiana woman was recently struck with lightning while shortening pie crust with lard. We always thought pie-crust should not be shortened with lard.

—Temperance people will be glad to learn from an agricultural journal that there is an increasing interest in short horns.

—A little boy accosted a gentleman on the street in Portland the other day with, "Mister can you fix things?" "We'l, I don't know; I can fix some things. What is it?" "Can you fix my collar? There's a pin sticking into me, and our folks are so busy about the Centennial they can't do it."

—"William," observed a Danbury woman to her husband, "Mrs. Holcomb feels pretty badly since the loss of her child, and I wish you would drop over there and see her. You might say that all flesh is grass—that we've all got to go the same way; and see if she is going to use her dripping pan this afternoon."

—Having frequently appealed to his father to buy him a jack-knife, and receiving for final answer, "If you speak to me again on that subject, I'll whale you," he went straightway to his mother, crying as if his heart would break, and said, "I can't never be good like George Washington, with such a dad as I've got."

—Clergyman: "Baby was rather troublesome in church last Sunday, Mrs Nollekins" Mrs. Nollekins (much distressed): "Yes, he was indeed. He don't seem to like going to church at all, and he never left off crying the whole time; and give us a great deal of trouble, sir, it do, for we did hope to bring him up a minister like yourself."

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL

Dr. Walker's

CALIFORNIA VINEGAR

BITTERS!

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essential. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with the BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory or Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

The Platform.

The Democratic party of California in State Convention assembled, in compliance with usage, do assert the following principles, as the basis of their political action, and pledge the candidates about to be nominated to their hearty support.

We declare:

First—That we are opposed to the unconstitutional interference of the Federal Administration in the domestic affairs of the States, by which one portion of the Union is governed with taxation to keep another portion of the Union in bankruptcy and servitude.

Second—We condemn the Republican party, not only for its contempt of constitutional obligations, but for its extravagant, partisan and corrupt administration of the Federal Government; for the perversion of the functions of the latter to enrich great corporations at the expense of the public; for the jobbery and frauds which have brought reproach upon Democratic institutions; or the Sanborn and Jayne frauds; for the infamous Washington ring; for the back-pay steal; the iniquities of the protective system; the curse of inconvertible paper money; the nepotism of the President; for its disgraceful diplomatic service and unfit appointments; for its attempt to pass an unconstitutional force bill, which was fortunately frustrated by the determined front of the Democratic minority in both Houses of Congress; and for a catalogue of other enormities which have rendered that organization offensive even to the mass of those who were once its supporters.

Third—That now as in past periods we are in favor of a strict construction of the Constitution, and against the exercise of doubtful powers; in favor of limiting the powers of legislative bodies; in favor of a tariff for revenue only, and a currency convertible into gold and silver at the will of the holder; against the profligate and wasteful system of local improvements by the Federal Government, and in favor of reducing the expenditures of the State governments, and of the counties and towns, and the salaries of officials, which have been largely increased since the State election of 1871.

Fourth—That the School system and fund of this State are under guarantee of the Constitution inviolable, and we are opposed to any diversion of the fund to any purpose except those ordained by the Constitution.

Fifth—We assert the traditional policy of the party, in declaring it is the right and duty of the Legislature to regulate corporations, whether railway, telegraph, water or otherwise; to limit their charges in the interests of the public, and to compel them to serve all citizens, without discrimination, at reasonable rates; and that when they refuse to do so, we recognize the right and declare the intention of making them do so; and we further assert it to be the duty of the Government to preserve the waters of the State for irrigation and other public uses, instead of permitting them to be made the means of extortion and monopoly.

Sixth—That the Democratic party has no occasion to make any new departure or declaration of opposition to the system of subsidies, when we recall the fact that it is to a Democratic State Administration that this State owes its deliverance from this oppressive, unjust and corrupt system.

Seventh—That we are in favor of calling a convention of delegates elected by the people to amend the Constitution of the State, as the only mode of creating a system of government at once harmonious and efficient, and are therefore opposed to the amendments to the constitution, which are to be submitted to a vote of the people at the ensuing election.

Eighth—That the time-honored Democratic doctrine of local self-government is sufficient when properly administered to afford an effective remedy for the evils now caused by Chinese labor and the presence among us of an inferior race, detrimental to our moral and physical health; that in the interests of all classes in California, especially that of the white working people, we demand such amendment to the Burlingame treaty as shall reduce it to a mere commercial convention.

Ninth—That we condemn the doctrine whereby the power of the State to prevent the importation to our shores of degraded persons for immoral purposes has been denied.

Tenth—That we favor the speedy completion of a transcontinental railway on the Thirty-second parallel, subject to such limitations by the Federal and State Governments as shall protect the rights of the people.

Eleventh—That we are in favor of equal taxation, and any departure from this principle or any system of taxation which imposes a double tax upon the same object is in violation of the spirit of the Constitution and unjust to the best interests of the State.

Twelfth—That all legislation intended to regulate the social habits and customs of the people, so long as these habits and customs do not interfere with the welfare of society at large, and all legislation of the character known by the general name of Prohibitory Law is opposed to the principles of the Democratic party, and is calculated to promote a pretense of social morality, rather than a well founded system of public order and decency.

Thirteenth—That we invite the hearty co-operation of all persons, whatever may have been their past political affinities, to unite with us in carrying out the principles herein enunciated.

Fourteenth—That we condemn, as subversive of the rights of the people and ruinous to the best interests of the State, the policy of permitting the lands of the State, to become a monopoly in the hands of the few at the expense of the many, and we hereby pledge the Democratic party to the correction of this giant evil.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, that we Thomas Volkert and George Gibbons, residing in the county of Inyo, State of California, do hereby certify and declare that we have organized and formed ourselves into a co-partnership, and we covenant and agree each with the other, to be co-partners in the ownership of the Hot Spring or Volkert Ranch, more particularly described in the deed of the same, in the county of Inyo, State of California, and for the purpose of carrying on a general farming and stock raising business in connection therewith, under the firm name and style of Volkert & Gibbons. That the principal place of business is at said ranch or farm, in the county and state aforesaid. That the names of all partners in said ranch and business are above stated and signed hereto, and that such partnership will continue in force until further notice by us.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hands and seals this twenty-eight day of June, A. D. 1875.

THOMAS VOLKERT, [SEAL.]
GEORGE GIBBONS, [SEAL.]

Woodruff, alias Miller.

[From The San Francisco Bulletin.]

About seven years ago Ambrose R. Woodruff was a resident of Lynchburg, Virginia, holding a comfortable situation, in good social standing, and an active member of one of the city churches, professing devout piety. Suddenly he fell from the summit of fictitious grace, and his friends were mortified and astonished by his detection in deliberate rascality. He was enabled to escape the punishment which his crimes deserved by absconding, and for years after nothing more was heard of the fellow in Lynchburg, except, perhaps, by his faithful wife, who remained in that city and became the object of much wasted sympathy. About the time that Ambrose R. Woodruff dropped into a sea of obscurity, however, John Miller, emerged upon the surface. He appeared at Sacramento, and, in the absence of letters of introduction and high testimonials of character, he was compelled to commence life in his new locality by engaging in the humble occupation of driving a dray.

This was the first scene in the career of the champion defaulter in California. The next may be briefly told. Wearying of the hard features of the drayman's life, and knowing that his business capacity fitted for a more remunerative position he sat down one day and wrote a letter to the Secretary of the Central Pacific Railroad Company. The letter manifested the writer's desires, and his capabilities as well, in language so frank and seemingly sincere that a clerkship, for which he prayed, was forthwith granted. No references were exchanged, no testimonials of business integrity were sought.

It is not necessary to rehearse the same old story of human credulity, but it should be recorded that the new clerk grew daily in the esteem of his associates. Agreeable in manner, entertaining in speech and generous to the degree of extravagance, he soon surrounded himself with friends, some influential, some rich but none venal, as the world goes. Among the clerks in the office was one familiarly known as Jimmy Moore. In the routine of promotion Moore stood on the threshold of the Secretary's office, waiting for a vacancy which had been promised. In the confidence of Moore the new clerk held the first place, and also stood well in the general esteem of higher officers. The inexorable decree of death removed Moore hence to another world, leaving the way open for his new found friend's speedy promotion. The concluding chapter of the romance is short. The unknown clerk was in brief time appointed to the office of Secretary of the corporation latterly known as the Western Development Company. He daily grew in popular favor, individual wealth and official prestige. He ventured with marvelous success into the dangerous whirl of stock speculation, and was reputed to have amassed large gains. He permitted none of his associates to know that he had a wife in the East, and profaned the marriage alter by wedding, under a false name, a wealthy lady to whom he had been introduced by a deluded friend. He bought a magnificent mansion and therein ministered to the creature comforts and vulgar vanities of his companions. So lavish was his display of wealth in household adornments that a Director who was a guest of the prosperous Secretary suspected robbery, and had an investigation of the company's books, and the Secretary was arrested as a fugitive and forced to surrender his available gains. Investigation has already disclosed the fact that his defalcation approaches a million dollars. He is reticent as to details, and never acknowledges a guilty transaction until the experts detect it. And this is the story of Woodruff, alias John Miller, the millionaire defaulter. The estimable lady who was wronged by the unscrupulous wretch, still occupies the noble mansion which is ornate with the obsolete monogram of "John Miller," and her solacing companion is the widow of Jimmy Moore.

—A book agent took refuge under a hay stack, during a thunder storm, and the lightning struck him on the cheek, glanced off and killed a mule two hundred yards away.

Wonderful Effect of Climate.

She came from Detroit, Michigan, and her great pride was in being an invalid. She lost no opportunity in stating that "she came to Minnesota to recuperate the cellular tissues of the left auricle of her respiratory anatomy." She did not hesitate to enter into conversation with any person she came in contact with, giving advice, climatological or physiological, to invalids, and seeking the same from those of robust constitutions. Her conversation was always prefaced with the introductory inquiry so common to visitors, "Did you come here for your health?" She thus addressed a stalwart, ruddy visaged young man at the dinner table of the Metropolitan a few days since, and the following dialouge ensued: "Yes, madam, I came here probably the weakest person you ever saw. I had no use of my limbs; in fact my bones were but little tougher than cartileges. I had no intelligent control of a single muscle, nor the use of a single faculty." "Great Heavens," exclaimed the astonished auditor, "and you lived?" "I did, miss, although I was devoid of sight, was absolutely toothless, unable to articulate a single word, and depended upon others for everything, being completely deprived of all power to help myself. I commenced to gain immediately on my arrival, and have scarcely experienced a sick day since. Hence I can conscientiously recommend the climate." "A wonderful case," said the lady, "but do you think your lungs were affected?" "They were probably sound, but possessed of so little vitality that but for the most careful nursing they must have ceased their functions." "I hope you found kind friends, sir?" "Indeed I did, madam, and it is to them and the pure air of Minnesota that I owe my life. My father's family were with me; but unfortunately my mother was prostrated with a severe illness during the time of my greatest prostration." "How sad! Pray, what was your treatment and diet?" "My diet was the simplest possible—consisting only of milk, that being the only food my system would bear. As for treatment, I depended entirely upon the life giving propensities of the air of Minnesota, and took no medicine except an occasional light narcotic when very restless. My improvement dated from my arrival. My limbs soon became strong, my sight and voice came to me slowly; and a full set of teeth, regularly and firm, appeared." "Remarkable — miraculous! Surely, sir, you must have been greatly reduced in flesh?" "Madame, I weighed but nine pounds; I was born in Minnesota! Good day."—[Ex.

The Poor Mule.

The amount of fatigue, exposure, and abstinence, which a mule will endure, says a writer, seems almost fabulous. Making long marches across dusty, shadeless plains going for long intervals without water and with very little food, obliged to pull loads sometimes amounting to five thousand two hundred pounds, up steep hills and through heavy sloughs, subject to cruel treatment and neglect from the teamster, the life of an expedition mule is miserable enough. No wonder that when the mule returns he looks woefully angular and thin. The poor animal is frequently driven until he completely gives out, when he is thanklessly turned into the herd of broken down mules.

There is scarcely a more melancholy sight than such a herd. It is a moving boneyard. Gaunt, lean, with drooping ears, hips that rise like promontories above the general desolation, a disconsolate tail, and a woebegone visage which would frighten an experienced ghost—the poor bankrupt mule is the most wretched parody on Gothic architecture that ever was forced on the public attention. Every vestige of meat has fled from his bones. He is a walking transparency, an animated hat-rack, and I have actually seen his hip bones irreverently used to hang teamster's hats on.

During our homeward march from the Black Hills, more than one such starved victim laid down his tired frame on the earth which had refused to nourish him, and the benediction of a soldier's bullet called the raven and coyote to a meal which cost the government one hundred and forty dollars to procure.

A Disgusted Pilgrim.

A strapping six-footer, hailing from the classic region of Missouri, entered P. W. Johnson's store last evening shortly after the arrival of the emigrant train, and called for twenty cents worth of crackers, which he paid for in fractional currency. The obliging clerk took the shinplaster, after which he informed the Piker that that did not more than pay first cost on the article sold him, and ventured the information that currency was not worth more than 86 or 87 cents on the dollar. "Currency!" exclaimed the Missourian, "What's that?" "Greenbacks," replied the clerk. "Do you purtend to tell me," said the ex Confederate, "that greenbacks are worth no more nor that in this country?" "Yes, sir," said the clerk, "that is their value here." "Then," said the man who had fought with Sterling Price, with a good deal of emphasis, "I'll be dog rotted if I ain't agoin' right back to Missoury, where money is money and greenbacks are worth a hundred cents on the dollar. Ain't the war over in this yere country yet?" And away he skedadded to the cars to tell his fellow-travelers that money wasn't worth more than seven bits on the dollar in this part of the country.—[Winnemucca Silver State.

The Latest Dog Story.

A New Hampshire paper tells this: "A day or two since the daughter of a gentleman residing in Manchester was cleaning her canary bird's cage, when its inmate escaped and flew out into the yard. Her exclamation of surprise started up a large Newfoundland dog owned by the family, which ran out, and suddenly putting his paw upon the bird, which had alighted upon a small shrub, bore it to the ground, holding it there until caught uninjured and returned to its cage."

—The want most sadly felt at Long Branch is of men. Young, unmarried men would be preferred, but men of any age would be accepted. Pretty girls wearing costly clothes, able to dance gracefully, having wealthy parents, without matrimonial engagements, are compelled to take other girls for partners in waltzes and quadrilles. There never was a better chance for good-looking, well bred young men. Circumspect behavior and strict attention to business would insure the capture of an heiress before the end of the season. Why, I have seen with my own eyes a girl of 20, who is plentifully endowed with beauty, brains and money, rejicing in the society of a boy of 16—and he was cross eyed and freckled. In a New York parlor she would wrinkle her nose at him; but here she is glad to get his companionship, because she sees other girls, without even cross-eyed, freckled boys for a beau envying her.

—It is the duty of one of the brakemen on the western bound passenger train to go through the train east of Cyrlin and get the names of the passengers. The report is telegraphed to the California papers, in which the names are announced prior to the arrival of the train that bears them at Sacramento. The boys say that some of the passengers do not understand the object for which their names and destination are taken, and reluctantly furnish the desired information, while others, particularly the ladies, who apprehend the motive, are extremely anxious to have their names placed first on the list. The other day a party of Englishmen were aboard the train, and when asked their names and destinations, one of them turned savagely on the brakeman, saying, "blawst your bloody impertinence, hit's none of your bu-iness."

—She tried to sit down in the street car, but was pinned back so tight she couldn't. Old lady peeped over her specs and asked "How long have you been afflicted that way?" The young lady blushed and made "a break," sitting down sideways and holding her knees together so tight that she looked as if she had on a one legged pair of breeches. Old lady noticed her sitting in this sidewise, cramped position and whispered: "Bile, I suppose; I've had 'em myself."

—A Chicago boy of ten says that when his parents get into a fight, and his mother calls for a flat iron and his father yells for a stove-handle, he is placed in a most embarrassing position, as he is sure to get licked, no matter who he minds.

—A countryman fell off a ferry boat at Vicksburg, and his wife, waiting coolly until his head showed above the water, shouted, "There, durn yer, I know'd you'd do it! But you never get out, either!"

Our Benton Letter.

BENTON, August 3d, 1875.

MESSRS EDS:—Notwithstanding the advent of hot weather we still exist with prospects by no means discouraging.

SHIPMENTS

will show that Mr. Howell, of Hutch's canyon, shipped last week $6,000, and Mr. Mack $5,000 worth of bullion, which is pretty good for two small mills of ten and four stamps respectively.

PROSPECTORS.

Messrs. Morgan and Tozer, from Virginia City have been here inspecting the mines, and spared no pains, time or money in making a thorough inspection. They pronounce the mines good and the mineral the best that they have seen; since they returned to Virginia City they have sent their agent here to locate a mill site, and reports say that they intend to erect a ten-stamp mill here for the purpose of doing custom work. Such an enterprise will do more toward developing our mines than anything else, as it is a difficult matter to get ore worked at either of the mills here at the present time.

POLITICAL.

Political fever is very light here. A Democratic primary meeting was held last Saturday evening for the purpose of electing delegates to the County Convention. The Republican primary meeting is to be held on the 10th. This county proposes to have three tickets, and the Independents of this place are to meet on the evening of the 7th. Time will tell the fate of some of our aspiring gentlemen.

AN EDUCATED ANIMAL.

A brewer living about a half a mile east of this place was in town last week with a load of himself and other beer kegs. After draining the berg of the last beer, he invited his friend, the toll keeper between this place and Columbus, to accompany him to the brewery to stay over night. The invitation was accepted and the load of beer kegs full of alkali water, started for their destinations. Unfortunately for the pilgrims they had to pass through Partzwick, and in their attempt to drain that place of all the beer became very badly alkalied. They eventually made another start and had not gone far before the toll keeper lost his balance and fell overboard. The brewer discovering the fact, turned and drove back to the prostrate body lying in the road and requested "Sherry" his horse to "pick 'im up;" but the horse understood him to say get up, consequently the horse walked over the man and drew the wagon after him. This performance was repeated four times and the toll keeper was found next morning in a nowise pleasant condition, but after five or six days patching, he was repaired up to traveling condition and has gone to his home.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Bourland and lady made us a visit last week. Mr. Howell has gone to Aurora to meet his family. J. N. Summers of Bridgeport called on us last week. J. A. Creaser is expected to arrive soon. No one else that we are acquainted with have been born, married or died. ATT ORNEY.

Tilton-Beecher Trial.

The Tilton-Beecher trial was a costly affair—to the plaintiff and defendant, to the jurors, and the country. The Brooklyn Argus estimates the aggregate sum—leaving out of view the constructive damages to the jurors, in the loss of time, health and interruption of business—at $140,000. A few of the items are jurors' fees, expenses connected with the panel, boarding the jury, and pay of special policemen, $40,000. Mr. Beecher's legal expenses are set down at $70,000, and Tilton's at $15,000. If the case has to be tried over again—and if it is there will probably be a change of venue—it will be a lamentable thing for the county that has to bear the infliction.

Andrew Johnson Dead.

Ex President Johnson died at the residence of his daughter in Carter county, Tennessee, July 31st, in his sixty-seventh year. The death of this noted man obliterates the list of living ex Presidents of this Republic. He was the only surviving person who had held this highest honor of our governmental system and retired therefrom and the only one save John Quincy Adams, who, after holding the Presidential office, had again engaged successfully in politics.

Commissioner Smith.

Prof. Marsh's letter to the President has thrown Smith of the Indian Bureau into rather an unfortunate position. He threatens to make a "statement" by which he expects to demolish General Pope and other army officers.

L. A. & I. Railroad.

The citizens of San Bernardino have pledged $100,000 to the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad Company, if they will diverge their survey to accommodate that place, and it is thought twice that sum can be raised.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE.

As will be seen by reference to Mr. Bowen's card in this issue the voters of Mono and Inyo are now offered another choice for a Legislator. Mr. Bowen comes out as an Independent candidate; last election he was the regular Democratic nominee for the same position. He is one of Mono's substantial farmers and reliable men, and we have reason to think is trustworthy in every respect; but in the nature of the case we cannot see what issue there is of sufficient importance to call for any additional legislative candidates to take the field in this district. The coming election is to be one of men more than of politics proper, since the party professions are so nearly identical as to scarce show a difference, and such being the case, the party prestige of the regular nominee, when no word of objection can be urged against either personally, will be too strong to give much if any hope for an Independent success. Dr Griswold, of Mono, the Democratic nominee, is said to possess the confidence of the people of his county and wherever known, to an eminent degree, and in even stronger terms we can say the same of Mr. Loomis, of this county, the Republican nominee. Mr. Loomis has been identified with the interests of Inyo almost from the beginning down to the present. He is an educated, business man of the most unimpeachable integrity, and is in no sense a "ring man" for anybody or party. He is capable of good work for the best interests of the whole county and district, and we have not the slightest doubt will do his best. He is worthy of the place and will receive a full party support if nothing more. He is pitted against probably the strongest man to be found in the opposite party, and however, the Independents may make it on the State ticket, these two candidates will leave no show worthy of the name for a third candidate in this district. However, it is a free fight, and this is a progressive age, so if voters want to "scratch" merely to show their independence, they ought to have the chance—but that is about all the inducement for scratching that is yet manifest to people generally in this particular matter.

Insane Asylum Director.

Governor Pacheco, July 30, commissioned Dr. W. R. Cluness, as a Director of the Insane Asylum, vice Ely E. Thrift, term expired.

At Eureka.

From The Eureka Sentinel we learn that Ashim and his mother had arrived at that place and were warmly received by personal friends.

MARRIED.

At Lone Pine, July 31, by Rev. Geo. Jennings, JACOB V. CHASE to DOLORES ALESALDA.

BORN.

At Independence, August 1st, to the wife of B. L. Brown, a daughter.

Title IV, Part I, Penal Code.

SECTION 41. Every person charged with the performance of any duty under the provisions of any law of this State relating to elections who willfully neglects or refuses to perform it, or who in his official capacity knowingly and fraudulently acts in contravention or violation of any of the provisions of such laws, unless a different punishment for such acts or omission is prescribed by this Code, is punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the State Prison not exceeding five years, or by both.

SEC. 42. Every person who wrongfully causes, procures or allows himself to be registered in the Great Register of any county, knowing himself not to be entitled to such registration, is punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the County Jail or State Prison not exceeding one year, or both. In all cases where, on the trial of a person charged with any offense under the provisions of this section, it appears in evidence that the accused stands registered in the Great Register of any county without being qualified for such registration, the Court must order such registration to be canceled.

SEC. 43. Every person who, after being required by the Board of Judges at any election, refuses to be sworn, or who, after being sworn, refuses to answer any pertinent question propounded by such Board touching his right or the right of any other person to vote, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 44. Every person summoned to appear and testify, before any Board of Registration, who wilfully disobeys such summons, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 45. Every person not entitled to vote, who fraudulently votes, and every person who votes more than once at any one election, or knowingly hands in two or more tickets folded together, or changes any ballot after the same has been deposited in the ballot box, or adds, or attempts to add any ballot to those legally polled at any election, either by fraudulently introducing the same into the ballot box before or after the ballots therein have been counted, or adds to or mixes with, or attempts to add to or mix with, the ballots lawfully polled, other ballots, while the same are being counted or canvassed, or at any other time, with intent to change the result of such election, or carries away or destroys, or attempts to carry away or destroy, any poll list, or ballots, or ballot box, for the purpose of breaking up or invalidating such election, or wilfully detains, mutilates, or destroys any election returns, or in any manner interferes with the officers holding such election or conducting such canvass or with the voters lawfully exercising their rights of voting at such election so as to prevent such election or canvass from being fairly held and lawfully conducted, is guilty of felony.

SEC. 46. Every person not entitled to vote, who fraudulently attempts to vote, or who, being entitled to vote, attempts to vote more than once at any election, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 47. Every person who procures, aids, assists, counsels or advises another to give or offer his vote at any election, knowing that the person is not qualified to vote, is guilty of misdemeanor.

SEC. 48. Every officer or Clerk of Election who aids in changing or destroying any poll list, or in placing any ballots in the ballot box, or taking any therefrom, or adds, or attempts to add, any ballots to those legally polled at such election, either by fraudulently introducing the same into the ballot box before or after the ballots therein have been counted, or adds to or mixes with, or attempts to add to or mix with, the ballots polled any other ballots, while the same are being counted or canvassed, or at any other time, with intent to change the result of such election, or allows another to do so when in his power to prevent it, or carries away, or destroys, or knowingly allows another to carry away or destroy, any poll list, ballot box, or ballots lawfully polled, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for not less than two nor more than seven years.

SEC. 49. Every Inspector, Judge, or Clerk of an election, who, previous to putting the ballot of an elector in the ballot box, attempts to find out any name on such ballot, or who opens, or suffers the folded ballot of any elector which has been handed in to be opened or examined previous to putting the same into the ballot box, or who makes or places any mark or device on any folded ballot with the view to ascertain the name of any person for whom the elector has voted, or who, without the consent of the elector, discloses the name of any person which such Inspector, Judge or Clerk has fraudulently or illegally discovered to have been voted for by such elector, is punishable by fine not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars.

SEC. 50. Every person who forges or counterfeits returns of an election purporting to have been held at a precinct, town, or ward where no election was in fact held, or wilfully substitutes forged or counterfeit returns of election in the place of the true returns, for a precinct, town or ward where an election was actually held, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for a term not less than two nor more than ten years.

SEC. 51. Every person who wilfully adds to, or subtracts from, the votes actually cast at an election, in any returns, or who alters such returns, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for not less than one nor more than five years.

SEC. 52. Every person who aids or abets in the commission of any of the offenses mentioned in the four preceding sections, or who being present at or cognizant of the commission of either of such offenses, does not give information thereof as soon as practicable to the District Attorney or Grand Jury of the proper county, or to some Justice of the Peace of such county, is punishable by imprisonment in the County Jail for the period of six months, or in the State Prison not exceeding two years.

SEC. 53. Every person who, by force, threats, menaces, bribery, or any corrupt means, either directly or indirectly attempts to influence any elector in giving his vote, or to deter him from giving the same, or attempts by any means whatever to awe, restrain, hinder or disturb any elector in the free exercise of the right of suffrage, or furnishes any elector wishing to vote, who cannot read, with a ticket, informing or giving such elector to understand that it contains a name written or printed thereon different from the name which is written or printed thereon, or defrauds any elector at any such election, by deceiving and causing such elector to vote for a different person or any office than he intended or desired to vote for; or who, being Inspector, Judge, or Clerk of any election, while acting as such, induces or attempts to induce any elector, either by menace or reward, or promise the offer to vote differently from what such elector intended or desired to vote, he is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 54. Every person who, with intent to promote the election of himself, or any other person, either:

1. Furnishes entertainment at his expense to any meeting of electors previous to or during an election;

2. Pays for, procures, or engages to pay for any such entertainment;

3. Furnishes or engages to pay or deliver any money or property for the purpose of procuring the attendance of voters at the polls, or for the purpose of compensating any person for procuring attendance of voters at the polls, except for the conveyance of voters who are sick or infirm;

4. Furnishes or engages to pay or deliver any money or property for any purpose intended to promote the election of any candidate except for the expenses of holding and conducting public meetings for the discussion of public questions, and of printing and circulating ballots, handbills, and other papers previous to such election;

—Is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 55. Every person who, being a candidate at any election, offers or agrees to appoint or procure the appointment of any particular person to office as an inducement or consideration to any person to vote for, or procure or aid in procuring the election of such candidate, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 56. Every person not being a candidate, who communicates any offer made in violation of the last section to any person with intent to induce him to vote for, or to procure or aid in procuring the election of the candidate making the offer, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 57. (§84, 85, 86). Every person who gives or offers a bribe to any officer or member of any legislative caucus, political convention, committee, primary election, or political gathering of any kind, held for the purpose of nominating candidates for offices of honor, trust, or profit in this State, with intent to influence the person to whom such bribe is given or offered to be more favorable to one candidate than another, and every person, member of either of the bodies in this section mentioned, who receives or offers to receive any such bribe, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison not less than one nor more than fourteen years.

SEC. 58. Every person who by threats, intimidations, or unlawful violence wilfully hinders or prevents electors from assembling in public meeting for the consideration of public questions, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 59. Every person who wilfully disturbs or breaks up any public meeting of electors or others, lawfully being held for the purpose of considering public questions, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 60. Every person who makes, offers, or accepts any bet or wager upon the result of any election, or upon the success or failure of any person or candidate, or upon the number of votes to be cast either in the aggregate or for any particular candidate, or upon the vote to be cast by any person, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 61. Every person who wilfully violates any of the provisions of the laws of this State relating to elections is, unless a different punishment for such violation is prescribed by this Code, punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars or by imprisonment in the State Prison not exceeding five years, or by both.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Mine Surveying.

Some of the Darwin mine-owners begin to realize the importance of having accurate surveys made of their locations. It should be done in every case where the mine is deemed of sufficient value to be worth looking after, as in the nature of things in that district, it will not be but a short time till there will be a good deal of "jamming for ground," and a consequent risk of loss through litigation or otherwise, when claims are not distinctly located and mapped by actual survey. To avoid this risk, together with the view of patenting, the principal owners of the Michigan, Thos. May and V. A. Gregg, have just had that promising mine surveyed and mapped by E. E Krause, Deputy U. S Mineral Surveyor. Mr. Krause, besides being a first class surveyor, is a practical mineralogist and geologist, and submits quite a complete report upon the character of the deposit. He says: "The Michigan is one of the oldest locations in Coso Mining District, and is of the same general character of other leading mines in the district. The ledge where the shaft is sunk showed good ore from the top down. The ore rates with the best of the district; it is a hard galena with a high percentage of silver. This mine, as with others, is in a broken formation, the consequences of volcanic action, but there can be no doubt about the high value of the deposit." The Lucky Jim mine adjoins this location on the north, the Christmas Gift touching on the south and the Bella Union on the west. These three locations have lately been sold at good figures to practical mining men and capitalists of San Francisco Work has been steadily prosecuted on all of them, and all are developing splendidly, showing large deposits of very valuable ore. As the Michigan lies in the triangle formed by these three fine mines, there can scarcely be a doubt but it will develop into a very valuable property.

Piscatorial.

Two years ago THE INDEPENDENT was quite enthusiastic in urging everybody to plant a few trout in the many pure mountain rivulets that course down the Sierra Nevadas, and meander through the valley, the pride of Inyo county. It was urged as an experiment, and at the same time hardly anyone doubted but it would be productive of a grand result; that our scores of little streams would soon be stocked with fine mountain trout; the chances of their being destroyed would only be in case of a flood like that of '67 and '68, but, as the trees will bear testimony that grow on the banks, such a thing is not likely to occur oftener than big earthquakes. The grand result is realized in a degree this Summer. In the creeks at Bell's mill and at Fish Springs may be seen hundreds of as healthy, lively and greedy little trout as ever nibbled at a tempting fly. That they are not a delicately constituted fish is evident enough from the way they are packed over the mountains in cans on pack mules, and when they go for hours without fresh water. It is to be hoped that the people north living on the larger streams will take the hint from our experiment here and stock every creek at once. Don't wait for the coming of Seth Green—he has all he can attend to—but interest yourselves with a will. The expense is light, and you can have your private fishing ponds, and there will be no longer any necessity of making long excursions over the mountains to enjoy a mess of trout. The most dyspeptical epicurean may revel in his favorite dish, and during hot weather it will add a healthier tone to our tempers generally.

Must Have a Galmadore.

From the trials that have been made at the Broder-Moffatt furnace at Pine Mountain, it is evident that it will be necessary to erect a galmadore furnace before a perfect success at smelting there can be expected. We are not prepared to say why this is so, since it is not required at Cerro Gordo, though that was a necessity for several years at the latter place after work was first commenced. The erection of the galmadore at Pine Mountain will cause a delay of three or four weeks With the above exception we are told the prospects of the camp are really highly satisfactory, and that it is certain to be a success. We most earnestly hope so.

Unfortunate.

A. G. Cook, whose terrible accident from a shot-gun we have mentioned heretofore, is now in confinement in the county jail as a lunatic. His accident or other causes has unsettled his mind to such an extent that he was considered dangerous. A short time since he made a violent demonstration toward taking the life of his sister in law. His wounded arm has been amputated twice, and the chances are a third operation will be a necessity. It is truly a most pitiable affair.

Kearsarge Mountain.

Mr. Page, of the Silver Sprout and Consolidated Virginia companies of Kearsarge mountain, is now paying that district a visit, and we have reason to think something of importance to the business of this community will come of it; Leastways, we expect to have something to say next week as to the company's intentions regarding their valuable property—and it is about time.

Captured Them.

On the 28 ultimo, the day after the raid of the bandits upon Mr. Graves and family, a party fitted out hurredly with all sorts of arms and horses started in pursuit. The party was composed of Under Sheriff W. L. Moore, Deputy Sheriffs Swearingen and Upton, Tom Hill, A. W. Robinson, A. Wayland and Billy Boyd. Taking the route across the mountains towards Visalia, and after proceeding some thirty miles, they picked up a piece of The New York Ledger having Mrs. Graves' address printed upon it, and were thereby assured that they were on the right track. After going some thirty miles further to Horse Corral Creek in Kern county, the trail of the gang was lost for a time, on account of the ground being tramped up by bands of sheep and other stock. The pursuers went into camp and divided up to scour the country on foot. During this search Hill suddenly found himself in close proximity to the fugitives, who were at breakfast and unsuspicious of danger. As Hill was seen by them in turn, he fully realized the delicacy of his situation, knowing that if the object of his visit was understood he would be forcibly invited to breakfast. He pretended that he did not see anybody; was merely hunting grouse in the tree tops. He hunted grouse with great assiduity and all the time in a direction away from the party at breakfast. Getting safely off. Graves was dispatched to inform the camp. Hill remaining. Soon after the entire eight came into view of the astonished bandits, being within pistol shot at the first notice. The Under Sheriff ordered the gang to throw up their hands; it was accepted as good advice, and instantly obeyed by all except one who, probably through excitement, made a demonstration to draw his pistol, but soon thought better of it. The three men and the woman were soon secured, and on the march for this place the three former on foot, the latter mounted on a horse. Their arrival here was greeted with such a vast turn out of the population as to make all but the woman believe their last hour was close at hand. It was but idle curiosity however, that induced the demonstration. They were soon all safely locked up, the "lady" of the party having a whole cell to herself, the three men being given a good warm room together On Monday they were brought up for examination before Justice Schalten, and all committed to answer for robbery. One of them acted as his own attorney, and displayed ability in cross examing the prosecuting witness. The names and other particulars of this gang will be found elsewhere. Under Sheriff Moore and his party, had a most extraordinary hard trip of it. As we stated heretofore "Dadual" Moore is as persistacious a thief taker as this county has produced, mild mannered as he is, and is deserving of great credit.

Some of Their Previous Doings.

Some days before their raid upon the Graves family, the gang of robbers now in jail were in camp somewhere near Fish Springs, having the stolen horses and property with them as mentioned last week. While there four men approached the camp and the robbers thinking, though wrongly, that these men were after them, became panic struck and fled, abandoning everything they had with them. They came south to Hill & Stecker's shingle mill and finding no one about, cleaned it out of everything in the shape of provisions, amunition, etc. Coming on a few miles further they did a similar thing for the house at Densmore's wood ranch. The next place in their line of march was the Graves place. Nearly all of the stolen property has been recovered.

A Man Sawed in Pieces.

On Wednesday last at T. D. Lewis' sawmill, near Bishop Creek in this county, a man named John Simpson, a sawyer, while engaged in rolling a log was thrown against the large circular saw and literally sawed in pieces. His head was severed from the body, a slice cut from one shoulder to the elbow of the arm, the body cut entirely in two through the chest, and the other arm cut off near the shoulder. Mr. Simpson was about forty years of age, and a native of Nova Scotia. He leaves a wife and two children.

The Merry Brigands.

The bandits are a jolly set of mortals and seem to regard their confinement as a superb joke. It must be highly edifying to the officers who stop in the Court House for the way they make the welkin ring with song and chorus, and the metal floors of their cells resound with the double-shuffle clog dance would do credit to any "traveling show" that ever held forth in that hallowed and sacred retreat of law and justice.

Water at Cerro Gordo.

The trouble at Cerro Gordo just now is that the spring which afforded a supply for the water company's pipes gave out quite suddenly this week. The entire supply for the town has to be packed in on animals, as it was before the company went to such great expense upon their works. It is not at all likely, however, that this trouble will be permanent.

Lumber.

J. B. Stewart's saw mill at Big Pine is now said to be turning out a better quality of lumber and more of it than was ever done before in the valley. James is a number one man and sawyer, and, moreover, understands a miserable printer's needs as well as anybody we know of.

Improvements.

Rowley's new building is progressing finely, and is going to be a fine building for a country village....Rothschilds & Co. have added quite a large store-room to their place of business.

Personal.

Our senior, Mr. Chalfant, and family got home this week from their somewhat extended trip to the Bay and around. We will have to wait a little while for a report of his experiences and observations....Joe Fernbach, our boss brewer, who has likewise been on a pasear, also returned by the same stage. If Joe would only rush into print and tell of his experiences there is scarce a doubt we would have an interesting chapter....Among other returns we should have mentioned that of Mrs. V. G. Thompson, J. A. Brown and Sheriff Moore, last week. Mr. Brown had been on an enforced visit to the San Francisco doctors on account of a severe affection of the eyes, by which he was totally blinded for a time, but is now all right again, and is attending to business with Harris & Rhine, at Panamint....From the later arrivals we learn that P Reddy, John Simpson and wife, and a number of other Inyoites, are holding forth at the Cosmopolitan, and all seem to be happy in hopes for the future....H M. Isaacs, County Treasurer, and candidate for re-election, is at Panamint. Harry is a good "feller" and a good officer, but he is the very candidate of all on the county ticket that one member at least of this institution thinks ought to retire to private life after the coming election, so it is to be hoped the Panaminters won't listen to him if he tries to electioneer them very much this trip.

Some Account of Them

From a brief interview with the gang in the county jail we learn these facts: Their names are M. T Spees, a young gentleman of about 18, a native of Tulare county; F. G. Bennett, but little if any older, with a like nativity; Harvey Lewis, probably 25, and Elizabeth Lewis nee Keith, a buxom, fair-looking female hoodlum of say 18 Summers. She is likewise of Tulare growth, and having no parients nor nothing to love but a "husband" or two, said with considerable asperity that "she would not have her name in the papers; didn't want them to say a word about her." She claims and is claimed as the wife of the Lewis aforementioned. Lizzie is a brick, and is nowise cast down, nor indeed are any of the others. There is not one of them but appears to be of full average intelligence, but all are evidently of the genus California hoodlum, and would rather steal or do anything else than work The woman, it should be understood, was dressed in man's apparel when captured, but was subsequently supplied with a meagre outfit suitable for her sex. Her wardrobe under the circumstances is by no means extensive, so some of the charitable ladies of this place propose to add something to it, as in duty to the misguided young creature should be done.

Addis, the Photographer.

We are indebted to A. S. Addis, well and favorably known here as a photographer, for several splendid large photographs of Panamint, its mills, etc. Mr. Addis is now at that place. He wishes us to say that he will be in Lone Pine within a week or two, and will probably visit this place. His stay in either place will be but brief, so that those who desire a good picture at his hands must be in readiness. He is desirious of getting up a party to visit Mount Whitney to take views He has a complete new outfit of photographic apparatus, all of the latest improvements, and can certainly do as good work as anybody.

How It Is and Is Likely To Be.

We will have to beg the indulgence of our readers for a few weeks. Owing to a crowd of work which must be done, together with crowded columns, we shall be compelled to present a "shorter paper," during that time than common, and to pass without notice many issues and points upon which we would like to say something, for our own satisfaction if for nobody else's. But it can't be helped till after election, after which we purpose to make a greater effort to furnish a complete history of current local events then has ever been possible heretofore.

Bullion Shipments.

Last Tuesday, in our travels we met at Aurora a stage carrying thirteen heavy bars of fine bullion from Benton and Belleville, and were told that every tri weekly stage carried nearly an equal amount. These two camps are looking up grandly. Two or three other mills in this region are just now starting up or soon will, among them are the Columbus, the Sweetapple & Hazeltine and the Witherell mills.

The Juntaia.

There are about thirty men constantly at work on the above named mine, located near Aurora. It is the property of the Bank of California and is being subjected to a thorough prospecting, when, if present indications hold out, Aurora will again be a live camp, a matter greatly contingent upon this one mine.

Grand Jury.

A Grand Jury will be drawn to meet on the first Monday of next month—four days after election. Until that time the several county boarders will have to sweat it out where they are. Soon after they will all doubtless be furnished extended board down where they can get a sniff of the cool sea breezes.

Earthquake.

The Bishop Creekers were again favored with quite a sharp little earthquake about 11 o'clock on the 5th. It lasted about three seconds.

—Chicago is undoubtedly jealous. One of the papers there asserts that Philadelphia will prepare a city directory while the Centennial celebration is in progress.

Proceedings of the Board of Supervisors.

Board met in regular session Monday, August 2d. A. N. Bell and J. W. P. Laird present.

Ordered, That a new election district be set off from the election districts No. 5 and 9, (Bishop Creek and Big Pine respectively); said election district to be known as Election District No. 13 or Pine Mountain Election District.

R. L. Peterson appointed Justice-Peace for the 3rd Township.

Afraid to Venture.

The baleful influence of the Beecher scandal has destroyed the confidence hitherto reposed in the cloth. In the rural districts this effect is alarmingly noticeable. On Sunday last, says the N. Y. Sun, this distrust deprived an estimable Westchester matron of the opportunity, to her most dear, of attending divine service in the church of her choice. The scene is a pleasant little village not many miles from Mt. Kisco, and the minister and the lady are near neighbors, their respective residences being separated only by the width of the main street. The minister is middle-aged, good natured, and a favorite. It was his custom every Sunday to give his estimable parishoner a seat in the family carriage, so that she might not have to have to walk a mile to the church. On Sunday the dominie's carriage drew up in front of the lady's door She was waiting, and hustling down prepared to get in, declining the parson's proffered aid Suddenly she noticed that he was alone. "Where is your wife?" she asked abruptly. "She is not well enough to go to church today," was the reply. "Where is your daughter?" was the next query, and the answer was "She staid at home to take care of her mother." An instant of hesitation followed. Then the lady turned her back upon her pastor, saying, "I guess I won't go to church with you; there is so much scandal about nowadays." She is ninety years of age.

Telegraph in the African Deserts.

A correspondent of The London Times, writing from Berba, in tropical Africa, says: "It was singular to meet with the telegraph in the heart of the desert between Ayrab and Berba; not the telegrph put up in working order, as we see it in Europe, but all the appurtenances of that instrument of civilization carried on the backs of hundreds of camels, which, laden with coils of wires and hollow iron posts, trod their toilsome path through the burning sand. Every now and then we met one of these poor beasts which, outweighed and broken down by the weight of his load, had fallen on the ground and been abandoned a victim to the vultures. All the telegraphic gear was marked 'Siemens Brothers, London,' and was en route to Khartoum, from which town it will be forwarded on to span the desert between Kordofan and Darfour. A good many lives will probably be sacrificed before the line can be considered open, as the Arabs, who eagerly steal every piece of iron they can meet with for their spear points, have to be very severely punished before they leave off cutting down the poles. However, this difficulty once got over, the telegraph will be as easily worked as one between Khartoum and Caito, which, when it was first laid down, was continually being interrupted."

Don't Like It.

The Los Angeles Herald says: The managers of the L. A. & I. R. R. company manifest a desire to secure ground for depot purposes some two miles from the business center of the city. We cannot, of course, divine why they are pursuing this policy, but we can assure them that they are mistaking the wishes of our business men and retarding their own interests. The depot should be located as nearly as possible to the business center of the city There is, we have no doubt, land attainable for depot grounds within half or three quartes of a mile of the intersection of Main and Commercial streets. Such a location would be more advantageous to the city and greatly enhance the value and usefulness of the road.

SCISSORINCTUMS.

—There is a town in South Carolina called Sandy Mush.

—A man too strictly economical becomes a econo-miser.

—A frontier paper thinks that the matter with the Indian Bureau is its having too many drawers.

—An exchange warns Junius H. Browne that a man was hanged last week for spelling Henry with an i.

—Lady: "Such a beautiful creature must be good-tempered!" Husband: "Just what I thought when I married you, my dear."

—What should be the name of a lawyer's wife? Sue. A printer's wife? Em. A druggist's wife? Ann Eliza. A carpet man's wife? Mat-tie.

—He was scalded to death from a boiler explosion, and on his tombstone they chiselled deeply: "Sacred to the memory of our 'steamed friend."

—"I think I have seen you before, sir. Are you not Owen Smith?" "Oh, yes, I'm owin' Smith, and owin' Jones, and owin' Brown, and owin' everybody."

—Mrs. Sheridan sold the General's spurs to a tin peddler, remarking to herself that it was time to put a stop to such nonsense.

—If Mr Beecher really meant business when he said he would preach as long as there was a sinner to save, he has mapped out a permanent engagement for himself.

—Chicago is undoubtedly jealous. One of the papers there asserts that Philadelphia will prepare a city directory while the Centennial celebration is in progress.

—When a Baltimore man is weary and wishes himself dead, he cheers himself by pouring whisky into his drinking water and watching the staggers and antics of the inebriated animalcule

—The other day when the Sultan of Turkestan saw the splendid buildings of St. Thomas' Hospital, in London, he said: "The poor who are ill inhabit these places; where do the poor who are not ill dwell?" There was a sharp sting in that.

—The young lady who, at the beginning of the strawberry season, cut the berries into four pieces and ate them with a fork, was last week observed eating them out of the dish with a soup ladle, carrying fourteen to her capacious mouth every time.

—A railroad train near Boston ran down a team the other day, but fortunately hurt neither man nor horse. When the old fellow picked himself up, instead of being thankful that he was not killed, he picked up some rocks and ran after the train, firing them at it.

The Platform.

The Democratic party of California in State Convention assembled, in compliance with usage, to assert the following principles, as the basis of their political action, and pledge the candidates about to be nominated to their hearty support.

We declare:

First—that we are opposed to the unconstitutional interference of the Federal Administration in the domestic affairs of the States, by which one portion of the Union is govern with taxation to keep another portion of the Union in bankruptcy and servitude.

Second—We condemn the Republican party, not only for its contempt of constitutional obligations, but for its extravagant, partisan and corrupt administration of the Federal Government; for the perversion of the functions of the latter to enrich great corporations at the expense of the public; for the jobbery and frauds which have brought reproach upon Democratic institutions; of the Sanborn and Jayne frauds; for the famous Washington ring; for the back-pay steal; the iniquities of the protective system; the curse of inconvertible paper money; the nepotism of the President; for its disgraceful diplomatic service and unfit appointments; for its attempt to pass an unconstitutional force bill, which was fortunately frustrated by the determined front of the Democratic minority in both Houses of Congress; and for a catalogue of other enormities which have rendered that organization offensive even to the mass of those who were once its supporters.

Third—That now as in past periods we are in favor of a strict construction of the Constitution, and against the exercise of doubtful powers; in favor of limiting the powers of legislative bodies; in favor of a tariff for revenue only, and a currency convertible into gold and silver at the will of the holder; against the profligate and wasteful system of local improvements by the Federal Government, and in favor of reducing the expenditures of the State governments, and of the counties and towns, and the salaries of officials, which have been largely increased since the State election of 1871

Fourth—That the School system and fund of this State are under guarantee of the Constitution inviolable, and we are opposed to any diversion of the fund to any purpose except those ordained by the Constitution.

Fifth—We assert the traditional policy of the party, in declaring it is the right and duty of the Legislature to regulate corporations, whether railway, telegraph, water or otherwise; to limit their charges in the interests of the public, and to compel them to serve all citizens, without discrimination, at reasonable rates; and that when they refuse to do so, we recognize the right and declare the intention of making them do so; and we further assert it to be the duty of the Government to preserve the waters of the State for irrigation and other public uses, instead of permitting them to be made the means of extortion and monopoly.

Sixth—That the Democratic party has no occasion to make any new departure or declaration of opposition to the system of subsidies, when we recall the fact that it is to a Democratic State Administration that this State owes its deliverance from this oppressive, unjust and corrupt system

Seventh—That we are in favor of calling a convention of delegates elected by the people to amend the Constitution of the State, as the only mode of creating a system of government at once harmonious and efficient, and are therefore opposed to the amendments to the constitution, which are to be submitted to a vote of the people at the ensuing election.

Eighth—That the time-honored Democratic doctrine of local self government is sufficient when properly administered to afford an effective remedy for the evils now caused by Chinese labor and the presence among us of an inferior race, detrimental to our moral and physical health; that to the interests of all classes in California, especially that of the white working people, we demand such amendment to the Burlingame treaty as shall reduce it to a mere commercial convention.

Ninth—That we condemn the doctrine whereby the power of the State to prevent the importation to our shores of degraded persons for immoral purposes has been denied.

Tenth—That we favor the speedy completion of a transcontinental railway on the Thirty-second parallel, subject to such limitations by the Federal and State Governments as shall protect the rights of the people.

Eleventh—That we are in favor of equal taxation, and any departure from this principle or any system of taxation which imposes a double tax upon the same object is in violation of the spirit of the Constitution and unjust to the best interests of the State.

Twelfth—That all legislation intended to regulate the social habits and customs of the people, so long as those habits and customs do not interfere with the welfare of society at large, and all legislation of the character known by the general name of Prohibitory Law is opposed to the principles of the Democratic party, and is calculated to promote a pretense of social morality, rather than a well founded system of public order and decency.

Thirteenth—That we invite the hearty co-operation of all persons, whatever may have been their past political affiliations, to unite with us in carrying out the principles herein enunciated.

Fourteenth—That we condemn, as subversive of the rights of the people and ruinous to the best interests of the State, the policy of permitting the lands of the State, to become a monopoly in the hands of the few at the expense of the many, and we hereby pledge the Democratic party to the correction of this giant evil.

A Heavy Mortgage.

[From The S. F. Chronicle.]

The clerks in the Recorder's office were thrown into a flutter yesterday afternoon by the appearance of a young law clerk who staggered into the office under an immense load of manuscript carefully wrapped in oiled silk and tied with red ribbon. The young law clerk deposited his burden on the desk in front of the handsome Chief Deputy and began to mop his streaming forehead with a cambric handkerchief. The clerks gathered around the rosy Chief Deputy, while he was unrolling the ponderous document. The rosy Chief Deputy glanced through the document and gasped for breath as he attempted to take in some of the figures named. He ordered the document taken away, and during the afternoon it was kept in the private office of the Recorder, where the clerks gazed upon it by turns with bated breath. A Chronicle reporter, who was used to big figures, ran his practiced eye through the manuscript, and found that the first part of it was a release of the mortgage given November, 1, 1870, by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to D. O. Mills of this city and P. C. Calhoun of New York, as trustees, to secure the payment of the bondholders of the company of their dues thereon. It recited that all the bonds issued under said mortgage have been taken up, satisfied and canceled, and concluded with the release. The second part is a new mortgage from the company to D. O. Mills and Lloyd Tevis of this city. It sets forth that the company in order to raise means to complete its road to the terminus of the Texas Pacific at Fort Yuma, is about to issue, as directed by the vote of the Directors, first mortgage bonds of the company to the amount of $46,000,000, payable in thirty years, and bearing interest at six per cent. per annum. To secure the payment of these bonds to purchasers the road, franchises, lands, etc., are mortgaged to Mills and Tevis, who, as trustees, are empowered to foreclose in case of failure to pay principal or interest when due, or if they prefer to take possession of the road and operate for the bondholders they may, under certain restrictions, do so in case of default. The last trust mortgage bears date of August 1, 1875. It covers 50 pages of closely written legal cap, and both in the number of folios and the value of the property conveyed is the largest document ever recorded in this city.

Grass Planted by Grasshoppers.

A curious fact connected with the grasshoppers raid in Western Missouri is that, wherever pastures have been destroyed by the insects, new varieties of grass, which never before have been seen in the localities, have sprung up. The principal species is a green bunch grass of luxuriant growth, covering ground formerly yielding nothing but blue grass. Cattle eat the new species with avidity. It is conjectured that the seed was brought to the region and deposited by the grasshopper swarm which laid their eggs there last Fall. Some definite explanation of the phenomenon would be very interesting, since it is not known where the grass originally grew or what may be expected of it, if its growth continues, in the future. Possibly the grasshoppers may prove a blessing yet.

Civil Rights.

A fair and square test under the Civil Rights law will now be made up in Indiana. In direct violation of the State statute Frank Miller, white, has married Mary A. Ginis, colored, and is in jail for so doing. The marriage license was regularly issued by the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Clark county, and the ceremony was regularly performed by a Methodist clergyman of New Albany, who has been indicted together with the incarcerated bridegroom. Miller is a German by birth, has been in this country about six years, and declares that he loves his wife and would "rather have her than any white woman he ever saw." She is described as a "decent, honest woman," and both announce their intention of fighting the matter to the end.

—To milk a kicking cow stand off about eight feet and yell, "So, you darned skin-flint."

The Story of an Arab.

The story of a Cincinnati newsboy who found a pocketbook, containing $100, and returned it to the owner with contents intact, reached Philadelphia in good season, and was productive of considerable of a sensation among the street Arabs. One small boy was so affected by it that he straightway determined to see that Cincinnati boy, and go him seventeen or eighteen better. He took another small boy into his confidence, and the test of probity of character was carried into effect. Boy No. 2 dropped a well padded pocketbook, which No. 1, following close behind, picked up.

Then with a look on his face that would have done honor to Benjamin Franklin, the honest little fellow walked up to an old gentleman who was passing by, extended the pocketbook, and with trembling voice exclaimed, "I take it, sir. It is yours. You dropped it just now. My mother and seven little brothers are starving, but I cannot keep it, sir, for it don't belong to me." The old gentleman looked at the boy, then pulled out his spectacles and adjusted them for a better sight. He could not sufficiently admire the wan visage of that little street wanderer, illumined as it were with a glow of goodness and honesty. He patted the boy on the head, and pulling a five dollar bill from his vest pocket, handed it to him, saying, "Boy, you will grow to be a great man. Take this money for your starving family, and always remember that 'honesty is the best policy.'" Then the old gentleman skurried into the nearest lager beer saloon, and opened his pocketbook. Then he began to dance around and call heaven and earth to witness that if he ever encountered that boy again he would flay him alive. And he continued to orate until a policeman was called in to arrest him as a lunatic, and the only excuse he could offer for his conduct was that a small boy had robbed him of five dollars by giving him a pocketbook stuffed with old paper.

An Interview with the Beaver Chief.

A Salt Lake dispath of August 3d, says that in an interview with the Chief of the Beavers, by means of an interpreter, the following was elicited: "I was not at Corn Creek, but am brother to the mother of Kenosh, Chief of the Corn Creek Indians, and I am a warm friend with the Pahvants. I often talked the matter over with them. The story of the poisoned ox is not true, nor of the poisoned springs. The water talked of is not a spring—it is running water. No persons ever poisoned it as the Mormons say. The Indians never told me of it, and I being with them must have often heard of it. No Corn Creeks, Pahvants nor Beavers ever went to Mountain Meadows. It is all one lie, whoever says so. All the Indians, there were not more than one hundred, for I knew Moquepus, who was there with his Cold Creek Indians. He is my friend; so were all his Indians. I have often talked with them during the last seventeen years. Moquepus and his warriors always said they were making a living by hunting round Cedar, when John D. Lee came and told them to come and help kill the emigrants. Moquepus replied that he had not guns nor powder enough. Lee said the Mormons would furnish guns and powder. Moquepus said what will the Indians get. Lee said: Clothing, all the guns and horses, and some of the cattle to eat. So they went. Moquespus was wounded and died a year after of his wounds. All the Indians tell the same story. No Indians in Utah had any animosity against the whites. Then all was peace with the Indians. One Indian tried to steal a horse of Drake's party and a guard shot him, and for a day or two there was trouble and some shooting. That was the only trouble we ever had. I know all these Indians. I know all Indian traditions. I know what I tell is true. I tell it because they are cowards and tried to throw all the blame upon the Indians. Lee is like an Indian who shot two miners long ago. He got caught and when brought here he got scared and shook like a coward. So with Lee. He has got scared and says the Indians did it. Lee led the Indians at the massacre, and Moquepus always said Lee was the Chief over him in that fight. That was in the bargain."

Mob Law, etc.

Howard who was hung by the Des Moines mob, was convicted of the murder of Johnson upon the testimony of Belle Birton, and Belle Barton has just committed suicide at Omaha. This adds such evidence as remorse and self murder can add to strengthen the opinion we have always held that Howard was an innocent man, and that his wife and Mr. Charles Ricord, charged as his accomplices are utterly innocent of Johnson's death. The suicide of Belle Barton must result in the discharge of Mrs. Howard and of Mr. Ricord, as there is left no testimony upon which it would be at all possible or proper to hold them.—[Iowa City (Iowa) Press.

—Went out on a fly—that absconding treasurer of a St. Louis base ball club.

—A tourist who was asked in what part of Switzerland he felt the most, replied, "When I was going to Berne."

—"We all have our crosses," sighed Cardinal McClosky, as he mournfully pinned on that $20,000 diamond, one the St. Vincent pupils thrust upon him.

Cure for a Felon.

As soon as discovered, take some spirits of turpentine in a cup, dip the finger in it, and then hold the hand near a hot fire till dry; then dip it in again, and repeat for fifteen minutes, or till the pain ceases. The next day, with a sharp knife, pare off the skin, and you will find something like a honey comb filled with clear water, open the cell and the felon is gone. If the felon is too far gone for turpentine, oil of origanum, treated in the same way will cure. If too far advanced for either to cure, the felon will be benefitted, as it will be less painful. Never draw it.

—The minister had informed his hearers that they could not expect to win "the heavenly stake with four aces of faith, hope, charity and virtue, while the Lord held a flush—." He got no further in this figure of speech, for at that instant there was a hubbub in the main aisle, and as the preacher descended with frightful velocity from the pulpit and disappeared through the back door just ahead of a No 12 boot, the voice of the most prominent deacon was heard to exclaim: "We don't want no snoozer of a preacher what don't know as four aces beat a plain flush."

—The Detroit Free Press says that the following rumors prevailed in Detroit just after the tornado: "That a house was moved twelve blocks and not damaged; that an old woman was blown four miles; that a boy had his ears blown off; that a horse had his tail blown off; that cow was blown up into a tree; that a fencepost was carried ten miles; that a cat had her fur swept clean off of her; that a man had his boots blown off, and that a brick yard was moved a full half mile without tearing down the kiln."

—A young lady, living in Ripley county, Indiana, found the other day what is supposed to be the petrified head of an Indian. It weighs eight pounds, measures eight inches from the tip of the nose to the base of the skull, six and a half inches from the jaw to the top of the skull, and two and a half inches from the mouth to the eye. One half of the face looks very natural, but the other has apparently been injured while turning to its present petrifaction.

—Physician—"Why don't you set a bound to your drinking and not exceed it?" "So I do, old fellow, so I do; but then, you see it is so far off that I always get drunk before I reach it."

—The man whose wife gave away his last bottle of cocktail to a sick begger, has since been heard to mildly express the opinion that charity should begin at home.

—What is the use of talking of this world's brightness and sunshine to a man that has tight boots?

RAILROADS IN LOS ANGELES.

The Southern Pacific Railroad is stated to have reached Colton, a station within three miles of San Bernardino, and in a short time trains will be run into that flourishing town. There has lately been a good deal of stir there and an advance of prices, in real estate, owing to the near proximity of the road, which will afford an outlet for the trade of San Bernardino county in the direction of San Francisco. According to The Anaheim Gazette, there are now in Los Angeles county 103 miles of rail road operating. The Wilmington road 21 miles; Anaheim branch, 22 miles; San Fernando road, 25 miles, and Spadra road to county line, about 35 miles. Within the next four months, The Gazette, thinks the Spadra branch, which is already finished to San Bernardino, will extend through the San Gorgonio Pass to the desert, a distance of 120 miles from Los Angeles, in the direction of Fort Yuma, on the Colorado river, to which point it will be extended early next year. The Anaheim branch will probably be extended during the present season ten miles further into the valley on the east side of the Santa Ana River. Between Los Angeles and San Francisco there is a continuous line of road, with the exception of the gap between Caliente, the present terminus of the road at the head of the San Joaquin Valley, and San Fernando, the terminus of the north branch from Los Angeles. This interval is about 100 miles in length, and would have been completed long ago but for the necessity of first piercing with tunnels the Sierra Madre at San Fernando and the Sierra Nevada at Tehachapai Pass—both extraordinary heavy operations. These tunnels are being pushed as fast as men and money can drive them, and it is confidently expected that within a year from this time there will be a continuous line of rail from San Francisco to Fort Yuma. These roads are all the property of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

Woodruff, the Defaulter.

The investigation by the Central Pacific authorities of the defalcation of Woodruff, alias Miller, were completed. The amount was about $1,000,000 The company succeeded in repairing losses on account of the increased value of Woodruff's investments, which kept pace with his high living. He has not been delivered to the authorities of the law, and it is believed that he went to China on the last steamer. An officer of the company admitted that he had been released on parol not to quit this jurisdiction till he received permission from the railroad authorities. The Bulletin says, editorially, that his offenses are of no ordinary character Bigamy, embezzlement and forgery have been charged against him. If the facts should turn out that this man is beyond nemisis of California penal laws, the people of this State will hold the directors of the Contract and Finance Company or Western Development Company responsible for this outrage upon justice.

ELECTION DAY LIQUOR LAW.

As election day is near at hand, we would call the attention of saloon keepers and all concerned to the following Act to prevent the sale of intoxicating beverages on election days; Statutes of California, page 299:

SECTION 1. It shall not be lawful for any person or persons keeping a public house, saloon, or drinking place, either licensed or unlicensed, to sell, give away, or furnish spirituous or malt liquors, wine, or any other intoxicating beverages, on any part of any day set apart, or to be set apart, for any general or special election by the citizens in any election district or precinct in any of the counties of the State where an election is in progress, during the hours when by law, in said district or precinct, the election polls are required to be kept open.

SEC. 2. Any person or persons violating the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

A Good Paper.

The Resources of California, for August, comes laden with an exceptionally good budget of carefully prepared and interesting information relative to the State. To immigrants and strangers desiring to be informed on this point, this paper will convey the best idea of our vast, varied interests.

Fresno Democracy.

It appears that the Democracy of Fresno, one of the strongest Democratic counties in the State, is very much in the same condition as their brethern of Kern. Up to last week no organization of the party had taken place. The Expositor called upon them to make an effort in that direction on the 12th, on which occasion Johnson and Lamar were speak at that place.

OUR NEXT CONGRESSMAN.

The people of this district are presented a choice of three candidates for the next Congress. Of the three, it strikes us very forcibly that the Hon. S. O. Houghton should be the very just choice. He has certainly proved himself a factotum of the railroad. He was certainly not only a back pay stealer, but an apologist for the same, and every other public steal of similar character. But setting aside his bad record in all such matters as the above, there is one very important reason, as we take it, why he should not receive a vote in all Inyo county. He is and ever has been the right bower, the phant tool of that honest man, Josiah Earl, Esq., and to-day stands pledged, in case of his re-election, to establish a Reservation for the Indians of this valley, the aforesaid Josiah to be the agent of the same! Our readers can depend upon the truth of this statement, so far as a written promise to that effect, as well as a perfectly reasonable probability, can make it so. If the people of this county desire to have these Indians placed upon a reservation—if they furthermore wish to give Josiah an extra good chance to steal himself rich—all they have to do is elect the Hon. S. O. Houghton, and the thing is surely good as done. We shall not elaborate upon this matter, nor the respective characters and acts of these two men. Enough is known about both, and their relationship to render this unnecessary, and as for the Reservation proposition, that can be depended upon just as certainly as we have mentioned it here. Also, as a matter of course, we can depend upon another land thieving operation, already planned—to be effected through an enterprise meritorious of itself, perhaps, but as certain to prove an unmitigated swindle as that Houghton and Earl are identified with it in any manner whatever.

Of the three candidates—Houghton, Wiggington and Thompson—the latter, who is the Independent candidate, appears to stand a head and shoulders in point of principle, above either of the others. He is the only one of three who is not a monopoly and railroad man in the worst signification of those terms. If we are to believe what we hear on very good authority, he is the superior of either of either in respect to talent and energy, and political honesty.

According to proofs given in The Visalia Delta of a late date, Wiggington, the Democratic nominee, is as perfect a railroad candidate and tool, as Mr. Houghton himself. In fact, he is the paid attorney for the company. In that respect, however high he may stand in others, it really seems as if he is quite as objectionable as the Republican nominee himself.

The Independent candidate is by far the most preferable of the three. But in saying this for the Independent candidate for Congress for this district we have named the only man on that ticket, which, in our opinion, has any superior claims above their opponents in the regular parties. We believe that Phelps at the head of the Republican ticket is a better, more able and promising man than either of his opponents. Bidwell is an old land grabber; Irwin is—a mere circumstance. Phelps' promises are as much to be relied upon we think more, than either of the others, and who can truthfully say the platform he stands upon is not quite as good, not to say a good deal better, than either of the others? However, it is more a question of men, this time, than of platforms and such, and that is why we believe Thompson for Congress for this district and Phelps for Governor, are a good deal more worthy of support than their opponents. Anyway, unless we want to be outraged by barefaced swindles right under our noses, it is our duty to elect Mr. S. O. Houghton—to stay strictly at home, as he professed to be so anxious to do previous to the meeting of that intellectual nominating convention of six Reduction of Rates on the S. P. R. R.

Shippers, merchants, consumers and the traveling public will find an interesting advertisement in The Herald of this morning. It comes from the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and announces a heavy reduction in the charges of freights and fares. General merchandise will now be brought from the anchorage at Wilmington to this city for two dollars and a half per ton. Fare between this city and the anchorage at Wilmington is reduced to fifty cents—a reduction of four fifths. Freights of the character enumerated in the advertisement are reduced to one dollar and fifty cents between the achorage and the city. This action on the part of the Railroad Company is one of vast importance to the people of this city and valley. It will save the people many thousands of dollars annually.—[Los Angeles Herald, Aug. 4

Mrs. Norton.

The trial of Mrs. Norton as an accessory to the murder of her husband, has commenced at Santa Barbara. Only sympathy for her as a woman will prevent her sharing the fate of her paramour Cotton—imprisonment for life.

THE BOGUS TRIAL ENDED.

The jury in the Lee case at Beaver was discharged August 7th. It stood nine for acquittal to three for guilty. Thus ends this the greatest farce of the age. What course will now be pursued by the prosecution is not foreshadowed. It is hardly to be expected, though, that this interesting drama will be reproduced before a tribunal composed principally of Mormons. An editorial in The Eureka Sentinel gives the result, and severe as it is no honest American can but endorse every word of it:

The result demonstrates that Mormons are totally unmindful of the sanctity of an oath when one of their own faith is put upon trial. It would be worse than mockery of justice and the forms of law to further prosecute the Mountain Meadows butchers before Mormon juries. No plainer or stronger case can be made out than that proven against John D. Lee; and yet, nine members of the jury, eight of whom were Mormons, say on their oaths that he is guiltless of crime. Lee, who, in violation of a flag of truce, everywhere among the nations of the earth recognized as a sacred convenant and guarantee of good faith, treacherously and mercilessly slaughters in cold blood one hundred and thirty innocent men, women and children, and when arraigned and tried for this damnable crime against the laws of both God and man is pronounced, by a jury regularly impaneled and sworn to regard the law the evidence, a sinless saint! That is enough, showing, as it does beyond all question, that convictions are not to be had in Utah Territory, no matter how heinous the offense. The trial just closed may not, however, be entirely devoid of beneficial results. The facts connected with the massacre have been called out in all of their bloody details; and the whole civilized world, now in possession of them, will pass upon the unparalleled crime. Congress must take notice of the condition of affairs in Utah, and we are not without hope that measures will speedily be inaugurated which will insure a proper administration of affairs in that Territory and the swift punishment of the arch fiends and conspirators.

New Patents.

Through dispatches to Dewey & Co., Patent Agents, San Francisco, we receive the following advance list of U. S. Patents granted to Pacific Coast inventors, viz: C. C. Simpson, Santa Clara, Cal., chisel for stone cutting; H. M. Stow, San Francisco, wood pavement; A. J. Culberton, San Andreas, Cal., fire escape; S. P. Doane, San Francisco, sharpening rifles; J. Enright San Jose, Cal., boiler for portable engines; J. Feix, San Francisco, crucible; W. H. L. Gabbs, San Francisco, bed lounge; J. A. T. Overend, San Francisco, machine for cutting printers' leads; J. A. T. Overend, San Francisco heater and feed pump for boilers; S. P. Randolph, Tehama, Cal., cutter head; O. V. Roe, Chico, Cal., washing machine; H. Shogran, Portland, Oregon, bench plane; J. Tullock, Jamestown, Cal., recisseur, ore stamp feeder; D. V. B. Henarie, San Francisco, trade mark for whisky; C. A. Law & Co. San Francisco, trademark for tea; E. Martin & Co., San Francisco, trade mark for whisky.

Puff Political.

The San Francisco Alta is enthusiastic over the improving prospects of the Republican party in California. It says that from all parts of the State encouraging news is being received of the renewed strength and unity in the Republican ranks. The prospects are improving daily, and all the Republican speakers who have canvassed during the past month had large and enthusiastic meetings. During the present month an earnest and thorough canvass is to be made in every part of the State, and no less than thirty speakers will be in the field.

Trespass Law Suit.

A suit has been commenced in Fresno county under the provisions of the 8th section of the Trespass Act by Abner Dobbs and Thos. Nelson against John Sutherland for $21,000 damages, caused by the cattle grazing on tract of land comprising some 17,000 acres, and claimed by the plaintiffs.

Found Guilty.

Cotton, the Santa Barbara fiend, has been found guilty, as charged, of the murder of Norton; the jury fixing the penalty at imprisonment for life. Mrs. Norton is now trial, and Cotton is admitted to testify against her.

Bidwell.

The Alta is publishing copies of documents found in the Spanish archives which prove that in 1841 Bidwell renounced his allegiance to the United States and became a citizen of Mexico.

A Lucky Earthman.

The "Mr. Turner," alluded to in the following extract from The Reno Democrat is probably Archie Turner, formerly of Eureka, who is now in the vicinity of Columbus, Esmeralda county, where the below mentioned "find" was made: "Mr. Turner picked up a piece of turquoise, from which settings of the size of a four-bit piece can be made. It weighs 1¼ pounds and is valued at one thousand dollars. Prof. Engletree, of the Borax mine, says it is the finest and largest specimen ever discovered.—[Sentinel.

New Music.

We are indebted to Bancroft & Co., San Francisco, for two fine new comic songs, the "Artful Chinee," and "I won her heart at Billiards," published by Brainerd & Co., Cleveland, Ohio, and for sale, as all other new music at Bancroft & Co's, Music Warerooms, San Francisco.

Robbed in Fish Lake Valley.

Mr. Wilcox, who we mentioned as having lost $500 between this place and Big Pine, was robbed while on his way from Pine Mountain to Columbus. The following is from The Borax Miner of August 7th:

On last Tuesday evening at about nine o'clock Mr. G. H. Wilcox of Pine Mountain was stopped by three aymen in Fish Lake Valley, a short distance this side of Dyer's ranch. It seems that Mr. Wilcox started from Pine Mountain to come to Columbus to pay some bills due to mining men here, and for this purpose had a package of six hundred dollars in twenty dollar pieces. This package the robbers captured, but did not take a purse containing about thirty five dollars in coin which the victim had in another pocket. Mr. Wilcox says this is the first time he has ever traveled alone with any considerable amount of money, and the presumption is that the fact of his having the money was known at Pine Mountain before he left, and that he was followed from home by the thieves. He saw only two men, and it was so dark at the time of the robbery that he would not be able to identify either of them.

Referring to the $500 which Mr Wilcox lost on the road to Big Pine, The Reveille says:

He deserved to lose it all for being such a fool as to carry his money in that way, especially in a section invested by bandits.

We suppose The Reveille will be happy now.

From an Inside Stand Point.

The following, given as we find it, is from one of the prisoners now in the County Jail. He is the married man of the party, which explains a portion of the effusion. Taken as a whole we think this may be a warning to future generations:

MR. EDITOR: Notice this, my life Since I Became a Defendent. I have Not Been Brought in to this By my one free Will—I Was led in to this By a Nother party. I Will admite that I Was foolish to Do So but at the Same time theire is men of influence that Can lead a man in to most any thing. but it has ben Done and I Cant help it. I am Willen to go a Shorte time for What I have Done but I Dont think a man Shoud be knocked Down and Drug out to beCause he is rich. I hope the people of this County Will Knot think hard of me ore be to hard on me but I Could Knot blome them much if they Ware hard on us, but I can Say one thing if I ever get out of here I Will be a Difent man from What I have been in the last three Weaks. Jack is very good to me and I Cant Say any thing against the jailers. but I Would like better if they Would bring us more grub but I Would be better satisfied if I could get a Kiss ever Day as well.

H. LEWIS.

Crop Prospect.

Until threshing is over it will be impossible to state with anything like accuracy what amount of grain has been produced this season. Some of our exchanges think the crop has been largely overestimated. The Stockton Independent thinks it is safe to say that not much in excess of half a crop will be realized. The Los Angeles Herald says "perhaps not over one fourth, or at most, three-eights of an average crop has been raised this year." We are inclined to the belief that both these estimates are much too low for the crop of the whole State, although they may correct in particular localities. There is a wave a tendency in local journals just before harvest to overrate the probable yield in their vicinity. No harm is intended, but a sort of rivalry grows up among editors as well as papers as to which shall make the most favorable report. But be the crop greater or less than previous estimates, it is agreed on all hands that it is uniformly of an excellent quality. Prices seem not yet to be settled either in this market or Liverpool. The cost of freight and sacks is still far above, to the farmers, being much lower than last year. There is no present demand for shipping wheat, as the prices asked by the holders leave no margin for profits to exporters. The only only demand is by millers, who purchase small lots as needed at $2 10 to $2 15. Barley is firm and may be quoted at $1 50@$1 55 for feed, and $1 60@$1 65 for brewing. For a choice article $1 70 is asked.—[San Francisco Chronicle.

Making a Mistake.

If the managers of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad intend to do a freight competing business with the Southern Pacific Railroad they are making a serious mistake in locating their depot so far from the business center of the city. We make this statement at the request of a number of leading citizens who inform us that the company have expressed a desire not to depart from the line specified in their communication to the Council. To adhere to this proposition is to place the depot so far from the center of the city that the drayage on freight will almost if not quite equal the railroad charges from the water to the depot. These are facts apparent to all and they should be carefully considered by the company before taking decided action in the premises.—[Herald.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Darwin Mines Sold.

Geo. D. Roberts and the Brown Bros. recently disposed of their interests in the following named Coso mines to the Cerro Gordo Consolidated Silver Mining Company: Grant, St. Louis, Capital and Mammoth, together with certain water privileges and other Darwin property. We have not heard the amount of the consideration but it must have been a good round figure, as these all rate as first class mines. The same parties also sold the New York, St. Lawrence, Gen. Lee, San Francisco, Grant, London, Washington, Glasgow, Mt. Ocher, Vanderbilt, Rothschilds, Boston and Monster mines, all in the same district, to the Darwin Consolidated Silver Mining Company. Chas. E. Eliot also made a sale of the Guervo mine, to the Guervo Silver Mining Company. All of the foregoing mines have been incorporated with an aggregate capital of $10,000,000. The transfers have been duly recorded in the Clerk's office of this county. The Darwinites are highly elated at the flattering outlook for their camp, and have good reason to be.

The "Banditess" Lizzie.

This female hoodlum is already gaining many sympathisers, and it is asserted by many that it will be impossible to find a jury in the county to convict her. Be this as it may it is impossible for our sympathetic heart to beat in unison with those who would turn loose the most dangerous character among them—the one most devoid of feeling or principle, the one who could laugh with brazen hard carelessness when her companions trembled and paled with fear on their arrival as they were being escorted through a crowd whom they took to be a mob, the coolest one of the lot during their depredations at Graves' place voluntarily standing guard with a gun. How much sympathy had she for one of her own sex who was bound and robbed before her eyes? That she shared in all their crimes and furnished the cunning, the brain work and helped to plan, we doubt not, for she is certainly capable of much worse. Whether she is the wife of Lewis or not it matters but little. Let her have a fair and impartial trial with the rest and suffer the consequences they all so richly deserve.

Horse Stealing in Lone Pine.

Lone Pine has had a little sensation this week in the way of horse stealing. Mr. Diaz is the loser of three of his best horses, they were taken and run off by two hombres and a Mexican woman—the latter commonly known as the "Horned Toad." They took the direction of Monache Valley over the mountains. A party composed of Diaz' vaqueros started in pursuit, and from last accounts it was rumored they had captured one of the men and had him securely tied. If the entire party are caught the question will probably arise, is the "Horned Toad" married, and is she accountable for her lodge lord's short comings?

Joke on a Tailor.

There is a store not many miles from Lone Pine's jurisdiction and in that store they keep superb cheese; now it happened that a certain tailor took a great fancy to said cheese and would drop in several times a day and sample it. The proprietors didn't relish this familiar way of cheesing the proprietor so they fixed up a bogus cheese of putty and sliced off a few tempting pieces. The next day the tailor put in an appearance and made a dive for the putty. The last that was seen of him he was rushing for the door with his mouth pretty wide open, and gasping out as he went, "where you got that new kind limburger? Mine Gott."

Weather.

The weather has been quite sultry this week, raising the mercury up to 98°. The clear blue sky was clouded for two days; some rain in the mountains. It is a singular and not a common sight to see heavy black cloud hanging on the Sierra Nevadas and it gives them the appearance of being twice as high as when viewed in our usual clear weather.

First Bullion Shipped.

A shipment of seventy five bars of bullion was made from Darwin this week. The net weight was 7,000 lbs. and the assay value of $280 per ton. This is the first for the district, and is from the Tyler or Union Company furnace. This is a small furnace and when first started up got out three bars and then froze. It was soon cleared, however, and the next run was 80 bars. It is to be rebuilt, being too small for effective work.

Tchachapai.

This euphonious mixture of all known languages is spelled about four thousand different ways, or at least it seems that everybody has an original way of spelling it to suit his own idea of the aboriginal dialect. We would suggest it be used as a standard jaw breaker in the next spelling campaign.

County Court.

An adjourned term of the County Court is set for the 18th, at which time a special Grand Jury will be called to take action in the matter of the robbers now in jail.

Deserted.

Another cavalry man belonging to Company "I," deserted this week. Doing nothing is becoming monotonous with them.

From Panamint.

We learn that the Jacobs mill started up Wednesday.

Officers Installed.

The following officers of Busy Bee Lodge, No 250, I. O. G. T., were duly installed August 11: George Belding, W. C. T.; Chas. O'Neil, W. R. H. S.; Chas. B. Ferry, W. L. H. S.; William Goodlow, W. V. Recovering.

We were present the other day while Dr. White was dressing Mr. A. G. Cook's arm. The stump is rapidly healing, in fact much better than could be expected considering his condition. He will probably be sent to Stockton for treatment as soon as he is able to bear the journey.

The Gatmadore at Pine Mountain.

The gatmadore at Pine Mountain was completed the other day. The work was accomplished in less time and at less expense than was anticipated when the change was made. Everything works splendidly now, and there will be a shipment of bullion in a few days.

Deferred.

Among a number of other articles crowded out until next week is a table of distances by stagecoach from Camp Independence to Gabbette. These distances were measured by Capt. Macgowan, Post Commandant, and kindly furnished us for publication.

Mill for Piute District.

We are pleased to know that Piute District, opposite Bishop Creek, after so much talk, is at last to have a mill. Mr. R. M. Johnson has purchased the old Deep Spring mill, which is to be rebuilt and put in operation at Piute immediately.

Fatal Shooting in Benton.

The result of a controversy concerning an old debt, in Benton last Wednesday, ended in the shooting of Jim Walsh by Wm Dippel. The double barrel shotgun being the agent of death this time. It was done in self defense says our informant.

A Strike.

Mr. Wingard rode into town last night saying the boys had made a strike—not for higher wages but of a higher grade of ore in the Silver Sprout. Messrs Wingard and Page started early this morning for the scene of action. Anything more deponent sayeth not.

Business Place for Rent.

Parties desiring to rent a good business stand in this place for store, saloon or similar purposes are referred to P. Reddy's advertisement of the old Headquarters Saloon.

Bridge Finished.

As a matter of interest to certain young men, as well as the public generally, we will state that Captain Dudey of the Eclipse Company has just finished a good bridge across the river near the mill.

Stage Accident.

Thursday morning the up stage met with an accident at Fish Springs. The horses got the best of the driver, Joe Boley, and threw him out among the rocks and broke his leg. No other serious damage.

The Saw Mill Accident.

In a letter, Mr. F. D. Lewis says that the unfortunate sawyer Simpson was not marked below the shoulders. The cutting being about the head and arms it is the worst accident from a saw we ever heard of.

Fish.

A. B. Kitchen offers for sale a lot of fine live trout, which he has in the creek above his place. See his ad. if you want to stock ponds or streams.

Only One Husband.

As will be seen from the subjoined which reaches us through the "care of Mr. Dadut Moore," Mrs. Lizzie S. Lewis, nee Kith, rises to a point of order. We beg Lizzie's pardon if we have unintentionally credited her with more husbands than she is entitled to, but we held a notion it was better, under the peculiar circumstances surrounding her previous to her arrest, she had plenty of husbands rather than none at all. Our junior is an impossibility young man, and Lizzie is really better looking than most folks might think, hence the error complained of comes through a fit of jealousy. With this apology we give place to her remonstrance, in words and spelling as we received it:

AUGUST, the 13, 1 75.

MR. EDETOR: Sir would you be so kinde as to tell me who my two husbands are, you published some thing in the paper a bout me a having two husbands. I would like to know who the secoend one is sir, and the less you put in the news Paper a bout me that is not so the worse it is for you mark my words. Plese right and let me know who the secoend one is if you please sir. I remain

LIZZIE S. LEWIS.

Two Hours of Fearful Peril.

Friday afternoon, as the 3 o'clock shift was descending in the old shaft of the Caledonia mine, the cage, with six men on it, stuck in the shaft, and, before the accident was known to the engineer, a large amount of the cable was run down and lay coiled above and around them in the shaft. Their situation for a while was one of imminent peril, as they dared make no attempt to extricate themselves, for fear of loosening the cage and causing it to drop to the bottom with all on board. Their situation being finally made known, men descended the pump shaft, made an opening and rescued them from their dangerous situation, after a confinement in fearful peril of about two hours.—[Lyon County Times.

On Dit.

We learn that negotiations are pending between some San Francisco capitalists and Messrs. Reddy, Cobb and Jewett, the owners of the Defiance mine at Darwin, for the purchase of the same. The price asked is $250,000. The mine is said to be one of the largest in existence—a vast amount of rich ore being already in sight.—[Bakersfield Courier, August 7.

—Lorenzo Day having married Miss Martha Weeks, a local paper comments:

A Day is made, a Week is lost,
But time should not complain—
There's soon be little Days enough
To make the Week again.

The Platform.

The Democratic party of California in State Convention assembled, in compliance with usage, do assert the following principles, as the basis of their political action, and pledge the candidates about to be nominated to their hearty support.

We declare:

First—That we are opposed to the unconstitutional interference of the Federal Administration in the domestic affairs of the States, by which one portion of the Union is ground with taxation to keep another portion of the Union in bankruptcy and servitude.

Second—We condemn the Republican party, not only for its contempt of constitutional obligations, but for its extravagant, partisan and corrupt administration of the Federal Government; for the perversion of the functions of the latter to enrich great corporations at the expense of the public; for the jobbery and frauds which have brought reproach upon Democratic institutions; for the Sanborn and Jayne frauds; for the infamous Washington ring; for the back-pay steal; the iniquities of the protective system; the curse of inconvertible paper money; the nepotism of the President; for its disgraceful diplomatic service and unfit appointments; for its attempt to pass an unconstitutional force bill, which was fortunately frustrated by the determined front of the Democratic minority in both Houses of Congress; and for a catalogue of other enormities which have rendered that organization offensive even to the mass of those who were once its supporters.

Third—That now as in past periods we are in favor of a strict construction of the Constitution, and against the exercise of doubtful powers; in favor of limiting the powers of legislative bodies; in favor of a tariff for revenue only, and a currency convertible into gold and silver at the will of the holder; against the profligate and wasteful system of local improvements by the Federal Government, and in favor of reducing the expenditures of the State governments, and of the counties and towns, and the salaries of officials, which have been largely increased since the State election of 1871

Fourth—That the School system and fund of this State are under guarantee of the Constitution inviolable, and we are opposed to any diversion of the fund to any purpose except those ordained by the Constitution.

Fifth—We assert the traditional policy of the party, in declaring it is the right and duty of the Legislature to regulate corporations, whether railway, telegraph, water or otherwise; to limit their charges in the interests of the public, and to compel them to serve all citizens, without discrimination, at reasonable rates; and that when they refuse to do so, we recognize the right and declare the intention of making them do so; and we further assert it to be the duty of the Government to preserve the waters of the State for irrigation and other public uses, instead of permitting them to be made the means of extortion and monopoly.

Sixth—That the Democratic party has no occasion to make any new departure or declaration of opposition to the system of subsidies, when we recall the fact that it is to a Democratic State Administration that this State owes its deliverance from this oppressive, unjust and corrupt system.

Seventh—That we are in favor of calling a convention of delegates elected by the people to amend the Constitution of the State, as the only mode of creating a system of government at once harmonious and efficient, and are therefore opposed to the amendments to the constitution, which are to be submitted to a vote of the people at the ensuing election.

Eighth—That the time-honored Democratic doctrine of local self government is sufficient when properly administered to afford an effective remedy for the evils now caused by Chinese labor and the presence among us of an inferior race, detrimental to our moral and physical health; that in the interests of all classes in California, especially that of the white working people, we demand such amendment to the Burlingame treaty as shall reduce it to a mere commercial convention.

Ninth—That we condemn the doctrine whereby the power of the State to prevent the importation to our shores of degraded persons for immoral purposes has been denied.

Tenth—That we favor the speedy completion of a transcontinental railway on the Thirty-second parallel, subject to such limitations by the Federal and State Governments as shall protect the rights of the people.

Eleventh—That we are in favor of equal taxation, and any departure from this principle or any system of taxation which imposes a double tax upon the same object is in violation of the spirit of the Constitution and unjust to the best interests of the State.

Twelfth—That all legislation intended to regulate the social habits and customs of the people, so long as these habits and customs do not interfere with the welfare of society at large, and all legislation of the character known by the general name of Prohibitory Law is opposed to the principles of the Democratic party, and is calculated to promote a pretense of social morality, rather than a well founded system of public order and decency.

Thirteenth—That we invite the hearty co-operation of all persons, whatever may have been their past political affinities, to unite with us in carrying out the principles herein enunciated.

Fourteenth—That we condemn, as subversive of the rights of the people and ruinous to the best interests of the State, the policy of permitting the lands of the State, to become a monopoly in the hands of the few at the expense of the many, and we hereby pledge the Democratic party to the correction of this giant evil.

Title IV, Part I, Penal Code.

SECTION 41. Every person charged with the performance of any duty under the provisions of any law of this State relating to elections who willfully neglects or refuses to perform it, or who in his official capacity knowingly and fraudulently acts in contravention or violation of any of the provisions of such laws, unless a different punishment for such acts or omissions is prescribed by this Code, punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the State Prison not exceeding five years or by both

SEC. 42 Every person who wilfully causes, procures or allows himself to be registered in the Register of any county, knowing himself not to be entitled to such registration, is punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the County Jail or State Prison not exceeding one year, or both. In all cases where, on the trial of a person charged with any offense under the provisions of this section, it appears in evidence that the accused stands registered in the Great Register of any county without being qualified for such registration, the court must order such registration to be canceled.

SEC. 43. Every person who, after being required by the Board of Judges at any election, refuses to be sworn, or who, after being sworn, refuses to answer any pertinent question propounded by such Board, touching his right or the right of any other person to vote, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 44 Every person summoned to appear and testify, before any Board of Registration, who willfully disobeys such summons, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 45. Every person not entitled to vote, who fraudulently votes, and every person who votes more than once at any one election, or knowingly hands in two or more tickets folded together, or changes any ballot after the same has been deposited in the ballot box, or adds, or attempts to add any ballot to those legally polled at any election, either by fraudulently introducing the same into the ballot box before or after the ballots therein have been counted, or adds to or mixes with, or attempts to add to or mix with, the ballots lawfully polled, other ballots, while the same are being counted or canvassed, or at any other time, with intent to change the result of such election, or carries away or destroys, or attempts to carry away or destroy, any poll list or ballots, or ballot box, for the purpose of breaking up or invalidating such election, or wilfully detains, mutilates, or destroys any election returns, or in any manner interferes with the officers holding such election or conducting such canvass or with the voters lawfully exercising their rights of voting at such election, as to prevent such election or canvass from being fairly held and lawfully conducted, is guilty of a felony.

SEC 46. Every person not entitled to vote, who fraudulently attempts to vote, or who, being entitled to vote, attempts to vote more than once at any election, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 47 Every person who procures, aids, assists, counsels or advises another to give or offer his vote at any election, knowing that the person is not qualified to vote, is guilty of misdemeanor.

SEC 48 Every officer or Clerk of Election who aids in changing or destroying any poll list, or in placing any ballots in the ballot box, or taking any therefrom, or adds, or attempts to add, any ballots to those legally polled at such election, either by fraudulently introducing the same into the ballot box before or after the ballots therein have been counted, or adds to or mixes with, or attempts to add to or mix with, the ballots polled

any other ballots, while the same are being counted or canvassed, or at any other time, with intent to change the result of such election, or allows another to do so when in his power to prevent it, or carries away, or destroys, or knowingly allows another to carry away or destroy, any poll list, ballot box, or ballots lawfully polled, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for not less than two nor more than seven years

SEC. 49 Every Inspector, Judge, or Clerk of an election, who, previous to putting the ballot of an elector in the ballot box, attempts to find out any name on such ballot, or who opens, or suffers the folded ballot of any elector which has been handed in to be opened or examined previous to putting the same into the ballot box, or who makes or places any mark or device on any folded ballot with the view to ascertain the name of any person for whom the elector has voted, or who, without the consent of the elector, discloses the name of any person which such Inspector, Judge or Clerk has fraudulently or illegally discovered to have been voted for by such elector, is punishable by fine, not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars.

SEC. 50. Every person who forges or counterfeits returns of an election purporting to have been held at a precinct, town, or ward where no election was in fact held, or wilfully substitutes forged or counterfeit returns of election in the place of the true returns, for a precinct town or ward where an election was actually held, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for a term not less than two nor more than ten years.

SEC 51. Every person who wilfully adds to, or subtracts from, the votes actually cast at an election, in any returns, or who alters such returns, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for not less than one nor more than five years

SEC. 52. Every person who aids or abets in the commission of any of the offenses mentioned in the four preceding sections, or who being present at or cognizant of the commission of either of such offenses, does not give information thereof as soon as practicable to the District Attorney or Grand Jury of the proper county, or to some Justice of the Peace of such county, is punishable by imprisonment in the County Jail for the period of six months, or in the State Prison not exceeding two years.

SEC. 53. Every person who, by force, threats, menaces, bribery, or any corrupt means, either directly or indirectly attempts to influence any elector in giving his vote, or to deter him from giving the same, or attempts by any means whatever to awe, restrain, hinder or disturb any elector in the free exercise of the right of suffrage, or furnishes any elector wishing to vote, who cannot read, with a ticket, informing or giving such elector to understand that it contains a name written or printed thereon different from the name which is written or printed thereon, or defrauds any elector at any such election, by deceiving and causing such elector to vote for a different person or any office than he intended or desired to vote for; or who, being Inspector, Judge, or Clerk of any election, while acting as such, induces or attempts to induce any elector, either by menace or reward, or promise thereof, to vote differently from what such elector intended or desired to vote, he is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 54. Every person who, with intent to promote the election of himself, or any other person, either:

1. Furnishes entertainment at his expense to any meeting of electors previous to or during an election;

2. Pays for, procures, or engages to pay for any such entertainment;

3. Furnishes or engages to pay or deliver any money or property for the purpose of procuring the attendance of voters at the polls, or for the purpose of compensating any person for procuring attendance of voters at the polls, except for the conveyance of voters who are sick or infirm;

4. Furnishes or engages to pay or deliver any money or property for any purpose intended to promote the election of any candidate, except for the expenses of holding and conducting public meetings for the discussion of public questions, and of printing and circulating ballots, handbills, and other papers previous to such election;

—Is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 55 Every person who, being a candidate at any election, offers or agrees to appoint or procure the appointment of any particular person to office as an inducement or consideration to any person to vote for, or procure or aid in procuring the election of such candidate, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 56 Every person not being a candidate, who communicates any offer made in violation of the last section to any person with intent to induce him to vote for, or to procure or aid in procuring the election of the candidate making the offer, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 57. (§84, 85, 86). Every person who gives or offers a bribe to any officer or member of any legislative caucus, political convention, committee, primary election, or political gathering of any kind, held for the purpose of nominating candidates for offices of honor, trust, or profit in this State, with intent to influence the person to whom such bribe is given or offered to be more favorable to one candidate than another, and every person, member of either of the bodies in this section mentioned, who receives or offers to receive any such bribe, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison not less than one nor more than fourteen years

SEC. 58. Every person who by threats, intimidations, or unlawful violence wilfully hinders or prevents electors from assembling in public meeting for the consideration of public questions, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 59. Every person who wilfully disturbs or breaks up any public meeting of electors or others, lawfully being held for the purpose of considering public questions, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC 60. Every person who makes, offers, or accepts any bet or wager upon the result of any election, or upon the success or failure of any person or candidate, or upon the number of votes to be cast either in the aggregate or for any particular candidate, or upon the vote to be cast by any person, is guilty of a misdemeanor

SEC 61. Every person who wilfully violates any of the provisions of the laws of this State relating to elections is, unless a different punishment for such violation is prescribed by this Code, punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars or by imprisonment in the State Prison not exceeding five years, or by both

Our Public Schools—Reform Needed

[From The Amador Dispatch.]

That our public school system is in need of great reform is being rapidly recognized by all who have given the subject a thought. As many of our schools are taught by system, and not by common practical sense, the money expended by parents and taxpayers, and the time which children spend going to these schools are almost worse than wasted; for the education that a majority of the children obtain is little better than no education at all. And it is almost, if not quite, impossible for a teacher to lay a proper foundation for a practical education under the systematic rules that now exist. Schools are not allowed to be held longer than six hours each day—one hour of this time being taken up for recess, leaving only five hours (which is probably enough) a day for study and recitation. At least twenty minutes or half an hour ought to be devoted to the recitation of each study. Therefore if a scholar should have five studies, he would have only from thirty to forty minutes to devote to the study of each, and surely no study that is worthy of any notice at all, can receive anything like justice in less than that, and even a longer time is required unless the scholar is more than ordinarily quick of perception. Thus we see that four or five studies at a time is as much as any ordinary child should be taxed with, and frequently a further limit would be beneficial. Yet many of the students in our public schools are forced to attempt to carry on as many as a dozen studies at one time; and by such a process it cannot be expected that they can get a very definite idea of anything. This cramming system, of education is worse than the inhuman mode of cramming geese and turkeys to fatten them is a double quick time. It not only paralyzes the physical system, but it so upsets the mental that it is difficult for it to take a firm hold on any one subject. The teacher has no time to explain the causes and effect of any principle, but the child is told so and so is the case without even thinking there exists a why and wherefore. Then, again, many of our teachers are entrusted with seventy or eighty students, when no teacher can do justice to more than thirty or thirty five. If we are to have public schools why not carry them on in some kind of a common sense style. Edward Everett once said that a good education consisted in a thorough knowledge of reading, writing, arithmetic, and grammar;" without either of which there is but little foundation upon which to build any grand ideas. There should be a law prohibiting any child from studying more than five studies at the fartherest at one time, and they should be kept at these until they have a pretty thorough knowledge of them. 'Tis better to to know two or three things well than to have an imperfect knowledge of a dozen. Let our school system be changed so that our children can receive some benefit from the millions of dollars that the taxpayers have to pay yearly for school purposes. And if this cramming, bungling system of education is continued in force we had better abolish public schools altogether.

A Great Mine.

The Gold Hill News says: The richest silver mine in the world probably is the Potocchi, or in our vernacular, the Potosi—the Chollar Potosi being named from it. It is near La Plata, and was discovered in 1545. It has always been worked in a rude manner, but it is said to have already produced $250,000,000 worth of the precious metal. For many years sixteen hundred Indians were employed in it, and, being slaves, so cruelly were they worked that they decimated rapidly, and their places were immediately filled by others. At the present time 2,000 paid men are employed, and the mine yields well and shows no signs of exhaustion.

—A pious minister in South Carolina, but a great believer in weather signs, was asked to petition the throne of grace for refreshing showers. He replied, "My friends, I will do so, but it is not going to rain until the moon changes."

Sargent as a Land Grabber.

[From The Nevada Transcript.]

The San Jose Mercury in a late issue gives a very pretty account of how Senator Sargent gobbled up 2,000 acres of rich mineral lands at Quaker Hill in this county, and wants the charge to follow the Senator until he makes an explanation. Now we propose to relieve the mind of The Mercury editor from the suspense he labors under, and will assure him that he has barked under the wrong tree, as all the Independents do when they attempt to cast discredit upon Sargent, either as a citizen or public officer. The Mercury says Sargent was the father of the Mineral Land bill, and that it was cunningly drawn so as to permit him, by the use of the names of his "friends," to locate the land in question; that these "friends" did allow the use of their names, and thereby the Senator perpetrated a great outrage on honest miners. The Mercury furthermore says the Senator dare not come up and talk to the miners on the subject of land-grabbing. Now, as Owen is a county editor, it is not expected that he knows much about mining matters or the liberal minded miners. Therefore, for his benefit, we will inform him that Senator Sargent is regarded by every miner in the county as the best friend they ever had in Congress. It is true he was the father of the Mineral Land Bill, and that bill in its workings has been eminently satisfactory to miners everywhere. It has enabled them to obtain secure titles to the lands they had so long worked and were not sure of their ownership. As to the statement about the land grabbing game played by Sargent & Co., it is false in every particular, and The Mercury knew nothing about what it was writing. The company owned all the ground now held by them long before the passage of the bill in question. The whole amount was purchased in small claims, none being obtained for less than $2,500 to $8,000 each. The company have paid out for their grounds $133,000. They never used the name of a friend, or located one tract as described by The Mercury.

All the 2,000 acres were bought from small companies who owned from four to ten claims each, and every one of them were satisfied with the prices paid them. There are facts, which, if necessary, will be sworn to by dozens of miners in this county and elsewhere. We advise The Mercury, before making more charges, to find out what it is talking about.

New Method of Reducing Ores.

An important discovery has, it is said, been perfected, for a more expeditious method of reducing ores than has heretofore been in vogue. The process depends partly upon the furnace and partly upon the treatment in the furnace, but how much of the success, if any there be, may be credited to one or the other, only the parties who have the secret all to themselves are aware of. An experimental furnace will be in operation this week on the south side of Bryant street, between Seventh and Eighth. There will probably be some intimation of the result when the experiment is concluded. In the meantime the expectations are roseate. Flood & O'Brien, are in the process, and if it answers their purposes, the reduction works now in existence will stand in the position of being superceded by a superior invention.

The crucibles have the shape of an Indian club, and are of the usual material. The neck is connected by a funnel at a slight incline, with an upright chimney of metal, and as the vapors of sulphur, zinc and arsenic ascend in this chimney and become condensed, the resultant will fall into a receiver at the bottom of the chimney and below the aperature from the crucible, whence it may be removed at pleasure through a small door. Two crucibles have been built at present. One furnace with four chimneys, two on each side, suffices for both. The ore is passed into crucibles through an opening with a door near the neck, and the gold and silver bullion, with slag on the surface, flows out at the bottom. The principle of the process has not yet been divulged, but quicksilver is not employed. The crucible and furnace are the invention of N. Mariotte, civil and mining engineer. He is also the inventor of a quick-silver furnace.—[Call.

—The strange action of Bill Jones, a man living in Dayton, Nevada, who was observed patiently following a large hog from one place to another through the street, although the heat of the sun was at at that time intense, attracted a number of his acquaintances towards him, who began asking the reason of his singular conduct. Leaning against a fence, by which he was passing, and keeping his eye steadily fixed on the hog, he replied: "You see that hog? Well, that beast has gone and eat twelve pounds of amalgam, worth $12 a pound, and I'm going to have him panned out and assayed, if it takes me a week. Tell ye what, boys, there's money in him."

—"Oh, yes, gimme ten cents worth of hair," added an up-river farmer, as he was about to leave a store, and while they were being handed down he continued: "It's h'ar pins to-day and ribbons to-morrow, and a toothbrush the next day. The gal is always wanting some flim flam thing, and I shouldn't be surprised if she'd some day get up and want to me bring home one of them combs with a brass back."

Too Much Risk.

"Come on, now, Ned," cried a New York girl at Long Branch the other day to a stripling lover at her side, "we've got clear of paps, now let's take a dive."

"Your father is an awful big and stout man, ain't he?" observed the youth.

"Oh, never mind that," observed the miss petulantly; "lets take a swim—just see the great waves."

"Don't you think it dangerous?" anxiously inquired the lover, gazing up and down the beach.

"Dangerous? No! There isn't hardly any under-tow at this point; it's—"

"Oh, but it isn't the under-tow I'm afraid of," interrupted the young man.

"Isn't it?"

"No, it's your father's toe!"

And she couldn't get him to risk it.

—"Amen! amen!" shouted a Cedar Rapids parson at the elegant remarks of a stranger at the camp meeting. Suddenly the parson turned his eye on the man, and jumped up, screaming, "Catch him, brother, catch him! He's the three-card monte man that got my last month's salary." This is a fact, and the monte man is now in jail at Cedar Rapids.

CALIFORNIA'S COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE.

We are in receipt of the bulletin recently issued by the University of California containing the course of instruction for 1875-76 in the College of Agriculture. We consider the success of the latter of more immediate value to the State than that of any other portion of the University course. The people of the State can better afford to wait awhile for their Greek and Latin and various other minor matters than for a thorough knowledge of the foundation principles of agriculture, which is now probably the first in importance among the pursuits of the people of California. The course of instruction by Professor Hilgard in the junior class will include systematic and economic botany and calture, including agricultural operations and implements. In the first term of the senior year instruction will be given in agricultural chemistry, under which head are included the chemistry of plants and their products, the nutrition of plants from atmospheric sources, the inorganic ingredients of plants, their importance and derivation. Also the physics of plants, the mechanism of their nutrition and movement of their juices, the germination and development of plants and accompanying chemical changes.

In the second term the subject of instruction will be the chemistry and physics of soil; their origin, formation, classification, physical properties, their determination and influence, mechanical analysis; their chemical composition, relation to vegetable nutrition, chemical analysis, its methods, utility and interpretation.

Under the head of Maintenance of Fertility, the following are the topics of instruction: The exhaustion of soils by irrigational culture, rotation of crops, green-manuring, fallowing, sub-soiling thorough drainage, irrigation; manures, their kinds, preparation, use and value, the rational system of culture, etc.

A thorough and sound knowledge of these branches of study, if general among the farming community of this State, would double her agricultura productions in a few years and immeasurably add to the wealth and influence of our farmers.

General News Items.

A Salem, Oregon dispatch of the 13th says: The State Temperance Convention, in session in this city to-day, indorsed the nomination of Henry Warren, Republican candidate for Congress. Geo. M. Whitney, the Indepeneat nominee, arrived by train from Eugene City to-day, and will canvass the State in behalf of that ticket.

The Reese River Reveille says: The hunt for Williams, the killer of Slater, has been abandoned for the present. The officers have returned, being unable to obtain any clue as to the whereabouts of the fugitive.

A correspondent visiting the United States fishery on McCloud says the fish are plentiful this year, and that Mr. Stone, the Commissioner, will take five million young salmon from the hatching troughs this season.

That section of country known as Frazier mountains, in Ventura county, is now attracting considerable attention as a mining district.

Judge Murray fixed August 18th as the day of trial for the case of Mrs. Norton. The testimony of Jack Cotton and Detective Devit will be given in writing. A venire for 150 jurymen has been issued. Cotton has been sent to San Quentin to begin his life sentence. He richly deserved hanging.

Personal.

We acknowledge a call this week from Mr. D. D. Bowen, of Mono, and Independent candidate for Representative for this district. Mr. Bowen is strictly Independent, running entirely on his hook. At the last election he was one of the Democratic nominees for the position to which he now aspires, and though defeated received a very flattering vote. In personal worth he stands equal to the best, and though not our preference for a Legislator, we think he is entitled with the others to a fair show before the public. The Carson Tribune says of him:

Mr. D. D. Bowen, of Antelope Valley, visited us to to-day. He is an Independent candidate for Assemblyman for the counties of Mono and Inyo. Mr. B. is a sterling man, an old resident and, better than all, a tiller of the soil—one of the horny handed sons of toil.

Columbus.

The following items are from The Miner of the 12th: The shipments of bullion from the Northern Belle works thus far in the present month have been $41,000, notwithstanding the break-down.... The Columbus mill has dropped her stamps and is rattling away right merrily.

—"What is that on your back?" once asked a London cockney of a hump-backed Yankee sailor on a ship in the London docks. "Bunker Hill, durn ye," was the reply.

A MUDDLE.

If there ever was a time when politics in this State were in a muddle this is about it. There is a remarkable feeling of uncertainty prevading the situation. There are men to choose from, but scarce an issue, for all profess pretty much the same thing. Taking the Union through there is a variety of issues. Its hard money at one point and green backs at another; contraction here and expansion there; protection for your industry, free trade for your neighbor's; tyranny in the name of freedom and anti-monopoly in order to monopolize, etc., etc., but in this State, its all anti monopoly and retrenchment, all candidates and parties claiming these to be their identical principles and objects.

In consideration of this peculiar condition of affairs voters generally feel very undecided as to whom they will support. There is less of this uncertainty apparently among the Democrats than with either the Independents, so-called, or the Republicans. The uncertainty among the last two would easily pass away in most instances, if each man could feel an assurance as to which of the two stood the best show to beat their better organized enemy, the Bourbon Democrats. Among the Independents are to be found a great many progressive Democrats who do not love the Bourbons nor respect their promises any better than do the radical Republicans, and hence, if either the Independents or Republican parties would withdraw from the contest, the Bourbons would be quite certain to come out second best on the average. But both these are in the field and likely to remain, so the chances are much in favor of their joint enemy.

As between the Independents and Republicans it is our candid conviction, judging from the best lights before us, that the Independents can effect nothing like a general victory. Here and there a man of that party will be elected, but on personal grounds far more than party strength. The Republicans are evidently closing ranks, and will surely make a much better showing in the outcome, than has generally been anticipated. In fact, we would not be surprised if they won the fight averaging the State through. Leastways, the Independents have a hopeless chance before them, just at this period. Were it not for the impending Presidential election, to come off next year, the case would be quite different as local considerations would be sufficient to maintain a local Independent party. But in the face of that election individual party preferences in this State election, will inevitably tend to one or the other of the existing national parties, between which, with no chance for another, that Presidential issue must be decided.

Yet, it is perfectly sure from every region, this pending election will witness more independence in voting than has ever occurred in the State before. In addition to what we may call the three party tickets, in many counties candidates are running independent of all parties. In some counties, like Kern for instance, party nominations proper, have no apparent existence. In consequence of this it looks as though a straight party vote will be the exception rather than the rule. That being the case, any candidate generally known to be the best man for the office, is extremely likely to get it, however his party stand.

The Sacramento Business College.

We are indebted to the above institution for various favors and kindly assistance free of cost in connection with our telegraphic enterprise, and therefore take pleasure in calling the attention of any of our young men or ladies desiring to perfect a business education to the inducements offered by this college. The Sacramento Record says:

"The Sacramento Business Cellege has been attended by over four hundred young men during the last two years, many of whom were from Nevada Oregon and remote parts of our own State. All of its graduates have found employment, and a great many students have obtained lucrative situations before completing their courses. The schsol which thus introduces young men into the customs of business is deservedly popular."

New Patents.

Through dispatches to Dewey & Co., Patent Agents, San Francisco, we receive the following advance list of U. S. Patents granted to Pacific Coast inventors, viz: H. W. Clark, Red Bluff, Cal., adjustable sack holder; J. W. Irvin, Eureka, Cal., apparatus for separating gold from sand etc.; J. W. Faulkner, Auburn, Cal., portable fruit drier; Lewis Knudson, S. F., curtain cord fastner; F. M. Truworthy, S. F., marking wheel.

—An editor, having asked an Illinois farmer for crop-news, received this answer: "And now the reaper reapeth, the mower moweth, and the little bumble-bee getteth up the busy Granger's trowsers leg and bumbleth."

THE PENALTIES.

One of the problems that has interested the decent portion of this, and similarly situated communities, has been to devise some plan to put a stop to selling whisky to Indians. The common law provides ample punishments for such violations, but practically the common law is a failure, a bilk, politely speaking. Nobody expects anything of the common law in cases of this kind. For such the penalties are quite sufficient, if they could be enforced, to deter any mercenary white wretch from the obnoxious practice of keeping a lot of drunken Indians about, killing and slashing each other, and endangering the lives of white people. But there is not more than one case on record where any penalty beyond a light fine (to be made up on the sale of two or three gallons of rot), has ever followed an arrest for a violation of this kind. Nobody expects it. Still, it is well enough to arrest an old vagabond whisky-seller now and then and put him through a sort of trial merely to show the weakness of the law. It has a wholesome effect in detering respectable dealers from setting him up in business again after he is turned loose, and confines that source of profit to that class of dealers who value a half dollar just the same after they have rubbed the blood, its price, from its face. However, it don't matter; as long as any Indians remain somebody will be found to sell them whisky, and pocket the profits, and "respectable" influences will be ready to see that the vagabond dealer or go between is not too severely punished.

The United States Government has made some very good laws for the protection of its Indian wards from such vagabond dealers and "respectable influences," but like the common law the difficulty is to enforce them. For instance, all Indians other than those upon reservations or otherwise specially provided for, are placed under the direct care and supervision of the military. The military are given power to arrest and bring to trial by Court Martial any one selling arms to Indians to search houses of persons supposed on reasonable grounds, to be selling whisky to Indians, and to confiscate the same; to arrest any one committing a assault upon an Indian. In the two latter cases to confine or hold the accused for trial before an United States District or Circuit Court, if deemed preferable to turning them over for trial in the State courts. The penalties in cases of conviction for selling whisky to Indians are from one to five years imprisonment, $200 fine and revocation of license. An assault is a felony and punishable accordingly. All this can be brought about here for instance through the military at Camp Independence, irrespectrve of civil authorities but under Department instructions the commanding officer, when the civil authorities are in full power, is expected to defer to them, so that, practically, in this locality the most that Capt. Macgowan can do is to aid in the arrest of such criminals. In fact, under the instructions which we recently published in these columns, this is the only assistance the military can now render the civil authorities except under special instructions from headquarters. As we have good reason to know, if nothing more than this is done by Capt. Macgowan to maintain the civil law or aid citizens in preserving the peace when the civil authorities are insufficient, the fault rests with these instructions and not upon himself. We all know that previous to the receipt of these he was ever ready to aid the civil authorities in every way in his power, and did do so in a number of instances we could cite. The last instance in kind was the arrest of this Dence, who at this writing is the hands of the civil authorities, the Post commandant being the prosecutor, and able and willing to produce the necessary and competent evidence to at least put him fairly on trial for felony. Should this man escape a fair hearing in court through a mere technicality or through the interference or weakness of citizens who have at stake an interest adverse to his conviction, even this sole remaining power to aid the citizens and officers practically ceases from this time henceforth.

Mono Republican Nominations.

We present elsewhere the proceedings also the ticket of the late Republican Convention of Mono county. Among the candidates we find but two of whom we have any personal knowledge, but if all the rest are as good as they Mono, in case of their election, will have a set of officers good enough for any county. These are Thompson for Surveyor, the present incumbent, we believe, and G. W. Rowan for Clerk. Mr. Rowan was a former resident of this county and has here a host of friends who would like to see him elected to the position for which he is amply qualified.

Mono Republican Action.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Republican Convention of Mono county, held at Bridgeport, August 14, 1875:

1. Resolved, That the Republican party of Mono county in convention assembled still adhere to the principles enunciated in the platform adopted by the convention that nominated Newton Booth for Governor.

2. That we are in favor of the strictest economy in the management of National, State and county affairs, and that we favor the reduction of the salaries of officers to an amount consistent with the proper discharge of the duties to be performed and the ability ofthe people to pay.

3. Political parties are the means through which a republican people can best express their will on matters of State polity. No man should be selected to office because of his desire to attain a position of honor or emolument, but solely on account of his qualifications to exercise its duties with benefit to the people.

4. Taxation should be uniform upon all property assessable for purposes of revenue, and all taxes should be stringently collected without fear or favor.

5. That the Republicans of Mono county are unqualifiedly in favor of a law that shall restrict all corporations in this State from extortion and unjust discrimination in favor of the few to the injury of the many.

6. That as water is one of the free and and essential elements provided by Nature for the use of man, we believe the time has arrived when the people should demand legislation to protect them in its proper use.

7. That we cordially indorse the administration of President Grant, and that we believe the people will not soon forget his great service in putting down the rebellion and his equally great services as the Executive of the nation.

8. That we will hail with joy the time when the legitimate results of the late war will be accepted in good faith; when the amendments to the Federal Constitution shall be everywhere recognized as the law of the land, and when a fraternal feeling will prevail throughout the country and its citizens will be permitted in every State to enjoy the rights guaranteed by the Constitution.

9. The Republican party being pre-eminently the party of the people, points with pride to its record "every page of which is emblazoned with glory," and invites to a place beneath its standard every apostle of freedom, every enemy of oppression, every person of progress, every friend of economy in public affairs, every lover of his country and his kind, every one who has faith in enduring American nationality.

10. Resolved, That this convention heartily indorse the nomination of R. A. Loomis, of Inyo county, as our candidate for the Assembly, and will use all honorable means to secure his election.

[A full county ticket was then placed in the field, which ticket we present in full elsewhere under "new advertisements."—Eds.]

Political Items.

The Kern County Courier opposes Houghton's re-election bitterly, and, while not advocating Wiggington's election because he is a Democrat, advises Republicans not to throw away their votes on Thompson, the Independent candidate who stands no show at all, but to vote for Wiggington. We would also certainly prefer Wiggington to Houghton, but Thompson to either.

The breach that has been yawning in the Democratic party in San Francisco is at last closed with no fear of again opening. Both factions are now working in harmony, and it is conceded that the State ticket will carry the city by four or five thousand majority.

The Kern County Courier says: At the last general election, two years ago, there were 1,018 names on the Register, and of these but 722 voted. The highest vote reached was that for District Attorney, there being three candidates in the field; two of these were regular nominees, Democratic and People's, the other running on his own hook, and carrying away the prize. This year there are no regular tickets in the field, but every one is going on his own hook, and the inference is that a much larger vote in proportion will be polled than ever before. There are 1,376 uncancelled names on the Great Register for the present year.

The Citizens' Independent Nominating Convention of San Francisco have nominated Sam. Brannan for Congress from that district.

Booth and Pacheco are talking to the Los Angelists about politics.

George B. Katzenstein, candidate for Surveyor-General on the Temperance ticket, has withdrawn. That temperance movement was ill-advised. For the present it may be considered out of the field. Katzenstein is the Grand Worthy Secretary of the Grand Lodge, I. O. G. T.

The "Bidwell Farm."

In the report of the Department of Agriculture for 1873, occurs the following:

The Chico Northern Enterprise makes the following statement of the products of the ranch of Mr. John Bidwell of that place, for 1872: Flour shipped to San Francisco and Oreville, 6,000 barrels; home and mountain sales of flour, 3,000 barrels; amount of sales of cattle $14,000; hogs, $8,000; sheep and wool, $6,000; dairy products, not including stock nor products consumed at home, $4,600; garden account, $20,000; grain, $40,000. The amount of land is stated at $3,000.

We have here an aggregate of $93,000, exclusive of nine thousand barrels of flour, which at the low price of $4 per barrel would amount to $36,000 more, making a grand total of $129,600.

Notwithstanding the immense revenue derived from his farm, we have his own statement, frankly made in his recent speech at San Francisco, that his subscription to the Orphans Home had not been paid on account of his having been cramped for money, which goes to illustrate the fact that profits are not always in proportion to the extent of the business transacted, and are as precarious as political fortunes.—[Stockton Independent.

—A certain young gentleman of Evanston, Ind., recently accompanied a young lady to a train to see her safely started on her journey. He carried her railroad ticket in his pocket for safety, and found it there when he reached home, several hours after the train left.

The Nathan Murder.

A Chicago dispatch of the 6th says The Times to-morrow will publish a statement obtained from a prisoner named Billy Forester, serving a term of ten years in the State Penitentiary at Joilet for burglary. The statement is in substance that he is fully cognizant of the facts pertaining to the Nathan murder, though he cannot point out the man who struck the blow. He attempted, with the co-operation and cognizance of certain high officials in New York, to open the safe in the Nathan mansion; and while making this attempt, aroused Nathan. Between them, in order to escape, they killed him with an iron dog, which they were using as a professional tool. He refuses to reveal the names of these parties, because he fears that it will intertere with his plan of bringing them to justice and revenging himself on them for their persistent persecutions of himself. Should he secure a pardon, as he hopes to do, he will make this the object of his life. He affirms that the relatives of the murdered man had no knowledge of the way in which he came to his death, and denies the truth of the stories recently published in New York and elsewhere concerning the murder.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Fence! Fence!! Fence!!!

M. L. COOK, A PRACTICAL NURSERYMAN, would respectfully call the attention of Ranchers of Inyo county to his stock of Hedge Plants on T. K. Hutchinson's Ranch at Bishop Creek, where he has plants that are three feet high, grown from the seed this year. Mr. Cook will call on the Ranchers of this county this Fall and will be pleased to contract seed to be delivered, with instructions for planting and growing. Ranchers should not neglect this opportunity to purchase seed. I have contracted for one ton of seed for this county only, and when that amount is sold it will be too late to get any more. This will make a fence that will turn any stock in three years, at a cost of $40 per mile. I also have an unlimited amount of Apple, Pear, Peach, Plum, Cherry and all kinds of fruit trees, with every variety of small fruits. Roses and Flowering Bulbs a specialty. Friends, don't neglect this chance to buy of a practical man, one that knows what he is selling and what varieties are good and hardy, as his trees are raised in a climate where the thermometer is 20 degrees below zero in the Winter.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Jacob in Trouble Again.

A few weeks since we mentioned the fact that Jacob Dence, the proprietor of a low wayside doggery down the road a few miles, had been brought up before Justice Schalten on a charge of selling liquor to Indians, and contrary to all precedent was fined $75. A kind friend of Jacob's paid the amount for him, and he went home rejoicing, or not exactly rejoicing either, but full of vengeful feelin s toward the noble red man who had peached against him. So full was he of this spirit, he then purchased a little pistol with the avowed determination to blow a hole through the first Indian that came about him. The other night some did come about him. They were mahalas. He got them and himself very drunk and locked himself and them up in his shebang. Somehow or other a buck relative came about the premises and interfered with Jacob, whereat Jacob waxed wroth and blazed away at him with the little pistol aforesaid. The ball went through the Indian's arm. A runner was dispatched to the Post to inform Capt. Macgowan of what had occurred. Shortly after, a detachment of soldiers invited Jacob to open his door. It was done, and inside were Jacob and the two mahalas, still drunk enough to be very comfortable. In due time Jacob found himself in the guard house at the Post. The next day, for reasons given elsewhere, the commanding officer turned him loose, it being agreed that he would not be prosecuted if he would leave the country in four days. As the evidence was certainly sufficient to insure Jacob not less than one and possibly five years imprisonment, besides other inconveniences, he very gladly accepted the conditions. Jacob came to town, and through the advice of the friend before alluded to, was induced to consult with the District Attorney as to the right of a military officer to banish him in this way. Properly enough the District Attorney told him no such right existed. Here we will remark that the commanding officer did not set up any further power or right in the matter than a mere mutual agreement. It was his opinion that if the old vagabond would leave the country it would conduce far more to the country's good than his temporary punishment. All respectable citizens rejoiced at the prospect of a good riddance of the neighborhood mischief maker. But the aforementioned friend, whose name and business we will publish one of these days if current stories are confirmed, feeling encouraged by the legal rights of Jacob as now made plain, induced him to disregard his agreement and not allow himself to be banished by any body. This he decided to do. What the sequel may be is contingent upon the action of the Grand Jury, in session at this writing.

Map and Table of Distances.

Captain Macgowan, Post Commandant, Camp Independence, has placed us under real obligations by presenting us with a neatly executed map of all this region from the Sierra Nevada easterly via Piper's Ranch to Death Valley, thence southerly, embracing the Panamint section to Caliente, Havilah, etc. This map is of his own compilation from the itineraries, mostly, of his own company, though including those of its predecessors. It gives the position of all stations, roads and trails, and is the only complete and correct map extant of this region. In connection with this we are also indebted to the Captain for the results of his measurements from station to station on the roads from Camp Independence by both routes to Caliente. We publish these tables in another part of this issue for the advantage of station keepers and travelers interested. The distances were obtained by careful odometer measurements under the Captain's own supervision, and may be accepted as practically accurate.

Military Matters.

Lieut. J. J. Clague, Co. D., at the Post, is ordered East on detached service at the military prison at Fort Leavenworth. The Lieutenant and family will start on their journey in a few days. Hospital Steward G. Belding, same company, is ordered to report for duty to the Chief Medical Director at San Francisco. The terms of service of quite a number of the boys will expire in a few weeks, so one way and another Company D will be considerably reduced. Capt. Carr's cavalry are still in camp on the Government grass reservation east of the Post.

The Harmen Troupe.

Professor Harmen, the renowned ventriloquist and his troupe, gave two exhibitions in this place this week, and to very good house on both occasions. Every one we have heard speak of these exhibitions say they were highly interesting and far better than is often given by traveling troupes. The entertainment is quite varied in characters and well worth seeing. The troupe goes to Lone Pine, Darwin and Panamint, and will exhibit in each of these places.

Incorporated.

We observe by The Alta of the 14th that the Defiance Mining Company, Darwin, has incorporated with a capital of $10,000,000. The Directors are P. Reddy, S. Jewett, J. R. Wilson, G. H. Willard and W. G. Hughes. We have good reason to believe this company intend to proceed at once to the erection of a furnace. The Defiance mine, we will remark for the benefit of outsiders, is one of the world's wonders in the amount of ore now in sight.

Tin Ore.

We were last week shown some specimens of what is supposed to be tin ore. It is in the shape of small oval-shaped boulders, varying in weight from an ounce to say five pounds. Mr. W. M. Hart, who exhibited these specimens, informs us that he can trace a range of these tin boulders, a hundred feet or more wide, for a distance of full sixty miles, Death Valley being the locality. Should the proper test prove that this is really tin ore, as it seems to be, it is a discovery of vast importance as the quantity is simply inexhaustible. Mr Hart and Mr. Gerrish of this place, associated with him, are both very sanguine it is the real stuff, at least enough so to be determined to have a thorough test made, which, it appears, cannot be done with the appliances at hand in common assay offices, and will therefore have to be sent to San Francisco.

The Killing at Benton.

According to the account published in The Borax Miner of the 14th, the killing of Walsh by Dippel at Benton was little else than a cold blooded murder, Dippel having deliberately shot him down in the street without interchanging a word. However this may be we hear that Walsh was considered a dangerous man, and one who needed killing pretty badly, while on the other hand Dippel was a quiet peaceoble sort of a fellow, having on a former occasion while a partner with Walch, gone off and left his property and business merely to avoid serious trouble with Walsh. These are the reports which reach us, but, of course, we can't vouch for their correctness.

Horse Thief Caught.

A few days since a young man named Witt (a misnomer, we guess) was "roped in," as he says into stealing A. B. Elder's horse, and a saddle from some one else, out at Darwin. He was caught, however, before he got fairly off and brought here to jail, where he is now under indictment for grand larceny. From Witt's story it appears as though something of a job had been put up on him by his alleged accomplice, whoever he may be. He admits stealing the horse, however, and may possibly, be found guilty, unless it is proved that he is not a man of his word.

Grand Ball.

Al. Wapelhorst, as will be seen by advertisement elsewhere, tenders a free ball and supper to all friends and acquaintances, said ball to take place in the Court Room next Friday evening. Al. has good and substantial reasons for this projected blow out, but we don't feel exactly at liberty to say what it is. He has a host of friends and a host of them will be on hand to congratulate him on this occasion.

School at Lone Pine.

The public school at Lone Pine is to be under the management of Mr. H. C. Rittgers, a recent arrival from Des Moines, Iowa, and a brother of our well known citizens I. P. and J. A. Rittgers. The new teacher has had several years' experience in that line, and also in teaching music and book-keeping.

Running.

A "melancholy farmer and bailiff," out at Darwin, writes us that on the 16th the furnace (Hoffman & Co.'s) was in full blast and everything was lovely. The crops in the immediate vicinity of Darwin have rather a parched aspect, but will turn out quite as well as in previous years.

Ball at the Post.

The boys of Co. D. gave a grand ball at the company's quarters last evening. They never spare any pains or expense to make these occasions pleasant to every one. They will accept our thanks for their kindly invitation but to which it was not possible for us to respond at this juncture.

The Great Register

We have just finished printing the Great Register of Inyo county, which County Clerk Hammarstrand will distribute at once to the several precincts. It contains the names of 975 citizens, all but a very few of whom will be on hand on election day.

Turned Them Loose.

The special Grand Jury adjourned yesterday after finding three or four indictments against each of the Lewis gang of robbers and one against Witt for stealing a horse. These prisoners were all fools enough to acknowledge their guilt in open Court, so bills could not be ignored in their cases, and it may be that they may be found guilty on the strength of this admission. The woman robber and Jacob Dence, the gentleman who has caused so much trouble to his neighbors, the Courts and juries, for his bad practices, were turned loose. In the case of the woman the District Attorney advised the jury that, under a recognized principle of law, a woman acting in conjunction with her husband in any felony, other than treason or murder, was conclusively presumed to be acting under compulsion and was therefore not to be held as guilty. Now, this is the law without doubt, but it is a portion of law to be judged by trial, not by grand juries, and particularly when a woman robber or admitted accomplice of robbers, proves her married relation only by her own unsupported statement. As for this Jacob Dence, he was turned loose in face of facts that apparently ought to have given him about five years in the State Prison. He admitted that he shot and wounded an Indian, but claimed that he did it to protect his property which the said Indian was trying to steal. His say so was accepted as proof sufficient and that charge was dismissed. Next it was proved that he was found lying drunk with two drunken squaws in his own house, but the charge of selling or giving them liquor was not considered well enough established to warrant bringing him to trial. Anyway, we are told that the District Attorney did not think there was a chance to convict him if brought to trial on this evidence, so the jury thought the same thing, and this charge was likewise dismissed. We have not the time nor space now to give the facts in relation to these two cases, but altogether we are firm in the belief that it would have been far better to have put the county to the expense of putting these two persons to fair trial, than to have dismissed them in this way. We will try to explain our views in relation to these matters more in detail hereafter. We do not wish to do any one an injustice, but we can't help but believe the District Attorney or Grand Juries or both are getting altogether to fearful of involving the county in expense of trials, and that in consequence, "justice" is being looked upon more and more contemptuously every day.

Error in Tickets.

This office received two sample tickets from State Central Committees containing all names of State officers to be voted for, and said to be correct. Both samples included State Superintendent of Public Instruction as one of the officers to be voted for. With this authority before us, we proceeded to fill orders for this and Mono county, and had printed some thousands when we discovered the patent fact that the State Superintendent was not to be voted for until the Judicial election in October. Though it is not probable the tickets as printed would be declared invalid, yet as we had undertaken to supply perfectly legal tickets to all parties ordering from us, we now give notice that we shall replace at our own expense all tickets printed by us with the above error. As these tickets have already been distributed to the several precincts, parties having them in charge are advised not to issue them. As expressage which we pay to replace our paper stock is twenty-five cents a pound besides first cost of paper, the total loss to us by this little error, for which we can hardly be held responsible, is but little less than $50, but nevertheless, we intend to have things right so far as it lies in our power.

Live Fence.

Attention is directed to the live fence advertisement of Mr. M. L. Cook. It strikes us that this style of fence is the identical thing needed in this valley. Read what Mr. Cook has to say about it.

The Black Hills.

A Washington speciol says: "Mr. Cowan the assistant Secretary of the Interior, anticipates a good deal of trouble over the Black Hills question. Reports sent in to the Department from the Black Hills Territory show that miners are constantly pouring in in spite of all the army can do. The army can order away miners where it finds them, but it is now conceded to be an impossibility to keep people from going there. The Indians are very warlike, but have agreed to remain quiet till after the council with the Commission sent out by the Department. Mr. Cowan says if his council should result unsatisfactorily for the Indians, he would expect nothing else on their part but an outbreak."

The Platform.

The Democratic party of California in State Convention assembled, in compliance with usage, do assert the following principles, as the basis of their political action, and pledge the candidates about to be nominated to their hearty support.

We declare:

First—That we are opposed to the unconstitutional interference of the Federal Administration in the domestic affairs of the States, by which one portion of the Union is ground with taxation to keep another portion of the Union in bankruptcy and servitude.

Second—We condemn the Republican party, not only for its contempt of constitutional obligations, but for its extravagant, partisan and corrupt administration of the Federal Government; for the perversion of the functions of the latter to enrich great corporations at the expense of the public; for the jobbery and frauds which have brought reproach upon Democratic institutions; for the Sanborn and Jayne frauds; for the infamous Washington ring; for the back-pay steal; the iniquities of the detective system; the curse of inconvertible paper money; the nepotism of the President; for its disgraceful diplomatic service and unfit appointments; for its attempt to pass an unconstitutional force bill, which was fortunately frustrated by the determined front of the Democratic minority in both Houses of Congress; and for a catalogue of other enormities which have rendered that organization offensive even to the mass of those who were once its supporters.

Third—That now as in past periods we are in favor of a strict construction of the Constitution, and against the exercise of doubtful powers; in favor of limiting the powers of legislative bodies; in favor of a tariff for revenue only, and a currency convertible into gold and silver at the will of the holder; against the profligate and wasteful system of local improvements by the Federal Government, and in favor of reducing the expenditures of the State governments, and of the counties and towns, and the salaries of officials, which have been largely increased since the State election of 1871.

Fourth—That the School system and fund of this State are under guarantee of the Constitution inviolable, and we are opposed to any diversion of the fund to any purpose except those ordained by the Constitution.

Fifth—We assert the traditional policy of the party, in declaring it is the right and duty of the Legislature to regulate corporations, whether railway, telegraph, water or otherwise; to limit their charges in the interests of the public, and to compel them to serve all citizens, without discrimination, at reasonable rates; and that when they refuse to do so, we recognize the right and declare the intention of making them do so; and we further assert it to be the duty of the Government to preserve the waters of the State for irrigation and other public uses, instead of permitting them to be made the means of extortion and monopoly.

Sixth—That the Democratic party has no occasion to make any new departure or declaration of opposition to the system of subsidies, when we recall the fact that it is to a Democratic State Administration that this State owes its deliverance from this oppressive, unjust and corrupt system.

Seventh—That we are in favor of calling a convention of delegates elected by the people to amend the Constitution of the State, as the only mode of creating a system of government at once harmonious and efficient, and as we therefore opposed to the amendments to the constitution, which are to be submitted to a vote of the people at the ensuing election.

Eighth—That the time-honored Democratic doctrine of local self government is sufficient when properly administered to afford an effective remedy for the evils now caused by Chinese labor and the presence among us of an inferior race, detrimental to our moral and physical health; that in the interests of all classes in California, especially that of the white working people, we demand such amendment to the Burlingame treaty as shall reduce it to a mere commercial convention.

Ninth—That we condemn the doctrine whereby the power of the State to prevent the importation to our shores of degraded persons for immoral purposes has been denied.

Tenth—That we favor the speedy completion of a transcontinental railway on the Thirty-second parallel, subject to such limitations by the Federal and State Governments as shall protect the rights of the people.

Eleventh—That we are in favor of equal taxation, and any departure from this principle or any system of taxation which imposes a double tax upon the same object is in violation of the spirit of the Constitution and unjust to the best interests of the State.

Twelfth—That all legislation intended to regulate the social habits and customs of the people, so long as those habits and customs do not interfere with the welfare of society at large, and all legislation of the character known by the general name of Prohibitory Law is opposed to the principles of the Democratic party, and is calculated to promote a pretense of social morality, rather than a well founded system of public order and decucy.

Thirteenth—That we invite the hearty co-operation of all persons, whatever may have been their past political affinities, to unite with us in carrying out the principles herein enunciated.

Fourteenth—That we condemn, as subversive of the rights of the people and ruinous to the best interests of the State, the policy of permitting the lands of the State, to become a monopoly in the hands of the few at the expense of the many, and we hereby pledge the Democratic party to the correction of this giant evil.

Title IV, Part I, Penal Code.

SECTION 41. Every person charged with the performance of any duty under the provisions of any law of this State relating to elections, who wilfully neglects or refuses to perform it, or who in his official capacity knowingly and fraudulently acts in contravention or violation of any of the provisions of such laws, unless a different punishment for such acts or omission is prescribed by this Code, punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the State Prison not exceeding five years or by both.

SEC. 42. Every person who wilfully causes, procures or allows himself to be registered in the Great Register of any county, knowing himself not to be entitled to such registration, is punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the County Jail or State Prison not exceeding one year, or both. In all cases where, on the trial of a person charged with any offense under the provisions of this section, it appears in evidence that the accused stands registered in the Great Register of any county without being qualified for such registration, the Court must order such registration to be canceled.

SEC. 43. Every person who, after being required by the Board of Judges at any election, refuses to be sworn, or who, after being sworn, refuses to answer any pertinent question propounded by such Board, touching his right or the right of any other person to vote, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 44. Every person summoned to appear and testify, before any Board of Registration, who wilfully disobeys such summons, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 45. Every person not entitled to vote, who fraudulently votes, and every person who votes more than once at any one election, or knowingly hands in two or more tickets folded together, or changes any ballot after the same has been deposited in the ballot box, or adds, or attempts to add any ballot to those legally polled at any election, either by fraudulently introducing the same into the ballot box before or after the ballots therein have been counted, or adds to or mixes with, or attempts to add to or mix with, the ballots lawfully polled, other ballots, while the same are being counted or canvassed, or at any other time, with intent to change the result of such election, or carries away or destroys, or attempts to carry away or destroy, any poll list or ballots, or ballot box, for the purpose of breaking up or invalidating such election, or wilfully detains, mutilates, or destroys any election returns, or in any manner interferes with the officers holding such election or conducting such canvass, or with the voters lawfully exercising their rights of voting at such election, as to prevent such election or canvass from being fairly held and lawfully conducted, is guilty of felony.

SEC. 46. Every person not entitled to vote, who fraudulently attempts to vote, or who, being entitled to vote, attempts to vote more than once at any election, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 47. Every person who procures, aids, assists, counsels or advises another to give or offer his vote at any election, knowing that the person is not qualified to vote, is guilty of misdemeanor.

SEC. 48. Every officer or Clerk of Election who aids in changing or destroying any poll list, or in placing any ballots in the ballot box, or taking any therefrom, or adds, or attempts to add, any ballots to those legally polled at such election, either by fraudulently introducing the same into the ballot box before or after the ballots therein have been counted, or adds to or mixes with, or attempts to add to or mix with, the ballots polled any other ballots, while the same are being counted or canvassed, or at any other time, with intent to change the result of such election, or allows another to do so when in his power to prevent it, or carries away, or destroys, or knowingly allows another to carry away or destroy, any poll list, ballot box, or ballots lawfully polled, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for not less than two nor more than seven years.

SEC. 49. Every Inspector, Judge, or Clerk of an election, who, previous to putting the ballot of an elector in the ballot box, attempts to find out the name on such ballot, or who opens, or suffers the folded ballot of any elector which has been handed in to be opened or examined previous to putting the same into the ballot box, or who makes or places any mark or device on any folded ballot with the view to ascertain the name of any person for whom the elector has voted, or who, without the consent of the elector, discloses the name of any person which such Inspector, Judge or Clerk has fraudulently or illegally discovered to have been voted for by such elector, is punishable by fine, not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars.

SEC. 50. Every person who forges or counterfeits returns of an election purporting to have been held at a precinct, town, or ward where no election was in fact held, or wilfully substitutes forged or counterfeit returns of election in the place of the true returns, or a precinct, town or ward where an election was actually held, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for a term not less than two nor more than ten years.

SEC. 51. Every person who wilfully adds to, or subtracts from, the votes actually cast at an election, in any returns, or who alters such returns, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for not less than one nor more than five years.

SEC. 52. Every person who aids or abets in the commission of any of the offenses mentioned in the four preceding sections, or who being present at or cognizant of the commission of either of such offenses, does not give information thereof as soon as practicable to the District Attorney or Grand Jury of the proper county, or to some Justice of the Peace of such county, is punishable by imprisonment in the County Jail for the period of six months, or in the State Prison not exceeding two years.

SEC. 53. Every person who, by force, threats, menaces, bribery, or any corrupt means, either directly or indirectly attempts to influence any elector in giving his vote, or to deter him from giving the same, or attempts by any means whatever, to awe, restrain, hinder or disturb any elector in the free exercise of the right of suffrage, or furnishes any elector wishing to vote, who cannot read, with a ticket, informing or giving such elector to understand that it contains a name written or printed thereon different from the name which is written or printed thereon, or defrauds any elector at any such election, by deceiving and causing such elector to vote for a different person or any office than he intended or desired to vote for; or who, being inspector, Judge, or Clerk of any election, while acting as such, induces or attempts to induce any elector, either by menace or reward, or promise thereof, to vote differently from what such elector intended or desired to vote, he is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 54. Every person who, with intent to promote the election of himself, or any other person, either:

1. Furnishes entertainment at his expense to any meeting of electors previous to or during an election;

2. Pays for, procures, or engages to pay for any such entertainment;

3. Furnishes or engages to pay or deliver any money or property for the purpose of procuring the attendance of voters at the polls, or for the purpose of compensating any person for procuring attendance of voters at the polls, except for the conveyance of voters who are sick or infirm;

4. Furnishes or engages to pay or deliver any money or property for any purpose intended to promote the election of any candidate, except for the expenses of holding and conducting public meetings or the discussion of public questions, and of printing and circulating ballots, handbills, and other papers previous to such election;

—Is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 55. Every person who, being a candidate at any election, offers or agrees to appoint or procure the appointment of any particular person to office as an inducement or consideration to any person to vote for, or procure or aid in procuring the election of such candidate, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 56. Every person not being a candidate, who communicates any offer made in violation of the last section to any person with intent to induce him to vote for, or to procure or aid in procuring the election of the candidate making the offer, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 57. (§84, 85, 86). Every person who gives or offers a bribe to any officer or member of any legislative caucus, political convention, committee, primary election, or political gathering of any kind held for the purpose of nominating candidates for offices of honor, trust, or profit in this State, with intent to influence the person to whom such bribe is given or offered to be more favorable to one candidate than another, and every person, member of either of the bodies in this section mentioned, who receives or offers to receive any such bribe, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison not less than one nor more than fourteen years.

SEC. 58. Every person who by threats, intimidations, or unlawful violence wilfully hinders or prevents electors from assembling in public meeting for the consideration of public questions, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 59. Every person who wilfully disturbs or breaks up any public meeting of electors or others, lawfully being held for the purpose of considering public questions, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 60. Every person who makes, offers, or accepts any bet or wager upon the result of any election, or upon the success or failure of any person or candidate, or upon the number of votes to be cast either in the aggregate or for any particular candidate, or upon the vote to be cast by any person, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 61. Every person who wilfully violates any of the provisions of the laws of this state relating to elections is, unless a different punishment for such violation is prescribed by this Code, punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars or by imprisonment in the state Prison not exceeding five years, or by both.

By order of the Board,
M. W. HAMMARSTRAND, n268td Clerk of the Board.

Investigation Wanted.

The Corinne Daily Mail of August 17 has this timely and appropriate article, especially so as Gen. Sheridan is about this time in that particular vicinity:

If there is one thing more than another that the Mormons, and especially the Mormon papers, are noted for it is deliberate and villainous lying. After admitting heretofore that the redskins just driven from the valley were brought from their reservations to be baptized in the Mormon church only, they now swear they were not off their reservations, for the simple reason that they had no reservations to be on." It is wonderful to note the falsehoods made public by these papers in attempting to crawl out of the blame fastened upon them. But they will find it impossible to find a hole to escape. Evidence is accumulating daily that the damning influence of this most foul and murderous church was far greater than was at first supposed. Word comes from the interpreters north that the danger was even greater than we could have thought possible; that the Indians for months have been stating they were promised this valley if they would come down and be baptized into the church, and be prepared to fight its enemies; that they flocked here from all directions for this purpose, in spite of the efforts of the interpreters to keep them away. Again, it comes from the officers of the army that this movement has been under perfect surveillance for weeks, which explains the promptness of the troops. And now, while these hypocritical and unhanged scribblers of the Mormon papers declare there were no Indians here but what belonged to the valley, they are being fed by thousands in Cache Valley since they were dispersed. Reliable gentlemen daily arrive from Logan and state postively that there are from two to three thousand Indians encamped within a radius of ten miles of that town, and furnished beef and flour by the Mormon bishops. This is an absolute and undeniable fact; and if there is an officer within the bounds of Utah empowered to look after the Indians, we call upon him to examine this matter and have these white-faced savages arrested. Let every Gentile in the Territory work to have the rascals punished, and leave nothing undone till it is accomplished. From Mountain Meadows until the present time, these red-handed miscreants have been inciting the Indians to murder and arson, and now it is time and more than time that it be once and forever stopped.

As to Jeff Davis' Disguise.

Whether Jeff Davis faced his fate like a man or tried to fly it as a woman when he was captured in 1865, is one of the questions that never rests; chiefly because the ex-President has injudicious friends who will deny the disguises. One of them has thrust poor Mr. Davis into view again; the effect being to bring a letter from Charles T. Hudson, then Captain in the Fourth Michigan Cavalry, who says that while he himself was not present at the capture and did not see Mr. Davis in disguise, he did guard Mrs. Davis on the way back to Macon, and she told him that she put her water-proof and cloak upon Mr. Davis in the hope that he might make his escape in that disguise. He further relates the circumstance of his obtaining from Mrs. Davis, when they reached Fortress Monroe, the shawl which went with the water-proof (that garment having already been seized) and which she yielded with bitter indignation that the Secretary of War should want her clothing to exhibit, as if she had not already been sufficiently humiliated, repeating that she did dress Mr. Davis in her attire, and would not deny it. And Captain Hudson adds that not only will he make affidavit to his narrative, but that there are three or four men in Michigan, "who actually saw Jefferson Davis in the disguise of a woman, with a tin pail on one arm, supported by a 'nigger' woman on one side, going for water." There, "the old, old story is told again," and we trust for the last time.

A Reminiscence of the late Selden J. Finney.

[From The San Mateo Times.]

The late ex-Senator Finney, who was at all times a fluent and ready speaker, and who gave every evidence in his public career that he was a natural orator, was especially noted for the quickness of his repartees and the lightning speed with which he would cause to recoil on the aggressor every attack as soon as it reached him. In fact, like highly-tempered steel, it was only necessary to strike him to elicit a sparkling response. One of these replies occurs to us just now, and with his late melancholy death yet fresh in their minds our readers may find it of interest. It was during the discussion of the Compulsory Education Bill, of which Senator Finney was so warm an advocate. He had just concluded an able and exhaustive argument which had held the house enthralled for over two hours. He had set its every advantage in the clearest light; he had carefully anticipated every objection; in fact his favorite hobby, guided by his own master hand, had successfully surmounted each obstacle. He was followed by Hon. James Farley, who adopted the ordinary tactics in a case of the kind—procrastination. He deprecated the proposal to put it to the vote while the eloquent speech of the gentleman from San Mateo was still ringing in their ears. He proposed to wait awhile till some member of the Democracy was prepared to reply, and in conclusion asserted that he could not see that any argument of weight had been advanced by his honorable friend from San Mateo. All this in a few words, and in his own stolid unimpressible style—a style painfully in contrast with the other's vivacious eloquence. Mr. Finney was on his feet in a moment, "Mr. President: Some there are 'who have eyes and see not, who have ears and hear not.' The biblical quotation aptly applies to my honorable friend from Amador. But a few minutes ago I adverted to the fact that Connecticut has held compulsory education for more than two hundred years. Yes, Mr. President—Connecticut—the land of wooden nutmegs, but not the land of wooden heads." The allusion was painfullly marked. It did not require the glance that accompanied the last words to explain the allusion to Mr. Farley. As Senator Finney resumed his seat there was not a man in the house who would not as readily have played with flint and steel in a powder magazine as have provoked the flashes of Finney's wit to play among his faults and failings.

Mark Twain's Last Lament.

Mark Twain, in the August Atlantic, mourns over the diminished length of the Mississippi in this strain:

Therefore, the Mississippi from Cairo to New Orleans was 1,215 miles long 176 years ago. It was 1,180 after the cut-off of 1772. It was 1,040 after the American Bend cut-off (some 14 or 17 years ago). It has lost 67 miles since. Consequently its length is only 973 miles at present.

Now, if I wanted to be one of those ponderous scientific people, and "let on" to prove what had occurred in a given time in the recent past, or what will occur in the far future by what has occurred in late years, what an opportunity is here! Geology never had such a chance, no such exact data to argue from! Nor development of species, either! Glacial epochs are great things, but they are—vague. Please observe:

In the space of 176 years the Lower Mississippi has shortened itself 242 miles. This is an average of a trifle over one mile and a third per year. Therefore, any calm person, who is not blind or idiotic, can see that in the Old Oolitic Silurian Period, just a million years ago next November, the Lower Mississippi river was upwards of 1,300,000 miles long, and stuck out over the Gulf of Mexico like a fishing rod. And by the same token any person can see that 742 years from now the Lower Mississippi will be only a mile and three quarters long, and Cairo and New Orleans will have joined their streets together and be plodding along under a single Mayor and a mutual Board of Aldermen. There is something fascinating about science. One gets such wholesale returns of conjecture out of such a trifling investment of fact.

Senator Jones' Programme.

Colonel Joseph U. Crawford, Chief Engineer of the Los Angeles and Independence Railway, has arrived from San Francisco. He reports that he has been instructed to proceed at once to track laying on the Santa Monica branch of the Los Angeles and Independence Railway, and expects in a short time to have cars running from this city to the sea. Senator Jones has engaged three superb cars at New Haven. One is a Directors' car and the others palatial parlor cars. It is said they will be the finest cars ever brought to California. Colonel Crawford is anxious to have the road in running order at the earliest possible moment, to accommodate the great amount of freight that is being offered. He thinks the road would live if the Southern Pacific carried freight for nothing. Senator Jones laughs at the idea that he has any intention of selling out, and says he will give Los Angeles the first bid at cost. He assures our people of his hearty sympathy, and promises to the road.—[Herald.

Senator Jones' Bonanza.

Senator Jones has a bonanza outside of his ice-making patent if the following from The Los Angeles Express may be relied upon: We had occasion to speak some days ago of the wonderful developments at Kernville. Since we wrote that article from facts received from a gentleman who made a personal inspection of the mine, we have learned others of a more gratifying character. Jones' Kernville mine yielded him last month $165,000 net. And this is not the best of it. The indications are unmistakable that this month it will net the Nevada Senator twice that sum, and that this rate of production will be kept up for the next ten years. It is not pleasant for those who have been daily waiting to hear of the Senator's insolvency to be informed of such facts as these, but we take a special pleasure in calling their attention to the state of affairs at Kernville. Coming events cast their shadows before, we are told, and this yield at Kernville is but a faint foreshadowing of the wondrous results which will be accomplished at Panamint when the Los Angeles and Independence road is in running order to that rare treasure house of the precious metals. When the first snort of the iron horse is heard in Surprise Valley will begin an era of bullion shipments not heretofore recorded of any place on earth except Virginia City and Gold Hill.

How Can It

A gentleman in Kentucky has been sent to the Penitentiary for two years, simply for killing his man; while a black-hearted miscreant who stole four hogs was let off with a merely nominal sentence of eight years. In view of this how can our Government look Europe in the face and unblushingly invite the simple immigrants to our shores? With all our boasted liberties what security is there for our hogs? Here is something which personally interests every zealous member of the Democratic party in the land, and to them we appeal for action.

INFORMATION FOR VOTERS.

"Every male citizen of the United States who shall have been a resident of the State six months next preceding the election, and of the precinct in which he claims his vote thirty days, and whose name is enrolled on the Great Register of such county is a qualified elector therein." (Sec. 1083 Political Code)

It will be observed that a voter's name must appear on the Great Register of the county. Many voters have been led to believe they could vote on the presentation at the polls, of a certificate from another county. This is an error. If the name of a voter is not found on the (printed) copy of the Great Register he cannot vote, but if he produces an uncancelled certificate of registration on the Great Register of the county (in which he offers to vote) he must be allowed to vote if not challenged on other grounds. (Sec. 1227 Political Code as amended). The Board of Election determine the place of residence of a party offering to vote, and are governed by the rules of Section 1239 Political Code, paragraphs 1, 3, 5, 8, and 9, as follows:

1. That a place must be considered and held to be the residence of a person in which his habitation is fixed and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning.

3. A person must not be held by reason of having moved from one precinct to another in the same county within thirty days prior to the election to have lost his residence in the precinct so moved from, provided he was an elector therein on the thirtieth day prior to such an election.

5. A person must not be considered to have gained a residence in any precinct into which he comes for temporary purposes merely, without the intention of making such precinct his home.

8. The place where a man's family resides must be held to be his residence, unless his family are temporarily established or for transient purposes, then it is otherwise.

9. If a man have a family fixed in one place and he does business in another, the former must be considered his place of residence.

10. The mere intention to acquire a new residence avails nothing, neither does the fact of removal without the intention.

It will be observed from the above that voters must vote in the precinct in which they reside and at the polling place provided therein.

That the precinct in which they vote must be their residence for thirty days preceeding the day of election.

That all voters absent from a precinct for temporary purposes must return to their home to vote.

That a voter whose name does not appear on the printed copy of the Great Register, must procure from the County Clerk a certificate that his name is registered on the Great Register of the county, and he must file this certificate with the Board of Election before he can vote.

To prevent contested elections it would be well for Election Boards to adhere to these rules strictly.

The State Printing Office.

Painter & Co., type founders of San Francisco, with whom we have had the most pleasant and satisfactory dealings for several years past, have, we are pleased to know, been awarded the contract to furnish the material for the State Printing Office. Their bid was $14,973 51.

New Music.

Sherman & Hyde, the music publishers of San Francisco, have sent us two pleasant songs entitled "Is my darling true to me?" and "Would you answer 'yes' or 'no?'" The first which is dedicated to Alice Dunning (Lingard), is a neat musical composition, the words flowing easily and rhythmically, the second is an easily performed ballad dedicated to Dickie Lingard. The author of the pieces is Chas. E. Pratt, conductor of the De Murska Concert Troupe.

State Temperance Ticket.

The following is the Temperance Reform ticket: Governor, W. E. Lovett; Lieutenant-Governor, W. D. Hobson; Secretary of State, E. H. Hallett; Controller, Joel Russell; Treasurer, G. P. Thompson; Attorney-General R. Thompson; Clerk of Supreme Court, G. I. Taggart; Superintendent of Public Instruction, E. S. Carr.

The Morning Ledger.

San Francisco has a new one-cent morning paper with the above name. It is not large, but is run without advertisements. It is essentially a *news*paper, and as indicated by the two first numbers, is the best in San Francisco. It starts out with an edition of 60,000. It is deserving of success.

Esmeralda.

Gen. Geo. S. Dodge and I. C. Bateman have purchased 11,000 shares of Northern Belle stock of A. J. Holmes for $275,000. It has been yielding nearly $100.000 monthly, and paying dividends of $55,000.

—Examinations of the affairs of Duncan, Sherman & Co. show: Liabilities, $4,910,138; assets $2,885,852 33.

NOT A FLATTERING PROSPECT.

The Eureka (Nev.) Sentinel has taken the trouble to figure up, from its California exchanges, the condition and prospects of the Independent party of this State. It finds "that in thirteen counties it has no organization whatever, and no candidates. In seven counties it has fused with the Democrats on the basis of an equal division of the offices, man for man. In six counties it has gone in with the Republicans, 'share and share alike,' just as it did with the Democrats in the seven. In nine counties it has made up its tickets from the nominees of the two old parties, not venturing to place a man of its own in the field. In nearly all of the remaining counties it has taken one or more candidates from either of the other parties, thus narrowing down the real simon pure Dolly Varden tickets, without entangling alliances with other organizations, to less than a dozen counties all told; and this is to day the situation of the great reform party of California." Now, in point of fact, there are forty-five out of the fifty-three counties in this State without an Independent organization, and to us it is a self-evident fact its State ticket will be a very bad third in the race. Some of the Democratic papers place the vote of the State at about 110,000. They give 50,000 of these to Irwin, 35,000 to Phelps and the remaining 25,000 to Bidwell. We are inclined to think the total vote will reach 120,000, and that the even 100,000 will be pretty nearly equally divided between the first two. It is an undisputed fact that Phelps' chances have been improving materially of late, and in about the same ratio that Bidwell's have lessened. It was rumored here that Bidwell had withdrawn. This is not the case. He is bound to make the run, though with the certainty of defeat, because he strongly hopes to defeat some of his former political friends on the Republican ticket. He is greatly sustained in this determination by Creed Haymond, a former secesh Democrat, and who may have a strong desire to beat his old party—but the chances are Creed's desires in that direction are not so killingly strong after all. Certain it is he has been Bidwell's right hand man in this canvass, and being smart and an excellent talker, and honest enough to confess his former errors of belief and action, has done more for Bidwell than Bidwell could possibly do for himself. He would occasionally seduce a Democrat into the Bidwell fold, but for each one from that party he would get two from the Republicans. At the outset things went swimmingly, and but for that extensive land steal of Honest John's would have continued to do so to a successful issue. But Sargent's expose of the reform leader set the tide the other way, spite of Creed's plausible talk and Bidwell's floundering denials, and with him the thing is surely settled.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

As the voters of this State are to vote for or against the calling of a convention to amend the State Constitution, and as the matter is but little understood, not having received even a passing remark from newspapers or politicians so far in the canvass, we at this late hour do what we can toward enlightening our readers upon the subject. Without attempting any argu- for or against the several different amendments proposed, we present them elsewhere in this issue as nearly complete as our space will permit.

It should be understood that if a majority of the votes at this election are in favor of the Constitution the next Legislature will be required to fix the time for holding said Couvention, which time must be within six months of the time of such Legislative action. The Convention itself is to be composed of representatives duly elected by the people for the purpose, and in number and representation the same as the Legislature. This Convention will of course have the power to amend the proposed amendments, or to reject them altogether, but in any event whatever Constitution they may adopt will have to be again submitted to a vote of the people, at a special election provided for by law, for their adoption or rejection. At that special election the ballots will be "For the New Constitution," or "Against the New Constitution." These facts may be of value to some who are under the impression that the vote at the present election is a final decision upon the proposed new Constitution. The only question definitely settled at this election is whether or not we are to have to Convention, which cannot take place in much less time than a year from next Winter. It by no means follows that any of the amendments in their present shape will be finally adopted because now submitted to a vote of the people. They are merely presented as "sample goods," and this, we presume, is the reason why so little has been said or thought about them, important as the proposition is conceded to be.

LETTER FROM BENTON.

[The following was unavoidably crowded out last week.—EDS.]

BENTON, Aug. 17, 1875.

MESSRS. EDITORS: We are sorry to state that Benton was the scene of a murder, which occurred Tuesday, August 10, about 7 o'clock P. M.

THE MURDERED MAN

was Jas. Walsh, who lived at what is known as the "Lone Tree Ranch," in this county. He came to town and commenced drinking pretty freely, the cause of which was supposed to be that Wm. Dippel had got judgment against Walsh and was having his property attached to satisfy said judgment. On Monday Walsh was very much under the influence of whisky, and became wild and uncontrollable, attacking nearly every man he met; he finally found his man, who gave him a respectable thrashing in presence of quite a number who stood and tolerated the proceedings. After this occurred he went to where Dippel was at work on a building and made some violent threats, but Dippel did not resist. He was advised to arm himself, which he accordingly did with a shot-gun, and sought and found Walsh in front of the stage stable, when he shot and killed him instantly. A was summoned and found a verdict in accordance with the above facts. Dipple was examined before Justice Williams and held to appear before the Grand Jury, his bail being fixed at $1,000, which he procured and is now at liberty. Lynch law was talked of by a certain class of law-abiding citizens, and for two nights the Constable kept strict watch around the jail with a force ready at a moments warning. But thanks to their better judgment which got away with their bravery consequently saved the pages of the history of this place of another unnecessary and bloody stain.

CORONER'S JURY

POLITICAL.

Politics are the topic of conversation now. The Republican primary meeting was held the evening of the 12th, and the Convention was held the 14th, but as yet we have not the particulars of the result.

We had almost forgotten to mention that our friend living half a mile east of this place, near the alkali flat, was fined $100 last week for selling beer to Indians. ATT ORNEY.

JERE. BLACK.

Ex-Attorney-General Jere. S. Black, writing from Saratoga, says he never got any $10,000 for dismissing the Chico Ranch suit, and that the Provisional title and not the Sutter General title was recognized as good in numerous other claims, and of course was sufficient in this case. The ex-Attorney does not produce a line of proof, but threatens Sargent with annihilation if he continues to lead people to believe that he, Black, is a rascal and bribe taker. Sargent says in a recent speech that he can and will prove all he has asserted in regard to this transaction, and we do not doubt but that he will do it, and right from the records at that. Referring to Black The Gold Hill News expresses our exact estimate of the gentleman in these words:

Jere. S. Black, U. S. Attorney-General under President Buchanan, and chiefly noteworthy for his advice given that weak old man concerning the right of the United States Government to coerce a seceding State, has written a etter to a Sacramentan regarding his connection with the dismissal of the appeal in Bidwell's Chico Ranch case Mr. Black merely denies that there was anything corrupt in the matter, and alleges that Bidwell has a good title to his ranch. Of course this denial will be paraded as a triumphant vindication of old "Raisin Grapes," but when it is considered that Black in this matter is as much at fault as Bidwell, all the influence of such a denial disappears. If there was any fraud in the case Black isn't going to admit it. We acknowledge a prejudice, sincere and hearty, against the ex-Attorney.General, not merely for his disloyal opinion given at the inception of the great civil war, and which did much to fan it into activity, but because he was counsel for Sutro last Winter and before a committee of Congress gave it as his opinion that all the mine-owners upon the Comstock lode, who had not patents for their claims, were mere trespassers on public domain and their claims were at any time open to relocation. A man who would express an opinion, which, if carried out, would negative and render void rights acquired under United States laws and turn over to the unprincipled jumper property upon which millions of money had been expended, cannot be regarded as having any well-defined ideas of right or wrong as applied to public lands or private interests therein accorded by Congressional enactments.

Changed Hands.

Chas. H. Randall, for the last six years the publisher and proprietor of The Sonora Democrat, has sold the paper to W. D. Roberts and E. H. Clough. The Democrat is one of the pioneer institutions of the coast, being twenty-five years old. During Randall's administration over its columns it has been the fairest-minded partisan journal of our acquaintance.

Mules for Darwin.

James Thompson, living near Pleasanton, last week made a sale of mules from his ranch for $1,500. They were shipped from here to Caliente on the cars, and are going to New Coso, in Inyo county, to be used at the mines. —[Sac. Record, Aug. 21.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

In order that our readers may arrive at a little clearer understanding of the proposed Amendments to the State Constitution, we have taken the trouble to institute a comparison between the proposed and the existing Constitution, and herewith submit by synopsis or full text, all the sections of importance which differ, or are additional to the corresponding ones of the present Constitution. There is no question but these amendments, or at least a portion of them, are decideded improvements, and worth the cost of the effort to make them the supreme laws of the State:

ARTICLE I.

SEC. 3. In civil suits if three-fourths of a jury agree, it shall be taken as the verdict.

Sec. 8. No person, without his written consent, shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime, unless on presentment or indictment by a Grand Jury. The Legislature may fix the panel of a Grand Jury, but which must not be less than twelve.

Sec. 11. All laws of a general nature shall have a uniform operation upon the same class of subjects.

ARTICLE II.

Sec. 6. The general election shall be held on the Tuesday next following the first Monday in November, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, and every two years thereafter, unless the Legislature by statute fix a different time.

Sec. 7. All elections by the people shall be by ballot. All elections by persons in a representative capacity shall be viva voce.

Sec. 8. A plurality of the votes given at any election shall constitute a choice, where not otherwise directed in this Constition.

Sec. 9. Offering to bribe a voter in any manner to forfeit the right to vote.

Sec. 10. Same, as affecting a candidate, who, in case of conviction of bribery or attempting to bribe shall forfeit his right to vote absolutely for four years.

Sec. 11. In trials of contested elections, and proceedings for the investigation of elections, no person shall be permitted to withhold his testimony upon any grounds; but such testimony shall not afterwards be used against him in any judicial proceeding, except for perjury in giving such testimony.

[Article III—unchanged.]

ARTICLE IV.

Has a number of additional sections, the following being the most important:

Sec. 7. The number of members of the Senate shall be forty, and of the Assembly eighty. After the population of the State exceeds one million, the Legislature may by statute, increase the number of members of the Assembly to not exceeding one hundred and twenty. When the number shall be increased, the rule of apportionment herein prescribed shall not apply to the excess over eighty until each county in the State shall be allowed one member of the Assembly.

Sec. 30. The Legislature shall not pass any local or special statute authorizing the creation, extension or impairing of lines regulating the affairs of counties, cities, townships, road or school districts; changing the names of persons or places; changing the place of trial in civil or criminal cases; authorizing the laying out, opening, altering or maintaining roads, highways, streets, alleys or sewers; relating to ferries or bridges; vacating roads, town plats, streets or alleys; relating to cemeteries or other public grounds; authoring the adoption or legitimation of children; locating or changing county seats; incorporating towns or cities; for opening or conducting elections, or fixing or changing places of voting; granting divorces; confirming the deeds or certificates of acknowledgement of married women; confirming any void judicial proceeding, tax, or assessment, or any grant founded thereon; erecting new townships or other territorial divisions in a county; creating offices or prescribing the powers and duties of officers in counties, cities townships or districts; changing the laws of succession or descent; regulating the practice or production of, or rules of evidence in any judicial proceeding or inquiry before Courts or other tribunals, or providing for or changing methods for the collections of debts or enforcing of judgments; regulating fees of office; affecting the estates of minors, or others under disabilities, except after notice to all parties in interest, which shall be recited in the special Act; remitting fines, penalties or forfeitures, or refunding of moneys legally paid into the treasury; regulating labor, trade, mining or manufacturing; creating corporations, or amending, renewing or extending their charters; granting to any corporation, association or person, any special or exclusive privilege or immunity or the right to make a railroad.

Sec. 33. No Act of the Legislature shall limit the amount to be recovered for injuries resulting in death, or for injuries to persons or property, etc.

Numerous other sections have been added to this Article, briefly to this effect:

There shall be no State officers to measure or guage any article of merchandise. They shall not release any person or corporation from a debt due the State; shall protect from forced sale a certain portion of the homestead or other property of heads of families; shall allow no extra compensation above contract agreement to any contractor doing work for the State; shall pay no bonds, interest or other obligations of any person or corporation; any member of the Legislature accepting any reward or favor of any kind from any person or corporation, designed or calculated in anyway to influence his vote, shall be held guilty of a misdemeanor.

ARTICLE V.

The Governor shall hold his office four years and shall not be eligible for the next succeeding term; by the Governor, "no pardon shall be granted, or sentence commuted, except upon the recommendation, in writing, of the Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of State, and Attorney-General, or a majority of them, after full hearing, upon due public notice of time and place."

ARTICLE VI,

relating to the judicial department, makes some important changes. County and Probate Courts are abolished. Each county of less than 20,000 inhabitants is to be a judicial district, with a District Judge. Counties with more than 20,000 inhabitants one for each 20,000 and one for each fraction of that number above 10,000. These Judges are to hold office six years, to be elected by the people as others, to keep their Courts always open for the transaction of business, to have the same jurisdiction as present District Courts with that of Probate and County Courts included. The powers and duties of Justice of the Peace remain as now.

The Supreme Court is to have two additional Associate Judges, or seven in all. The term of office shall be fourteen years, and the election shall be so arranged that one Judge is to be elected every two years.

All Judges and othet district and State officers are to be elected at the general elections, thereby abolishing the present separate judicial election.

All existing Courts shall continue in existence until the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January, 1878, without abridgment of their present jurisdiction and powers.

The present Supreme Court shall have till the same date in following year to adjudicate all suits pending, but shall not take cognizance of any new business after January, 1878.

ARTICLE VIII,

has these important amendments:

Sec. 5. The Legislature shall not, in any manner, create any debt or debts, liability or liabilities, which shall singly or in the aggregate, with all previous debts and liabilities, exceed the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, except in case of war, to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, or for the purpose of carrying out a general system of irrigation or to provide the means of payment, if it becomes necessary, to condemn to the use of the State the railroads within its limits.

Sec. 6. Neither the credit of the State, nor of any municipal corporation authorized under the laws thereof, shall be pledged or loaned to any individual, company, corporation, or association; nor shall the State, or any municipal corporation become a joint owner of or a stockholder in any company, association, or corporation; nor shall the State or any municipal corporation, become bound to pay any bond, or interest on any bond, or other obligation, of any individual, association, or corporation; and no county, or other municipal corporation under the laws of this State, shall incur any obligation to raise money for the construction of any work not exclusively under the control of public officers.

ARTICLE IX.

This is a new article and refers to the powers and rights of municipal corporations, consisting of counties and cities and consolidated cities and counties. It contains no features of importance.

ARTICLE X

Is also a new one, and relates to corporations which can only be formed under general laws, not by special acts, which requirement, together with the personal liability clause, are the same as in the present Constitution. The remainder is principally, if not entirely new, the salient points being as follows:

Sec. 3. The exercise of the right of eminent domain shall never be abridged, or so constructed as to prevent the Legislature from taking the property and franchises of corporations, and subjecting them to public use, the same as the property of individuals; and the exercise of the police power of the State shall never be abridged or so construed as to permit corporations to conduct their business in such manner as to infringe the equal rights of individuals, or the general well-being of the State.

Sec. 6. No corporation shall issue stocks or bonds except for money, labor done or property actually received; and all fictitious increase of stock or indebtedness shall be void. The stock of corporations shall not be increased, except in pursuance of general law, nor without the consent of the persons holding the two-thirds in value of the stock, first obtained at a meeting to be held after sixty days' notice given in pursuance of law.

Sec. 7. No railroad or telegraph company shall consolidate with or hold an interest in the stock or bonds of any other railroad or telegraph company, nor shall the same persons be officers in corporations owning competing lines of railroads or telegraphs

Sec. 8. No railroads or telegraph company shall lease, or in any manner manage or control, the railroad or telegraph line of another company.

Sec. 10. The Legislature shall pass statutes to correct abuses, and prevent unjust discrimination and extortion in the rates of freights and fares on railroads in the State, and provide for the enforcement of such statutes by adequate penalties, to the extent, if necessary for that purpose, of forfeiture of property and franchises.

Sec. 14. No railroad, railway or other transportation company, shall grant free passes, or passes at a discount, to any public officers.

Sec. 15. No foreign corporation shall do any business in this State without having one or more known places of business, and an authorized agent or agents in the same, upon whom process may be served.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

More Independents.

The Independents of Mono held a meeting a few days ago and put a partial county ticket in the field, as follows: Sheriff, R. S. Patterson; County Clerk, I. N. Kikendale; District Attorney, F. K. Bechtel; Assessor, Clark G. Sinclair; Superintendent of Schools, Miss Alice Walker. That is to say, we find these candidates on some of the tickets but on others there are other names; C. B. Donnelly for Sheriff, for instance, and other mixtures, so that we won't undertake to say which is the simon pure and which is not. Mr. Z B. Tinckum, of Bridgeport, was duly authorized to confer with the Independents of this county, and if deemed advisable to then put up a candidate for the Legislature. As we learn from Mr. Tinckum himself it was not, however, thought advisable to run a candidate for the Legislature on that ticket or to formally endorse either of the three already in the field.

Gone to the Seaside.

Spees, Lewis and Bennett, of the woman promiscuous gang of thieves, and Witt, the gentleman who borrowed Elder's horse at Darwin, all plead guilty to the several indictments. Judge Hannah gave the first three an aggregate of five years each, and the latter one year's residence down among the cool sea-breezes at San Quentin. Under Sheriff Moore accompanied the gentlemen on their way, starting last Monday, and now the county-sweat-box is without a tenant The Lewis crowd are entitled to credit for one thing. They did not seem to care for their own fate, but were each and all very solicitous that "Lizzie" should not come to grief. They were not alone in this solicitude.

Personal.

Among numerous other visitors stirred out by reason of the prevalent political disorder, we this week received a call from Mr. Mitchell and Dr. Griswold, of Benton, Mono county. Dr. Griswold is the Democratic nominee for the Assembly. He is a quiet, unostentatious, but well informed gentleman, making a favorable impression wherever he goes. Owing to bad health he found himself unable to visit the lower portion of the county, and both turned homewards. Mr. Mitchell is not a candidate, and therefore not a suitable subject for an extended notice these times.

Arrested.

Lucas Lugo was arrested and brought in from Lone Pine Thursday night by Sheriff Moore. He was indicted on the 20th by the Grand Jury for an assault with a deadly weapon on Frank Dabeeny. We mentioned the circumstance at the time, but have learned since that the injured man is in a precarious condition from the severe cuts about the head.

Dance.

A brilliant party of Al. Wapelhorst's friends assembled at the court-house last night for a dance and to do honor to the newly-married couple. Supper was had at the Blaney House, and it was altogether a very enjoyable affair If Al. and his bride survive the many well wishes and congratulations of their friends they will live a very long and happy life.

A Fire and Fright.

Lone Pine very narrowly escaped a ruinous conflagration Sunday last. A small building near Dodge's stable took fire supposably from the spontaneous ignition of some matches lying in the sun near by, and was destroyed. But it required the utmost exertions of everybody to save the stables, which once afire would have caused the destruction of a large portion of the town.

Withdraws.

As will be seen by his note elsewhere, John Alexander on the Democratic ticket, formally withdraws his name as a candidate for County Surveyor. This leaves the field to M. H. White of Bishop Creek, a very excellent man and surveyor.

Darwin Orders.

Redeeming of the Union Smelting and Mining Company's money orders, of which their is considerable in circulation, has been suspended. J. Tyler, Jr., has gone below and hopes to have everything satisfactorily arranged in a few days.

Pronounced Insane.

A. G. Cook, the unfortunate man who lost his arm, and was subsequently confined in jail as being insane, was, after due examination on the latter point, sent to Stockton. He was taken to Stockton last week in charge of Taylor, the stage man.

Pine Mountain.

The new galmadore at Pine Mountain was fired up Sunday, and has proved a partial success, but whether it will work without any alterations or not cannot be determined until after a fair trial. The blast furnace was started Thursday.

Silver Sprout.

The miners engaged in running a tunnel in the Virginia Consolidated succeeded in tapping the main shaft Thursday. A rich body of ore is reported to have been struck, and the men are jubilant. Mr. Holt is still at the mine.

Preaching.

Rev. Jas. Lambert, of Bishop Creek, will preach at the school house George's Creek, at 11 A. M., and at this place at 7 P. M., to morrow.

Not in the Fight.

We are authorized to state that Steven G. Gregg, Independent candidate for Sheriff, withdraws absolutely from the contest. There is no man that we know of who commands higher esteem among acquaintances, or who would have made a better run as an Independent, than Mr. Gregg; but under existing circumstances, there was scarce a possibility for his election on that ticket, so we are glad he declines to be sacrificed. The time will come (say two years hence), when an Independent party. State and county, can hope for success, but that time is not now. The contest now lies between J. F. Hutchison, Democrat, of Bishop Creek, and Thos. Passmore, Republican, of Olancha. Without intending a word to the contrary as regards the former, we can say that Mr. Passmore's history and pioneer experiences in this county go to show that he has the energy, honesty and business qualifications to make an excellent and reliable Sheriff. He was the first Clerk of the county, and though to our knowledge, never since an office-holder or an aspirant for position, he has from the beginning been identified with the best interests of the county. His generous hand has relieved not a few venturesome prospectors and others from want and suffering; altogether, he deserves a handsome recognition now from a great many people in this region. His opponent, Mr. Hutchison, is also a prominent pioneer, and we doubt not has the necessary "backbone" to make a good officer; he likewise has plenty of strong supporters, and don't ask, nor can't give, many "feet" in this, his first political race.

District Boundaries.

There being a Supervisor to elect in each district, a word with reference to district bonndaries may not be amiss. The First, or Bishop Creek Supervisor District, includes all the northern part of the county down to an east and west line about three miles south of Big Pine. The Second, or Independence District, begins at that line and extends south of this place five miles, nearly, to a similar line a few rods south of John Willett's house on, or this side of George's Creek. The Third, or Lone Pine District, begins there and takes all that portion of the United States surrounded by the Tulare and Kern lines on the west, San Bernardino on the south, and the State boundary on the east. This includes George's Creek, Lone Pine, Olancha, Swansea, Cerro Gordo, Darwin and Panamint precincts.

Panamint and Darwin.

Panamint has 302, and Darwin 57 names on the Great Register. These places being new they are the only ones in the county for which a tolerable estimate of the vote can be arrived at from the registrations. There are in Panamint probably twenty persons previously registered in other precincts in the county who will vote there. Some few on the other hand have removed to Darwin and elsewhere since registering, but all considered, the vote of the precinct will pretty surely exceed 300. As Cerro Gordo, Lone Pine, this place and the valley generally, have numbers of their former citizens now resident at Darwin the new registrations convey no adequate measure of its voting strength Its vote may be estimated at about 125

Narrow Escape.

Friend Lank, candidate for Coroner had a narrow escape up at Bishop, the other day while electioneering. He called at a house; the man wasn't at home; just gone to a neighbors on pressing business; wishing to make a favorable impression that might react from the lady of the house upon her husband's vote, he fell to admiring children generally and hers in particular. The allusion to children or something seemed to give the lady pain, and Lank left. Fifteen minutes later, while at a neighbors he was informed of the birth of a daughter to the house he had just left! Being a bachelor he think this was the narrowest escape on record, but a good omen for a candidate nevertheless.

Water Pipes for Cerro Gordo.

Belshaw and Beaudry have sent for pipes and will have them laid from the Duval spring, which they purchased some time since. Water has been a precious commodity in Cerro Gordo since the Water Company's springs gave out. This new supply will furnish all that is needed at the furnaces and lively times may be anticipated.

Takes the Premium.

W. A., more familiarly, "Gus" Baker of Big Pine, takes his regular annual INDEPENDENT office premium, this week, for the finest peaches we know of, also the first premium for 1875 for the biggest watermelon. But the committee are still in session and do not wish it understood that the time for similar entries has closed for the season—by no means.

Not a Candidate.

We are authorized to state that Mr. J. A. Rittgers, the Republican nominee for Supervisor for the Third district, declines to run, and W. J. Phillipay, of Lone Pine, has been put on in his place. Mr. Phillipay is a well-known business man of both Lone Pine and Panamint, and will make a very acceptable Supervisor.

Stage Broke Down.

The Stage coming down heavily loaded with passengers from Cerro Gordo Thursday night, met with an accident near Dockwieler's. The tire bursted and made a complete wreck of one of the wheels. The driver substituted a thimble skein lumber wagon and came on without much delay.

Circulating.

Our young friend W. B. Daugherty has been circulating himself around through the northern end of the county. He returned to Panamint this morning. "Billy" is full of energy.

LAND GRABBING IN KERN.

Under the above caption The Bakersfield Courier copies a communication addressed to The San Francisco Post relating to the Powell-Broder land-grab in Monache valley. The document is signed by Thomas H. Smith, C. D. Curless, Jos. V. Roberts, J. E. Brandt, D. J. Underwood, H. G. Chickering and Daniel Peet. They say "Powell & Co. pretend to claim large tracts of land, ten miles by forty, high up in the Sierras," etc. The whole of the remainder of the document is devoted to "Mr. John Broder, a citizen of Independence, Inyo county, [who] calls himself the owner of ten thousand acres, situated in and around the within described locality, and says he has acquired title to the same through (as we believe) a fraudulent swamp land title," and that "in order to make his title good he is having dug a series of small ditches, one spade wide and one spade deep, and from ten to one hundred yards long, through land that is dry and never overflows," and that "Common sense would pronounce it an outrageous cheat," and so on to the end.

We suppose the real reason why so much of this is devoted to Broder is because he is the only one of the lot who is making actual use of all his land, as he thereby materially interferes with these men, each of whom, according to their own statement, having a small number of stock running there but no land. THE INDEPENDENT has always opposed these land steals, and for so doing was abused like a pickpocket by The Courier, then the thieves' ever reliable organ, feeble in everything but vituperation and dishonesty; but we are glad to say it is in different hands now. There were two gangs of thieves operating here in those days. They were in collusion till it was mutually discovered each was trying to over reach the other. It was a painful thing all around, this discovery. There was an honest Land Register in each gang; both got dismissed for their pains, one, our own Josiah, chiefly through the aid of this paper, both through Senator Sargeant, who thereby won the respect of this whole section. These dismissals were sorrowful things for Representative Houghton, but he couldn't help it. Both gangs wanted the Monache valley, and both gangs wanted the farmers' lands of Owens river valley, this valley, in short. On these two antagonistic propositions the gangs locked horns, and grief ensued. The Earl gang didn't get away with anything except the loss of the Registership. A similar loss befell the Powell-Payne gang as regarded the Registership of the latter; but, that was a small matter, for though they fared no better than Josiah here in this valley, up there in Monache, by means of a quiet, unobtrusive survey, they got away with everything—fourteen townships, including every rod of pasture previously used by Broder as a summer-pasture for his extensive herds. He had to have land or dispose of his herds as best he could. It was cheaper to buy than to pay rent to those now highly respectable speculators, who, unlike him, had no use for the land except to rent or sell. By virtue of an entered lawsuit by Broder for a a part of the land, the gang thought it better to sell cheap to Broder than to litigate. They did so, and Broder got his ten thousand acres, so far as their title was concerned, by paying them $1 an acre or $10,000 in all. As he bought it strictly for his own regular and needed use, and not for speculative purposes—as he paid nearly its full Government value, though it was to private parties and not to the Government—as he makes as perfect use of the whole as could Messrs. Smith & Co., above named, even though it was divided among them as they think it ought to be—with all this neither the moral or legal obloquy of a land stealer can attach to Mr. Broder, and those gentlemen do not do the fair thing in making him the special object of attack. There is no doubt as to their main proposition of an original swindle on the people and the Government, but it don't look well at this late day, to jump on an innocent party after permitting the original steal to take place right under their eyes—for they claim to have been in possession of the ground then and for a long time before—then is when something might have been done by such wide awake men.

Sensible.

The Southern Californian, Bakersfield, is anxious about reform in the local judiciary, and concludes that "until the people see to it that Judges are elected who will make crime pay its own way, or submit to the most severe checks of the walls of the prison, they will be called upon to support and encourage the violent passions of men by paying the officers for trifling with crimes."

—"Mother in-law" is the name of a new mixture of ale. It is old and bitter, and comparatively few can swallow it.

Table of Distances.

Next week we propose to re-publish the table of distances hence to Caliente, with the addition of that from the Junction beyond Darwin to Panamint; also over several of the main trails between the principal mining camps of the county. Also a complete table by stations on the stage route from Carson to this place, all of the additions being the result of measurements by Capt. C. C. C. Carr, Co. I, 1st U. S. Cavalry, now in camp near this place. Given as a whole we think these tables will be quite valuable to many persons, and for which they will thank Captains Macgowan and Carr.

Mutual Aid Association.

Col. Addis is the agent of the above-named Los Angeles institution, and to him we are indebted for a copy of its By-Laws. The object of the association is to secure pecuniary aid to the families or friends of deceased members, with only the expense of a small assessment on the death of any member and a light additional payment to the reserve fund. It has a number of the most responsible citizens of Los Angeles county for its officers and directors.

Photography.

Col. A. S. Addis has been in Lone Pine for some days, and we hear is giving first-rate satisfaction now that he has his new and complete apparatus. He will be at this place soon, but we cannot state the exact time.

The Female Prisoner.

Lizzie, the discharged prisoner, through the intervention of sympathetic friends, has secured a situation in a private family and promises reformation (?).

New Paper.

We are in receipt of The Mechanics' Fair Daily, advance publication, and find a finely printed, illustrated eight-page paper, and a credit to its publishers, Dewey & Co., of The Scientific Press. It is designed for gratuitous distribution during the continuation of the Mechanics' Fair now being held.

—The Mechanics' Institute Fair is in successful operation.

—John B. Weller, ex-Governor of California, died at New Orleans, August 17, of the small pox.

—Commander Morris, who had command of the Cumberland when she was sunk by the Merrimack in Hampton roads, is dead.

—Why is a lawyer like a restless man in bed? Because he first lies on one side and then on the other.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

Saturday, August 28 .....1875.

A Gamy Sermon.

The Denver Mirror says: The report of a sermon by a Fremont county preacher is worth repeating here: "Boys, you'll find this life just like a game of seven-up. You want to save your tens and look out for game, an' never beg when you hold a good hand. Also, recollect, in the long run, low counts as much as high, if its only a trump. The devil has stocked the cards, but just play 'em honest, and when it comes your deal yer boun' to get a winnin' hand every time, and old split-hoof will just have to jump the game and look for a softer snap. Also, if you happen to turn Jack, call it lucky; but don't forget to remember that turning Jack is uncertain business, and 'll never do to bet on."

—"Jane has got a very nicely-turned ankle, hain't she?" said John to his wife the other day. And then John noticed a strange, uneathly gleam in the eye of his spouse, which made him feel very uncomfortable, he knew not why. But the next day the place which Jane had filled in the domestic economy of the household was occupied by a middle-aged woman with ankles like those of a Mullingar heifer.

—A country clergyman, just recovering from the effects of a severe boil on his nose, stopped an urchin near Fort Green, yesterday, and asked him the nearest way to the corner of Fulton and Clinton streets. The lad glanced at him suspiciously a moment and said: "Well, yer needn't go there, mister; there ain't no gin mill on that corner."

—The British Artic Expecition will cost no less than £98,620 in immediate outlay, £16,000 for the next financial year, and £13,000 for each year after that in which it is out. In addition to these £50,000 may have to be spent in a relief expedition.

—A sheep-herder from Silver creek reported in Austin, the other day, that the rabbits had devoured 123 acres of his land in one night. The Reveille says he was at once admitted as a member of the Sazerac Lying Club.

—"As between a cucumber and a watermelon," says a Western editor, "gives us brandy and water."

—A girl's first season she is all Faith, the second all Hope, the third all Charity. After that the Deluge.

—It is consoling to an ugly man to have a charitable lady say that he is not as bad as he looks.

The Platform.

The Democratic party of California in State Convention assembled, in compliance with usage, do assert the following principles, as the basis of their political action, and pledge the candidates about to be nominated to their hearty support.

We declare:

First—That we are opposed to the unconstitutional interference of the Federal Administration in the domestic affairs of the States, by which one portion of the Union is ground with taxation to keep another portion of the Union in bankruptcy and servitude.

Second—We condemn the Republican party, not only for its contempt of constitutional obligations, but for its extravagant, partisan and corrupt administration of the Federal Government; for the perversion of the functions of the latter to enrich great corporations at the expense of the public; for the jobbery and frauds which have brought reproach upon Democratic institutions; for the Sanborn and Jayne frauds; for the infamous Washington ring; for the back-pay steal; the iniquities of the protective system; the curse of inconvertible paper money; the nepotism of the President; for its disgraceful diplomatic service and unfit appointments; for its attempt to pass an unconstitutional force bill, which was fortunately frustrated by the determined front of the Democratic minority in both Houses of Congress; and for a catalogue of other enormities which have rendered that organization offensive even to the mass of those who were once its supporters.

Third—That now as in past periods we are in favor of a strict construction of the Constitution, and against the exercise of doubtful powers; in favor of limiting the powers of legislative bodies; in favor of a tariff for revenue only, and a currency convertible into gold and silver at the will of the holder; against the profligate and wasteful system of local improvements by the Federal Government, and in favor of reducing the expenditures of the State governments, and of the counties and towns, and the salaries of officials, which have been largely increased since the State election of 1871

Fourth—That the School system and fund of this State are under guarantee of the Constitution inviolable, and we are opposed to any diversion of the fund to any purpose except those ordained by the Constitution.

Fifth—We assert the traditional policy of the party, in declaring it is the right and duty of the Legislature to regulate corporations, whether railway, telegraph, water or otherwise; to limit their charges in the interests of the public, and to compel them to serve all citizens, without discrimination, at reasonable rates; and that when they refuse to do so, we recognize the right and declare the intention of making them do so; and we further assert it to be the duty of the Government to preserve the waters of the State for irrigation and other public uses, instead of permitting them to be made the means of extortion and monopoly.

Sixth—That the Democratic party has no occasion to make any new departure or declaration of opposition to the system of subsidies, when we recall the fact that it is to a Democratic State Administration that this State owes its deliverance from this oppressive, unjust and corrupt system.

Seventh—That we are in favor of calling a convention of delegates elected by the people to amend the Constitution of the State, as the only mode of creating a system of government at once harmonious and efficient, and are therefore opposed to the amendments to the constitution, which are to be submitted to a vote of the people at the ensuing election.

Eighth—That the time-honored Democratic doctrine of local self-government is sufficient when properly administered to afford an effective remedy for the evils now caused by Chinese labor and the presence among us of an inferior race, detrimental to our moral and physical health; that in the interests of all classes in California, especially that of the white working people, we demand such amendment to the Burlingame treaty as shall reduce it to a mere commercial convention.

Ninth—That we condemn the doctrine whereby the power of the State to prevent the importation to our shores of degraded persons for immoral purposes has been denied.

Tenth—That we favor the speedy completion of a transcontinental railway on the Thirty-second parallel, subject to such limitations by the Federal and State Governments as shall protect the rights of the people.

Eleventh—That we are in favor of equal taxation, and any departure from this principle or any system of taxation which imposes a double tax upon the same object is in violation of the spirit of the Constitution and unjust to the best interests of the State.

Twelfth—That all legislation intended to regulate the social habits and customs of the people, so long as those habits and customs do not interfere with the welfare of society at large, and all legislation of the character known by the general name of Prohibitory Law is opposed to the principles of the Democratic party, and is calculated to promote a pretense of social morality, rather than a well founded system of public order and decency.

Thirteenth—That we invite the hearty co-operation of all persons, whatever may have been their past political affinities, to unite with us in carrying out the principles herein enunciated.

Fourteenth—That we condemn, as subversive of the rights of the people and ruinous to the best interests of the State, the policy of permitting the lands of the State, to become a monopoly in the hands of the few at the expense of the many, and we hereby pledge the Democratic party to the correction of this giant evil.

Title IV, Part I, Penal Code.

SECTION 41. Every person charged with the performance of any duty under the provisions of any law of this State relating to elections who willfully neglects or refuses to perform it, or who in his official capacity knowingly and fraudulently acts in contravention or violation of any of the provisions of such law is, unless a different punishment for such acts or omission is prescribed by this Code, punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the State Prison not exceeding five years or by both.

SEC 42. Every person who willfully causes, procures or allows himself to be registered in the Great Register of any county, knowing himself not to be entitled to such registration, is punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the County Jail or State Prison not exceeding one year, or both. In all cases where, on the trial of a person charged with any offense under the provisions of this section, it appears in evidence that the accused stands registered in the Great Register of any county without being qualified for such registration, the Court must order such registration to be canceled.

SEC. 43. Every person who, after being required by the Board of Judges at any election, refuses to be sworn, or who, after being sworn, refuses to answer any pertinent question propounded by such Board, touching his right or the right of any other person to vote, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 44. Every person summoned to appear and testify, before any Board of Registration, who wilfully disobeys such summons, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 45. Every person not entitled to vote, who fraudulently votes, and every person who votes more than once at any one election, or knowingly hands in two or more tickets folded together, or changes any ballot after the same has been deposited in the ballot box, or adds, or attempts to add any ballot to those legally polled at any election, either by fraudulently introducing the same into the ballot box before or after the ballots therein have been counted, or adds to or mixes with, or attempts to add to or mix with, the ballots lawfully polled, other ballots, while the same are being counted or canvassed, or at any other time, with intent to change the result of such election, or carries away or destroys, or attempts to carry away or destroy, any poll list, or ballots, or ballot box, for the purpose of breaking up or invalidating such election, or wilfully detains, mutilates, or destroys any election returns, or in any manner so interferes with the officers holding such election or conducting such canvass, or with the voters lawfully exercising their rights of voting at such election, as to prevent such election or canvass from being fairly held and lawfully conducted, is guilty of felony.

SEC. 46. Every person not entitled to vote, who fraudulently attempts to vote, or who, being entitled to vote, attempts to vote more than once at any election, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 47. Every person who procures, aids, assists, counsels or advises another to give or offer his vote at any election, knowing that the person is not qualified to vote, is guilty of misdemeanor.

SEC. 48. Every officer or Clerk of Election who aids in changing or destroying any poll list, or in placing any ballots in the ballot box, or taking any therefrom, or adds, or attempts to add, any ballots to those legally polled at such election, either by fraudulently introducing the same into the ballot box before or after the ballots therein have been counted, or adds to or mixes with, or attempts to add to or mix with, the ballots polled any other ballots, while the same are being counted or canvassed, or at any other time, with intent to change the result of such election, or allows another to do so when in his power to prevent it, or carries away, or destroys, or knowingly allows another to carry away or destroy, any poll list, ballot box, or ballots lawfully polled is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for not less than two nor more than seven years.

SEC. 49. Every Inspector, Judge, or Clerk of an election, who, previous to putting the ballot of an elector in the ballot box, attempts to find out any name on such ballot, or who opens, or suffers the folded ballot of any elector which has been handed in to be opened or examined previous to putting the same into the ballot box, or who makes or places any mark or device on any folded ballot with the view to ascertain the name of any person for whom the elector has voted, or who, without the consent of the elector, discloses the name of any person which such Inspector, Judge or Clerk has fraudulently or illegally discovered to have been voted for by such elector, is punishable by fine, not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars.

SEC. 50. Every person who forges or counterfeits returns of an election purporting to have been held at a precinct, town, or ward where no election was in fact held, or wilfully substitutes forged or counterfeit returns of election in the place of the true returns, for a precinct, town or ward where an election was actually held, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for a term not less than two nor more than ten years.

SEC. 51. Every person who willfully adds to, or subtracts from, the votes actually cast at an election, in any returns, or who alters such returns, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for not less than one nor more than five years.

SEC. 52. Every person who aids or abets in the commission of any of the offenses mentioned in the four preceding sections, or who, being present at or cognizant of the commission of either of such offenses, does not give information thereof as soon as practicable to the District Attorney or Grand Jury of the proper county, or to some Justice of the Peace of such county, is punishable by imprisonment in the County Jail for the period of six months, or in the State Prison not exceeding two years.

SEC. 53. Every person who, by force, threats, menaces, bribery, or any corrupt means, either directly or indirectly attempts to influence any elector in giving his vote, or to deter him from giving the same, or attempts by any means whatever to awe, restrain, hinder or disturb any elector in the free exercise of the right of suffrage, or furnishes any elector wishing to vote, who cannot read, with a ticket, informing or giving such elector to understand that it contains a name written or printed thereon different from the name which is written or printed thereon, or defrauds any elector at any such election, by deceiving and causing such elector to vote for different person or any office than he intended or desired to vote for; or who, being Inspector, Judge, or Clerk of any election, while acting as such, induces or attempts to induce, any elector, either by menace or reward, or promise thereof, to vote differently from what such elector intended or desired to vote, he is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 54. Every person who, with intent to promote the election of himself, or any other person, either:

1. Furnishes entertainment at his expense to any meeting of electors previous to or during an election;

2. Pays for, procures, or engages to pay for any such entertainment;

3. Furnishes or engages to pay or deliver any money or property for the purpose of procuring the attendance of voters at the polls, or for the purpose of compensating any person for procuring attendance of voters at the polls, except for the conveyance of voters who are sick or infirm;

4. Furnishes or engages to pay or deliver any money or property for any purpose intended to promote the election of any candidate, except for the expenses of holding and conducting public meetings for the discussion of public questions, and of printing and circulating ballots, handbills, and other papers previous to such election;

London Bridge.

[From St. Nicholas for September.]

As the boat shoots under the arches and up the river, the bridge comes into view—the busiest place in all busy London. About eight thousand people on foot and nine hundred vehicles pass over it every hour in the day. The rumble of the traffic, as it comes to us on the boat, is like the roll of distant thunder. I can compare it to nothing else, trite as the simile is. In the background you can see the Tower, in which the officers of the Government were imprisoned in the barbarous days of old and Billingsgate the largest fish-market in the world. The dealers and their customers are notorious for their use of bad language, and the word "Billingsgate" is commonly accepted in conversation and writing as meaning abuse or profanity.

The bridge has been rebuilt several times, and the present one cost ten millions of dollars in gold, so you may imagine how substantial it is. In the reign of Queen Elizabeth there were stores on each side, with arbors and gardens, and at the south end was a queer wooden house, brought from Holland, which was covered with carving and gilding. In the middle ages it was the scene of affrays of all kinds, and it was burned down several times, three thousand persons perishing in one fire alone. The heads of rebels were stuck on the gate houses, among others those of Jack Cade, and of Garnet, who was concerned in the gunpowder plot to blow up the houses of Parliament. The heads of good Sir Thomas More, brave Wallace of Scotland and the pious Bishop of Rochester were also placed there, and until a comparatively recent date such ghastly trophies glanced down on the passers by. They were fastened on iron spikes, and in a gale of wind they sometimes rolled to the ground and into the water.

Three hundred and fifteen years ago the Lord Mayor of London was Sir William Hewet. Hewet lived in a house on the bridge, and had an infant daughter named Annie. The current of the Thames was then very strong, as there was a fall of several feet under the arches. One day a nurse was playing with baby Annie at a window overlooking the river, and in a careless moment she let her little charge fall. A young apprentice named Osborne plunged into the boiling stream after her, and with great difficulty saved her, thus earning the lifelong gratitude of his master the Lord Mayor. Annie grew to be a beautiful woman, and, as her father was very wealthy, many noblemen, including earls and baronets, sought her hand. But she loved Osborne the best, and to all other suitors her father said: "No, Osborne won her and Osborne shall have her." So he did and he afterwards became the first Duke of Leeds.

The Highest Bridge in the World

The highest bridge in the world will be built at the crossing of the Kentucky river, on the Cincinnati Southern Railway, near the Shaker Ferry. The Baltimore Bridge Company, one of the most noted in the United States, has secured the contract. The bridge will consist of an iron deck truss of three spans of 375 feet each, center to center, supported by two piers and two abutments. The piers will be built of masonry to a height of 64 feet and 6 inches above low water-mark, and the additional distance below low water mark will soon be determined by borings under the control of the resident engineer. These piers will be 120 feet long end to end of cut water, and 35 wide on the top, built hollow, with the walls 24 feet from the end. Upon the masonry will rest the iron tresselwork. The grade line is 275 feet 6 inches above low water. The abutments will be built upon the cliffs on each side of the river, and are to be 48 feet high, depending upon the shape of the ledges of rock. When this structure is completed, Kentuckians can well point with pride to the highest bridge upon this continent.

—The Pennsylvania Democrats are just now in a shiver as to whether they will follow the track of their Ohio rag money brethern. They like it but are afraid of its consequences.

The Last Chief Justice of England.

The Court of Queen's Bench will cease to exist next November—that is to say, the Act of Parliament which abolishes it will take effect at that time; although what probably will be its last sitting was held July 6th. The London Times says:

It is impossible (as Lord Coleridge observed a year or so ago) to contemplate without a feeling of interest, and perhaps a passing pang of regret, the extinction and passing away of so august and ancient an institution. Even in this country, so tenacious in its traditions and institutions, and most of all in its judicial institutions, the Queen's Bench, as it was curtly called, or, to use its correct legal title, "The Court of the King before the King himself"—"coram ipso rege"—was the most ancient of all, and far more ancient than Parliament itself; for it can be traced back clearly in the substance of its nature and character and in the essence of its jurisdiction to the time of Alfred—above ten centuries ago. It is a curious circumstance that, reckoning from the ascension of Alfred, in 871—the earliest date at which such a jurisdiction can be shown to have been exercised—to the year 1870, when the original of the Judicature Act which abolished it was introduced, just one thousand years should have elapsed. To Sir Alexander Cockburn, certainly in many respects not the least distinguished of the series, belongs the melancholy distinction of being the last Lord Chief Justice of England. The jurisdiction of the Court, it is true, is preserved by the Judicature Act, and is vested in a division of the High Court of Judicature. And its peculiar jurisdiction is vested in that division exclusively. But as a court—as that great Court which has existed ever since the conquest as a distinct and separate tribunal, with the high and lofty jurisdiction which could originally only be exercised by the King in person, and was so exercised by our sovereigns ever since the time of Alfred, as that great court of the King inferior only to Parliament in greatness and in dignity—its history has closed. All its proud distinction and its lofty traditions expire and pass away and become as things of the past. It has, however, a great history—a history of ten centuries' duration—closely connected with the Constitution of the country through a long succession of ages, and associated with a series of great names and historic, often tragic events; and it was not fitting that it should pass away forever without a word by way of memorial and in some measure of regret.

Concern for His Children.

He wore a slouch hat and carried a whip in his hand, as he sauntered into a Niagra Fall hotel, and by the home made style he put on, one could see he belonged around there—in fact was nothing less than a representative hackman. But he looked thoughtful, and the landlord soon noticing it, inquired:

"What's the matter, Tom? Are you sick, or haven't you made a hundred dollars to-day, or what is up that you look so pensive?"

"I've heerd suthin' to-day, Colonel, that's sot me a thinkin'," was the reply.

"What is it, Tom?"

"Wal, there was a gentleman with long whisker and a professorish looking coat, talkin' on the 'Merican side, this mor'n kinder wiseish like, and I heern him say as how he'd figured it out that in 7,800,000 years the Falls of Niagara will a worn away, and there won't be none left at all."

"Suppose there isn't," said the landlord, jocularly, "that will not affect you; you'll be dead and gone long before then."

"No; I know it wouldn't affect me, Colonel," said the passenger pirate, with feeling, "but I can't bear to think that the chances I'm having to make money 'll be taken from my children!"

And though the landlord tried to console him with a genealogical calculation of the chances yet left for his family, the hackman would not be comforted, and stalked away to meet the incoming train, with the air of a man who was bound to make the most of his opportunity while it lasted.

Caliente,

The present terminus of the railroad, is in a hot place, shut in by hills, with no show for cooling breezes. It is here that stages make connections with the railroad for Panamint, Cerro Gordo, Independence, etc. The Railroad Company have made great exertions to draw the Cerro Gordo business to their road. One is surprised to see the mountain roads finished to such handsome grades, all the work of the company to attract the bullion to Caliente. Already teaming is saved some seven days the round trip by the new road compared with the old road to Los Angeles. The town has got its growth, and its population of two hundred will feel a big shrinkage when the next eighteen miles of railroad are completed. The traveling public will be interested to know that work on the road is being pushed to its utmost limit. Beginning at its present terminus, the grade ascends with endless returns and stretches—now shooting through a backbone or spur, then sweeping across a twenty five or thirty mile desert at last to debouche out of a mile-long tunnel into the San Fernando Valley. Eight gangs of men work night and day to hurry through this big bore, and when finished—say twelve months hence—it will only be a pleasure trip to travel from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

The Golden Rule.

[From The Detroit Free Press.]

"What's this boy doing here—this innocent looking, white-haired boy?" asked his honor.

"Gettin' up a dog fight," exclaimed 'Bijah.

"My son, is this true?"

"I never said a word—the other boys got up the fight," wailed the lad

"I do not know what I can do with you. We keep a cross-cut saw here to saw boys in too, but it is Saturday morning and I don't want to muss up the station house. I suppose we—"

"The boys lied on me!" exclaimed the boy, trembling all over.

"They did, eh! Now, boy, tell me the solemn truth—did you have hold of either dog?"

"No, sir—you may kill me if I did!"

"Did you say 'sickem?'"

"No, sir—no!"

"Did you bet five marbles against three jaw-breakers that the red dog would win?"

"No—no!"

"Well, boy, this is a serious case, but I am going to overlook it. I think you have told the truth, but you had no business there. In the distant future you want to remember that it is four times better to pull weeds in the garden than to attend a dog fight."

"I will, sir."

"And remember to keep truth in your handkerchief pocket all through life. One ounce of truth is worth more in the wholesale market than 40 tons of lies."

"Yes, sir."

"Now you can go."

The boy reached the door to encounter the band, who marched him of singing:

"Oh bury Bartholomew out in the woods'
In a beautiful hole in the ground,
Where the bumble-bees buzz and the woodpeckers sing,
And the straddle-bugs tumble around:
So that in Winter when the snow and the slush
Has covered his little bed,
His brother Artemus can go out with Jane
And visit the place with his sled."

—Life is such a conundrum that no man knows where it ends until he gives it up.

THE GREAT FAILURE.

But few of our readers but have, ere this, become acquainted with the main facts of the failure of that greatest of Pacific coast financial institutions the Bank of California, and the suicidal death of its founder and President, Wm. C. Ralston. The sad affair has before now been canvassed in business centers all over the globe, but even yet there is no satisfactory solution of the real cause of the failure. Still, it is not to be wondered at. Had the Bank of California attended strictly to legitimate banking it would not have been, these long years past, a household word, and a managing institution known to everybody in nearly every mining enterprise and important financial operation in California and Nevada. It was not a cent. per cent. concern, satisfied to do business for the profits across the counter, just such and only such business as was offered it by others. It worked to create business for its own profits and for the good of the country, and by so doing has accomplished more for the development of the coast and the general good than all other similar institutions combined. And though in so doing it has brought ruin upon itself and numbers of individuals nowise responsible for its acts, the Bank of California will always remain green in the memories of thousands who are indirectly, if not directly, indebted to its enterprise for their homes, business and mayhap all they have. This remark applies especially to the inhabitants of many border valleys and towns of California, and to a still greater extent to those of Nevada. The direct pecuniary loss by this failure is large, but of itself not enough to be considered a great disaster. The disaster lies principally in the loss of so much enterprise and developing power. It is this which will make the going down of the Bank most severely felt in many mining towns, especially in Nevada. Mining operations will languish if they do not cease altogether, in many instances, now that the prime mover and encourager has ceased to exist.

Explains It.

As the visit of the Crocker-Huntington party to San Diego, says The Los Angeles Herald "has provoked much comment, the following from The San Diego World may help to explain:"

Mr. Hunting, Mr. Crocker and other gentlemen of the Southern Pacific Railroad were here yesterday, but remained only a short time. Mr. Horton, Mr. Sherman and Mr. Higgins showed them round, and we understand that they were pleased with things seen by them here. We are glad that Mr. Horton was polite to them. It is more than less interested parties would be; and we are glad, too, that it is likely they will run one end of their monopoly into this place. We need it, even with its high charges, and we have felt sure we would get it after a while. But that by no means interferes with the road. That, too, will be built, unless there is very marked bad faith on the part of those having it in hand. Let as many come as will. The more the better. We believe the gentlemen spoke favorably of a line to this point, but nothing will be done until we hear further, say in a month or so.

New Patents.

Through dispatches to Dewey & Co., Patent Agents, we receive the following advance list of U. S. Patents granted to Pacific Coast inventors, viz.: H. Darneal, S. F., game-board; I. Lobree, Antioch, Cal., faucet; T. C. Stark, Vallejo, Cal., steam plow; H. T. Bestor, S. F., shelving for stoves; J. B. Gribble, Grass Valley, condlestick; W. L. Palmer and I. W. Knox, S. F. rotary pressure blower; W. C. Bussey, S. F., faucet; E. J. Fraser, S. F. amalgamator; T. A. Stombs, S. F., automatic rotary carbureter; D. A. Manuel, Napa, Cal., gang plow; R. L. Ogden, S. F., carriage; W. H. Bell S. F., marking wheel; C. V. B. Reeder, San Jose, Cal., bed bottom; A. Schrader, Walla Walla, W. T., cultivator; Lilienthal & Co., S. F., trademark for whisky.

Indian Murders.

Indians as well as Mexicans are troublesome on the Rio Grande. A few days a band of redskins captured a ranch twenty-four miles from San Antonion with two men, two women, two children and one thousand head of sheep. On their retreat, the Indians killed one of the men, and a few hours later one of the women. When they found they were pursued they killed the other woman. The woman they got off was pregnant. She was the wife of the last man killed. The dead bodies were found on the trail. The Indians escaped.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

There seems to have been a singular misapprehension as to the meaning and intent of the proposed Constitutional Convention. The Liquor Dealers Association of San Francisco, for some unaccountable reason, sent out circulars in the hope of defeating "Convention, Yes." This circular made no specifications of anything for the statement but simply warned voters that the amendments were intended to make a Local Option Law possible. Now, the fact is nothing can be further from the truth than that statement. Section 30 of Article IV specially withdraws the right of the Legislature to pass any local or special statute, except under certain conditions which practically renders such laws very difficult to obtain at all. Section 11, Article I, says that all laws of a general nature shall have a uniform operation upon the same class of subjects. This is not favorable for a Local Option Whisky Law, and the Liquor Dealers Association know it, if they know anything at all about it. We think the real cause of this opposition comes from an entirely different source this Local Option business being merely used as a means to deceive the ignorant. The opposition comes from the heavy incorporations. Article X effectively brings all such within the reach and control of law, and it is on this account they oppose it, and it is on this account the people should by all means have supported the call for the Convention. The present action, if favorable to calling this Convention, is not at all final as regards these amendments. The people are to choose men for this Convention, and this Convention then may adopt these amendments or substitute others, or report in favor of the old Constitution as it is, just as in their assembled wisdom, should be deemed best; and after all that shall be done, it still remains for the people to adopt or reject whatever Constitution should be reported.

Our present Constitution can be improved in many points. The manner in which the Governor is compelled to act upon bills under our present Constitution is fatal to good legislation. He has no power to sign any bills after the Legislature has adjourned; and as nearly all the bills of the session are passed during its last two weeks, it is at once seen that the Governor must either approve bills without proper examination or must permit a considerable number to die in his hands.

A law (not especially consequent upon a new Constitution perhaps) is needed to prevent so much hasty and inconsiderate legislation. The proposed amendments are deficient in this particular, since it retains the viva voce system of voting on bills, instead of requiring every member to put himself on a responsible record by the slow but more reliable call of the ayes and noes When a legislator knows he has to face a permanent record of his every vote, he will feel his individual responsibility enough more to at least inquire what bill it is he is voting upon.

Then there is a Constitutional law affecting corporations, the change in the judiciary, and many other things too numerous to mention now, altogether giving abundant reasons for remodeling the present Constitution, and we hope "Convention Yes." has won the day.

RALSTON'S DEATH.

It is now claimed that Ralston's death was caused by apoplexy and was not a deliberate suicide. The Coroner's inquest was not ended at last accounts and until decided by a thorough examination, the real facts on this point can only be surmised. It has been the custom of Mr. Ralston to take long swims out into the rough water off North Beach, so there was nothing remarkable in the fact of his going in and swimming so far out on the last occasion. But it was immediately after resigning his position as President of the grand institution he had founded and watched over with so much of anxious care from the beginning to the end. It is said he was seen to swallow something from a bottle or vial just before entering the water, and it is thought this was poison, and that he swam ont so far to prevent all chance of escaping the death he coveted.

It appears that the Directors of the Bank of California met at 1 o'clock P. M., on the 27th ultimo, all present. Mr. Ralston soon entered, and D. O. Mills promptly asked him to resign his position as President of the bank. Ralston complied with the request at once. Mills then asked Ralston to leave the room, and he did so. The Directors were still in session about 5 o'clock, when the news was brought that Ralson had drowned himself. The true condition of the Bank had been concealed from the Directors who profess to be astonished at the development. The stockholders will lose their stock, and, to cover liabilities, will probably have to stand an assessment of 50 per cent. on $5,000,000. The liabilities are said to be in the form of acceptances and advances made by leading capitalists. Governor Stanford holds four hundred thousand dollars of these acceptances. From what can now be ascertained, the liabilities are thought to be fully $14,000,000, with available assets at not far from $7,000,000, which amount may shrink considerably before it is concentrated. It is said that the forth-coming report of the management of the Bank will astonish those who have had faith that it was well conducted. There have been transactions that savor of a high degree of recklessness, and which eluded the scrutiny of the Executive Committee. We regard the suicide of Mr. W. C. Ralston as the most lamentable feature of the whole affair. Whether a sense of wounded pride and an unwillingness to face the world with a dishonored name, drove him to commit the rash act, or whether he was criminally implicated in such a manner that his only chance to escape a felon's doom was to cross the Dark River, has not yet transpired. He was in the prime of life, not being more than 45 years of age. He was one of San Francisco's most public-spirited, enterprising, kind-hearted citizens, and thousands of people were dependent upon him for their daily bread.

SINGULAR DISCLOSURES.

Press dispatches, dated Chicago, August 24, give the following remarkable statement:

The leading Washington special says the Treasury Department has the most conclusive evidence to show that the whisky ring has decided to resort to murder if necessary to protect its members. The circumstances which point directly to this conclusion is the attempted assassination of J. E Miller in Chicago last Friday night. Miller was formerly United States Gauger; was discharged last May for violating rules and regulations of the Internal Revenue Bureau. His offense was technical, and not of a criminal character. He subsequently voluntarily gave the Government very valuable information. He implicated in the whisky frauds persons who stood high in social and civil positions in Chicago, whose names have never yet been mention in this connection. This disclosure astonished the Treasury officials. The officers of the Internal Revenue and Secret Service who had previously had the most knowledge of the inside workings of the rings, and through whose efforts in a great measure the plans for the secrets had been made the ring, fully understood matters and means of knowing of their operations. Through treachery they learned that he had in some way communicated this information to the Government. Knowing that his could only be given orally in a criminal case, and could not be given by despositions, the ring seem to have determined to prevent Miller from ever reaching the witness stand. The information in possession of the Treasury Department indicates that the ring sought to accomplish its purpose by the hands of an assassin last Friday night, while Miller was quietly looking about Chicago for additional evidence against the ring He was shot at by an assassin. The ball intended for his heart, however, lodged in his left arm. Although badly wounded he will recover. He was taken care of by friends, and is now understood to be in a place where hired murderers cannot reach him. It is the intention of the Government to protect him from further assault, and to place him on the stand at a proper time, that he may tell the whole truth regarding the monstrous swindling operations of the ring of which he had personal knowledge. What he knows will assist the Government materially in securing convictions His relations are considered of so much importance, that he will be constantly attended until the trial by Government officers, who will shield him from harm. Although the assassin was within a few feet of Miller, when he fired, his face was not fully exposed; and, as Miller is able to give a very meegre and unsatisfactory description of him, it is doubtful if his identity can be established. The Treasury has, through the assistance of Miller and others, obtained a mass of evidence against persons in Chicago which is startling There can be no doubt of the credibility of the evidence, or the identity of the prominent persons whose names are involved. These names the Treasury will withhold until the trial of the cases at the October term of the Court. Their publication at any time would create a profound sensation. Miller is the person who was the means of discovering the four hundred barrels of illicit high wines in Chicago, which had been concealed since the seizure. The secret service is closely watched in every movement, in Chicago, St. Louis and Milwaukee, the leading centers of the whisky ring.

Comes Again.

The Aldine establishment was recently destroyed by fire, but The Art Journal now comes again as fresh and fine as ever. It is unquestionably a splendid publication, but we must say its publishers do not lack for "cheek" as the fraternity generally can testify. A little less of that, Mr. Aldine, and we will think more of you.

Resigned.

Chief Justice Lowe, of Utah, has resigned his position, the salary being inadequate for the proper support of his family. He will resume the practice of his profession at Fort Scott Kansas.

General News Items.

Mrs. Norton, the murderess of her husband, has been convicted of murder in the first degree and will be sentenced to imprisonment for life.

The Independence Railroad tunnel in the Cajon Pass is now in 305 feet.

The city of Sacramento has passed what is called the "basket ordinance." It is probably intended to head off the Chinese in their system of carrying baskets and poles and interfering with side-walk travel.

Hon. D. McKey, of Chattanoga, has been appointed by the Governor of Tennessee to fill the vacancy in the United States Senate caused by the death of Andrew Johnson.

Santa Monica will be fully supplied with water in about twenty days. The Water Company are laying piples to connect with the San Vicente spring. The capacity is ample for all requirements.

C. S. Lytle, alias "Doctor Schimmerhorn," a well known character in Nevada, lately died in Northern Arizona. He was a natural humorist, but not a man of much culture.

Wm. C. Ralston has transferred the whole of his large tracts of land in Kern county to J. L. Fry. The consideration in the deed is $90,000. It is one of the finest tracts of land in the State, being 16,000 acres in extent. Land of this character in Kern county has been selling at $50 per acre.

Copeland, who undertook to publish to the world ex President Johnson's religious views and gave them a wrong coloring, has been tarred and feathered at Knoxville, Tenn.

At San Buenaventura, about three months ago, a Miss Meyers accidentally took a swallow of solution of potash through mistake for some medicine which was in the same kind of a bottle, which burnt her throat so terribly as to render it almost impossible to take nourishment, and her sufferings from the effect of the accident were terrible till Friday when she died of starvation.

The Sacramento Herald says: "The Great Register contains two Frank Thompsons, both born in Ireland, both aged 40 years, both residents of the First Ward, and both registered August 7th, 1874. Considering these remarkable coincidence, only one Frank Thompson should be allowed to vote."

Joseph Loader, who libelled H. Ward Beecher, was admitted to bail yesterday in the sum of $2 500.

There was a riot in a church at New Hope (Mississippi) recently, in which eight negroes were killed and several wounded.

The Los Angeles City Council have granted the right of way on San Pedro street to the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad.

The sagebrush land around Reno, Nevada, is doing wonders in the way of producing alfalfa. The Journal says: "A. J. Hatch has already cut two crops of alfalfa from his place to the other side of the river, and a third is now loomed up. He can cut four crops this pear, if he so wills."

Gen. Phil. Sheridan has arrived at San Francisco. He was received with a grand public demonostration.

Cars and other material for the prismoidal railway at Los Angelos are expected to arrive by nhe next steamer from Panama.

Captain Webb succeeded in his second attempt in swimming from Dover to Calais, without float or life saving apparatus; time 21 hours and 40 minutes; distance, 26½ miles.

Senator Jones is nowise affected by the suspension of the bank, except in suchwise as the general depreciation of mining stocks may affect any stocks in his hands. He states that he does not owe the bank o dollar, nor does it owe him.

The Los Angeles Herald of the 18th says: A brig is now on the way, consigned to the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad Company, bringing a large lot of telegraph poles and wire; also timber and material for turn tables, and one hundred and fifty tons of engine coal. She has also on board a large quantity of pipe for the Santa Monica Water Company.

Complete official returns to The Louisville Courier-Journal of the recent election in Kentucky, give McGreery Democrat, a majority of thirty-six thousand over Harlan, Republican. This shows a loss of one thousand over the vote for Leslie in 1871. The House stands 90 Democrats to 10 Republicans.

The British House of Commons has passed a bill for a tunnel under the Channel, and a similar measure has been introduced in the French Assembly. There seems to be no scientific obstacle to building the tunnel. The soil under the Channel is a chalk formation, easily mined, and the distance is not very long.

Railroad to the Black Hills.

The Kansas Central and Black Hills Narrow gauge Railroad Company, with a capital of $1,000,000, has been organized at Omaha. The road will be built at once from Omaha through the arricultural country south of Platte River, and will be pushed to the Black Hills as soon as developments warrants. The incorporation of this new railroad company signifies but little if anything While we believe in the development of natural resources, and are only too willing to assist in this work, we cannot, at this time, endorse an enterprise like the above. We suspect the real object of the incorporation is to create an impression that the Black Hills country will spring into a position of importance, whereas, up to this writing nothing has been developed that tends to show that the Black Hills possess a tithe of the attractions for the miner and the agriculturist that are found in the Pacific States.—[Stock Report.

Pardoned.

An Indignant Bridegroom.

A correspondent from McGeary District writes us of an incident which recently occurred at a wedding at that place. After the solemnization of the nuptial ceremony the clergyman, in accordance with a time-honored custom, proceeded to impress upon the lips of the blushing bride a chaste, clerical salute, when the bridegroom, who had doubtless read the proceedings in the Beecher trial, suddenly thrust his newly-wedded wife aside and assumed a belligerent attitude toward the astonished gospel expounder. For a time the utmost confusion prevailed, but it was finally explained to the indignant groom that the kiss was not of the paroxysmal kind, but a strictly orthodox salute of the most harmless character, when he became pacified, and peace reigned again in McGeary.—[Eureka Sentinel

Animal Sagacity.

A gentleman named Hill, living in Lower Gold Hill, has a little block and-tan dog that accidentally fell into a hole about twenty feet deep, near his house, a few days ago. He shortly began barking, and his master being attracted to the spot, thought he would by an experiment see how much the dog knew. He procured a rope, tied a knot on the end and lowered it to the dog, who shortly seized it with his teeth and hung on until drawn of the hole.—[Gold Hill News, August 24

ESTRAY NOTICE.

I HAVE TAKEN UP TWO ANIMALS WHICH I found in the north end of the Cottonwood range of mountains, Inyo County, California. One is a light bay mare, about six years old, no brand; the other is a dark sorrel horse, about nine years old, and branded with something like a figure 2 on the left shoulder. The owner or owners of said property can have the same by applying to me at my camp about 18 miles north of Hunter's Horse Ranch, in the above described mountains, proving property and paying charges.

CHUFA OR SOUCHIE!

150 BUSHELS PER ACRE ON POOREST land. Equally productive in a cold climate as the warmer, as the frost does not injure it. No cultivation, except to carefully eradicate the weeds. A new variety, very large, sweet and delicious for food, resembles in taste a delicious cocanut, and like them may be eaten raw or cooked. They make a delightful refreshing drink for Summer. Much used in Madrid, Valencia, Cuba and other hot climates, where it is known. It was employed at the end of the preceeding century as a substitute for coffee in the whole of Germany. Fine for poultry, fattens more hogs than forty acres of the same land in corn. There is nothing in the world that fattens hogs so rapidly and thoroughly, and that gives such sweetness to the flesh. It keeps well throughout the year in the ground, which renders it only necessary to fence off a patch or a field, as needed for the hogs, and you are enabled to have healthy and fat swine at all seasons of the year without one grain of corn or other food. Special rates to agents. Sample packages prepaid by mail, 50 cents, or three for $1. Money must be sent in registered letters, prepaid, or Postoffice order, or it will be at the sender's risk. WE HAVE A DUPLICATE SET, COMPLETE, (16 volumes) of APPLETON'S AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA to sell at the New York price, for cash, or will take wood at cash rates. This is the best opportunity ever offered in this county for any one to procure the most perfect library ever compiled in such an emphatically small compass. The American Cyclopædia presents a panoramic view of all human knowledge, as it exists at the present moment. It embraces and popularizes every subject that can be thought of. In its successive volumes is contained an inexhaustible fund of accurate and practical information on Art and Science in all their branches, including Mechanics, Mathematics, Astronomy, Philosophy, Chemistry and Physiology; on Agriculture, Commerce and Manufactures; on Law, Medicine and Theology; on Biography and History, Geography and Ethumoly; on Political Economy, the Trades, Inventions, Politics, the things of common life and General Literature.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Election Day—Observations.

On the eve of a battle there is always a dead calm. A time when palpitating hearts almost cease throbbing, and the weary brain dare not look into the future. The soul is filled with a dread uncertainty. There is no activity of the mind, and a sort of immobility prevails the whole being. The inveterate joker, the most reckless character, the pious, the profane, the truly brave and the timid, all are affected alike. Not one commiserates or cheers his companions, but all await—what will it be?—the grand or the terrible result. We have been in this fix during the late unpleasantness South, and we fancied that the active candidates last Wednesday experienced a feeling nearly akin to this. The day passed off very quietly. Thanks to the Election Day Liquor Law not a drunk was to be seen, and it was practically demonstrated that a large majority of the leading party could read and write, too What astonished us most was that not one in six understood what Constitutional Convention meant. It is presumable that everybody takes THE INDEPENDENT, or else borrows it from his neighbor, and as this question was explained at length in last week's issue wherefore this utter ignorance? If your neighbor's paper is worn out go and buy a copy for the benefit of your posterity, if not for yourself Few jokes were indulged in. In one saloon a flask lay on a pile of Democratic tickets, and labeled "hands off" Many laid violent hands on it, and got a drink of—water. Our Hon County Judge, a simon pure Democrat of the old school, was zealous in the task of distributing Democrats tickets. He thought the butcher shop a good place for a temporary deposit, and deposited a bundle, instructing the butcher to be careful and not let them be destroyed or blown away. The Judge left; the absent minded butcher grabbed up the pile of tickets and slapped them on to his beef-steak hook, where they fluttered in the breezes a glorious tribute to the memory of defunct passports. That august body of clerks and judges at the polls passed the time pleasantly in disposing of watermelons, etc, and borrowing chews of tobacco. One of the judges offered to gives us a "lay out" in monte, but on account of the suspension of the Bank of California, we declined to take stock Hope deferred maketh the heart sick, and the thirsty souls who didn't rise early enough for their regular matutinal cock tails closed their eyes in esthetic delight when the sun went down, and straighter yet the whisky descended This closed the day that will remain green at least in the memory of those who cast their first vote—also, those who, like some we wot of, now start on their first trip up Salt River.

The Broder Furnace.

The gratifying news came Saturday last that the Broder furnace at Pine Mountain, was making a successful run, the difficulty of properly fluxing the ore so that it would run from the furnace having apparently been successfully overcome. This was the case for a short time, but we are sorry to say ended by the time five or six bars of bullion were gotten out. Despite of everything that could be done, the furnace "banked," and was shut down But the thing didn't end at that by any means The only obstacle to perfect success in every way is the seemingly but trifling difficulty of properly fluxing the ore in the cupola so that it will run out, and this difficulty Broder and Moffat will overcome before they quit, or prove it an impossibilty, which it certainly is not. The bullion produced is of high grade, assaying over $450 to the ton.

Gone East.

Lieut. Clague, A. A. Q. M., and family, started Saturday morning last on their journey to Fort Leavenworth They go to Caliente in the Post ambulance. Lieut. Clague leaves many friends to regret his withdrawal from this Post He has the reputation of being one of the most reliable and trusted Quartermasters in the service; rigid though he was in the matter of the fulfillment of contracts, his gentlemanly courtesy, and evident desire to do but the fair thing, with all parties concerned could but command the respect and liking of all who came in contact with him.

Township Officers.

Following are the votes for some of the precincts for township officers, all that has been reported as yet: Bishop Creek—J. A. Frisbee 51. D. S. Inman 31, J. H Brown 21; Fish Springs—For Roadmaster, John Hopkins 10; Independence—Sam Upton 60, J. B Swearengen 3; Lone Pine—A. H. Johnson 1, C. Jackson 1, I. W. Hunt 1; Cerro Gordo—John Briscoe 3.

Deed Filed

August 21st there was filed with County Clerk Hammarstrand, a deed of the Defiance mining property at Darwin, by P. Reddy to the Defiance Mining Company, an incorporation.

Bullion Shipped.

The Cerro Gordo Freighting Company are now making regular shipment of Darwin bullion During last week something over 500 bars were shipped by way of Cartago.

Mills Running.

The News says that the Sunrise and Suprise Valley Companies big mill at Panamint were both running, but with what degree of success could not then be determined.

Our Cerro Gordo Letter.

CERRO GORDO, Sept. 1st, 1875.

MESSRS. EDS:—On last Wednesday, the 25th ultimo, a memorable event happened in the social annals of Cerro Gordo, viz., the first marriage celebrated in the camp—that of the fair daughter of Mrs. M. Lewis, of the American Hotel, to Mr. Al. Wapelhorst, of your place. Bright and early on Tuesday morning the bridal party, consisting of the principal, Mr. Wapelhorst, Judge Hannah, Phil. Malloy, and our former fair "schoolmarm," Miss Rose Eudey, arrived and soon gladdened the hearts of the Cerro Gordians with their smiling countenances. Invitation had been issued to most residents and on Wednesday night as brilliant a party assembled at the hotel as ever graced any hall of Cerro Gordo before. And you must know, Messrs. Editors, that at present, Cerro Gordo can compare favorably with any place in the county in regard to her beautiful

DAUGHTERS AND GAY CAVALIERS.

It is true that for a short time after the performance of the ceremony, a sad gloom reigned amongst our beaus—for we hardly considered it fair for so young and good looking a man as Al. to come up from Independence and carry off one of our fair and bewitching darlings—but the sound of a fiddle soon dispelled all the gloomy thoughts and oblivion was soon found in the strains of sweet music. Dancing was kept up till the small hours of the morning, when the company dispersed, highly satisfied with the kind entertainment provided for the occasion, and wishing to the young couple all happyness in their future career.

TAKE NOTICE!

But now, Messrs. Editors, we would respectfully ask the young men of Independence not to try to follow the example of Mr. Wapelhorst. We give them hereby fair warning, that we will not tolerate any more such foolishness; we only have very few young ladies here, and we will not and cannot afford to loose another one. We like them and we intend to keep them and what is more, if not very much mistaken, we intend to take our revenge and retaliate and the young men of Independence may take care that some of our young men do not take away some of their darling's, and thus get even.

PRESENT AND FUTURE.

Otherwise there is not much of importance to record in the camp. The old furnace of Mr. Belshaw is puffing away and turning out a goodly number of bars in every shift and will continue to do so. The Potosi Tunnel, for so long one of the pet hopes of Cerro Gordians, is now regarded by those best informed, as a fizzle and probably will be so for some time to come. Our hopes are with and the gratifying announcement of their intention of bringing the water from Duval's springs to town, is considered a good omen of our future. To day the survey of the ditch was commenced and on Monday a number of workmen will begin active operations We all have unbounded faith in the near prosperity of our camp at any rate and mean to stay with her through thick and thin. Last week a couple of tons of very good copper ore from the mines of Messrs. Porter and Hunter in the newly discovered district "Ubehebe" has been brought in and shipped to San Francisco, whither Mr. Porter started to-day himself.

QUIET ELECTION AND AN ACCIDENT.

Election is going on quietly; not more than 25 votes probably will be polled.

Two days ago quite a serious accident happened to one of our oldest pioneers and prospectors, Mr. Joseph Diaz While at work in one of his claims, he was caved upon and a large bowlder struck him on the arm, producing a fearful wound, besides otherwise seriously injuring and bruising him. The wounded man was brought to town and Dr. Hehner summoned to dress his wounds. He is now doing well, though it will be some time before he will be able to be round again.

I shall try to keep up a regular correspondence from here, that is, if you gentlemen will be willing to give it room in your paper.—[Just what we want.—EDS.] FURNACE.

Disappeared.

Readers of THE INDEPENDENT will henceforth and forever miss one feature which has distinguished its advertising columns from the very first issue down to the last number. That is the advertisement of the once flourishing and popular firm of Rothschild & Co. Under the new management things have obviously gone crossways with that concern. The last camel that broke the feather's back, so far as our knowledge extends, was our allusion a week or two since to the respectable (?) firm who were backing up old Jake in his nefarious Indian whisky selling business. That was the firm referred to, and for so much of truth we part forever with this old stand-by advertisement—and joy go with it.

"Fallish."

There is a perceptible change in the weather in the past few days, sufficient to remind people that Fall and Winter too, will be here anon.

Lumber

Some 10,000 feet of heavy lumber from the Black Rock mill passed here a day or two since destined for Hoffman's furnace at Darwin.

From Lida.

L. Wick came in from Lida Valley, and reports things as rather slow there just at present, the mill being temporarily shut down.

Thanks.

Our thanks are due our friends in every precinct but Swansea, for their promptness in sending us the returns.

Returned.

It got a little frosty 'o nights up there at the Kern river fishing grounds. On that account, probably because of short rations, more likely on account of election day, certainly because they had been there long enough, the Bennett-Perham fishing party got back a day or two ago, the masculine portion looking like brigands, the ladies of the party like ladies always do—when there is a scarcity of rouge and powder and plenty of sunshine—that's what we guess, not having seen them

The Returns.

Elsewhere we give a table of all the returns received up to last night. The table, even for the precincts reported, is by no means complete, but may be relied upon as correct so far as given. The only thing known of the Swansea vote, or that is likely to be known for two weeks, were the votes for Sheriff marked on the envelope of the regular sealed returns. A number of the precincts make no returns for Congressmen or Constitutional Convention. Darwin and Panamint, both large precincts, are in this category. The Supervisor for both the 1st and 3d districts remains in doubt. In the 1st the chances are in favor of Garrettson, with Big Pine and Pine Mountain to hear from. Panamint returns no vote for Supervisor, leaving the inside track to Meysan. Curtis beats Connelly one vote. One Connelly vote was thrown out here because voted double; one Curtis vote (presumably) at Fish Springs didn't vote for him; each voted for the other; a close call and the honors easy. Paul Bennett cleans his man terrifically. Panamint makes no return for Wiggington or Thompson, leaving Houghton ahead. The total vote is about two hundred less than was anticipated.

Arizona.

Arizona dates to the 25th ultimo give this news:

The body of a man supposed to have perished from want of water and food was found at Telegraph Gap, nine miles from Gila river. The Coroner came from Phœnix, but there was nothing on the body to identify him. He had been dead about two weeks.

Mr. West, a proprietor recently from California, got lost near Oatman Flat, and perished from want of food and water. The body was found some distance from the road. He had been the companion of the man who committed suicide here last week.

There is great excitement at the Pinal mines. A vein of pure silver six inches wide has been struck in the Athenias mine, from which three men have taken out $20,000 in the past two days. Fifty persons have examined this new silver discovery, and pronounce it the richest ever found in America. It casts the Silver King in the shade.

Stewart in His Store.

Stewart runs the store on the detective system. Each man feels that he under the eye of some one—that he is watched—and no one disguises the annoyance this fact gives him. I was in the store one day and in conversation with an employee. It was not a busy time, and all hands seemed to be laying off. Some lounged, some leaned, one or two sat at the boxes. In a moment the scene in the store changed; all came to "attention" sharp. No one was seen—no one spoke. Each man was erect; the loungers came to their feet; there was not an idler in the store. In a moment Stewart came in from his little coupe on the curbstone. He spoke to no one, bowed to no one, seemed to recognize no one. He gave a sharp glance right and left and went up stairs. "Did you see that glance?" said the clerk; "he saw every one of us, and could tell what each man was doing." While Stewart remained not a man "laid off."—[Burleigh's New York Letter.

Morgan's Fate.

Thurlow Weed has written a letter concerning the Morgan case, in which he says the murder was brought about by a "series of unforseen circumstances," notably by the encampment of Knights Templar in the neighborhood of Fort Niagara, where Morgan was confined. Mr. Weed believes the crime was committed, but thinks that the murders were impelled by a sense of mistaken duty. He says that the attention of the Templars was first drawn to Morgan by their chaplain during a dinner at which he was the orator, and the parties concerned were Col. King, an ex United States Army officer; John W. Whitney, a stone mason of Rochester; Mr Chubbuck, a farmer of Lewistown, Me.; Mr. Garside, a butcher of Canada; and Mr. Howard, a book binder of Buffalo. Mr. Weed says that it had been arranged to have Morgan taken to a Far West fur company by an Indian chief, but somehow, the plan failed.

Sudden Death of a Kentucky Blasphemer.

A man named Louis Burke, who lived at Burkesville, in this county, a few days ago indulged in very blasphemous language because his crops had been destroyed by high water. He cursed God for having his crops destroyed by high water. He cursed God for having his crops destroyed last year by heat and drought, and for destroying them this year by flood, and concluded his blasphemy of the Creator with the expression, "God damn him!" His tongue clove to the roof of his mouth, and he died the next night never uttering another word.

Smart Children.

—"What are ye dancing around fur?" inquired a bootblack yesterday of a boy acquaintance whose face was covered with smiles, and who was executing a double shuffle. "Glory 'nuff for one day!" replied the lad jumping still higher, "cow got into the garden this morning and tramped every bed flat as your hat, and I won't have to pull a weed this Summer.

—While a priest in one of the Catholic churches at Boston was saying mass recently, a five-year-old shaver in one of the pews, beholding the priestly berretta, jumped up and astonished his parents, the congregation, the priests, and the acolytes by yelling out, "Oh, shoot that hat!"

—A lady who had on her lip something approaching a mustache, lately called on an officer and his wife, whose laughing, merry little boy happened to be present at the time. In the course of conversation the little fellow inquired what he must do to get hair on his lip. "Why, rub it against papa's," was the reply. "Oh, mamma," said he, "is that the way Miss—— got hers?"

—A boy of five years was playing "railroad" with his little siste Drawing her upon a footstool, he imagined himself both the engine and conductor. After imitating the puffing noise of the steam, he stopped and called out "New York," and in a moment after "Paterson," and then "Philadelphia." His knowledge of towns was now exhausted, and the next place he cried "Heaven." His little sister said eagerly, "Top, I dess I'll det out here."

—The other evening when a Vicksburg mother had company, and her six-year old son made himself disagreeably conspicious, she gave him a threatening look and silently warned him to leave the room. Instead of obeying he walked up to one of them and inquired: "Misses, can't you stay here all night?" "Why, what do you mean?" she asked in a tone of surprise. "If you'll stay mother won't dare lick me; if you don't she make me hop." It was affecting to see his mother lift him to her knee, kiss him repeatedly, and blandly inform the ladies that it was only his cute way

The other day a Detroit mother poured some ink on the pantry shelf near the sugar box, and went up stairs leaving her small son playing with the cat. When she came down the boy sat by the window wearing a placid, innocent look, but there were ink-stains on his fingers. "There! you've been in the sugar!" she exclaimed as she seized him by the collar. "Mother, do you think I'd steal sugar?" "What made 'em?" "Those stains, mother?" "Yes, those stains." "Well, I cannot tell a bold lie mother. I think I've commenced to mortify." She wasn't quite sure, and he was allowed to go out and play circus.

"Little Nell's" Death.

In a recently published letter by Charles Dickens the great novelists expresses himself as opposed to tragic climaxes in fiction; and this expression elicits from The London Daily News the following sound comments: It is to be feared his remarks will lead the public to believe that the writer of a story can do just as he pleases with his characters, plunging them into utter misery at the end of three volumes, or winding up on the "marry and live happy ever after" principle, just as the caprice of the moment may dictate. Well, this may be true of the manufacturers of mechanical fiction—and it must be remembered that Mr. Dickens was tendering advice to a mere aspirant or amateur, not to a master of the craft—but it is assuredly not true of great writers of fiction, like Mr. Dicken himself. Unless the characters in a work of fiction grow in reality in the mind of the man who is going to write about them to such a degree that they take their destiny altogether out of his hands, and live their life in their own fashion, they will remain mere puppets to be pulled with a string. Oddly enough we can appeal for confirmation of this theory to Mr. Dickens' own experience. Did he not at one time receive, not only from all parts of England but from all parts of the world, letters begging and imploring him not to let Little Nell die? How easy it must have seemed to those people for the writer to save the child from destruction, and send joy to thousands on thousands of households that were already fearing the end! Dickens knew of this vast amount of pleasure he could give; he knew of the keen pain he must experience himself in describing her death; but the true instinct of the artist overmastered all other considerations. All the king's horses and all the king's men could not have enabled him to twist aside the inevitable doom.

Artesian Water in Kern County.

The Fresno Expositor of July 30th says: "John Heinlen, who resides in the Mussel Slough settlement, near Kingston, has been for some time past engaged in boring for artesian water on his land in the vicinity mentioned. He has sunk a well 153 feet deep, at a cost rising above $1,000. At that depth he struck a flowing well, though the amount of water it yields is very small. W. H. Souther, who lives two miles from the southeastern end of Kern lake, has found water a depth of 250 feet, and which comes up with great force, throwing a stream seven inches in diameter twelve feet above the ground. The water is clear and cold, and very pure—free from brackish taste or vegetable matter. Several persons are boring for water in Tulare county.

BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED.

The Scientific American,

NOW IN ITS THIRTIETH YEAR, ENJOYS the widest circulation of any weekly newspaper of its kind in the world. A new volume commences January 4, 1875.

Its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts.

The Scientific American is the cheapest and best illustrated weekly paper published. Every number contains from 10 to 15 original engravings of new machinery and novel inventions.

Engravings, illustrating Improvements, Discoveries and Important Works, pertaining to Civil and Mechanical Engineering, Milling, Mining and Metallurgy; Records of the latest progress in the applications of Steam, Steam Engineering, Railways, Ship Building, Navigation, Telegraphy, Telegraph Engineering, Electricity, Magnetism, Light and Heat.

Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, Teachers, Clergymen, Lawyers and People of all Professions, will find The Scientific American useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College, Academy or School.

A year's number contains 832 pages and Several Hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. Terms, $3 20 a year by mail including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars and specimens sent free. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with The Scientific American, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications for patents have been made through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New Inventions and sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in The Scientific American of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, 110 pages containing laws and full directions for obtaining Patents.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any interior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the original of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

Terms.

One Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE one year, the Chromo and the Art Union.

$6 00 per Annum, in Advance.

(No charge for postage.)

Specimen Copies of THE ALDINE, 50 Cents.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtainable only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rates; cash for subscriptions must be sent to the publishers direct, or handed to the local canvasser, without responsibility to the publishers, except in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the fac-simile signature of James Sutton, President.

Canvassers Wanted.

Fence! Fence!! Fence!!!

M. L. COOK, A PRACTICAL NURSERYMAN, would respectfully call the attention of Ranchers of Inyo county to his stock of Hedge Plants on T. K. Hutchinson's Ranch at Bishop Creek, where he has plants that are three feet high, grown from the seed this year. Mr. Cook will call on the Ranchers of this county this Fall and will be pleased to contract seed to be delivered, with instructions for planting and growing. Ranchers should not neglect this opportunity to purchase seed. I have contracted for one ton of seed for this county only, and when that amount is sold it will be too late to get any more. This will make a fence that will turn any stock in three years, at a cost of $40 per mile. I also have an unlimited amount of Apple, Pear, Peach, Plum, Cherry and all kinds of fruit trees, with every variety of small fruits. Roses and Flowering Bulbs a speciality. Friends, don't neglect this chance to buy of a practical man, one that knows what he is selling and what varieties are good and hardy, as his trees are raised in a climate where the thermometer is 20 degrees below zero in the Winter.

Title IV, Part I, Penal Code.

SECTION 41. Every person charged with the performance of any duty under the provisions of any law of this State relating to elections who willfully neglects or refuses to perform it, or who in his official capacity knowingly and fraudulently acts in contravention or violation of any of the provisions of such law is, unless a different punishment for such acts or omission is prescribed by this Code, punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the State Prison not exceeding five years, or by both.

SEC. 42. Every person who wilfully causes, procures or allows himself to be registered in the Great Register of any county, knowing himself not to be entitled to such registration, is punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the County Jail or State Prison not exceeding one year, or both. In all cases where, on the trial of a person charged with any offense under the provisions of this section, it appears in evidence that the accused stands registered in the Great Register of any county without being qualified for such registration, the Court must order such registration to be canceled.

SEC. 43. Every person who, after being required by the Board of Judges at any election, refuses to be sworn, or who, after being sworn, refuses to answer any pertinent question propounded by such Board, touching his right or the right of any other person to vote, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 44. Every person summoned to appear and testify, before any Board of Registration, who wilfully disobeys such summons, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 45. Every person not entitled to vote, who fraudulently votes, and every person who votes more than once at any one election, or knowingly hands in two or more tickets folded together, or changes any ballot after the same has been deposited in the ballot box, or adds, or attempts to add any ballot to those legally polled at any election, either by fraudulently introducing the same into the ballot box before or after the ballots therein have been counted, or adds to or mixes with, or attempts to add to or mix with, the ballots lawfully polled, other ballots, while the same are being counted or canvassed, or at any other time, with intent to change the result of such election, or carries away or destroys, or attempts to carry away or destroy, any poll list or ballots, or ballot box, for the purpose of breaking up or invalidating such election, or wilfully detains, mutilates, or destroys any election returns, or in any manner interferes with the officers holding such election or conducting such canvass, or with the voters lawfully exercising their rights of voting at such election, as to prevent such election or canvass from being fairly held and lawfully conducted, is guilty of felony.

SEC. 46. Every person not entitled to vote, who fraudulently attempts to vote, or who, being entitled to vote, attempts to vote more than once at any election, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 47. Every person who procures, aids, assists, counsels or advises another to give or offer his vote at any election, knowing that the person is not qualified to vote, is guilty of misdemeanor.

SEC. 48. Every officer or Clerk of Election who aids in changing or destroying any poll list, or in placing any ballots in the ballot box, or taking any therefrom, or adds, or attempts to add, any ballots to those legally polled at such election, either by fraudulently introducing the same into the ballot box before or after the ballots therein have been counted, or adds to or mixes with, or attempts to add to or mix with, the ballots polled any other ballots, while the same are being counted or canvassed, or at any other time, with intent to change the result of such election, or allows another to do so when in his power to prevent it, or carries away, or destroys, or knowingly allows another to carry away or destroy, any poll list, ballot box, or ballots lawfully polled is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for not less than two nor more than seven years.

SEC. 49. Every Inspector, Judge, or Clerk of an election, who, previous to putting the ballot of an elector in the ballot box, attempts to find out any name on such ballot, or who opens, or suffers the folded ballot of any elector which has been handed in to be opened or examined previous to putting the same into the ballot box, or who makes or places any marker device on any folded ballot with the view to ascertain the name of any person for whom the elector has voted, or who, without the consent of the elector, discloses the name of any person which such Inspector, Judge or Clerk has fraudulently or illegally discovered to have been voted for by such elector, is punishable by fine, not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars.

SEC. 50. Every person who forges or counterfeits returns of an election purporting to have been held at a precinct, town, or ward where no election was in fact held, or wilfully substitutes forged or counterfeit returns of election in the place of the true returns, for a precinct, town or ward where an election was actually held, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for a term not less than two nor more than ten years.

SEC. 51. Every person who wilfully adds to, or subtracts from, the votes actually cast at an election, in any returns, or who alters such returns, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison for not less than one nor more than five years.

SEC. 52. Every person who aids or abets in the commission of any of the offenses mentioned in the four preceding sections, or who, being present at or cognizant of the commission of either of such offenses, does not give information thereof as soon as practicable to the District Attorney or Grand Jury of the proper county, or to some Justice of the Peace of such county, is punishable by imprisonment in the County Jail for the period of six months, or in the State Prison not exceeding two years.

SEC. 53. Every person who, by force, threats, menaces, bribery, or any corrupt means, either directly or indirectly attempts to influence any elector in giving his vote, or to deter him from giving the same, or attempts by any means whatever to awe, restrain, hinder or disturb any elector in the free exercise of the right of suffrage, or furnishes any elector wishing to vote, who cannot read, with a ticket, informing or giving such elector to understand that it contains a name written or printed thereon different from the name which is written or printed thereon, or defrauds any elector at any such election, by deceiving and causing such elector to vote for a different person or any office than he intended or desired to vote for; or who, being Inspector, Judge, or Clerk of any election, while acting as such, induces or attempts to induce, any elector, either by menace or reward, or promise thereof, to vote differently from what such elector intended or desired to vote, he is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 54. Every person who, with intent to promote the election of himself, or any other person, either:

1. Furnishes entertainment at his expense to any meeting of electors previous to or during an election;

2. Pays for, procures, or engages to pay for any such entertainment;

3. Furnishes or engages to pay or deliver any money or property for the purpose of procuring the attendance of voters at the polls, or for the purpose of compensating any person for procuring attendance of voters at the polls, except for the conveyance of voters who are sick or infirm;

4. Furnishes or engages to pay or deliver any money or property for any purpose intended to promote the election of any candidate, except for the expenses of holding and conducting public meetings for the discussion of public questions, and of printing and circulating ballots, handbills, and other papers previous to such election;

—Is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 55. Every person who, being a candidate at any election, offers or agrees to appoint or procure the appointment of any particular person to office as an inducement or consideration to any person to vote for, or procure or aid in procuring the election of such candidate, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 56. Every person not being a candidate, who communicates any offer made in violation of the last section to any person with intent to induce him to vote for, or to procure or aid in procuring the election of the candidate making the offer, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 57. (684, 85, 86). Every person who gives or offers a bribe to any officer or member of any legislative caucus, political convention, committee, primary election, or political gathering of any kind, held for the purpose of nominating candidates for offices of honor, trust, or profit in this State, with intent to influence the person to whom such bribe is given or offered to be more favorable to one candidate than another, and every person, member of either of the bodies in this section mentioned, who receives or offers to receive any such bribe, is punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison not less than one nor more than fourteen years.

SEC. 58. Every person who by threats, intimidations, or unlawful violence wilfully hinders or prevents electors from assembling in public meeting for the consideration of public questions, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 59. Every person who wilfully disturbs or breaks up any public meeting of electors or others, lawfully being held for the purpose of considering public questions, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 60. Every person who makes, offers, or accepts any bet or wager upon the result of any election, or upon the success or failure of any person or candidate, or upon the number of votes to be cast either in the aggregate or for any particular candidate, or upon the vote to be cast by any person, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 61. Every person who wilfully violates any of the provisions of the laws of this State relating to elections is, unless a different punishment for such violation is prescribed by this Code, punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars or by imprisonment in the State Prison not exceeding five years, or by both.

A Terrible Struggle.

[From The Ohio State Journal.]

Old McStinger was going to bed a little wavy the other night, and not wishing to disturb Mrs McStinger, who has a tongue like a rat tail file, he thought it just as well not to turn on the gas. He got on very well until he reached the door of the chamber where his patient wife lay sleeping. Here he paused a moment, balancing on his heels like a pole on a juggler's nose. Then he made a dash for it, in order to make a bee line across the floor.

Mrs. McStinger, with her usual exemplary fortitude, had placed the rocking chair with such gifted skill that no man could come into the room without running over it; so the first thing he knew McStinger stubbed his toe nail off against the rocker, which knocked the seat against the crazy bone of his knee, and made one of the long arms prod him in the stomach. Simultaneously he fell over the chair crosswise, and it kicked him behind his back before he could get up from the floor, as he stood on all fours. The engagement was now fully opened. When a man begins falling over a rocking chair in a dark room, he ought always to have three day's rations and forty rounds.

Before McStinger could get up straight his knee came down on one of the long rockers behind, and the back of the chair came down on his head with a whack that laid him out on the floor, and before he could move, the chair kicked him three times in the tenderest part of the ribs with the sharp end of the rocker. This made him perfectly furious, and he scrambled up and made a blind rush at the chair, determined to blow up the enemy's works. He ran square against the back and it rocked forward with him, turning a complete somersault over the handles, throwing McStinger half way across the room and landing on top of him, digging into his abdomen like a bull's horns, as he lay spread out on the under side.

Up to this time his wife had been speechless with terror, and had laid there trembling, shedding perspiration, and accumulating shrieking power, until she gained the screaming capacity of a camel back engine. She had just reached the third sforzando fortissimo accelerando when old McStinger succeeded in getting to his feet once more and became dimly visible to Mrs. McStinger. With one last, wild, parting shriek she sprang from the bed and made a dash for the door, near which the rocking chair still stood menacing the whole universe with a butting motion. Mrs. McStinger had no time for investigation just then, and she pitched into and over the rocking chair and clear on down stairs, the chair after her, turning over and over, and kicking Mrs. McStinger every bump, until they both landed in the hall below, where the chair broke all to atoms. This ended the fight.

If wives will learn from this sad story not to leave rocking chairs standing around the middle of the room for their poor husbands to fall over, we shall not have written in vain.

A Husband and His Money.

It is not so much the amount of money a man earns, but the way he spends it, which solves the problem as to whether he has a happy home or not. A and B have an equal salary of $150 per month. One has a prettily furnished house, a comfortable table, his wife and children are respectably dressed, they all move in decent society, occupy a pew in some church, and have monthly credits with the merchants with whom they trade. The other with his wife and children, have uncomfortable quarters in some boarding-house; the wife is shut out from society; she is not properly clothed for the different seasons; she is never seen at any place of public amusement with the children; she rarely ever gets to church, and all the domestic life of the family is nothing but a minature hell; and, in numerous instances, strange as it may seem, that one who suffers has quite as good capacities as the one who prospers. The whole secret of the difference is the way they use their money. For every cent that A puts out he gets something for his family. To illustrate: B spends fifty cents a day for cigars and tobacco; fifty cents a day for drinks, and fifty cents a day for lunches, billiards, car fare, etc. Then after he has paid his monthly board, wash bills, etc., he has not a cent left, nor the slightest thing on earth to show for his money. He lives for no other purpose than to distribute his hard-earned money in saloons, restaurants and boarding-house keepers. It's a dreadful way of spending one's life, but hundreds do it. It is true that fifty cents will buy five cigars or ten glasses of beer. It will also buy two pair of stockings, two linen collars, a pair of gloves, two pairs of pocket handkerchief and various things; the wise man gets them; the fool goes looking shabby. Fifty cents will pay for two games of billiards, and it will buy a quart of milk, a loaf of bread, a pound of sugar, a quart of berries and a half pound of butter. The fool plays billiards and the wise man's wife and baby have a good breakfast. B breaks a five dollar bill in a saloon, and before he can say Jack Robinson every cent of it is gone somewhere, where he can't tell, but the most of it in treats to worthless companions. A takes his five dollars and gets his wife a pair of cuffs, a new Summer dress, a few little ribbons and a pound of candy—no man by the way, can expect to be thoroughly happy unless he buys his wife candy occasionally. We have said enough to illustrate how happiness comes from the proper use of money, and how sure misery is to follow a perverted use of it.

How Washington's Army was Recruited.

It is a little hard to believe that our forefathers, who waged war against George III., were not actuated by pure patriotism; but here is a copy of an old recruiting advertisement addressed "To All Brave, Healthy, Able-bodied and Well-disposed Young Men in the Neighborhood who have any Inclination to Join the Troops now Raising Under General Washington for the defence of the Liberties and Independence of the United States Against the Hostile Designs of Foreign Enemies," which circulated in 1776:

TAKE NOTICE!

That Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, at Spottswood, in Middlesex county, attendance will be given by Lieut Reading, with his music and recruiting party, of company in Major Shute's battalion of the Eleventh Regiment of infantry, commanded by Lieut. Col. Aaron Ogden, for the purpose of receiving the enrollment of such youth of spirit as may be willing to enter into this honorable service.

The encouragement at this time to enlist is truly liberal and generous namely, a bounty of $12, an annual and fully sufficient supply of good and handsome clothing, a daily allowance of a large and ample rations of provisions, together with $60 a year in gold and silver money on account of pay, the whole of which the soldier may lay up for himself and friends, as all articles proper for his subsistence and comfort are provided by law, without any expense to him.

Those who may favor this recruiting party with their attendance as above will have an opportunity of hearing and securing in a more particular manner the great advantages which those brave men will have who shall embrace this opportunity of spending a few happy years in viewing the different parts of this beautiful continent in the honorable character of a soldier, after which he may, if he pleases, return home to his friends with his pockets full of money and his head covered with laurels.

GOD SAVE THE UNITED STATES.

So it seems our Revolutionary friends were not without other stimulus than patriotism.

Handling Cobras.

A correspondent of The London Times who was present at the Zoological Gardens when about a dozen Indian cobras were removed from the box in which they had traveled into a clean, though narrow cage, describes the mode in which those deadily repitiles were handled by a keeper as truly astonishing. With his long handled wire hook, he, from a respectful distance, managed to draw out a snake tail first, and, catching it by the tip, let it gently down head foremost into its new cage, the lid of which, a glass side, was open just wide enough to receive it. One after another eight cobras were thus removed and safely housed, some dilating their "hood" and angrily hissing as they tried to strike whatever object they could reach. Snake charmers and Indian jugglers thus handle the cobras with impunity. Suspended by the tail they are powerless to raise themselves and wound the hand that holds them; but care must be taken lest the creature strike at the limbs. The specimens just arrived are Naja tripudians, the common cobra of India. One other of the same species, but a sickly snake, is already in the Gardens; another died lately. In their narrow prison-house the new family presented a miserable appearance. Ample space to bathe and move freeley would be their almost only chance of health, and it is to be hoped that when the lions' new and commodious quarters are ready to receive them, a more suitable home will be built for the Ophinians. Severable of these new cobras were found to be already dead.

—A thing never lost but often found —A verdict.

Locust Eating.

We read in the Bible, that the food of John the Baptist was "locust and wild honey." A great deal of pains has been taken by commentators to prove that it was not what we call locusts, but the fruit of the wild carob-tree, that John ate with the honey that he found in the wilderness where he lived.

But I do not think that any one who has traveled in Arabia, or found rest and shelter in an Arab's tent, and been a guest at his hospitable board, would thus judge of what the Bible means by "locusts." In Turkey, Persia, Arabia, and all that region of country, locusts—genuine, bona-fide locusts—have been eaten from remote antiquity; and to this day, they form an important item of food used by the common people. The Bedouins collect them in immense quantities, and, after a partial drying, pack them in sacks. Then at their convenience, when the season for collecting is over, they steam the insects in close vessels over a hot fire, winnow them in broad baskets to remove the legs and wings, and then pulverize between flat stones. When wanted for food, they are only moistened with a little water, just as the Arabs do in preparing their date-flour, and then the repast is all ready.

The Turks eat locusts in the same way, and by very many other Orientals they are regarded as the choicest of dainties.

The Moors boil or fry them, seasoning with salt, pepper, and vinegar; and they pronounce them even superior to quails and pigeons. The Hottentots make from the eggs a delicious soup; they also roast the locust over a slow fire, and eat them as we do caramels or bon-bons. Dr. Livingstone says he used them at first from necessity, when deprived of all other food; "but, strange to say, grew daily more fond of them, and at last preferred them to shrimps or oysters."—[From "Some Queer Dishes," St. Nicholas for September.

A SUCCESS.

It will be of interest to mine-owners and everybody in every undeveloped district in this region to know that notwithstanding the fears and doubts to the contrary, the peculiar class of "base metal" ores found in Panamint can be milled successfully. It has generally been conceded that the Sunrise ores of that camp could be worked easily and profitably, but those from the Wyoming and similar mines were looked upon with a great deal of suspicion. The Panamint News of the 2nd gives the following statement of the recent operations of the Company's mill, the Sunrise mill having already made a success equivalent to about $200 clear per day, after several days run:

We called upon Mr. Stedefelt and Mr. Bell of the Surprise Mill yesterday morning and were kindly shown the books containing the report of their workings, and herewith subjoin the figures, and if there is another mill on the Pacific Coast that can make a better showing, we certainly should like to be informed of it. It will be recollected that in our last report we stated that they would commence on poor ore in order to fill cracks and to make tests, so that as little loss as possible should be experienced in working the higher grade ores. Consequently our figures are from the working of forty-five dollar ore, the refuse or leavings of ore from the Wyoming mine after selecting the better portion for shipment. We give the results for two different dates, and they are a fair sample of the total workings to the present time:

CHLORINATIONS—AUG. 28.

First Charge	94.6-10
Second Charge	95.7-10
Third Charge	95.0-90
Fourth Charge	95.5-10
Fifth Charge	94.1-10
Sixth Charge	94.1-10

The pulp assay of the above ore was $76 33-100 per ton. The tailings from tests made by Mr. C. A. Stedefelt, assayed $7 45-100 per ton.

CHLORINATIONS—AUG. 29.

First Charge	95.0-00
Second Charge	94.8-10
Third Charge	94.7-10
Fourth Charge	95.6-10
Fifth Charge	96.2-10

The pulp assay was $51 per ton. Tha of the tailings, two tests, $2 73-100, and $2 23-100 per ton.

The fineness of the bullion from these ores by numerous tests ranges from 980 to 990. Taking into consideration the fact that these results are obtained from the workings of a new mill, and from a class of ores different from any others found on the coast, and also the fact that nearly all the "sharps" and "experts" who have examined our ores have expressed the opinion it was impossible to work them successfully, we think we have reason to congratulate ourselves on the above favorable outcome. They are taken from Mr. Stetefeldt's books, the tests were made by himself and we do not think it is necessary for us to assure anybody that Mr. Stetefelt is incapable of falsification in any degree.

The amalgamation of the ore thus far is from 90 to 95 per cent., but after commencing on the higher grade the company expect to do much better. It has not been deemed necessary to leach these ores at all, as the bullion obtained is already above the milling standard, which generally runs from 500 to 800 in fineness. The mill so far has been running on the refuse of ore selected for shipment to Europe, which contains a greater proportion of white quartz, and consequently is much harder, and but twenty four to twenty-five tons per day have been worked. But after commencing on the higher grade, which is softer, it will be an easy matter to crush at least thirty tons of the Wyoming ore, and forty tons of the Hemlock ore, which is still softer.

The Stetefeldt furnace works to perfection, and in regard to mechanical construction stands splendidly.

A Part of the Play.

Eastern dispatches recount the circumstances of a most remarkable suicide. A number of pilots gave a clambake at City Island to a party of Congressmen and other distinguished people. Among the guests was Signor Vianni, a member of the suite of Count Carle, the Italian Minister. After the bake, the company had recourse, of course, to speeches and songs. Signor Vianni was announced to give an imitation of Ristori. He took position with quivering limbs and dramatic mien, and, just as he had warbled the last sad note of the representation, he took from his pocket a pistol and deliberately sent a ball crashing through his brain. He fell motionless, when his auditors, thinking it was all in the play, began to applaud rapturously. Further investigation, however, proved the fatal nature of the shot, and that particular clam-bake terminated in sorrow. No cause is given for the rash act.

Found Dead.

The Columbus (Nev.) Miner of the 4th gives an account of the finding of the dead body of an unknown man in sight of Columbus, on the road to the Pacific Borax Works. Decomposition had progressed so far that identification was impossible, nor was anything found on his body by which to determine his identity. The corpse had on brown duck pants, gray checked shirt and blue woolen undershirt; in his pants pockets was found six quarters and one half dollar, a piece of tobacco, a wooden pipe and a white-handled knife with a broken blade; in his watch fob was a silver watch. The watch is numbered 16,069, and bears the trade-mark of E. Howard & Co., Boston, and had a common key tied to it by a string. The beard was dark brown and full; hair, black, interwoven with gray; hight about five feet five inches.

THE PROPER THING TO DO.

It is now said on good authority that President Grant will warmly urge the next Congress to place the whole business of Indian management in the hands of the military. The peace policy has been an utter failure, and the eyes of the President are at last opened to the fact that churches can't manage Indians. Indians are warlike; churches are peaceful—there is a direct antagonism on the start. Grant says he has been disposed to try the experiment of the church management not so much because he believed in it, as to give its advocates a chance to redeem the glowing promises which were made. But now that its inutility and folly is proven, he will recommend, as he did once before, its being transfered to the control of the army, as it is apparent that the evils which have grown up under the Delano rule can only be remedied by a complete and radical change. As Indian affairs have been managed heretofore, not only since the churches were given the appointment of agents, but under the old regime, the title "Indian Agent," has become synonymous with "thief and robber." And who ever heard of an Indian Agent brought to suffer any sort of punishment under the law for the most patent outrages? And yet who ever heard of any limit to their frauds and outrages? Very rarely any but irresponsible persons are appointed Indian Agents, and being practically responsible to nobody, the whole management of Indian affairs has been a digrace to the American people.

It is clear the President is satisfied that Delano has been a party in a greater or lesser degree to the numerous frauds of the Indian Agents, and it is considered a settled thing that Delano must step down and out in consequence. Reports say it will be impossible to whitewash him; still it is not at all likely he will be dismissed—will simply be requested to resign, that's all.

It is not reasonable to expect that no abuses will take place under War Department management, but it will be impossible for abuses to be so numerous and notorious as heretofore. We are fain to believe there are but very few officers in our army who if otherwise disposed, will forfeit reputation and a life-long position for the sake of the limited gains by fraud as may be possible under War Department requirements and restrictions upon all officers, Court Martials and dismissals from the service for dereliction of duty have some restraining significance upon military officers the world over. Interior Department investigation and possible dismissal from temporary office, do not appear, so far, even to have saved a dollar from civil office thieves, such as have generally been put in charge of the noble red man. It is considered a disgrace by such only when the stealings are too small to buy a passable coat of whitewash. The stealings, though, need not necessarilly be large to lay such a coat under a complaisant and inefficient political department like that of Delano's, and his predecessors in office.

St. Nicholas for September.

The September number of St. Nicholas contains a variety of very pleasant and interesting contributions, along with the usual fine array of pictures. On one of the first pages is Rachel Pomeroy's cherry little poem of "Three Times One," and there are other dainty compositions in rhyme—two of them beautifully illustrated by Miss Jessie Curtis. Of descriptive articles, the number has a full installment, bringing together for us in one article a collection of birds whose plumage is entirely white; giving us in another an account of "Some Queer Dishes," which are served in Oriental countries; and in still a third, as a companion sketch a description and picture of a peculiar Mesopotamian boat or "Gooffah," which will open the children's eyes in wonder. In the same line, too, are Mrs. Treat's glimpse through the microscope at the "Cyclops," and Mr. Rideing's account of "A London Child's Holiday," spent in a steamboat trip up the Thames and into the suburbs of the great city.

The serial stories grow in interest and excitement as they approach their conclusion, and Mr. Trowbridge gives us a vivid description of a tornado on the Western prairies, which is also graphically pictured in an illustration by W. L. Sheppard.

Did Not Commit Suicide.

It is now conceded that Ralstron's death was the result of apoplexy, or sheer accidental drowning, and that he did not intend to take his own life. There was not the slightest trace of poison, in any shape found in his stomach, as determined by a number of respectable physicians and chemists;

—The Boston editor said he wrote as plain as could be, "The sacred heavens around him shine," when the blarsted printer went and made it, "The scared hyenas around him shine!"

THE ELECTION.

It is now well enough known that the State has gone Democratic by full 20,000 plurality. In fact as shown by the latest accounts Irwin comes within a couple of thousand of as many votes as his two competitors combined. Bidwell makes a better run than we anticipated being within about 1,200 of Phelps. It is hardly necessary to say that every State officer is Democratic. In the First Congressional District, (San Francisco), Piper, who, according to statements made about him, hardly knows enough to engineer a dray, and just enough to know how to take care of every cent of his money, is elected by over 4,000 majority. Page, Republican, late incumbent and a man of parts, though with not a very clean railroad record, wins by about 2,000. Page, by the way, is a graduated stage driver, a fact that was urged against him by some of his opponents. Luttrell (Sacramento Union Democrat), and a sound man, wins in the Third or Northern District. Wiggington, Democrat, will dispense patronage for the Fourth District now for a while, Houghton having lost all taste that way, now that the President is likely to interfere with his and our Josiah's little Indian Reservation, and similar sweet scented schemes. The Legislature will be strongly Democratic. In short, the antiquated and dilapidated Democratic rooster will sun his rusty plumes on the cupola of nearly every Court House in the State, the rustiest, though the lustiest one of the lot, taking the State House itself. His clarion notes, with barely a quaver, will now be heard afar, and for a time at least many people and papers (take The Sacramento Record for instance) will see finer points and traits about that rooster than they have before for lo, these many years.

CLAIMS A RAILROAD VICTORY.

The Sacramento Record is now patting the Democracy on the back all on account of the "People's Grand Victory" over the Independent and Republican Demagogues, as it calls them, and yet, while doing so, tells them, the Democrats, that it is not a Democratic victory after all. We are to infer from the tune of The Record's remarks that the only obvious reason why the people rejected these two parties was simply because these two parties had put themselves in open and declared hostility to overreaching railroad monopolies. The Record did not use the word "overreaching" but simply "hostility to railroads," which has a somewhat different signification. Now it strikes us that the Democratic rank and file will deny very emphatically that they repudiated the platform of their opponents simply because of their opposition to railroads in the sense meant by those platforms. If The Record and its friends can seduce the Democratic victors into the belief that the people by the expression of the late vote, expect them to join hands with the "railroad" in its thieving schemes, there will be another case of repudiation by the next election which will astonish some people. And we'll bet a small sum that notwithstanding Sargent and Gorham were beaten in this election, yet, in point of fact they stand higher, in general estimation, since their late canvass, than ever before in their political history, and by the time the next election brings the matter to a test, The Record and its backers, should it succeed measurably in its proposed scheme of seduction, will find this out to its very keen distress. All that is required to insure that result is to convince the people that this Democratic victory was also a railroad victory. The doings of the next Legislature will most likely determine this very important question, and in time to give complexion to the close following Presidential contest.

Will Resume.

It is now settled that the Bank of California will resume business with an abundant capital and that old stockholders and depositors will all get through without loss. It is a little curious though, its affairs being found in such a satisfactory condition, that the Directors at the very first glance should have been so indiscretly anxious to oust from management the man who not only made the bank but them, too.

OUR CERRO GORDO LETTER.

CERRO GORDO, Sept. 8, 1875.

MESSRS. EDS: Knowing your partiality for news concerning mines and mining, I would beg leave to give you my opinions on the subject, hoping that they will be of sufficient merit to occupy space in your valuable paper.

CERRO GORDO,

as a mining camp, it will be freely admitted, ranks second to none on the Pacific coast—that is as regards the strength and wealth of its mines. Though, unfortunately, owing to litigation, which has ruined so many mining enterprises, its exact resources cannot be accurately ascertained. It is much to be regretted that even now in this quibbling at law, indirect help is given by outside parties, who consider that their profits lie in the continuation of it. Though the suit involves property, which, in its line, is the most valuable in the State, yet circumstances have been such that the principal parties interested have not been obliged to suspend work entirely.

FIRST IN THE LIST.

Statistics will prove that Cerro Gordo alone has produced a greater yield of lead bullion in a given time than all Utah put together, notwithstanding Utah's greater facilities for transportation and working of ores. Smelting, which is claimed to have been brought to perfection in that Territory, is here reduced to a science, so to speak. Ore, which there would be discarded as worthless, here can be worked advantageously. The general formation of the country in this vicinity, a subject that at some early period will be discussed at greater length, is such as to warrant unbounded confidence in it as being inexhaustible as to mineral wealth. Having visited most of the principal mining camps west of the Rocky Mountains, and paid particular attention to the geological formation of the country in their immediate localities, and comparing that with their respective productions of ore and bullion, I feel justified in making this assertion: This country has not been, I am sorry to say, represented in its proper light, many features in it, which if properly placed before the outside public would attract attention, have been entirely neglected. This is much to be deplored, but can be remedied in a great measure by the pen, provided that the one who wields it is conversant with his subject. With permission, Messrs. Editors, this will be continued in your next, with a slight variation of the subject, [Certainly; by all means.—EDS.]

The Situation in Ohio.

[From The Omaha Bee.]

The key-note of the national campaign of 1876 will be struck in October next by the people of Ohio. It is universally conceded that Ohio is to be the pivotal State upon which, in a great measure, hinges the destiny of the great political parties that are wrestling for national political supremacy. The contest in Ohio is therefore watched with great concern by politicians as well as by the great mass of the people in all parts of the Union. We have just returned from a personal inspection of the political battle field in Ohio, and are gratified to announce that a Republican victory in that State is almost a foregone conclusion. While much stress is placed by many upon the financial question that forms one of the distinctive issues in the Ohio campaign, that issue is, after all, a matter of secondary consideration when compared with other vital questions that divide the two political parties in the Buckeye State. The anomalous position of Gov. Allen, a life-long, hard-money Democrat, mounted upon and advocating a soft-money inflation platform, is, of course, proving a source of great weakness to his party. But his partner in misery, "Carey," who as a life long temperance advocate is now mounted on an anti-temperance platform, is alienating many more votes from the Ohio Democracy than Fog-horn Allen. The most important issues in the Ohio campaign are, however, the church and school questions. Although the platforms of the two parties do not apparently differ very materially on those questions, the record and the affiliations of the Democracy make the issue very distinct and decisive. The repeated imprudent assaults of certain Catholic organs on the free school system, followed by the enactment of the so called "Geghan law," by the Democratic legislature, virtually forces the friends of free schools to aid in the overthrow of the Democracy.

The indiscreet assertions of Archbishop Purcell's organ that all good Catholics will have to stand shoulder to shoulder in the Democratic ranks, has only intensified the issue and rallied the opponents of church rule on the opposite side.

The German element, which during the past four years has contributed so extensively toward the great Democratic victories, is now turning its back on the Democracy and will this Fall cast its vote against them. Soured by the inflation platform, disgusted with "Temperance Cary," and exasperated by church dictation, they have determined to cut loose from Bourbonism, and in this determination they will doubtless persevere until the battle is over.

The western reserve, the former stronghold of Republicanism is thoroughly aroused, and thousands of Republicans, who during the last two years have been kept away from the ballot-box by indifference and local dissensions, will participate actively in the contest at the October election. Thus the situation in Ohio looks decidedly encouraging for the Republicans and extremely despondent for the Democracy.

Speaking of the murder of a Chinaman by one of his countrymen in Placerville, The Republican of that town says: "It is claimed by many, but on what evidence we do not know, that the Chinese of the town have legal tribunals of their own, by whom these summary executions are ordered."

In consequence of the statements printed by The Bulletin, Call and Chronicle in regard to Mr. George M. The law which Congress recently passed, readjusting the salaries of postmasters, is proving quite as useless as the old one to stop swindling by post masters in the sale of stamps. The salaries of all the smaller offices, or more than 90 per cent. are gauged by the amount of stamps sold, the postmasters getting a commission varying from 60 per cent. downward, and it is estimated that fully $500,000 yearly is thus added to the amount required for the compensation of postmasters by these gentry going out of their districts into large cities, contrary to the law, to sell stamps which they offer at a discount of 20 per cent or more. But Postmaster-General Jewell has determined to break up the system, and has already removed James Hodgdon at Embden Center, Me., Edward D Gilbert at Higganum, Ct., and 36 others.

Close Call for Another Life.

Last evening, just at twilight, when James Mooney and Tom Perasich were leaving the slaughter-pen at the western end of town, they saw something unusual on the Benton road about a half mile distant. Prompted partly by curiosity, they started out to see what it was that bobbed up and down among the sage-brush. They found an almost naked man in a crazed and perishing condition. After they brought him in to Gregovich's cabin and got food and water, he proved to be a Mexican named Stephen Lopez, who left Lone Pine on the 5th ultimo to reach this camp. Sam Davis gave the poor creature an entire new outfit of clothing, and some of our Mexican citizens took him to Mrs. Antone's house, where he is now rapidly recovering from the effects of his almost fatal trip.—[Borax Miner, September 4.

Business Falling off.

There has been a remarkable decrease in the number of trains run over the Virginia and Truckee Railroad during a few days past. The usual number during lively times has always of late been from 33 to 38 every day. Yesterday but 19 were run. It is evident that this marked decline is due to several very good causes. First, the mills on the Carson river do not use half as much ore as during a high stage of water. Second, money is always somewhat close during the last of the month; and, third, the suspension of the Bank of California necessarily exercises a depressing influence on all branches of business in this section, and merchants are waiting to see how things will turn out. After the pay days which are close at hand, no doubt things will wear a more pleasant aspect.—[G. H. News.

A Child Killed by a Rooster.

A child or Mr. A. Langley, who lives two miles from Gadsden, Alabama, while playing in the yard was attacked by a rooster and knocked down and spurred several times in the face and head before the mother conld rescue it. Dr. Ewing says that during a practice of over twenty years he never met with or heard of such a case before, and it is perhaps the first in the history of the world.—[Alabama News.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

School Closed at Bishop.

A correspondent at Bishop, writing on the 4th inst., furnishes us the following in relation to school matters there: "Our school closed (Irving District) here yesterday after a term of six months, through some very oppressive weather. Yet old Sol with his liquidating influence could not abate the ardor of our little pupils and friends one jot or tittle, some attending the whole term, scarcely missing a day. And very encouraging it was to teacher and pupils to have the house crowded with visitors of an intelligent and appreciative class to witness the closing exercises, which consisted in recitations, orations, songs and declamations; with an introductory by Miss Katie Mallory, and a valedictory by Willie Yaney. The prizes were a bird and cage and five beautifully bound books. The scholars distinguished for their high standing were: First Division, Elma Yaney, first prize, Willie Yaney, second prize, and Katie Mallory third prize. Second Division, Agnes Ford, first prize, Ollie Munson, second prize, and Frankie White third prize. After a large candy treat and some very expressive remarks by one of the ladies, the school adjourned to while away the fleeting hours of the night in some innocent calisthenics in another meeting.

Ubehebe District.

This is the name by which the new district in the vicinity of, if not including the Rose Springs District, is now known. It is the same where Messrs. Hunter & Porter have been operating for a long time past, and where we are satisfied from all accounts there are numerous silver ledges as promising as any in the whole country. Among them are the Nellie Grant, belonging to Hunter & Porter; the Garabaldi, belonging to the Nossano Bros., and many others now pretty well known. Besides a fine silver ledge recently discovered by Mr. Porter, there is an immense copper ledge over 80 feet in width, and cropping boldly out for thousands of feet in length, lately located by Hunter & Porter and others. Mr. Porter, who is a practical metallurgist, has been experimenting considerably in reducing this copper ore, and is satisfied it can be readily and profitably smelted right on the ground. He has now gone to San Francisco to see what can be done about erecting works for this purpose.

Badly Hurt.

Supervisor John R. Hughes was the victim of a very severe, almost a fatal accident last Monday while on his road here to attend to his official duties. He had accepted a seat with Mr. Randolph in a two-wheeled vehicle, thinking it pleasanter than riding in the stage. Reaching George's Creek, the horse became immanageable, and fearing his heels, being in point blank range in such a vehicle, Mr. Hughes attempted to jump out, and in doing so was thrown to the ground with great violence. He received severe injuries internally besides an ugly contusion of the eye. He was brought to this place and placed under Dr. Blair's care. He was sufficiently recovered by Wednesday to begin the duty of canvassing the vote, but was obliged to give it up for the day before finishing. Mr. Randolph escaped without any injury of moment.

Had Their Fun.

The "boys" had their fun at Supervisor Hughes' expense when he appeared on the street with his terrible black eye, the result of his accident mentioned elsewhere. They said if by any accident he had been called up before a Police Court, His Honor, considering that black eye, would have been certain to have "painful duties" him to not less than "five days or $10 fine Mr. Clerk--fighting," without any further talk. But John R. didn't mind the black eye, though it is the first one he ever sported in his life, nor the fun, but he is not so well satisfied with some of the other hurts.

To Start Up

Broder & Moffatt were again to start up their furnace at Pine Mountain last Tuesday. It was the intention to make one run on Sylvania ores, a lot of which was being packed in for the purpose That ore is very easily smelted, as has often been demonstrated, and by mixing for a start, and right along if found necessary, it will insure the reduction of the Pine Mountain ores, which have proved too refractory to begin with.

Sickness.

Several persons in this place are down with pretty severe attacks of fevers, among the rest, our junior, Mr. Childs, who has been bed fast most of the time for over two weeks. He is convalescing slowly.

School.

The question is frequently propounded to us, an ex-School Trustee, and by virtue of the same, we presume, "When are we going to have school here?" and we tell 'em we don't know. Does anybody know.

The Ball.

The "House-warming" ball at Rowley's new store, last Friday night, was highly enjoyed by an unusually large number of Terpsy's votaries, and no less an excellent supper furnished by Levy across the way.

Going Ahead.

R. M. Johnson is driving work steadily ahead on his little mill at Piute District, the general prospects of which we are told are very good indeed.

Stabbing Affray at Darwin.

Monday last, or about that time, two Mexicans at Darwin fell to cutting and slashing each other with knives, the combat ending only when one fell with a knife driven entirely through his body in the lower portion of the abdomen. It was supposed the neck of the bladder was severed by this cut, and that the wounded man could not possibly live but a short time; but two days later he was alive with a chance to remain so. The other party, whose name we understand to be La Cruz, received a slight cut or two, but nothing serious. He was arrested and taken before Justice Hanson. On investigation it appeared that La Cruz had been acting solely in self-defence, having tried for several hours previous to avoid a conflict with the other Mexican, whose name we have not learned. Upon this the prisoner was discharged.

The Lone Pine and Darwin Road.

The travel on this road from Darwin to the lake is increasing rapidly, and there being a mile or two of very heavy sand the growling increases in about the same ratio. We can say that John Shepherd, manager, intends to expend every dollar of receipts on the road toward its improvement. The stretch of sand between the lake and the mouth of the canyon is the worst and about the only portion requiring much attention, but it will involve a large amount of cash and labor to put that short stretch into satisfactory condition. It appears that it can only be done by graveling, and the work of doing that will begin this or early next week. There is a fair prospect of obtaining water in the canyon near the toll house, and if this hope is realized it will be of immense advantage to teams.

An Error.

Opposite the name of Houghton for Congressman in the returns we received from Panamint last week were the figures "115" with no figures at all for Wiggington or Thompson. It was no doubt an inadvertence on the part of our correspondent, the figures being intended for Wiggington, but on that basis we stated that Houghton appeared to be ahead in this county. It is a satisfaction to know such is not the case, neither for the county or district, though we do not feel assured that Wiggington, who is elected, is as good a man for the place as Thompson would have been, but he can't be any worse than Houghton so we are satisfied.

Not Candidates.

It is due to several parties whose names have appeared in the published election returns credited with a few scattering votes, to say that in most instances they were in no sense candidates for the respective offices, nor responsible for the acts of friends, or foes, as the case might be who thought proper to give them an unsolicited vote to no good purpose. As one in this list we may mention J. B. Swearingen who don't mind a little "josh" but at the same time, was not in the least a candidate for any office whatever since the Convention, although the contrary might be inferred because his name was put on a few tickets for one.

Credit.

We inadvertently omitted to make mention of one little circumstance by which we were enabled to present so nearly the full returns of this county so so soon after the day of voting. Had it not have been for Henry Isaacs' public spirit the result of the county election would not have been generally known throughout the county until the present issue of THE INDEPENDENT. He dispatched a pony express at his own expense, which was no trifle of itself, and but for which neither the Darwin or Panamint votes would have reached here before the following Monday--and the fortune of every candidate was to be decided by those very precincts. It was a very considerate thing in Harry.

Dissolved.

By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that the law firm of Bennett & Gregg has dissolved. This dissolution became advisable from the fact that Mr. Bennett is our duly elected and well qualified District Attorney, while on the other hand Mr. Gregg is a candidate for the responsible position of County Judge, a place his well known legal attainments and long practice in all the Courts, eminently qualities him to fill. In thus expressing our candid opinion of Mr. Gregg we mean no disparagement to his competitor, Judge Hannah, who, for four years past has performed the duties of the office, generally speaking, in a very satisfactory manner.

Arraigned.

Lucas Lugo, under indictment for an assault with a deadly weapon, with intent to kill Frank Dabeeny, at Lone Pine, was brought before Judge Hannah of the County Court on Wednesday. His counsel, Paul Bennett, entered a plea of not guilty. The Court issued a venire for twenty jurors returnable at 10 o'clock next Monday, and pending which the prisoner was remanded to jail.

For Toll Rates.

Messrs. Porter & Hunter made application this week to the Board of Supervisors to have rates of toll fixed for their Rose and Emigrant Springs toll road. This road begins at Tait's station at the mouth of Panamint canyon, and runs nearly due north to Emigrant Springs, a distance of 32½ miles, as shown by Surveyor Seeley's survey and map.

Harvest Over.

The pine nut harvest being about over, the "mahalas," after three or four weeks absence, have returned to the washtubs, greatly to the relief of the white mahalas.

Vindication.

Somebody told Williams, stage driver between Lone Pine and Cerro Gordo, that he was accused of having carelessly broken down the stage he was driving on the occasion referred to below. As Williams considers his reputation as a careful driver wrongfully impugned he requests us to give place to the subjoined vindication, to which we may further add, according to hearsay, that the accident, which was nothing more than the breaking of a coach wheel through a defective tyre, was not his fault in the least:

INDEPENDENCE, Sept. 4, 1875.

MESSRS EDS:—On the return of the wedding party of A. Walpelhorst to Independence, we had as driver W. W. Williams who we understand was accused of driving too fast and breaking the stage down. All that we know is that the said W. W. Williams drove all the way down at a reasonable and careful gait.

Respectfully,
A. WAPELHORST,
JOHN A. HANNAH,
County Judge.

MESSRS EDS:—The above is my proof of my careful and considerate driving of the above party.

Signed, W. W. WILLIAMS.

Personal.

County Treasurer elect, and present incumbent, Harry Isaacs, arrived from Panamint Friday morning, looking as though the rarefied air, etc., of Surprise Canyon was just the one thing needed to develop his muscles. Isaac Harris has gone to take his place in charge of the branch house out there. We have not had the opportunity to interview Harry as to matters and things in general out to the eastward.

Darwin.

Receiver Thos. May made a flying trip out to this camp this week with a view of commencing work on a mine or two belonging to himself and V. A. Gregg, Esq. He reports the Hoffman furnace in full blast, and business and prospects generally decidedly encouraging.

Fast Freight.

We are told, and very much hope it is true, that the Cerro Gordo Freighting Co., are going to at once put on a fast freight line from Caliente to Cartago. The time is to be three days, running night and day, and daily we believe.

Indian War in White Pine county.

[From The Austin Reveille, Sept. 4.]

Some startling news comes by telegraph from Cherry Creek, White Pine county. It is to the effect that Hon. A. C. Cleveland and Dan Murphy, the well-known cattle man, are besieged by five hundred Indians, in Spring Valley; that a fight has occurred in which one Indian and two white men were killed, and that Murphy and Cleveland are in imminent danger. Both Mr. Cleveland and Murphy have large bands of cattle in Spring Valley and vicinity, and in the absence of any information we conclude that the trouble arises from the Indians running off stock. The Indians inhabiting that section of Nevada are principally Goshutes and are a bad lot. In 1863 4 they frequently attacked the overland stages and stations, killing drivers and hostlers and burning mails, but in the latter year they were whipped into submission by General Connor, who nearly annihilated the tribe, since which they have been in a measure tractable. They are all good Mormons, having been proselyted to that church and are very friendly with the Mormons on Deep Creek and that locality.

Mr. Cleveland is well known throughout this State, and has many warm friends, several of whom reside in Austin, who are in much anxiety regarding him and his estimable wife, who is on the ranch with him. Cleve is as brave as a lion and would face all the Indians on the continent; but what can a handful of men do against five hundred of the red scoundrels? Relief has started from Cherry Creek, and we sincerely hope they may come to the rescue before any harm befalls the handful of whites living in the valley.

Highly Commended.

The workings of the present election law are highly commended everywhere. There is not an election riot reported anywhere in the State. A condition of affairs that could hardly have been, had it not have been for the law stopping the free flow of whisky, while the polls were open.

MONO COUNTY VOTE.

We present the following as the full and correct vote for each precinct in Mono county, for the candidates mentioned. There was a number of scattering votes cast for different Personal Independents not reported to us. We are pained to note that neither of our correspondents had the gallantry to return the vote for Superintendent of Schools, and we advise Miss Alice Walker, who, we believe, was elected to that position, not to superintend either one of those fellows on any conditions:

Panamint Mills.

In connection with an article from The Panamint News of the 2d, given place elsewhere, these items from the same paper of the 8th, will be of interest:

The Surprise mill has been running uninterruptedly for the past fifteen days, crushing twenty-five to twenty-eight tons of the Wyoming ore every twenty-four hours. Ore from the Hemlock mine will soon be delivered at the mill, when the working will be increased twelve to fifteen tons more per day. Average pulp assays, $95 39 per ton....The Sunrise mill is running regularly, and a few days ago made a shipment of bollion—some $2,000—just to show them that the thing can be done. They have now on hand quite a large amount of amalgam, and another shipment will be made in a few days. They are working their ores up seventy per cent. of their value, without roasting.

—Efforts are being made in New York to secure the pardon of Stokes, the slayer of Fisk.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

DARWIN STORE.

THE DARWIN STORE COSO MINES

THE UNDERSIGNED RESPECTFULLY ANNOUNCE that they have just opened their new store where they intend to keep everything required in a flourishing camp like Darwin City. We have a large assortment of the right kind, fourth proof and best brands of wines and liquors. Tobacco, cigars and whiskies in cases, bottles, barrels and boxes, all number one, if sold as such, whether on tick, (which is not our plan) or for the cash right down or at the end of every week.

Lieutenant Wheeler and his Party.

The Pioche Record, through a correspondent, furnishes the following interesting details of the whereabouts and proposed movements of Lieutenant Wheeler and his command: Wheeler's expedition is now divided as follows: Party No. 3, California Division, Lieutenant Bergland, United States Engineer, in charge; G. Thompson, chief of Topography; Dr. O. Loeu, geologist and naturalists; R. H. Birne, topographer; John A. Harron, meterologist; William Sowers, recorder. Principal object, to determine as to the practicability of diverting the Colorado from its present bed into the basins of the West. The extent of survey will be from the confluence of the Rio Virgin and Colorado rivers to the Needles. Lieutenant Bergland left Wheeler's rendezvous at Los Angeles and traveled through the following points: From Los Angeles to Cajon Pass, along the Mohave River to Soda Lake; thence to Quampoah; thence to Cottonwood Island; thence up the river to the Virgin; from there to Stone's Ferry, where the river has been guaged. From Stone's Ferry the route will be to Camp Mohave, where correct observations and soundings will be taken. Thence to the Needles; from there along the line of the lowest profile to the Coahuila Valley; thence to Los Angeles via San Bernardino. The route is surveyed as they go along and distances determined by the odometer. The principal peaks near the route occupied are connected with triangulation stations wherever practicable.

The resources of the country traversed are investigated and all meterological phenomena noted. Water at different places is collected for purposes of analysis. Party No. 2, Lieutenant Birmie in charge, is in operation in the Panamint and Death Valley region. Party No. 1, Lieutenants Wheeler and Whipple, is north of San Fernando. The expedition also has three parties operating in Colorado and New Mexico. Their rendezvous camp is at Pueblo, Colorado, Lieutenant Marshall being in charge together with Major Wheeler. Mr. Jennings gives us an account of the death of "Dr. Schimmirhorn" (before published), and says the information here given relative to the Wheeler expedition can be relied on as officially correct." The public will look with unusual interest for Lieutenant Wheeler's next report. A great interest is felt in Arizona and the interest is daily increasing; and yet there is a region of country containing thousands of square miles, including a portion of Arizona, Southern Utah and New Mexico, which as yet is almost a sealed book, though it is in the very heart of our territory and comparatively easy of access. Lieutenant Wheeler's report will begin to dispel the mystery which hangs over the region, and we hope within the next five years the locomotive will herald civilization advancing there.

The Good Man Gone.

[From The Stock Report.]

William C. Ralston, the eminent banker, the true friend, departed this life yesterday afternoon under circumstances detailed elsewhere in to-day's Stock Report. His death is a public, aye, national calamity, for, in many respects he had no peer in America. He was a man among men. Coming here at an early age, with little more than a reputation for honesty and remarkable determination, he pushed, his way to the front rank of financiers. Through good and evil report his belief in the future of California knew no limit. He was loyal to the State and the people. Every step looking to the development of an industrial resource met with his hearty approval, and in thousands of instances he drew upon his own finances to help struggling industries along. Luckless business men, young men just starting out, called upon Mr. Ralston for assistance and he freely gave it. The widow and the orphan, the rich and poor, have alike received the benefit of his generosity. He was not hedged in by reserve, nor did he in the least degree assume the air of importance which successful men are prone to wear. He was accessible to all. The details of his worthy acts surpass newspaper limits; nor will any sermon compass these details. Well may the city mourn his untimely death for his like will ne'er be seen again by this generation. Faults he had, as all men have, but they were not of a kind to call forth reproach from his fellow man. They were manly faults, which, in some men would have been virtues. We write feelingly on the subject because we know whereof we speak. The Stock Report, with the people, mourns the loss of a friend.

Kern County.

We hear of extensive preparations for planting alfalfa in Kern county this Fall. Stockmen are gathering in from all parts of this State. Over 5,000 acres of land on the island changed hands the past week. Negotiations are pending for as much more. Messrs. Haggin and Carr are still buying preemption claims, for which they pay about $20 per acre.—[Southern Californian.

—It was midnight when Mr. Berger of Macon, Ga., discovered a colored preacher in his stable, untying a horse, and the preacher only observed, "Jess what I said all the time, Mistah Berger, your hoss is bay, sure enuff, and that 'spute between me an' Brudder Jackson is settled."

—A banquet was given at Campi's new restaurant, San Francisco, on the 30th ult. in commemorotion of the 26th anniversary of the arrival of the ship Alexander von Humboldt. Of the surviving members of the Humboldt Association, twelve were present. The occasion was celebrated very pleasantly.

THE ALDINE,

—THE—

ART JOURNAL OF AMERICA,

Issued Monthly.

"Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature, and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the readers of THE ALDINE as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure and animal subjects sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

Premium for 1875.

Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend"

Will be welcomed in every home. Everybody loves such a dog, and the portrait is executed so true to the life that it seems the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog (the finest in Brooklyn) barks at it! Although so natural no one who sees this premium chromo will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Besides the chromo, every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of

The Aldine Art Union.

The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

Terms.

One Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE one year, the Chromo and the Art Union.

$6 00 per Annum, in Advance.

(No charge for postage.)

Specimen Copies of THE ALDINE, 50 Cents.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtainable only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rates; cash for subscriptions must be sent to the publishers direct, or handed to the local canvasser, without responsibility to the publishers, except in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the fac-simile signature of James Sutton, President.

This is the best opportunity ever offered in this county for any one to procure the most perfect library ever compiled in such an emphatically small compass. The American Cyclopædia presents a panoramic view of all human knowledge, as it exists at the present moment. It embraces and popularizes every subject that can be thought of. In its successive volumes is contained an inexhaustible fund of accurate and practical information on Art and Science in all their brances, including Mechanics, Mathematics, Astronomy, Philosophy, Chemistry and Physiology; on Agriculture, Commerce and Manufactures; on Law, Medicine and Theology; on Biography and History, Geography and Ethumoly; on Political Economy, the Trades, Inventions, Politics, the things of common life and General Literature.

WE HAVE IT!

ATTENTION! FARMERS AND GARDENERS READ THIS. NOTHING LIKE IT, OR THAT WILL EQUAL IT IN AMERICA. THE CELEBRATED SPANISH NUT.

CHUFA OR SOUCHIE!

150 BUSHELS PER ACRE ON POOREST land. Equally productive in a cold climate as the warmer, as the frost does not injure it. No cultivation, except to carefully eradicate the weeds. A new variety, very large, sweet and delicious for food, resembles in taste a delicious cocanut, and like them may be eaten raw or cooked. They make a delightful refreshing drink for Summer. Much used in Madrid, Valencia, Cuba and other hot climates, where it is known. It was employed at the end of the preceding century as a substitute for coffee in the whole of Germany. Fine for poultry, fattens more hogs than forty acres of the same land in corn. There is nothing in the world that fattens hogs so rapidly and thoroughly, and that gives such sweetness to the flesh. It keeps well throughout the year in the ground, which renders it only necessary to fence off a patch or a field, as needed for the hogs, and you are enabled to have healthy and fat swine at all seasons of the year without one grain of corn or other food. Special rates to agents. Sample packages prepaid by mail, 50 cents, or three for $1. Money must be sent in registered letters, prepaid, or Postoffice order, or it will be at the sender's risk. The Lightning Mail Train.

Arrangements have been perfected by the Postoffice Department for a lightning mail train from New York City to Chicago. The first train will start from New York City at four o'clock on the morning thereafter, at the same hour, a similar train will take its departure. It will be necessary to start at that hour in order to make connections. No passengers or freight will be taken. The only cars will be mail cars. The run to Niagara Falls will be made without stoppage, at the average speed of forty and a half miles per hour. To the cars will be fitted with patent appliances, called "catchers," which will deposit and pick up mail bags at every station without stopping. These catchers are now in use on over 60,000 miles of mail route in the United States, and have given the greatest satisfaction, hardly ever failing to seize the suspended mail bag, no matter how high the rate of speed.

The northern route has been selected for initiatory trains in preference to the southern for many reasons. The mail business from New York and New England to the North and West is more than equal to that of the entire country elsewhere. Wisconsin receives and dispatches more letters than Missouri, and the Northern part of Ohio has more correspondence than the entire remainder of the States. In other words, the northern route is the one of vastly greatest importance to the manufacturing and mercantile communities. By means of this arrangement the Pacific Coast will be placed from twelve to twenty hours nearer the Atlantic seaboard.

Early Mention of Petroleum.

A full century ago the existence of oil springs in Western Pennsylvania was a published and well established fact. In The Massachusetts Magazine, published in 1789, we find the following in relation to them: "In the northern part of Pennsylvania there is a creek called Oil Creek, which empties into the Alleghany river. It issues from a spring on the top of which floats an oil, similar to that called Barbadoes tar, and from which one may gather several gallons a day. The troops sent to guard the western posts halted at the same spring, collected some of the oil, and bathed their joints with it. This gave them great relief from the rheumatism with which they were afflicted. The water, of which the troops drank freely, operated as a gentle purge."

There is still earlier evidence of the existence of the oil springs than this. It is found in an old book, published in 1772, entitled "Travels in North America," by Peter Kalm. On a map in this volume the exact location of the oil springs are given.

We take this from an exchange; but it is still far behind. As early as 1629, almost a century and a half before Kalm's book appeared, a Franciscan missionary, Joseph de la Roche d'Allion, who crossed the Niagara river into what is now New York State, wrote a letter, in which he mentions the oil springs, and gives the Indian name of the place, which he explained to mean "There is plenty there." His letter was printed in Sagard's "Histoire du Canada," in 1632, and subsequently in Le-Clerq.—Nat Oil Journal.

—Near Knoxville, Tenn., the other night, a young girl, who was unexpectedly interviewed by the family as she was about eloping with the object of her virgin affections, knocked the old man down, laid out two brothers with a cistern pole, kicked the hired man in the stomach, and got away with her lover, and "made the riffle." We wish that heaven had sent us such a woman as that.

—This is the way they do it in Leflore county, Georgia: "Dis prar meetin' am called togeder for de purpos ub hearin' Broder Stags splane dose dings which am necessary for our salvashun, 'nanismously resolbs dat Jake Smif am a fit and proper pussun to represent dis secshun at de Board ob Supervisors."

—An electric magnet weighing 1,800 pounds was lately shipped to West Point by Wallace & Sons, Arsonia, Connecticut. The magnet has a sustaining capacity of 60 tons.

—"I have very little respect for the ties of this world," as the rogue said when the rope was put round his neck.

Slaughtering Negroes.

Memphis dates of the 7th say: The following are some of the facts concerning the riot at Clinton, Mississippi, last Saturday: A large majority of the blacks were unarmed, having been cautioned against carrying arms to the meeting. The difficulty was wholly unsought by them, and they fought only in self-defense. By 5 o'clock not a colored man was seen on the ground. At the same time the Vicksburg train brought a number of armed men from Edwards & Bolton's. At night five hundred armed men occupied Clinton, and there was quiet. Sunday morning at daybreak the Vicksburgers, two hundred of whom were here, commenced slaughtering negroes. All the colored men they could find were killed in cold blood. Armed bands organized and scoured the country, and the work of slaughter went on. It is estimated that fifty men were thus killed in the county on Sunday. Others had fled to the woods and swamps, the better to secure protection. A complete reign of terror possessed the county, and colored men for two days have been arriving here reporting new outrages. The authorities are utterly powerless to stop the marauding bands. Governor Ames has issued an order commanding the rioters to disperse. The city is full of colored refugees who dare not return to their homes. They ask nothing but protection. Governor Ames is doing all in his power to prevent further bloodshed. No Sheriff's posse is sufficient.

Progress of Civilization, Among the Piutes.

[From The Virginia Chronicle.]

Captain Bob dropped in to see us this morning, and seating himself comfortably in an arm chair, honored us with a fixed stare of friendliness for about a minute, and at length broke the silence with:

"All Piutee man dead broke."

"Ah?"

"Yas. One year—las' Spring—heap money—poker; I catch all. Ha, ha!"

[Silence and a furtive examination of the impassive editorial countenance.]

"Piutee man no money now—all dead broke."

[Renewed silence, and contemplation of the ceiling.]

"I dead broke. Cap Bob no money. All broke."

[Eyes again fixed on the editorial lineaments, and then very innocently]:

"I no got two bits—no breakfast. Ha, ha! All Piutee man broke!"

When all this diplomacy had secured the coveted quarter, the Captain picked from the floor the bony fragment of a cow which he had brought in, and grinning like a man who had got a point on Ophir, he remarked: "Well, so long; tek care yousalf"—and half an hour afterward his crust colored face might have been seen making one of a circle on the shady side of a lumber pile, where an exciting game of poker was in progress.

Railroad Survey.

A party of civil engineers arrived here yesterday, says The Silver State of the 5th, and under the direction of S. F. Lauterne, will proceed immediately to make a preliminary survey of the Winnemucca and Oregon Railroad route. Teams and camp equipage for the corps are expected to arrive to-day, and the party will proceed at once to take altitudes, and look out the most favorable route. We are informed that they intend to start near the depot, and proceed south of Winnemucca Mountain, running in a northwesterly direction to the northeasterly corner of California; thence to Klamath Lake, where the road will intersect the California and Oregon Railroad, now completed to Shasta, California. The distance from Winnemucca to Klamath Lake is about 300 miles, and it will take three or four months to make the preliminary survey, after which the locating survey will be made as soon as possible. This is conclusive evidence that the company means business, and that a railroad from this point to Oregon will be built at an early day.

A Question.

Samuel Hunting, the new Supervisor elect, hesitates to enter upon the duties of his office until the question is settled as to when the term commences. It seems that the revised code is silent on that subject. Mr. Barton, the retiring member, was elected in November and took his seat on the 11th of that month. The law says the term shall last three years, and until his successor is qualified. If Mr. Hunting should take his seat before the legal commencement of the term, it might invalidate the tax levy. He therefore declines to qualify until the question has been submitted to Judge Deering of the District Court.—[Visalia Delta.

—Milwaukee thinks it has a haunted house, and when a man there gets home at 1 o'clock A. M., to find his wife waiting for him with fire in her eye and a mop-handle in her hand, he appeases her righteous wrath by telling her that he has been "investigating them ghosts."

—A Rochester wife being caught with her arms around the neck of the landlord, explained the situation in this way: "You see, my dear, I am determined to force that man to reduce our rent, and we weak women, you know, must fight with such weapons as we have."

—Fifteen thousand animals are affected by the foot and mouth disease in Dorsetshire, England.

Narrow Escapes.

Several powder-begrimed veterans gathered in a certain police station, says The Louisville Courier-Journal, to keep out of the rain for a few minutes, and while there discussed the late war. "I remember," said one, "that a bullet passed clear through George Gray's body and never killed him." "I recollect," said another, "that a ball lodged in Bill Payson's lung and was never taken out, but he lived." "I," said a third, "knew well when the doctors thought Henry Hill's life was gone up, as a 'minnie' lodged within an inch of his heart, but he lived." "Jake Johnson's head was pierced by a ball, and he lived," exclaimed the last but one. These remarks produced considerable surprise, and excited a tall, slim and sleepy individual, who waited till his companions concluded, and then drawled out, in piping accents: "These fellows was a little tough, I allow, but Jim Jones, who fit aside of me, was shot in the neck so that his head just hung by the skin." "Great heavens!" ejaculated all; "you don't mean to say he lived, do you?" "Oh, no; he died," drawled Slim and Sleepy.

—A Milwaukee man made three unsuccessful attempts to blow his brains out, and then his wife told him: "Don't try it again, John; you haven't got any." He goes about now saying that he owes his life to that woman.

Its Complexion.

The San Francisco Chronicle publishes a complete list of the members elect of the next Legislature, and it foots up as follows: Senators—Democrats, 23; Republicans, 9; Independents, 8. Assemblymen — Democrats 63; Republicans, 11; Independents 4. On Joint Ballot—Democrats, 86; Republi- 20; Independents, 12. It might as well be called an unanimous thing, for most of the hold-over Independents were old-time Democrats, and will now doubtless resolve themselves into their original elements, politically speaking. But even if they act with the Republicans as an opposition party, there won't be enough then for a respectable minority. We suspect about the first thing this Legislature will do will be to ask Booth to step down and out, which he will take much pleasure in refusing to do; and the next thing will be to do some legislating about the name of Lake Bigler-Tahoe. Such things come within the grasp of the ordinary Democratic Legislator.

The Los Angeles and Independence Railroad.

For the last four months we have every week or two noticed items to this effect, "Col. Crawford has received orders to have the cars on the Los Angeles and Independence road running into Los Angeles in thirty days," etc. The late Los Angeles papers yet have items to precisely the same effect. But The Herald also says that all work on the road east of the city has been suspended, and that the indications are that the Southern Pacific company are likely to soon become the entire owners of the franchise. Leastwise, the control has passed from Senator Jones to a Col. Jackson, a San Francisco capitalist, who has already built one or two roads in this State, and sold out to the Central Pacific. It is quite certain the Los Angeles, Panamint and Independence road will be a dead duck should it pass into the hands of that company. That portion below Santa Monica and Los Angeles will undoubtedly be built, but that is likely to be all.

The Force in the Field.

That little beef speculation of Cleveland's out at Cherry Creek has been the cause of Gen. Schofield ordering the following force to the field of action: Companies A. C. D. and I. 1st U. S. Cavalry, and C. F. H. and I. 12th Infantry. Col. W. S. Elliott, 1st Cavalry, is in command of the expedition, and Lieut. F. Fuger, 4th Artillery, Acting Assistant Quartermaster. A portion of this strong force has already reached the scene of the beef and pine nut hostilities, and the remainder are going forward with all possible dispatch. The "war" is a fizzle, of course, but the prompt action of the Department Commander is none the less creditable.

Grangers.

The American Patron published at Findlay, Ohio, is the great Grange paper of the country. Besides full departments on every topic of interest to the farmer, it gives a full summary of general news up to the hour of going to press, all items of interest to members of the great order of Patrons of Husbandry, and correspondence from all parts of the United States and Canada. It is published at a very low rate, which places it within the reach of every farmer in the land. Specimen copies sent free. Price, $1 25 per year. J. K. Barnd, Publisher, Findlay, Ohio.

Charley Ross.

Two persons have recently been undergoing trial in Philadelphia for the alleged abduction of Charley Ross. The wife of one of the parties implicated expressed the belief that the child was living and would turn up before long; when asked to give the reason said she knew the boy was alive, for her husband would not touch a hair of his head. The admission is regarded as conveying much import.

For Speaker.

Hon. D. W. Gelwicks, Assemblyman elect from Alameda county on the Democratic ticket, is favorably mentioned for the Speakership of the California Assembly. He is competent and square and would make a good presiding officer.

Libel.

Edith O'Gorman, "the escaped nun," has sued The New York Arcadian for $50,000, being the sum at which she estimates the damage her character has sustained.

—The School Commissioners of Memphis, Tennessee, have succeeded in placing all the colored schools under colored teachers.

WILL BE HAPPY NOW.

Mr. Ibe&c. and such will be happy now. It has been demonstrated, under the District Attorney's construction of law, as given in his instructions to the late Grand Jury, that the civil authorities can by no possible combination of circumstances convict anybody for selling whisky to Indians; that is, until we have a Grand Jury willing to act on its own judgment. The last one was told, that by cases adjudicated, "seeing and smelling" could not be admitted as proof in a matter like this under investigation. A trial occuring in Missouri (or somewhere not in Inyo county) was cited, in which witnesses swore they saw the "bar keep" hand out a bottle of stuff, which looked exactly like whisky, to a customer, whereof the said customer took a good, square horn; during that ceremony the effluvia of whisky was plainly recognized by said witnesses; the same witnesses testified that the party taking this presumed whisky, soon after acted very much as if he was drunk. It was the judgment of the aforesaid witnesses that it was whisky or brandy they saw handed out in the bottle and subsequently poured down the throat of the customer named, and were still further assured of the correctness of that view, when at that interesting juncture they got a good sniff of it; also from the later affects. Perhaps it will be as well to state that the sale of liquor in the particular transaction referred to was in contravention of a law in that country, and that the dealer had been snatched up before a Court and jury to take his chances of punishment for the same. Well, prisoner's counsel questioned these witnesses severely and brought out the fact that neither of them had actually tasted the supposed contraband article in the bottle, and were forced to admit that it might have been a little decoction of gentian root or something of that kind; at least, they could not swear positively that it was whisky, alias rot gut, tangle leg, sheepherder's delight, wine or brandy. They opined very strongly that it was whisky; generally knew whisky when they saw it under favorable circumstances, and were quite certain of it when they smelt it, etc. The Court ruled in effect that such circumstantial evidence might be good in cases of murder or horse stealing, but not in a contraband whisky case like that (this occurred in Missouri), therefore the jury must find a verdict of not guilty. And the jury did find a verdict of not guilty; so, our District Attorney, conscientiously enough, we truly believe, told our late Grand Jury that the pending charges against old Jake, (where the evidence was about the same as that cited) might as well be ignored—and thereupon the Grand Jury ignored, right along. All this is interesting and valuable as showing what a fine thing statutary law is when properly handled. It was a great relief to Jacob and his backer, Mr. Ibe&c., for it cleared a fine channel for business. But there still remained a drawback. It was assumed by some that all Indians, with certain exceptions, were the wards of the Government, under the direct supervision of the military; it was possible parties violating the very formidable (abstractly considered) United States laws, designed to protect these wards and the whites living among them, might be treated as any other disreputable camp followers when convicted of contraband dealings. There was not the slightest danger to be apprehended from Grand Juries, as had been demonstrated, but there was a question regarding the law last referred to which made it advisable to act cautiously when selling the stuff to make the noble red man get up and howl and cut each others throats, and carry on so as to fright away the souls of timid white people. But now, as will be seen from the subjoined, it is all plain sailing for all those who love to furnish "Lo" with whatever his well tutored appetite may crave, always provided that he can produce the "squibalants," on delivery. It is such a comfort to see the red hombres enjoy themselves, when the means can be furnished at such a trifling first cost, freight and coal oil added! Who can blame "respectable" dealers for wanting to maintain convenient branch houses, when the aggregate of human happiness, and resulting coin is so extensive? And, particularly when it all conduces so much toward a higher civilization, just such as first class business men from the East have been used to, and produced by causing the rough element of border life to disappear, a result easily and most profitably attained by furnishing it the forbidden means of enjoying itself to a quick death.

With these few introductory remarks we will now state that in the course of a conversation with Captain Macgowan, a day or two since, he informed us that, under Department orders, induced, as we suppose, by recent occurrences here, he was effectually barred from taking any part whatever toward aiding the civil authorities in suppressing lawless acts of any kind, even of the sort above referred to. At our especial request he permits us to publish "Order No. 22," which fully explains itself on these points. This, with the accepted short reach of the civil law, practically removes every obstacle from the profitable Indian whisky traffic, which is a pity, as it will induce so much competition as to spoil the business of those nice people who have enjoyed it so exclusively heretofore. On that account these dealers will have reason to be sorry that the law has proved itself such a nullity, for now anybody can, with reasonable care, do just as much of this kind of business as they can, and being virtually a free thing, will soon run it so low it won't be any good to anybody. It's a pity, of course, that a special franchise should be wrested from the deserving few, but let them take comfort in the knowledge that law nearly always was considered a fool—when judged before it reached the Court Room; there, under favorable circumstances, it has sometimes commanded respect and may do so again: there's no telling; after all, it may be best for greenhorns to be cautious, and in the same ratio, the adepts can take heart in the hope of a restoration of their special franchises.

With these few lucid observations we now reach the point aimed at to wit:

[Post Orders No. 22.]

HEADQUARTERS, CAMP INDEPENDENCE, September, 10, 1875.

1. In all cases of offenses committed or threatened against the local authority or laws of the State or Territory, the only attitude which the officers or soldiers of the U. S. are permitted, in their public character, to assume, (until ordered to act by the President, under Section 4 Article IV of the Constitution and statutes in accordance therewith) is one of simple inaction and indifference.

2. Indian territory within a State, is limited to Reservations set apart by the President in pursuance of law, and military officers have no jurisdiction over civilians outside of such territory and the Military Reservation.

The sale of liquor to Indians is a great evil, but, beyond the limits of Indian territory, the army has no power to prevent it, and is not responsible for the consequences.

Army officers must confine their official action, within the limits of the law, let the consequence be what they may.

3. Subsistence can only be issued to Indians under § 1202 Reg. Army Reg.

The War Department cannot undertake the responsibility of feeding Indians, nor take any respossibility for any outbreak which may occur by reason of their not being fed.

4. Neither arms or ammunition etc., can be either loaned or sold to citizens.

A. B. MACGOWAN,
Captain 12th U. S. Infantry,
Commanding Post.

THE CRUEL WAR.

The grandest fiasco in the way of an Indian war that has occurred for a long time is this Cherry Creek affair, out in Nevada. It turns out that there was not so much as a single Indian on the war-path, notwithstanding these dread alarums. Yes, there was one, but he was crazy, and in consequence of which had to live in the mountains away from his tribe all in a gang by himself. This crazy Indian accidentally shot one of two prospectors who happened to fall in with him. The other prospector went to Cleveland's ranch and reported the circumstance, and then started flying couriers with the dreadful news of an outbreak, and the instant marshalling of a vast and valorous host to suppress it. The consternation of the pine-nut gatherers and the ranch Indians was inexpressibly great when they saw this host coming after them. They fled incontinently; not an Indian could be seen in their accustomed haunts, and the Indian wise drew ominous auguries from that fact; the Indians drew ominous auguries, also, and thought their last day was close at hand, but why they could not possibly even guess. But before this one or two of them had been shot while working in the white man's fields; likewise a volunteer soldier as he came stumbling into camp without responding to the sentinel's frightened challenge. It was a fearful time all around, but now Johnny has gone marching home, grim visaged war has smoothed his wrinkled front, not even a grasshopper whets a savage tooth in the wilds of Nevada, and it only remains to figure up the amount of the appropriation to be asked for to defray the expense of the exquisite farce.

The Musical Echo.

This sprightly and comprehensive representative of the art divine, offers a happy blending of light and more important articles, in the September number. The music is also first-class, and well worth double the price of The Echo for the whole year. The wisest woman that ever lived, so the story goes, was the one that drove trouble out of the house with music. And all who are wise should subscribe for The Musical Echo and provide a means for driving dull care away, as did the wisest woman. Sample copies will be sent free by the publishers. Subscription price $1 per year. Address H. N. Hempstead, Milwaukee, Wis.

HERZEGOVINIA MUDDLE.

From facts gathered of this insurrection in Greece, there is no question but what it will be the source of the ultimate destruction of the Infidel Power in Europe. The Grand Turk has long pursued a systematic course of persecution against the Christians who inhabited the provinces and lands belonging to his power, insomuch that the Government has been exacting one-tenth of everything produced as taxes, by which means those provinces, now in rebellion, have been reduced to the lowest ebb in existence. It was not only the tithing of one-tenth from the farmers but it was the exacting of another tenth from those who were unfortunate enough to live adjacent to those vacant lands that had been abandoned by those who were driven away by the exactions of the Turkish collectors before that has produced so much misery among the poorer classes, and has finally driven these persecuted people to desperation and war. The familiar by-word of the "Christian Dog" has from time immemorial been a favorite term among the Turks, and has no doubt become an innate principle with the Government; so much so that they have a universal contempt for anything anti-crescent. It was only a question of the balance of power that Turkey was not dismembered years ago when Russia was at war with England and France. It is not policy for any of the Eastern powers to remain passive and allow another to acquire too much territory, either by force of arms or diplomacy. This has been generally understood for a long time, but if it can be so arranged between the powers that each one can get a slice—however small—of this gobbling fowl, the Grand Duke and his possessions will be gone forever, for his power will be the last representative of that race of people who insulted the holy sepulchre and caused the whole world to unite in that memorable war called the Crusades during the dark ages, about the twelfth century. The Catholics and the Greeks united comprise the main body of the Herzegovinian insurgents, and while Russia will indirectly do all she consistently can to aid the Greeks, the Catholics and other Christians will undoubtedly have the sympathy of all the other Christian nations. From late advices it is plain to be seen they mean business, having already massacred 95 Turkish prisoners and besieged Frebige, and if the Cretans display anything like the courage and valor of their forefathers of the olden time, they will be very apt to make it very warm for the Turks.

The Indian Troubles in Nevada—Its Alleged Cause.

A dispatch dated at Utah, September 9th has the following: Rumors of a general uprising of Indians in the eastern portion of Nevada, are causing much alarm. The first reports are not corroborated by the runners who have been out for the past five days and who arrived this morning from the vicinity of Cleveland's ranch, and from the best information that can be gathered, all our Indian trouble originated in the following manner:

Two Indians showed two white men some rich quartz, the white men agreeing to pay for the same, but resfused to stand to the contract, and a quarrel ensued, and an Indian called Toby shot the white men. Two Indians were killed. As the report of the affair circulated from point to point, without giving cause for it, some excited Indians were led to believe they were the injured parties, which impression resulted in their rendezvousing at several prominent places, the better to facilitate an investigation into the cause of the trouble which elicited the above. The Indian, Toby, has been in great disrepute with his tribe for several years, he being a vicious character. He is looked upon as a wizard, having extraordinary powers, and is feared by all. Runners are out in all directions from prominent chiefs, with instructions to capture and kill him wherever found. White scouts follow to carry out the decree. A Peanut war chief has been greatly excited for several days, having heard his son was among the slain, and he, together with Blackhawk, his brother, exhorted their men to prepare to avenge his death should the report be corroborated, and has consequently been uncommunicative until this morning, when his son made his appearance, bringing the report as mentioned above regarding the killing of the Indians. The favorable impression caused by the appearance of the Chief's son soon showed itself by their coming to the station and explaining the facts, but expressing regrets that Toby had not been killed in place of the other. Great excitement has prevailed for several days among the Indians and whites, each fearing they know not what. Scouts and guards, jointly furnished, have been scouring the country to detect approaching trouble; arms and ammunition ordered, and every precaution taken to withstand an attack should strange Indians make their appearance, there being no trouble apprehended from those of the valley. The Goshoots will return to their ranch to-morrow to secure their crops, consisting of corn, wheat and vegetables, and it is hoped that one of the most sensational excitements of the day will subside, giving the whites an opportunity to attend to legitimate duties, and the Indians time to gather their pine nuts.

Loring Pickering, of The Call, emphatically repudiates all complicity or approval of the publication in The Bulletin of charges against the character of the late William C. Ralston. Mr. Pickering claims that so far from approving the publication it had and has his condemnation.

Work on the Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railroad has been vigorously pushed during all the time of suspension days. There are several freight cars for the road at Colfax, and the locomotives are expected every day.

The following remark by The Gold Hill News is slightly personal: "An impression is said to be gaining ground that the Indian trouble in the eastern part of the State is a job put up by Cleveland to make a market for his cattle."

Esmeralda and Mono.

[From The Carson Herald, August 28.]

We referred in a late issue to the large amount of bullion daily coming from Esmeralda county, and are pleased to learn of the great developments being made both there and in Mono county, California, as from the geological situation the supplies for these naturally come through our city. We yesterday conversed with an intelligent gentleman, who has lately made a trip through that section, and his report fully confirms previous statements.

The Northern Belle Mill and Mining Company have repaired their furnace and have on the way the new twenty-stamp mill previously spoken of, which will give them facilities for crushing one hundred tons per day. They are working the ore up to an average of 88 per cent.

We learn that the White furnace of Albert Mack, at Benton, is working up to ninety per cent. His little mill is yielding over $40,000 bullion per month.

Miller's mill, at Columbus, has started up with encouraging prospects. The General Thomas, one of the mines held by Miller, and located near the Northern Belle, has opened a body of ore of excellent quality. In fact, the mining interests of that county never looked better, the collections of the Assessor for the last quarter being $2,000 in excess of any previous quarter. County scrip has advanced thirty per cent. to seventy-five.

Creaser's big teams and others are crowded to their utmost capacity in hauling machinery, lumber and supplies for that section, loading with borax and bullion on their return trips.

At Aurora the Company are steadily sinking their shaft on the Juniata. They have struck a fine body of ore by drifting from the 400-foot level, fully justifying them in sinking deeper and opening the mine scientifically.

The same prosperity is to be seen in Mono county, California.

The Comanche mine is taking out good ore, and their shipments of ore are frequent and large. Several other mines are being developed with good prospects. We are glad to know that these figures are authentic and sure, as the returns of the mines show for themselves.

Bank Resumption.

We stated by authority, on Saturday last, that the Bank of California would reopen its doors for business on the first of October proximo. The news came just as the paper was going to press, and the item should have read "on or about October 1st," as we were afterward informed by Mr. Ralston. The Enterprise, this morning, publishes a telegram from Messrs. William Sharon and D. O. Mills to Mr. A. J. Ralston, Virginia City, authorizing him to give "definite assurances that the Bank of California will resume business before the first of October." Every day taken from the time of resumption brings relief to the citizens of this section, who have almost universally met their temporary reverses and the stringency of the money market in a cheerful and accommodating spirit. This news, coming straight from headquarters and confirmatory of that published by The News last Saturday, will inspire a hopeful feeling among all classes. The darkest hour is ever just before daybreak.—[Gold Hill News, Sept 14.

Man Found Dead.

A few miles this side of Bishop Creek, on Tuesday last, a man was discovered laying in the sage brush by the road side, by Schuyler Williams and Inman. On their going to him he was found to be dead. The body was covered with a blanket and the head rested on a folded coat as if asleep. Justice Campbell of Big Pine was sent for to investigate and hold an inquest, the result of which we are unable to learn. Concerning the identity of the deceased we can get no reliable imformation and there seems to be a mystery about it that needs clearing up.

High Connection.

A certain Georges Creek Granger has been in the habit of blowing considerably about his caste, and took great delight in referring to lord so and so, in England, with whom he was closely connected and of such kinship he was very proud. He was going on at his his usual rate the other day, when a portly dame gently laid her hand on his shoulder and forever put a damper on his ardor by remarking: "My dear, sir, you shouldn't feel so proud. I, myself, have had some connection among English lords before I was married."

Personal.

Judge A. R. Conklin, a brother of Mrs. P. Reddy, arrived here this week from New York, and we believe, intends to go into the practice of law with Mr. Reddy. The Judge, though by no means ancient himself, is an old newspaper man, though a lawyer by profession. We are full in the belief that he will prove a very acceptable addition to the local bar, and the community.

Left for the Wars.

Captain Carr's Company, 1st Cavalry, pursuant to orders, Sunday last took up their line of march for the scene of the grand hostilities against Cleveland's beeves in Eastern Nevada. This company had been in camp near the Post during the last three or four weeks of their stay. Quite a number of the command were on the sick report while in camp on the Government Grass Reservation, the water there being very bad.

Artesian Wells.

There will be an effort to organize a company of stock holders to purchrse machinery, etc., for the purpose of trying an experiment in the way of boring for artesian water. Those who have already subscribed, and others who feel interested in the project will meet at the Land Office, in this place, on Monday next, 7 o'clock P. M.

Mexican Celebration.

The Mexicans at Lone Pine began their national anniversary celebration on the 16th, but this time with little or none of the usual eclat. The ceremony was mostly confined to music and dancing and the attendance from the outside was but small comparatively.

Look Amiable.

As Addis, the photographer, will be here the coming week, we advise everybody, particularly sour-looking people, to practice the amiable for a few days, and then have a picture taken to the end that future generations may glorify their fine looking ancestors.

Eclipse Mine.

Capt. Eudey of the Eclipse will put on an extra force of about 25 men at the mine in getting out ore the 1st of next month. The result, we may expect to be something encouraging, as everything seems to be working so favorably at present.

The Silver Sprout.

We hear some very encouraging news as to the developments in this mine on Kearsarge mountain, but as we hope soon to be able to pay it a visit, we shall defer a particular account till we see for ourselves.

Gone to Washington.

Major Egbert has gone to Washington on special duty. His company is yet at Fort Yuma. The Major was on the sick list for a long time, but, we are pleased to know, is again in fair health.

Change of Base.

We learn that The Panamint News has "froze out" at Panamint and is to be removed to Darwin, from which the first number is to be issued immediately. We infer from this that Panamint is deemed a failure sure enobgh.

Lumber for Darwin.

Over 10,000 feet of lumber from J. B. Stewart's saw mill at Big Pine, passed through here to-day for Darwin. It was principally house-building material.

Lone Pine School.

Lone Pine school, Mr. Rittgers, teacher, will commence next Monday for a six months term.

Card and Circular.

In another column will be found Mr. Gregg's reply to Judge Hannah's circular address to the voters of Inyo county. The Judge's circular was issued from this office on Thursday evening, and as our columns are closed Friday afternoon we cannot, even if so disposed, undertake a review of either of these documents. But the point at issue relates altogether to the decision of Judge Hannah in admitting Ashim to bail while under indictment for murder in the first degree. The law sustaining his action has been quoted in these columns heretofore. Mr. Gregg now presents his views upon the subject matter of the defense, and considering it in its legal bearings simply, certainly has the best of it. But so far as the case was concerned which gives rise to this discussion whether Judge Hannah was in error or was not in error, we have always thought his action was more creditable to him than otherwise, for the simple reason that he had grounds to believe if he then did what he deemed to be his duty under the law as expounded in his Court, and admitted the prisoner to bail in the face of popular opinion, it would surely damage his chances for re-election. We should not like to see him beaten for having the courage to do what he thought, on very tenable grounds, was his duty, but for other reasons we would much prefer to see Mr. Gregg elected to the place. But as the people of this county have as much chance and as much reason to know which of the two candidates will best suit them, both being well known to nearly everybody—all that we propose to do about the local canvass will be to express our individual preferences. But our columns are always open to any correspondent who deems the welfare of the community sufficiently involved to justify him in rushing to print. There is this condition attached—all such communications must appear over the writer's own name, unless purely argumentative in character.

War.

The mahalas about town are having an elegant time lately, getting drunk and fighting each other. "Big Jim" cleaned out the little "Slippery Eel" in two or three very brief rounds the other day, and soon after another pair of these dusky maidens had a grand, drunken set-to, and won much renown for their valor and skill in biting and scratching.

Darwin.

A private letter from Darwin states that the Hoffman furnace is running constantly, averaging about ninety bars of bullion per day. The Tyler furnace has been refitted with a larger engine, and will start up in a few days.

Released.

Lucas Lugo's case, mentioned last week, was tried Monday. The jury agreeing to disagree, the Prosecuting Attorney entered a nolle prosequi by the consent of the Court, and the prisoner was discharged.

Outrage in Lone Pine.

A Mexican is reported to have induced three little Spanish girls to a secluded spot, and then committed an outrage on one of them. Whatever truth there is in it, it is kept very quiet.

Jail Empty.

We would advise the county to advertise lodgings or sweat baths after the aborignal method, as the jail is now entirely empty for the first time in two years.

Improvements.

J. W. Martin and P. P. Gerrish are each building very nice residences, the first on the west, the other, on the east side of town.

MORMON LOYALITY.

The Mormon organs have lately been boasting of the loyalty of Brigham and his church to the Government of the United States. We give below a military order issued by Gen. Wells, who was the highest recognized military officer in the Territory, on the approach of the United States forces under Gen. Johnson. Who can doubt after reading it that orders were also given for the massacre of the emigrants at Mountain Meadows:

HEADQ'RS EASTERN EXPEDITION,
CAMP NEAR CACHECOVE,
Oct. 4, 1857.

Major Joseph Taylor:—You will proceed with all possible dispatch, without injuring your animals, to the Oregon road near the head of Bear river, etc. On ascertaining the locality or route of the troops proceed at once to annoy them in every possible way. Use every exertion to stampede their animals and set fire to their trains. Burn the whole country before them and on their flanks, and keep them from sleeping by night surprises. Blockade the road by felling trees or destroying fords, when you can. Watch for opportunities to set fire to the grass on their windward, so as, if possible to envelop their trains. Leave no grass before them that can be burned. Keep your men concealed as much as possible and guard against surprise. Keep scouts out at all times, and communication open with Col. Burton, Major McAllister and O. P. Rockwell, who are operating in the same way. Keep me advised daily of your movements, and every step the troops take, and in what direction. God bless you and give you success. Your brother in Christ.

[Signed] DANIEL H. WELLS.

P. S.—If the troops have not passed or have turned in this direction, follow in their rear and continue to annoy them and stampede or drive off their animals at every opportunity.

D. H. WELLS.

REPLY TO JUDGE HANNAH'S CIRCULAR ADDRESS TO THE VOTERS OF INYO COUNTY.

To the Voters of Inyo County:—Hon. John A. Hannah, present County Judge of Inyo county, and candidate for re-election, in an electioneering circular distributed throughout the county, says that in his judicial act in bailing Ashim, who stands indicted for murder, he (Hannah) "was governed by the law." And also says that he cites the law in his circular for the information of his fellow-citizens, "knowing he was governed by the law."

Judge Hannah's circular proposes that as the law now is, "The death penalty is wiped out"—in other words, all murder is bailable—and argues by quoting Section 1270 of the Penal Code, which reads: "A defendant charged with an offense punishable with death cannot be admitted to bail when the proof of his guilt is evident or the presumption thereof great." And then says Section 190 of same Code, as amended (which reads that "any person guilty of murder in the first degree shall suffer death or confinement in the State Prison for life at the discretion of the jury trying the same), has the effect of wiping out Section 1270, and with it the death penalty. A conclusion that would give every person charged in indictment with murder the right to bail, whether the "proof of guilt be evident or presumption thereof great" or not. In other words, he concludes that I may step across the road and kill a neighbor because I don't like the cut of his coat, and then by right of law pay into the hands of the Sheriff $15,000; and then, like Harry Meiggs, take myself off to Peru, and because we have no extradition treaty with Peru, let $15,000 paid be the only punishment for a cruel murder.

But is it the law? Welch was tried in this county in May 1874, after the law which the circular cites was in force. It will be remembered that the jury found Welch guilty of murder in the first degree, but did not say how he should be punished. Judge Reed sentenced him to be hanged. Welch appealed, and one point made by his counsel was that the jury had not said how Welch was to be punished. The Supreme Court affirmed Judge Reed's decision by saying in effect: That murder in the first degree is punishable by the death penalty, and the statute (Section 190, quoted in the circular) had not the effect of changing the penalty, and only left it in the discretion of the jury, if they so wished, to say the accused should suffer a less penalty than death. Section 1417, Penal Code, gives the power to the Governor to commute the death penalty and to pardon. This power the Governor of this State has had for years; a power similar to that given to juries by amended Section 190; a power to exercise a discretion if they find a reason to act in reducing the severe penalty of death. Judge Hannah would have it that "courts that have refused to declare all murder bailable are not lawyers of ordinary intelligence" or they would have seen that the discretion of the Governor to commute "in effect swept away the death penalty."

Judge Hannah's circular further says, "no one would dispute the right of Cotton, the Santa Barbara murderer, to be admitted to bail, pending an apeal from his conviction." But I say the Judge who would admit Cotton to bail (considering the facts in the case) would commit an unpardonable outrage. And Judge Hannah is not informed on the law when he comes to such a conclusion. "The admitting to bail after conviction in such cases is discretionary with the court and not the right of the prisoner," says 48 California, 552. Judge Hannah says further, "I admitted Ashim to bail in the sum of $15,000, an amount greatly in excess of the amount established as a rule by all other courts." In the case of ex parte Ryan (44 Cal., 555), for an assault with intent to commit murder (a crime punishable by imprisonment), the court fixed Ryan's bail at $15,000. By habeas corpus he attempted to have same reduced in Supreme Court, but the Judge giving opinion of the Court said: "I cannot undertake to say $15,000 is excessive bail in a charge of an assault with intent to commit murder."

I do not wish anyone to think that I assume an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of Mr. Ashim; that is a question for the jury that will try him (if he comes to trial). What their verdict will be I would not undertake to say. But Mr. Ashim being indicted for murder, whether guilty or innocent, should not have been bailed under the sweeping conclusion that all murder is bailable. If bailed at all, it should have been after Judge Hannah had called all the witnesses for the prosecution, and after hearing the testimony he should be convinced that the proof was not evident of Ashim's guilt or the presumption thereof great.

SYLLOGISM.—Every cat has three tails.

PROOF.—No cat has two tails. Every cat has one more tail than no cat—therefore, every cat has three tails.

The transition is easy, and it is very apparent to any "lawyer of ordinary intelligence" that "the death penalty is in effect wiped out."

Short Hints Concerning Sickness.

Don't whisper in the sick-room.

When you are sitting up at night with a patient, be sure to have something to eat, if you wish to save yourself unnecessary exhaustion.

Remember that sick people are not necessarily idiotic or imbecile, and that it is not always wise to try to persuade them that their sufferings are imaginary. They may even at times know best what they need.

Never deceive a dying person unless by the doctor's express orders. It is not only wrong to allow any soul to go into eternity without preparation, but how can you tell but that he has something he ought to tell or do before he goes away?

If you have a sick friend to whom you wish to be of use, do not content yourself with sending her flowers and jelly; but lend her one of your pictures to hang in place of hers, or a bronze to replace the one at which she is so tired of staring.

Don't have needless conversations with the doctor outside of the sick-room. Nothing will excite and irritate a nervous patient sooner. If you do have such conversations, don't tell the patient that the doctor said "nothing." He won't believe you, and he will imagine the worst possible.

In lifting the sick, do not take them by the shoulders and drag them up on to the pillows, but get some one to help you. Let one stand on one side of the patient, the other opposite, then join hands under the shoulders and hips, and lift steadily and promptly together. This method is easy for those who lift, and does not disturb the one who is lifted.

Do not imagine that your duty is over when you have nursed your patient through his illness, and he is about the house, or perhaps going out again. Strength does not come back in a moment, and the days when little things worry, and little efforts exhaust, when the cares of business begin to press, but the feeble brain and hand refuse to think and execute, are the most trying to the sick one, and then comes the need for your tenderest care, your most unobstrusive watchfulness.

The Examiner as a Comic Paper.

[From the Sacramento Record-Union.]

We never suspected The San Francisco Examiner of even a lurking tendency to humor, until a day or two since it published an article asking why Senator Booth does not resign, and gravely urging upon him the propriety of such a step. Our contemporary commences by demonstrating (what indeed is incontestible) that Senator Booth has been repudiated by two-thirds of the voters of California. It then proceeds: "What plainer demand can be made by the people of the State than this of Mr. Booth, that he shall 'step down and out' of the Senate, and enable the newly elected Legislature to send a man to that body who will truly represent the opinions of his constituency?" We submit that this is the most deliciously cool proposition that has occurred during a somewhat sultry season. The Examiner perceives that here is a Democratic Legislature elected, and that it would be a splendid opportunity to make a Democratic Senator. It feels a natural desire to utilize such opening, and therefore turns to Mr. Booth and solemnly requests him to do the magnanimous thing. Really this is very funny, but we are at loss to know what The Examiner can have been thinking of when it made the suggestion; for in the first place Senator Booth does not appear to be particularly beholden to the Democracy, and in the second place the Democratic Legislature does not represent "the political opinions of its constituency." We are surprised that a journal which at various times has manifested quite a keen appreciation of Mr. Booth's salient characteristics, should have committed the blunder of imagining that anything could induce him to surrender an office, unless a bigger one was proffered him in its stead; or that it should make the still stranger mistake of supposing him amenable to any considerations of public opinon when not absolutely compelled to defer to them. But apart from this it is not to correct to assume that California desires a Democrat in the United States Senate. The Examiner cannot be blind to the patent fact that the Democratic ticket has been elected, not at all because the majority of the people believe in Democratic doctrine, but because both the other parties had forfeited the confidence of the masses, and rendered their rejection necessary. No more fundamental error could be fallen into at this time than the unwarrantable assumption that the Democratic party, as such, has received a popular endorsement in this State. It is perfectly true that Senator Booth does not represent any considerable element of voters in California, so far as party doctrines are concerned. It is also quite indispensable that the members of the Legislature should realize this, if they have any expectation of retaining public confidence. The Democratic party can take no surer way to secure a sweeping Republican victory next year than by running the Legislature on partisan principles.

Bank of California.

The Directors of the Bank of California have decided not to resume business until the Nevada Bank opens its doors. Then the Trust Company will also commence business, and simultaneously the San Francisco and Pacific Stock Boards will resume their sessions. There are many reasons given why this plan should be adopted, and any one can see at a glance that this is the best course to take. If either one of the banks should commence to pay out, another run might be inaugurated; while if all three should resume at the same time there would be a better financial feeling, and but little danger of a panic. The work on the Nevada Bank building is being rushed forward night and day, and within two weeks, it may be confidently stated, will be ready for business. Until that time there is no probable chance that either of the Banks will resume business.—[San Francisco Examiner, September 9th.

The Great $30,000 Race.

From Wilkes' Spirit of the Times we learn that the following horses from the East are announced as certain to be entered for the great $30,000 purse race of four mile heats, to be run at San Francisco next November. Springbok, who comes out in charge of Harvey as trainer; Wild Idle, in charge of Capt. Moore, with Billy Lakeland as rider; Rutherford and Grinstead, in charge of Albert (who trained Joe Daniels and Hubbard), with Donahue to ride the former; and Bollankeel in charge of his trainer and owner, W. Jennings. Hennessey comes out to ride Katie Pease.

Joaquin Miller.

A correspondent who recently met Joaquin Miller, whose genius is so closely identified with the history of California, describes him as quite genteel in appearance, but below mediocrity in mental caliber and education. He says one would infer from a ten minutes conversation with Miller that the little poet stole his works from some unpublished manuscripts.

Pennsylvania Democrats.

The Democracy of Pennsylvania met in State Convention a few days since, but recessed before any nominations were made. They adopted word for word the same plank with reference to the currency as that put forward by the Ohio Democrats.

San Francisco.

The vote of San Francisco shows that Bidwell received 6,035 votes, Phelps, 5,040, and Irwin 13,420. Bryant is elected Mayor, Ellis Chief of Police, Nunan Sheriff, and Badlam Assessor.

The Methodist Conference.

The Methodist Conference in session at Reno, adjourned sine die Sept. 6. In the closing procreedings we find the following matter of general interest:

The Bishop announced the following transfers to this Conference: A. J. Wells, of California, and N. G. Luke, of the Erie Conference.

The following committee was appointed as an Educational Committee, to take charge of the Seminary that the church will build in this State: A. H Tevis, J. D. Hammond, Warren Nims, A. J. Wells, C. McElvey, Capt. A. W. Pray, J. P. Wheeler, Hon. D. C. McKenney and W. M. Boardman.

After the singing of a hymn and a prayer by E. C. Arnold, the Bishop read the appointments for the ensuing year as follows:
